If you want a cigarette that is milder and of better taste..

Smoke Chesterfield

MILDER, YES—BUT SOMETHING MORE. Chesterfield offers richness, aroma, satisfying flavor.

BETTER TASTE—that's the answer; and that's what smokers get in Chesterfield in fullest measure—the flavor and aroma of mellow tobaccos, exactly blended and cross-blended. Better taste, and milder too!

They Satisfy

BUREAU SUPPORTS TWO CANDIDATES

Austrain winter peas and hairy vetch have entered politics and the farm bureau is actively supporting both.

They are both candidates for the same office. Both are for soil building of Alabama subject to action of farmers, fall season, 1930.

Not noly is the farm bureau supporting both but county agents, and specialists of the extension service and experiment station, Auburn, are urging you to support both.

1. I will build your soils. 2. I'll average 20 bushels more corn per acre. 3. I'll average 356 pounds of seed cotton more per acre. 4. I'll decrease your fertilizer bill. 5. I'll make you profit the second year. 6, I'll "make you nitrogen while you sleep."

P. S. If you want me to do my best work plant me early this fall—from late September through the first of October.

I also like basic slag, for it makes me feel good, grow big and add more nitrogen to the soil. I prefer slag because it is an Alabama product, coming from the steel industry of the Birmingham district and it will not injure the inoculation.

I am also for an economic program and believe in making it possible for farmers to make more money.

FARMERS SAVED $48,000 THROUGH FARM BUREAU

On July 9 and 10 the Alabama Farm Bureau sent $48,000 as annual dividends and handling charges to the 64 countiy farm bureaus of the state, which will pronate this money to farm bureau members in proportion to the amount of business in cooperative marketing and miscellaneous purchasing transacted by each member during the past ten months. This means that farmers have or will within the next few days receive approximately $48,000, which they have made and saved by using bargaining power in cooperative buying and selling.

The Executive Committee of the Farm Bureau approved for this money to be sent to the county farm bureaus and passed the following resolution regarding same.

Be it resolved:

That we express our appreciation to Mr. O'Neal, his associates in the State Office and our purchasing committee for the very efficient business transactions in cooperative business. In the midst of the present business depression to have transacted $2,300,000 worth of cooperative business with the very small overhead costs and return to county farm bureaus an annual dividend of $48,000 is a remarkable record of which every farm bureau member should be proud.

The total acreage now planted to rubber throughout the world is approximately 7,000,000 acres, Dr. E. G. Holt of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce says in a report to the American Chemical Society. The total world production of rubber last year is put at 860,000 tons.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

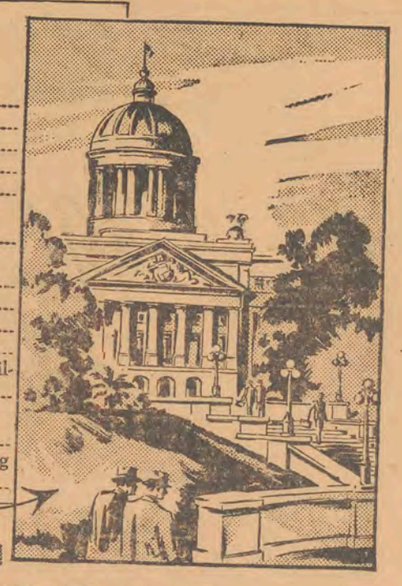
The State of Alabama, Chilton County:
Circuit Court in Equity:

Maudie Castleberry, Complainant, vs. M. W. Castleberry, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Omar L. Reynolds that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that his place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the county of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said M. W. Castleberry to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 10th day of August, 1930, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.

Done at office in Clanton, this 3rd day of July, 1930.



W. D. SPIGENER,

Taxes

The cost of running our government is increasing more rapidly than our population and wealth. Result: higher taxes for all—individuals and industries. In 1928, taxes collected in the United States were $230,000,000 greater than in 1927, and $684,000,000 greater than in 1926, largely due to rising state and local taxes.

Railroad taxes amounted to $403,000,000, in 1929 (a new record), or $1,103,000 per day, and absorbed the entire net revenue derived from 87 days of railroad operation. One-fourth of our railroad facilities might as well have been turned over to the tax collector for the entire year. In effect, 387,000 railroad employes, 14,000 locomotives, 12,000 passenger trains, and 540,000 freight cars and other facilities valued at $6,000,000,000 worked solely to pay the railroad tax bill in 1929.

The railroads are willing and ready to contribute their just share to the cost of efficient national, state, and local governments. In common with other forms of business, they object strenuously to being taxed unjustly. Moreover, as railroad taxes are added to the cost of supplying transportation, which must ultimately be borne by the public in freight and passenger rates, it seems highly desirable that every individual should begin to preach and practice the doctrine of economy in the use of public funds.

MOSES, A COURAGEOUS LEADER

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 1:8-14; 2:1-22; 3:1-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Moses Doing Hard Things for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Moses' Call to Leadership.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Daring the Impossible.

I. The Enslaved People (1:8-22).

After Joseph's death Israel quickly grew into a nation. The amazing growth of the nation aroused the envy and fear of the new king.

1. Heavy measure of service (vv. 10-14).

Cruel taskmasters were placed over the men, forcing them to labor in building treasure cities as well as in field service. However, the more they afflicted them, the more did they multiply and grow.

2. The midwives were ordered to murder the male infants.

This measure also failed, as the midwives feared God and chose to obey Him.

3. Commanded that the male children should be cast into the river (v. 22). In God's providence this mandate failed.

II. Moses, the Deliverer, Prepared (2:1-22).

1. His birth (vv. 1, 2).

Both his father and mother were of Levitical stock. Being of the same tribe, they would have a common bond of interest and sympathy. There was something striking about the child which caused his parents to believe that he was sent of God.

2. His preservation (vv. 3, 4).

Because his mother had faith she did not ignore the proper use of means. She was doubtless familiar with the place where Pharaoh's daughter came to bathe and believed that somehow through her the child would be saved. She placed the ark of bulrushes at the particular place where it would attract attention. Though the hand of God was directing in the carrying out of His plan, the steps in the process were entirely natural.

3. His education (vv. 5-10).

Moses was educated, first at his mother's knee. Here his mind was filled with the word of God and acquainted with the Jewish hopes and prospects. Doubtless here the indomitable purpose was fixed "rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season" (Heb. 11:24-26). Again, he was educated at the Egyptian court where he became acquainted with all the wisdom of the Egyptians (Acts 7:22).

4. His exile and marriage (vv. 11-22).

Moses was obliged to take his flight from Egypt at the age of forty, because he attempted to enter upon his work as the deliverer of his people (Acts 7:25). He was conscious of his mission, but was mistaken as to the time. His rejection by his brethren was a type of Christ's rejection by the Jews. During this time of rejection he secured a bride. Jesus Christ, his great antetype, while now in the place of rejection by His brethren, is getting a bride from among the Gentiles. Just as Moses after awhile returned and delivered his people, so will Christ return and deliver His people, the Jews, who rejected Him.

III. Moses Called to Deliver His People (3:1-14).

1. The Lord spoke from the burning bush (vv. 1-6).

It was while keeping the flock of his father-in-law in the desert that the Lord appeared to Moses in the vision of the burning bush. This bush, enveloped in flames, yet unconsumed, symbolized the people of God enswathed in the very fire of God.

2. Moses' commission (vv. 7-10).

In this commission God showed His active interest in His people. Because of His grace He obligated Himself to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians and bring them into the chosen land; therefore God commissioned Moses to bring forth the people out of Egypt.

3. Moses' objections removed (vv. 11-14).

Four objections were offered, each one of which God met and removed. (1) Personal unworthiness (v. 11). (2) The difficulty of the people to understand Moses' relationship to God (vv. 13, 14). (3) Unbelief on the part of the people (4:1). (4) Lack of eloquence (4:10).

Value of Religious Belief

I should prefer a firm religious belief to every other blessing; for it makes life a discipline of goodness, creates new hopes when all earthly hopes vanish, and throws over the decay, the destruction of existence, the most gorgeous of all lights; awakens life even in death.—Sir Humphry Davy.

Little Pitchers Hold Little Water

If we take little pitchers to the well, we shall carry little water away.—Selected.

NEW BULLETIN TELLS EFFECT OF LEGUMES

Auburn, July 14th.—The effect of legumes on yields of cotton and corn for a 34-year period is a story told in a bulletin published by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Pulytechnic Institute. It gives detailed information on how Alabama farmers can make poor lands rich and thereby enlarge their income and profits by planting winter legumes. The title is "Experiments with Legumes in Alabama." It is bulletin No. 232 and was written by R. Y. Bailey, assistant agronomist, J. T. Williamson, associate agronomist, and J. F. Duggar, research professor in farm management.

Data are quoted to show that winter legumes maintained the yield of corn on land cropped continuously to corn for 34 years. Without legumes corn yields declined more than 50 per cent over a 34-year period. Yields of cotton and corn in a three-year rotation with legumes were four times as great as those in the same rotation without legumes.

It is revealed that phosphate and potash when applied alone in a three-year rotation did not increase the yield of corn and increased the average yield of seed cotton only 19 pounds per acre, but that when these fertilizers were applied in the rotation with legumes the yields were increased by 293 pounds of seed cotton and 11 bushels of corn per acre.

Another experiment was conducted to compare legumes with nitrate of soda as the source of nitrogen and the data quoted show that corn following legumes turned under March 25, April 5, and April 15 produced greater average yields over a five-year period than corn which received 200, 300, and 400 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre. Cotton following vetch turned March 25 produced a greater average yield than that following vetch turned April 5 or April 15.

ALABAMA FARMERS HOLD THIRD PLACE

Alabama cotton farmers this year pooled 161,469 bales of cotton with the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association. In so doing they placed Alabama third from the top in the amount of cotton sold cooperatively by the state associations. Oklahoma farmers pooled 327,187 bales and Texas farmers came 2nd with 161,874 bales. Texas beat Alabama by only 405 bales.

The "Endicott Pear Tree," generally considered to be the oldest planted fruit tree now growing in America, blossomed again this spring, preparatory to bearing its annual crop of sugar pears. Planted in 1632 by Governor John Endicott on his land in what is now Danversport, near Danvers, Mass., and now nearing its tercentenary, it is still the property of the Endicott family.

The Rainbow's End is within Your reach

DID you ever feel so desperate you wanted to jump out of a window? That's the wrong end of the rainbow.

Ill health is a burden on body, mind and friends. But Nature never fails to signal her dangers. Lack of appetite, flabby flesh, loss of strength and skin troubles is a warning from Nature. This is her way of pleading for help.

When S.S.S. is indicated you owe it to yourself to try it.

If you desire firm flesh, a glowing complexion, energy, vitality and the blessings of health you must keep your blood in good condition.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It gives to Nature what it needs to build you up so that your system may throw off the cause.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

CHRIST, THE GOOD SHEPHERD

I wish you to study with me this morning about Christ the good shepherd as taught in the 10th chapter of the Gospel according to St. John. First I wish you to think about the life of a shepherd and of the sheep in Palestine which is a metaphorical figure of Christ the good shepherd and we, poor human mortals of the dust, His sheep to fully approach the teachings of this chapter.

This chapter has been well christened the "Good Shepherd" chapter. If you will read it carefully you will be surprised to find the number of times that Christ our good shepherd is mentioned. The teachings of this chapter has certainly thrilled the world as is evidenced by the many great paintings of Christ the good shepherd in gallieries of the far east, our own beloved country, and other countries.

Late in the afternoon when the sun begins to fall beyond the western hills of the Holy Land you see shepherds leading their sheep gently and mindfully. Just how mindful the sheep follow the shepherd I can't tell. O how Christ the good shepherd deals with us, the sheep of His flock. This good shepherd of the far east is just a picture of our good shepherd who leadeth His sheep safely into His fold.

The shepherd walks up to the door of the fold, and to him the porter openeth the door. The shepherd does not enter into the fold. He does not need to go inside. The sheep go inside the fold. The shepherd just stands at the gate or door and watches and enumerates his sheep as they enter into the fold. He knows his sheep and calls them by their names in the Arabic language, the Arabic Greek such names as crumplehorn, brokenleg, blackstreak, ringneck, doublehoof and so on and so they enter into the fold. Note that the shepherd calls them and he knows them by name which is characteristic of them, and the sheep know the shepherd.

Now Christ the good shepherd calls us by the way He deals with us. O how precious to think of Christ our good shepherd leads us so gently and so mindful this morning. Looking at the eastern flock being led by the shepherd into the fold we just pause and humbly bow our heads to Christ the good shepherd who not only calls us by the Holy Spirit into His family but puts His arms of love about us. He finds us as the shepherd finds lost sheep on the cold, dark, bleak mountain side. Christ the good shepherd puts His arms of love about us, presses us to His bosom and carries us safely into His fold.

The good shepherd knows us and calls us by name. He knows us by our characteristics. Christ the good shepherd knows me by my deformities, my eccentricities, my peculiarities, my failures, my weaknesses. He calls His sheep by name and knows them, and they know Him. O my dear friend, the sheep know the good shepherd. Do you know Christ the good shepherd this morning? Do you know Him in sickness, disappointments, discouragements, sufferings, trials, temptations? Do I know Him? Do you know Him? But we must know Him, not only in sickness, weaknesses, but as our shepherd who feeds His sheep with the bread of life, and gives them the water of eternal life to drink. We must know Him as the shepherd who takes off His overcoat and places it on the ground for the weary sheep to lie upon and then takes off His last coat and covers and shields the sheep from the weather of sin which would chill and harm.

O the loving and protecting and attending arms of the good shepherd. This good shepherd is the precious, loving, sin-forgiving, upholding, uplifting, life-giving, mediator, teacher, Jesus Christ.

"There were ninety and nine who lay in the shelter of the fold, but one was out on the hills far away, away from the gate of the fold, away on the mountain dark and cold, away from the tender shepherd's care.

A sheep is the only animal in the world that strays away from the fold and does not come back without being led. A stray hog will come back in the evening for food. A stray cow will come back haunted by the lowing of the calf. But the shepherd has to go after the sheep and bring it safely into the fold. That is what Christ does when you and I are away from mother's teachings, away from God's loving care, away on the mountain side of sin, cold and indifferent and unmindful. Jesus Christ just reaches down and holds us by the hand and folds us to His great loving heart and takes us into His fold. Lost one, Jesus is seeking you. Christ the good shepherd is seeking His own.

Do you remember a time when Christ was really a stranger to you? Have you loved ones who are a stranger to this blessed Christ? When a sheep stumbles and breaks its leg the shepherd knows it by name and goes out and finds it and splints its leg, carries it to a place of rest and carefully nurses and nourishes it back to usefulness. Again when the sheep is in muddy water the shepherd goes out and finds it and carries it to pure, clean, crystal water for it to drink.

And so Christ, the good shepherd, is so careful that we are nourished with not only our daily bread, the staff of physical life and pure clean water but He also gives us the bread of life and the water of eternal life. He says of us even though we waver, "I know my sheep and am known of mine." I ask you, my dear friend, do you know Christ? Are you willing to invest the best that you have for Christ? The shepherd gives his life for the sheep. The good shepherd gave His life for His sheep. He gave His life for you, now what are you giving for Him? He comes to you tenderly this morning and says, "I gave my life for thee, what hast thou given me?"

Then just think of His blessed words, "I know my sheep, and am known of mine." The apostle Paul writes and says, "I know my unbelief, and yet I am weak I know and am persuaded that He, Christ, is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day." Primarily, that means, "I have committed my heart unto Christ the good shepherd. I cannot keep my heart which is prone to sin. I just ask Jesus to keep my heart." And so this moriing I just ask this good shepherd and Saviour to keep and lead me.

"Saviour. like a shepherd lead us, much we need thy tenderest care.

I am persuaded that then the good shepherd of my life will keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day. Thou art able to keep my heart in the trials, sufferings, heartaches, sicknesses, weaknesses, disappointments, discouragements, temptations. O my friends, He is able to keep you and me. He is able to keep our loved ones which we have committed unto Him as they sleep in death in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Flanders Field or wherever their ashes may be. He is able, abundantly able to keep us. Listen as He says, "I know my sheep, and am known by mine. Neither is any man able to pluck them out of my hand." O what a blesing and what a comfort to know that Christ the good shepherd keeps His sheep, neither can any man pluck them out of His hands.

FARM BUREAU PAYS 44 DEATH CLAIMS AMOUNTING TO $3,460

That farm families of Alabama are being benefitted by the life insurance policy which the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation in cooperation with the county farm bureaus give each member is indicated by the fact that the farm bureau has paid 44 death claims since November 1 last year amounting to $6,460. This is reported by J. A. Beaty, director of field service of the farm bureau, who said that each farmer is issued a life insurance policy ranging from $40 to $200 depending upon age, when he becomes a member of the bureau.

"This is a great protection to our membership," says President O'Neal. "Our members lives are insured for approximately $1,509,000 by automatic policies. In addition we have issued $254,100 in additional insurance which is bought by the members at a very low cost." It is most economical.

ONLY A DOCTOR KNOWS WHAT A LAXATIVE SHOULD BE

Danger lies in careless selection of laxatives! By taking the first thing that comes to mind when bad breath, headaches, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, gas on stomach and bowels, lack of appetite or energy warns of constipation, you risk forming the laxative habit.

Depend on a doctor's judgment in choosing your laxative. Here's one made from the prescription of a specialist in bowel and stomach disorders. Its originator tried it in thousands of cases; found it safe for women, children and old folks; thoroughly effective for the most robust man. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It is composed of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients. You can get it in generous bottles and ready for use, at any drugstore.

TEN REASONS FOR TITHING

1. The tithe has Scriptural authority. It is clearly taught in the Word of God, which is more than we can say for many methods of church finances.

2. It is fair and business like. No one can claim that God is a hard landlord when He asks only one-tenth of His share. Then the giving of a definite amount puts the whole matter of giving upon a systematic and dependable basis.

3. Tithing removes the reproach that attends many of the methods used to raise money.

4. Tithing will lift the church out of the attitude of the beggar. We shall stop talking about begging for the church and the cause of God will be financed honorably and freed from the strain of mendicancy.

5. Tithing removes the necessary for spasmodic efforts and for high pressure collections. The tithe would keep the treasury of the Lord with ample funds all the while.

6. Tithing puts all the membership of the church on the same footing. The man who gives fifty dollars per week and the man who gives one dollar per week are in the same class if both are tithers.

7. Tithers usually go to the full measure of stewardship. Those who are giving in a great way to the glory of God, almost without exception, began their stewartship as tithers. This recognition of the right of God to their money led them to the glory of complete stewardship.

8. Tithing has the promise of the divine blessing. Malachi 3:10-11.

9. Tithing breaks down the wall of partition between the sacred and the secular. The man who is in partnership with God will find the business of the six days becoming help with the worship of the seventh.

10. Tithing enables our churches to give themselves to the supreme task of soul winning. The energy now spent by preachers and deacons and other active church workers in raising money and in wearisome appeals for funds to meet expenses, could then be given without interruption to the chief business of the churches. That of leading the lost to Christ.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

When A CLEANSING MEDICINE Is Needed

"I HAVE taken Black-Draught all my life, whenever in need of a medicine for constipation," says Mrs. G. C. Burns, of Buna, Texas. "My mother and father used it in their home for years, and I was raised to think of it as the first thing if I had a headache or was constipated.

"At one time I had indigestion real bad. I was all out of sorts; my skin was sallow, and I had gas pains. After a course of Black-Draught, I got all right. I have given Black-Draught to my children, whenever they needed a medicine of the kind."

FARMERS JOINING BUREAU AT RATE OF 1,000 PER MONTH

Alabama farmers believe in farm organization and they not only desire but are detremined that service through organization should be brought about by the fact that they are steadily joining the organization.

Approximately 11,000 new members have been added to the Alabama Farm Bureau since November 1st, 1929, and according to reports at state headquarters at Montgomery farmers are still joining the organization at the rate of about 1,000 per month.

HALE FARMER FINDS WINTER LEGUMES PAY

"I have planted hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas for the past seven years. Before I planted the first crop of vetch my land would not make more than one-half bale of cotton or 20 bushels of corn per acre with fertilizer. I can now make 50 bushels of corn per acre after vetch or peas with no fertilizer. My land has improved so that I can make a bale of cotton per acre with fertilizer and I have begun planting cotton after winter peas which reduces my fertilizer bill still further. This year I cut two tons of vetch and Austrian winter pea hay per acre, and had enough growth left on the land to make a crop of corn. Deep breaking and the turning under of winter legumes has made my soil fetrile and enables it to hold moisture. My vetch corn is growing fast and has a good color (June 28) although most of the corn in my community is suffering from lack of rain. I have never yet lost a crop after turning under vetch or peas. Hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas cannot be recommended too highly. I would not know how to farm without vetch and peas."

TEACHERS EXAMINATION

The next annual state examination for teachers will be held at the courthouse on July 21-22-23, 1930. All applicants not known to me personally must be properly identified and no applicant will be permitted to write an examination who does not live or teach in this county, or who does not present a permit from the State Department of Education, if living in some other county, to be transferred to this county.

No third grade examination will be given but applicants for second grade certificates failing to make the necessary grade for such certificate may receive a third grade certificate provided the papers show a minimum of 40 per cent on each subject and an average of at least 60 per cent on all subjects. No third grade certificate may be substituted as part of an examination for second grade.

No one will be permitted to take the second grade examination who does not submit satisfactory evidence of graduation from a Junior High School or of equivalent education. Each application for first grade certificate shall submit evidence of graduation from an accredited Senior High School or of education that is the equivalent.

An applicant for a first grade certificate may substitute a valid second grade certificate for all second grade papers.

Each applicant for a life certificate shall satisfy the examiner that he has held a first grade, Alabama Teacher's Certificate, or its equivalent, for at least five years, within which time he has taught a minimum of forty scholastic months, and that he possesses a high degree of proficiency and professional attainment.

No person under 17 years of age may legally write an examination for any kind of teacher's certificate. The applicant fee for each kind or grade of certificate is $2.00. No exemption from answers to questions will be allowed for statements of Reading Circle and Extension Credits.

An examination for music certificates will be given at this time. Applicants for music certificates who pass the theoretical examinations will be notified as to the time and place of the practical tests.

Those applying for first grade and substituting a valid second grade certificate as a part of the first grade examination need not come until noon Tuesday. All other applicants should be present at 9:00 o'clock Monday morning.

Honors For Percy M. Pitts, Chilton's Representative In The Legislature

The defeat of the Chilton County Board of Revenue Bill in the legislature of Alabama will forever stand out as an achievement of Hon. Percy M. Pitts, our representative, which establishes him with distinction in the minds of the great majority of our citizens. In accomplishing the defeat of this bill Mr. Pitts can and should be credited with a successful discharge of the one great obligation which was placed in his hands by his constituency.

While he did not introduce a single bill for enactment into law, that is more of a credit to him than a cause for blame. Alabama would perhaps be better off for years to come if many more representatives could say the same thing. It is almost universally agreed that we already have too many laws, and the legislature which has just adjourned added about 700 more to the number.

It is a stock argument in campaigns in this country that a Republican representative in Montgomery is equivalent to no representative at all. That was used against Mr. Pitts. Such is not true. While it is a fact that the legislature of Alabama is composed of Democrats almost entirely, yet they are men of reason in most cases. Upon local county measures they most generally adhere to the wishes of the county representative.

Such was the case this time. It was not much a matter of Percy Pitts, Republican or Percy Pitts otherwise politically. Mr. Pitts contended for the best interests of his county and the defeat of the Board of Revenue Bill. He was fair, square, and honest with his colleagues, and displayed sane judgement in every act he was called upon to perform. His conduct impressed his fellow-members that he was a man worthy of confidence; and when he told them the best interests of his county demanded the defeat of that bill they found out through other representations made by many citizens of the county that he was telling the truth, and they stuck to him when voting time came.

Percy Pitts has demonstrated that even if a man is a Republican, if he will prove himself every inch a man he can gain audience with other real men, even though they be his political opponents.

The verdict of the people of this county upon the record of Mr. Pitts as their representative in the 1927 legislature might well be expressed in these words: He fought a good fight; he has finished his course; he has kept the faith; enter thou into the joys which are reserved for faithful servants who are honest and conscientious in the discharge of the duties of public trust.

The Union-Banner here and now nominates the Hon. Percy M. Pitts as Chilton County's representative in the next legislature of Alabama. Do we hear a second?

To the Republicans of Chilton County:

The foregoing is a copy taken from The Union-Banner dated September 8, 1927, just after the adjournment of the 1927 legislature of Alabama. It was written by the editor of The Union-Banner concerning my services in that body.

I am now asking the Republican voters of the County to give me the honor of again representing Chilton County in the legislature of 1931, to succeed myself. I am asking this first, because I want to represent Chilton County again; and second, because I believe with the experience I have already had in the legislature, I am better fitted to serve my county in the next legislature than I was in the past session.

If you honor me again by your vote, I will in the future, as in the past, work to keep our county affairs in the hands of the people of our county, and let the voters of Chilton County continue to have the privilege of electing all of their county officials.

I assure you of my appreciation of your vote and influence in the primary of August 12, and pledge myself now to every effort for the success of the Republican ticket in the November Election.

Respectfully yours,
PERCY M. PITTS.

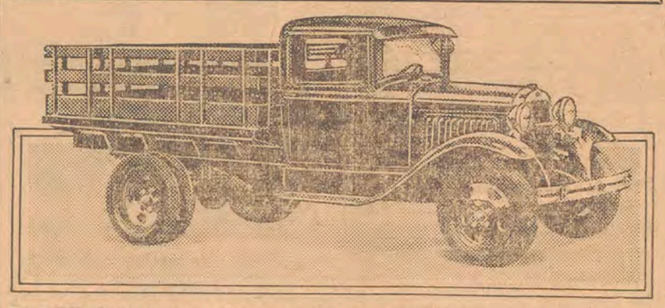
FOUR-H CLUBSTERS TO ATTEND OUTINGS



Auburn, Ala., July 14—The camping season for 4-H club boys is here again. T. A. Sims, state leader in this work, reports that nearly 9,000 boys will be in camp during July and August. This number is about half of the total enrollment of 4-H club boys in Alabama. Special interest in this work has resulted in a remarkable increase in enrollment. In 1923 there were only 1,850 boys engaged, while now enrollment has reached more than 18,000.

The camps will be under the diriction of county agents and vocational teachers cooperating with Mr. Sims. Games, fishing, swimming, and other recreational features will be included on the same programs. Mr. Sims stated that the main purpose of the camps is to get the farm boys together for a two-or-three-days outing. In addition, a half hour each day will be devoted to education. At most of the camps farm organizations will be discussed.

There will be a camp in reach of every 4-H club boy in Alabama. An effort is being made to hold one in every county but in some cases two or three counties will camp together.

In selecting a site for the camp the county agent picks a place where there is good drinking water and facilities for fishing and swimming. In many cases boy scout camps are used.

New Ford Truck With Closed Cab

NEW Ford Model AA trucks and Model A light delivery cars were announced this week by the Ford Motor Company and are on display in the show rooms of Ford dealers.

Changes in the trucks are principally in the front end, which has been completely redesigned, and in the cab. The radiator is higher with more cooling surface, fenders are wide and flowing, and a black cowl strip adds a note of distinction.

The new Model AA trucks with the four-speed transmission introduced several months ago may be had with enclosed or open cab. The enclosed cab, shown above, is all steel, it is low in appearance yet with ample head room. The open cab is of black rubber top material and is easily removed. Both cabs are equipped with windshields of Triplex shatterproof glass and vacuum type windshield wipers.

Model AA trucks may be had with a platform body, which can be equipped with stakes or a panel body. The chassis has many improvements, including the four-speed transmission, larger front brakes, stronger springs, power take-off opening and optional dual rear wheels.

The Model A line of new commercial cars comprises a light delivery truck with pick-up body, a deluxe delivery truck, a small panel truck and a station wagon. These cars have the smaller wheels and larger tires of the new Ford passenger cars.

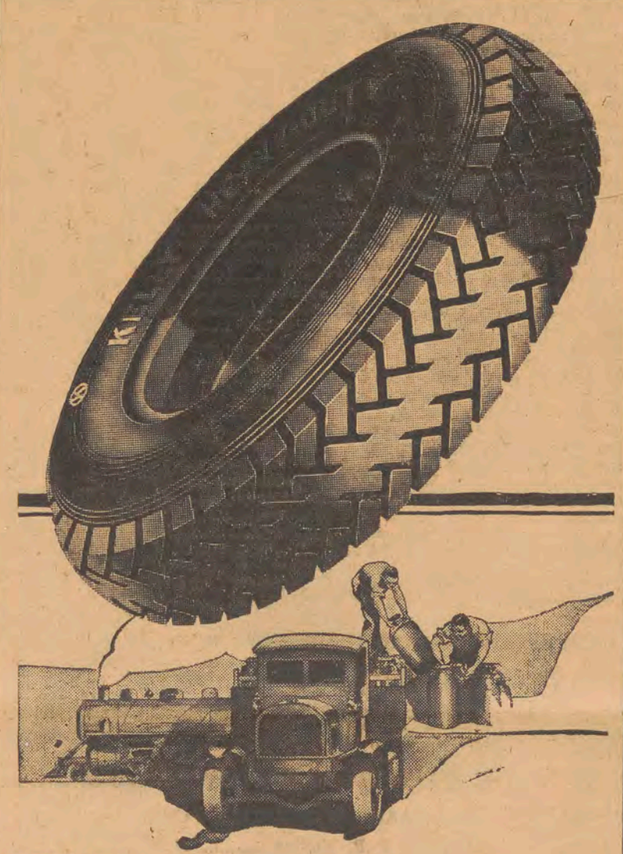
J. D. HARRELL WRITES

A few weeks ago I had an article in The Union-Banner asking Mr. L. H. Bean some questions. For some reasons he did not answer my questions and did not write any more to the paper until last week, when he came out with an article criticising our School Board and school officials, but had nothing to say in answer to the questions I had asked him. I am insisting that he give me an answer.

It seems that he is afraid of the trustees and the County Board and states frankly that we have school officials who are unable to publish a report without incriminating themselves. Since he is so afraid of the school officials of the county, both trustees, county board members, and superintendent, I would like to turn a little light on his own business.

Mr. Bean is it not a fact that your business is now being operated in your wife's name? I find recorded in the Circuit Clerk's office a judgment against you known as Execution No. 3307 on page 107, Civil Execution Docket No. 6. According to the minutes of the clerk this judgment has not been satisfied and the Sheriff reported no property found. Where is your property, Mr. Bean, and why is this judgment not satisfied and what is it all about?

Since you are interested in schools I am asking that you name one school issue that you were ever for. Is it not a fact that you have fought every movement for the betterment of schools not only in the county but in your own community?



I am informed by citizens of your community that a week ago last Sunday when the community had invited people there to sing and was to furnish the dinner for the crowd that you absolutely refused to carry out any dinner to help feed these people and not only did you refuse to help feed them but tried to get some of the women of Jemison to put up a cold drink stand to raise money to help feed the people.

We would like for you to say definitely what it is that you have got against the county superintendent and the school board. In my dealings with them I have found them to be courteous and always ready to hear me on any matter relating to the school work and I cannot understand why you should feel about them as you do.

In conclusion let me ask Mr. Bean to be certain to answer my questions asked him several days ago and those in this article.

Yours for better schools,
J. D. HARRELL.

Mr. W. F. DeShato of Mulberry community was in Clanton the latter part of last week.

What we are Selling Is MILEAGE

It is easy to claim big mileage for any tire. To get it out of a tire is a different matter.

The Kelly Heavy-Duty pneumatic is one tire you can be sure will give mileage. We honestly believe there is not another tire of its type being built today that will stand up alongside it. We have watched enough heavy duty tires in service to know what the various makes will do, and we will back Kellys to beat any of them.

That's why we sell Kelly-Springfields.

PRICES REDUCED

30 x 5 Kelly Heavy-Duty, 6-ply	$18.50

MENS CLASS HAD PICNIC THURSDAY

Outing Held At Log Cabin Beach Just Below Mitchell Dam

The picnic, barbecue, and fish fry of the Mens Bible Class of the Clanton Baptist Sunday School was held last Thursday afternoon at Log Cabin Beach below Mitchell Dam, where the new Rockford Highway reaches that part of Coosa River known as Jordan Lake. Jordan Lake is the backwater from Jordan Dam, a few miles above Wetumpka. Total attendance of men at the picnic was 225, including members of the class, their teacher, Mr. H. S. Shaw, the pastor, Rev. S. J. Ezell, Dr. Harry Clark, president of Judson College, and others who are officers and teachers of the Sunday School.

The preparation of the picnic was in charge of the white button side of the class, who lost to the reds in the recent attendance contest by only a very few points. Committees for every purpose had been appointed from among the white button members, and they carried out their duties with mechanical perfection. Uncle John Robinson, the dean of Clanton fishermen, was given the most difficult job of the whole business, that of catching and providing the necessary fish. He did his part so well that there was far more fish on hand than the crowd could eat.

H. T. Pipes and Dr. Hinkle had the job of cooking the cornbread. The only hitch in their part of the operations was that somebody swiped Mr. Pipes's pone and he never did find where it went. Jean Gore had charge of barbecuing the chickens. Mr. McDuffie fried the fish, using a large wash pot. Charlie Bell was all over the place doing a little bit of everything there was to be done. A truck load of ice water and lemonade was parked at the picnic place, which proved to be one of the most popular items on the menu, especially right after the men had eaten all the fish they could hold.

Dr. Harry Clark, president of Judson College, made a brief address to the assembly just prior to the time the announcement was made that all was ready for eating. His talk was splendid, and caught the rapt attention of his listeners. It goes without saying that he is an interesting speaker when he can command the attention of two hundred hungry men when they were sitting in the midst of all kinds of fried fish, barbecued chicken, and other good things just ready to be devoured.

Walter Rosser, staff photographer for the Birmingham News, was on hand and made a picture of the class. We might add here that anyone who wants one of these pictures can get it through J. Watts Moore, secretary of the class.

Everyone who attended this affair was particularly delighted with the courtesy extended by Mr. Burton Higgins, owner of Log Cabin Beach, who extended every facility at his command for the pleasure and convenience of those in attendance. Log Cabin Beach is perhaps the finest outing place in the whole lake region of Chilton County. It has been developed by Mr. Higgins and his father, Mr. Guy Higgins this summer. They have built a number of cottages, and provided everything that could be desired by a party on an outing. Accommodations are handy, the beach is delightful, good water is plentiful, both for sports and for drinking. And the road to the place is perfect. Anyone who wants a few days of pleasure and outing away from the daily routine of business, will make no mistake to go to Log Cabin Beach. A caretaker is there all the time and ready to fix you up with a place to stay.

NEW SINCLAIR GASOLINE STATION BEING BUILT

Mr. Norman L. (Buck) Roberts, local distributor for Sinclair gasoline and oil products in this territory, announces that a new Sinclair gasoline and automobile service station is being built on the old D. Y. Johnston property where the Selma Highway intersects the Birmingham Highway.

The old buildings on the property have been torn down, and work has already begun on the new structure. The property to be occupied by the new filling station is owned by Fies and Sons, of Birmingham. They will build the place according to specifications of the Sinclair Oil Company, and will lease it to the Sinclair people for ten years.

Mr. Roberts states that he is now negotiating with parties for a lease on the retail operations of the place, but is not ready to make definite announcement just yet.

The contract for the new buildings was let by Fies to a contractor of Birmingham, who states that he will have the job finished in thirty days.

DRINKING CHURCH MEMBERS MENACE PROHIBITION, VIEW

Gov. Pollard Makes Appeal For Cessation Of Wet Habits By Drys

Braddock Heights, Md., July 19—Gov. Pollard, Virginia, told the Baptist assembly of Maryland and the District of Columbia here Saturday night prohibition is doomed to failure unless church members support it to the point of total abstinence of drinking.

"It is absurd," said Gov. Pollard, "for the churches to expect the state to send a man to jail for a crime when they are not willing to discipline their own members for becoming parties to that crime by purchasing and drinking bootleg whiskey.

"If as many church members practiced total abstinence as voted for prohibition the public official would have less trouble enforcing the law.

Gov. Pollard said as "a life-long prohibitionist not yet willing to give up," he warned the church people of the country that "the cause is lost unless the churches are willing to take a firmer stand against hypocrisy of voting dry and drinking wet."

"We have been relying too largely on the force of the law rather than on the teaching of Christian virtures," he said.

CHRISTIAN HARMONY SINGING CONVENTION HERE AUGUST 3

Our Chilton County Christian Harmony Singing Convention will meet at the court house in Clanton on the first Sunay in next month, August 3rd, and Saturday before. Everybody is requested to be there, and let us make it the best convention ever held in Chilton County. Bring your Christian Harmony books only and a well filled basket of something to eat. Yours for a good singing,—J. N. Scott, Chairman.

KIWANIS CLUB AT NEW SALEM

Ladies Furnish Entertainment For Farmers and Club Members

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton went out to New Salem Church last Friday night, where the ladies of the church entertained us with a most delightful luncheon. The party consisting of anumber of the representative farmers of New Salem Community, their wives and families, and about twenty of the Kiwanis Club members, gathered at the church about sunset.

Led by Percy M. Pitts, the gathering engaged in singing a few appropriate songs from the Kiwanis song book. When it was announced that supper was ready, members of the Club and the farmers of the community gathered around a long table in the open space under the trees. That table was loaded down with such good things to eat as you can find in a rural community in the good old summer time when every blessing of God seems to converge and pour out all that can be asked for.

After invocation by Rev. Appleton, the men were turned loose and it was not long until everyone was complaining because of full stomachs. And the only disappointing thing about it was that after every man in the crowd had gotten full, you couldn't tell that anything had been taken off the table.

On behalf of the Kiwanis Club, Sam Ezell did most of the talking, and we might say also, most of the eating. He told the gathering in a very impressive way just why the Kiwanis Club was glad to be with the folks of New Salem. In response Zack Appleton told us why the folks of New Salem were glad to have the members of the Kiwanis Club as their guests.

Throughout its history during the past two years the Kiwanis Club of Clanton has visited a number of the communities of Chilton County. This was our first visit to New Salem, and it may be truly said that the Club has not been to a community anywhere that outdid the hospitality shown us there last Friday night.

KIWANIS CLUB WILL VISIT 4-H CLUB BOYS

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton will not hold their regular luncheon this week. Instead of the regular meeting, the club will go to visit the 4-H club boys, who are in camp on the lake just above Lay Dam.

Chairman J. N. Dennis Writes To Republican Voters

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to say to the Republican voters of our county that I hope each of you will go to the polls on August 12th and vote for such candidate for each office to be filled as your judgment tells you will be for the best interest of our county, and see that the nominees are elected in November.

As chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, I will be at the courthouse to receive the ballot boxes and returns, and they will be securely kept by me as required by law.

Regardless of whom we support, each voter and candidate must have a square deal, and each voter must have the privilege of casting his vote according to his judgment, without interference or discrimination on the part of any citizen or officer. And his ballot shall be kept secret.

Trusting that every Republican will avail themselves of the privilege to help select our officers through the primary, I am,

Yours very truly,
J. N. DENNIS, Chairman Chilton
County Republican Executive Committee.

MISSION STUDY INSTITUTE HELD

Many Baptist Churches Represented At Three Day Session Here

The Unity-Chilton Institute, conducted on the 15, 16, 17 at the Clanton Baptist Church was declared by all who attended to be a success.

The program in its entirety was well designed. Every speaker delivered messages that were impessive. Time might be profitably spent in rehearsing the various speeches in detail. but space forbids.

The inspirational speeches of Dr. Wyatt and Dr. Barton were full of wholesale truths and were well delivered.

Chilton County's blind peracher, Paul Oden, conducted the devotional on Thursday. Rapt attention was given the Mr. Oden, who also gave several solos, playing his own accompainments. Mr. Gresham Lowery as song leader, was never at better advantage.

Dr. Harry Clark, president of Judson college, was on the program for an inspirational address on Thursday morning. In a happy, easy vein, Dr. Clark gave biographical sketches of the writers of many of our most familiar songs. Afterwards, having his attention called to the fact that our state song was written by the beloved and illustrious Julia S. Tutwiler, Dr. Clark assuming an apologetic air, for not including her name on list of song writers, remarked, "I am a heathern, I have been in your state for so short a time and therefore did not know."

Every speaker seemed at his best, The free will offerings took care of the expense. The neighboring churches furnished dinner each day, assisted by Clanton W. M. S. members, and diners al attested to the success of the dinners.

The Unity-Chilton institute conducted in Clanton Baptist Church on July 15, 16, 17 is registered on history as an unsurpassed event.

NAMES MUST BE SIGNED TO POLITICAL ARTICLES

The Union-Banner desires to remind all who may write political letters for publication that such letters must have printed with them the name of the person who writes them. We feel that this policy is the only fair way in which such matters can be handled, as the readers are certainly entitled to know who the author is when they read and give consideration to such communications.

In this connection we wish to say that a certain letter published last week and signed "A Voter," came to us with the name of Green Gore signed to it. Just before the letter was printed a man came to our office and asked that the name of Green Gore be left off and that the signature be made "A Vorter." Publication of letters in this way is contrary to the policy of this newspaper, and therefore we feel that it is our duty to make this explanation, and to say that in the future all political letters must have the name of the writer printed with them.

Clanton Shrine Club Will Entertain Members Of Alcaza Temple

About 300 Shriners from Alcazar Temple, Montgomery will come to Clanton this afternoon (Thursday) and from here they will be piloted to Lay Dam where an elaborate entertainnment of barbecue, picnic and dancing will be furnished under the auspices of the Clanton Shrine Club.

The Montgomery Shriners, accompanied by their ladies, will arrive in Clanton about 3:30 o'clock. Immediately upon arrival the Shrine Band and Drill Corps of Alcazar Temple will stage a parade in the business section of the city. This will be a delightful demonstration, and the people of Clanton and Chilton county are invited to be present. This public parade will last for about an hour. After the parade has been concluuded, the visiting Shriners and guests will be taken in charge by the Clanton Shrine Club and piloted to Lay Dam, where joys unbounded will break loose without restraint for the rest of the evening.

A barbecue will be served at six o'clock, after which dancing will begin at 7:30 and continue until 10 o'clock. Admission to the festivities at Lay Dam will be by 1930 Shrine card and invitation.

This affair has been planned and will be carried out under auspices of the Clanton Shrine Club, with the following Nobles acting as the committee on entertainment: J. Mell Martin, P. T. Hinkle, S. R. Powers, J. D. Armstrong, M. A. Gore, R. J. Sumner, W. A. Willis, L. E. Foshee.

The Alabama Power Company has very graciously tendered all their facilities at Lay Dam for this occasion, and the local committee of the Clanton Shrine Club have everything in readiness for one of the most pleasant events ever known.

J. A. NIVENS DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

According to the Chilton County News of last week, Mr. J. A. Nivens of Clanton has announced as a candidate for Sheriff of Chilton County on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Nivens is the only Democratic candidate for Sheriff in the primary to be held August 12th.

Mr. Nivens is a prominent business man of Clanton. He has been in business here for several years, since his connection with Mr. H. S. Shaw in the lumber business was terminated.

There are three candidates for Sheriff in the Republican primary. They are: Walter Gillespie, George Murrah and Tug Willis. The final race will be made in November, when Mr. Nivens and the Republican nominee will go before the citizenship of the county for the expression of the choice of the majority.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mims announce the arrival of a baby girl at their home Tuesday afternoon.

A new baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Baker on last Thursday morning.

To Be Conducted By Rev. Daily, Sponsored By the Local Foursquare Church

A revival meeting will begin at the courthouse Monday night, July 28, to extend over a period of two week, ending Sunday night, August 10. The preaching will be done by Rev. Daily, a well known evangelist, who has recently been holding meetings at Selma.

The revival is sponsored by the local Foursquare church of Clanton. Preaching will begin each night at 7:30. So far as is now known there will be no services during the day.

Good singing, good music, and good preaching is promised, and the Foursquare church wants you and everyone else to feel that you have a special invitation to each and every service.

PROF. H. C. COLLINS WILL SING AT FRIENDSHIP SUNDAY P. M.

Prof. H. C. Collins, of Cairo, Ga., will meet with the Friendship class next Sunday afternoon. Prof. Collins was slated to attend the Chilton County Singing convention at Jemison, but could not get there; so he has agreed to be at Friendship next Sunday afternoon.

Prof. Collins has a number of former pupils as well as fellow students in this county, all of whom he wishes to see again and sing with. So you have an invitation to attend this singing; it will begin promptly at 2:00 o'clock and will last for two hours.

Both Showalter and Stamps books will be used and probably the Morris-Henson book, so bring all your books along and come prepared to put in two hours of real singing. A number of good directors nearby have been engaged, and you won't want to miss being there too.

GOLF MATCH IS PLAYED HERE

Contest Waged Between Players Of Birmingham and Clanton

Friday night marked the initial golf match in Clanton. The Clanton Miss-A-Put Team engaged the Birmingham Miss-A-Putt team in a ladies foursome and a mens foursome.

The score was 18-12 in favor of the visiting club, according to the Nassau system of scoring. The score follows:

Ladies: Mrs. Ranson of Birmingham defeated Gladys Williams of Clanton, 2 up. Maurine Marshall, Birmingham, defeated Nelle Sumner, Clanton, 2 up. Bessie Hunter, Birmingham, defeated Bernice Williams, Clanton, 1 up. Helen Biles, Birmingham, defeated Pauline Lawrence, Clanton, 1 up.

It might be in order here to congratulate our girls on their splendid showing in competition against as formidable a foursome of women who have played golf for years.

The Club wishes to falicitate them and urge them on to even better golf.

Men: Carl Hunter of Birmingham, defeated Sam Upchurch of Clanton, 2 up. Arthur Johnson, Clanton, defeated Ellis Oglesby, Birmingham, 6 up. Erle Ellis, Clanton, defeated Dan Monison, Birmingham, 6 up. Fred Acton, Birmingham, defeated Lanier Moore, Clanton, 7 up.

In the play-off, winner against winner and loser against loser, Upchurch and Moore won from Monison and Oglesby, 3 and 2; and Johnson and Ellis were defeated by Hunter and Acton, 2 and 1.

After the matches were over Calloway and Acton of Clanton took on Hunter (pro at Cahaba Country Club) and W. Acton of Birmingham in a grudge match. Calloway and Acton emerged victorious, 5 up.

Numerous aces were scattered throughout the match.

The behavior of the spectators left nothing to be desired. The galaries at all times were very courteous, and the club and players wish to thank them for their courtesy.

The club here expects to give the Birmingham Club a return match at an early date. As before, the teams will be selected by competition.

Since the coming of miniature golf to Clanton quite a bit of interest has been shown in the game. Every body is playing. Come on up and try your "Putts." On top of the hill at Ellis's, on the Highway.

VERBENA BANKER IS UNDER ARREST

H. W. Davis, Cashier, Placed In Jail On Charges Of Shortage In Funds

Horace W. Davis, cashier of the Bank of Verbena, was arrested and placed in the Chilton County jail last Sunday night, charged with being responsible for a shortage of fifteen thousand dollars in his accounts at the bank, of which he has been cashier for several years.

It is said that the discrepancies in the accounts of Davis were found last Friday upon examination of the books of the bank by State Bank Examiner, B. S. Gay. According to reports current here, Mr. Davis resigned his position with the bank Saturday, and the business of the institution was placed in charge of W. A. Gulledge, well-known business man of Verbena.

Following the uncovering of the Davis defalcations, it was stated that the bank was fully protected by indemnity bond, and assurance was given that the bank was fully solvent and able to meet all legitimate demands. We understand that the bank opened for business Monday morning with confidence of the public fully re-assured, and ready to continue its service to the people of Verbena and vicinity.

Mr. Davis is a former Clanton man. Before going to the Bank of Verbena he had a long and honorable record of business experience in Clanton, principally as chief clerk in the office of the Probate Judge of Chilton County. His many friends here and throughout the county are intensely sorry that this misfortune has come to him.

TEXACO STATION ON HIGHWAY GETS NEW MANAGER TUESDAY

Begining Tuesday of this week, M. W. C. Billingsley takes the place of Luther Foshee as manager of the new Texaco station on the highway near McSwain's residence. The business will be known in the future as the Texaco Service Station.

W. C. Billingsley is the son of Wm. J. Billingsley of Thorsby. He has been in the filling station business for five years, having worked in Ocala, Flat, and Grier, S. C. He left the latter place to take charge of the station here. Mr. Billingsley is well experienced in this line of work. He invites his friends to come to see him.

Mr. W. A. Hayes, of Thorsby was in Clanton Saturday showing the finest lot of peaches we have seen this year. They were of the Elberta and Hale varieties.

Mr. Hayes stated that he has an extra good crop of peaches this year and will have plenty of them ripe for the next two weeks.

If any one wants any peaches you may get them from Mr. Hayes in any quantity you want. His place is one mile northeast of Thorsby depot, next to Martin Peterson's.

REVIVAL BEGINS AT THORSBY SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 27TH

The summer revival at the Thorsby Baptist church will begin on Sunday, July 27th at 11 o'clock. Rev. F. M. Barnes of Montgomery, pastor of the Clayton Street Baptist church, will do the preaching. Prof. Ralph Grant of Coopers will have charge of the singing. The meeting will run for 10 days. Rev. J. W. Jones, the pastor, is very enthusiastic over the prospects for this meeting, and says: "Tell the brethren and sisters to come."

LOTS OF GRAPES

You've heard of "too much pepper." Well, J. H. Jackson of Lomax has got almost too many grapes. But he is getting rid of them right fast.

Mr. Jackson has got two or three acres of the finest grapes you have ever seen. He employes around a dozen people harvesting them, and he is hauling them to Birmingham as soon as he gets them off the vines.

This is an example of how things worth while can be done in Chilton County. Farming can be made to pay here if the farmers go at it in the right way. You can't do it raising nothing but cotton and corn—especially a year like this when it is too dry for either of these crops. It is a good idea to have something else to fall back on if cotton and corn fail.

Why don't other farmers copy after Mr. Jackson?

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

CHRIST, THE GOOD SHEPHERD

We continnue the study in the 10th chapter of the Gospel according to St. John. This certainly makes one think. Jesus makes His teachings very plain and positive and ought to be very comforting to you and to me. Think of the verse we paused at in the study yesterday morning. Jesus says, "My sheep hear my voice. I know my sheep, and they follow me and I give unto them eternal life. No man can pluck them out of my hands."

You remember that He says, "My sheep." You and I are His sheep, the sheep of Jesus Christ the Good Shepherd. Hegives His life for the sheep. The shepherd of the far east goes out even though his body might be torn to pieces by the red lions of Palestine (yet he goes out to rescue one of his sheep. This Shepherd is a type of Christ who poured out His life blood for you and for me. As is written in this inspired letter of John, "He loved me and gave Himself for me. He bore my sins in His sinless body on the accursed tree, died to reconcile us unto God." So is it written, "Ye are not your own, ye have been bought with a price even the precious blood of Jesus Christ." We belong to God and the price paid is the precious, precious blood of Jesus Christ His only son.

"My sheep hear my voice." At the sheep fold door the shepherd calls his sheep and they keep on biting the grass. But Jesus says, "My sheep hear my voice." The shepherd calls and the sheep lingers along leisurely eating grass and stopping at a clear stream to drink water. But the storm approaches and the sheep hurriedly rush near the shepherd. So it is with you my sick friend, my weak friend, my hurt friend, my disappointed friend, my discouraged friend.

Lets get under the shadow of the good shepherd and have Him place himself over us in the storm.

O how you and I need this good shepherd. He certainly will supply all of my needs. He is abundantly able to supply all of our needs according to His riches in glory, and He certainly does so moment by moment, hour by hour, day by day.

The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in groon pastures.

He leadeth me beside the still waters.

Then I pause to sing.

Saviour, like a shepherd lead us, much we need thy tenderest care.

"My sheep hear my voice." Do you hear the voice of the good shepherd speaking to you, "come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." Then again do you not hear the voice of the good shepherd saying, "Look unto me and be ye saved all ye ends of the earth." Do you not hear His voice as He says to you, "As the Father hath loved me so have I loved you continue ye in my love."

"My sheep hear my voice, and I know them." Christ the good shepherd knows me. He knows my purpose in my work. He knows the aims and purposes of my life. He knows my weaknesses, my failures. He knows my voice. You know the shepherd of the far east knows the sheep under his care by their eccentricties, peculiarities even to the shape of the ears, nose, hoofs. Just so with Christ our good shepherd. He knows us by our eccentricties, our weaknesses, frailties. He need not repeat them. I know them far better than you know.

But this dear friend, I do know as the apostle Paul has written, I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day. O Jesus, come take thy seat by this thy unworthy child. The next thought which Christ presents is this, "My sheep follow me." The most impressive thing which I saw on my recent visit in Scotland was how careful the mother sheep with her little lamb and the sheep without a little lamb following the shepherd to the gate of the fold to get under the kind shepherd's protection from the rains which were numerous in that country. I just thought about how God does so care for us when we are looking into empty bread trays, and when we are really in such needy circumstances that we must have a "lift" to encourage us to go forward under the stress and strain. O how we need to go to the good shepherrd when it seems that the world has turned its back on us. Do you look to Him, do you go to Him when people break engagements with you? O my friend, we must follow Jesus, we must flee to Him when the way seems dark.

To watch the shepherd with his flock of sheep in Palestine you will notice that every sheep tries its best to get the closest to the shepherd's crook. This reminds you of the psalmist's words, "Thy rod and thy staff. they comfort me." Next Jesus Christ the good shepherd says, "I give unto my sheep eternal life." What greater gift could there be than the gift of eternal life by Christ Jesus?

Christ is written of in Isaiah in such words as these, "He will be led as a lamb to hte slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearer is dumb so He openeth not His mouth." I used to live not far from the slaughter field. Early in the morning when I would arise to read my Bible I could look out and see the colored men catch sheep and put them between their knees and cut their throats. But I never heard even the bleat of a sheep. So Christ the lamb of God was led to the slaughter on Mt. Calvary and yet He opened not His mouth. It was the gentle, the silent, the loyal, the meek and lowly Jesus.

Another thing Chrust said which we would remember in this study, "Neither shall any man pluck my sheep out of my hand." Jesus means that He will keep us and preserve us unto the end. "No man can pluck them out of my hand." Now some of us are fearing that we will not be saved in eternity. But the point is this. We must keep saved. We must be saved now. Now is the time to be saved. We must be saved now that the devil cannot pluck us out of Christ's hand. It is the hand while touched and cooled fevered brows. It is the hand which reached down and touched lepers and cleansed them of their loathsomeness. He will reach down and touch your hand when you are grieved and burdened and He will take that handkerchief which He laid to one side in Joseph's tomb and wipe the tears out of your eyes. Friends, the devils in hell and all his imps cannot pluck the child of God out of His hands. If we cry as a lamb does to the shepherd and the mother sheep Christ the good shepherd will hear our cries. A found sheep does not bleat. If you are found on the cold, dark mountain side you will nestle quietly in the good shepherd's arms of love. O how we do need this Christ. Let us resolve as did the apostle Paul that nothing can separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus. Neither principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature can separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus.

CARD OF THANKKS

Miss Ina Duke, of Clanton, wishes hereby to express her thanks and appreciation to neighbors and frineds of her family for the kindness and sympathy shown to her and other members of the family during the illness and death of her mother, Mrs. S. E. Duke, on June 15.

22.6 MILES TO THE GALLON

Mr. W. M. Polk of Polk Brothers Motor Co., local Chevrolet dealers, with Mr. Fate Maddox, chief mechanic at the Chevrolet place, conducted a test Monday morning to determine how far one the Chevrolet sixes would run on a gallon of gasoline. The editor of the Union-Banner was invited to go along and witness the demonstration.

Mr. Maddox had designed special appliance for this test, which was made by attaching a fruit jar to the windshield frame from which the gasoline was carried to the carburator by a rubber tube. The regular gasoline feed from the tank was disconnected.

We went to a filling station in Clanton, filled up the fruit jar and proceeded down the highway. The result of the test was 22.6 miles on a gallon.

The car used was a 1930 Chevrolet Club Sedan which serves as a demonstrator, by salesmen of Polk Brothers.

Washington in summer is said to be one of the hottest cities in the country regardless of whether or not Congress is in session.

The ONLY TIRE FACT you need to know

MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND

WHEN you read a tire advertisement that almost sweeps aside your judgement with its enthusiasm:

SAY TO YOURSELF:

"MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND!"

When you face a sales argument that sounds good but you have no means of testing:

SAY TO YOURSELF:

"MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND!"

When you are tempted to fall for a mileage guarantee, a special discount, a long trade-in, tire insurance, or anything else, but intrinsic tire goodness:

SAY TO YOURSELF:

"MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND!"

Then, just for variety, ask yourself "WHY?" Why is it true that

"MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND!"

In the answer to that question is the only tire fact you really need to know, to be sure of getting the finest tire values money can buy! And we'll prove WHY

LET'S VOTE FOR O. H. McDOWELL FOR COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

Much has been said about our candidates for Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, and Sheriff. They are important offices. But when we consider the training of the boys and girls of our county the County Board of Education holds a very important part in that training.

To get good results from the County Board we must elect men who are qualified men for that office, and men that are good men and that have the training of the boys and girls at heart.

O. H. McDowell is a man that has taught school. Been a trustee of Concord School for 10 years, and a patron of said school.

He has always been a man that contends for, and is in favor of good schools and I have always found him to be battling for what was best for the cause of education.

I have known him from boyhood and I know of his ability and qualifications for the office he is asking for.

I can honestly and truthfully reccommend him to the voters of our county as being well qualified for the office and will do his best for the boys and girls. Let's give him a chance.

Yours for good schools and well trained boys and girls,

WILLIE MINOR.

EIGHTEEN ADDITIONS AT NEW HARMONY NEAR MT. CREEK

Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby just closed a meeting at New Harmony, near Mountain Creek, last Friday, in which there were 18 additions to the church. Rev. Jones reports that the meeting was fine in every respect. New Harmony was the first church which called Rev. Jones as their pastor several years ago. The pastor now is Rev. Cooke of Prattville.

A man in London, England, the other night called Yuma, Arizona by telephone and got the wrong number. Wonder what he thinks of the telephone company now?

JOHNSON'S INFIRMARY

Mrs. E. B. Mills is getting along nicely after a minor operation.

Otis (Sleepy) Miller is able to be up after getting his leg broke a few days ago.

Mrs. W. L. Powell was brought in with a broken arm last week.

COUNTY BRIEFS

John Bird Murphy of Coosa County was in Clanton Saturday. He stated that things around Titus were awfully dry; crops are suffering considerably.

Mrs. C. C. Baker of Vida was a visitor to The Union-Banner Saturday. She brought in two partially opened cotton blooms from the farm of their neighbor in Autauga County.

Sheriff Collins presented The Banner with some samples of his home made flour which he had milled recently. The flour is something fine, and it has that whole wheat flavor which is rarely found in store-bought biscuits. The flour was milled by J. M. Battles at Ashby, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Gowan, of Atlanta, spent Sunday with the family of Dr. J. E. Gowan. Mr. Gowan is with the Southern Natural Gas Company, and is being transferred from Atlanta to Selma. While here Dr. Gowan carried the visitors on a sight seeing trip to Mitchell Dam and Lay Dam pawer plants of Alabama Power Company.

I wish everybody could have heard Bro. Nichols' sermons Saturday and Sunday for they were fine. We reorganized the Sunday School and meet next Sunday at 9:30 a. m. and sing before we have Sunday School. We are proud of our officers and hope that everybody will come and do their part. Lets all take Bro. Nichols' advice and see if we don't prosper.—Mrs. Hubert Devaughn.

MT. CARMEL CEMETERY

All who are interested in the Mt. Carmel cemetery and church yards are requested to meet Friday, August 1, to clean off same. Bring necessary tools and meet early.—E. E. DeRamus.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Powell and family of Decatur, are spending their vacation with relatives and friends in Clanton this week.

Peaches, peaches, everywhere. Some fine ones have been coming into Clanton for the past week or so, and they are geting better. Saturday there were some fine samples displayed over town and marketed too. Mr. Enoch E. Plier of Concord left The Union-Banner the largest ones we have seen—it weighed eleven ounces. One man said that he had one weighing twenty ounces which he started to bring to us and his wife would not let him. That's one time we wish the good woman hadn't intervened.

BETHSALEM SUNDAY SCHOOL

Our Sunday School was called to order last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. We had a large crowd with us. There were 102 members present. We were glad to see as many present. Every one come and be with us in our school.

Remember next Sunday is our regular singing evening at Bethsalem. Every body is invited to come and bring your new song books, and let's have a good singing.

We hope to have a large crowd at Sunday School next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. We especially invite the parents to come and bring their little children.—Alta Belle Vinson.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

TWO OLD CANDIDATES AGAIN IN POLITICS

Auburn, Ala., July 21.—Two old candidates are again in the political field in Alabama. Friends of General Hairy Vetch and Colonel Austrian W. Peas have again announced the candidacy of the two nitrogen gathering plants for the office of soil builders for Alabama, subject to the action of the farmers of the state during the planting season, September 15 to October 15.

These two winter legumes have launched a vigorous campaign, and say they are running on their record. They expect to make a canvass of every county in the state and meet all the farmers by September 1. In each county the county agricultural agent has been appointed and accepted the job of campaign manager.

These "facts" are revealed in many ways, but chiefly by the action of the "campaign managers" and by political cards that are being handed out to prospective supporters.

On one side of the cards reads: "Vote for Col. Austrian W. Peas, candidate for soil builder of Jones County, subject to action of farmers, fall season, 1930, presented by John Smith, county agent." On the other side the platform is outlined as follows: "1. I'll build your soils. 2. I'll average 20 bushels more corn per acre. 3. I'll average 356 pounds of seed cotton more per acre. 4 I'll decrease your fertilizer bill. 5. I'll make you nitrogen while you sleep." The card ends with the statement, "Paid prosperity advertisement by Jones County Farm Bureau."

Campaign managers in their statements at meetings have announced that no effort will be spared to send to oblivion those great cursers of Alabama—"poor soils" and "feed bills." The experiment station at Auburn is said to be strongly in favor of both General Vetch and Col. Peas, and the campaign between them and "poor soils" and "feed bills" promises to be one of the most exciting in history.

The aim of the campaign, managers state, is to see that big fields and entire farms instead of "patches" are planted to the nitrogen-gathering plants.

CROPS COURSE SET FOR FARMERS' WEEK

Auburn, Ala., July 21.—The best methods to follow in every step in the production of cotton and other crops from seed to market will be told by lecture and demonstration to farmers attending Farmers' Week at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, July 28 to August 2. To do this five departments of the college of agriculture will cooperate. They will present the latest facts as they have been learned by experiments conducted by the Experiment Station.

Dean M. J. Funchess and others in the department of agronomy and soils will tell of varieties, cultivation, fertilizers, and other crop problems. Machinery to use will be explained and demonstrated by Prof. M. L. Nichols and others of the department of agricultural engineering. Cotton boll rot and its control is the subject of a lecture to be delivered by Dr. J. L. Seal of the department of botany. Prof J. M. Robinson of the department of entomology will explain boll weevil control, and cotton marketing will be discussed by Prof. J. D. Pope of the department of agricultural economics. Other important subjects will be covered by other members of the departments named.

All lectures will be in the form of round-table discussions and visitors will be encouraged to present information and ideas gleaned from their own farms.

In addition to lectures the practices explained will be demonstrated on the experiment station farm. A large number of modern machines adapted for use on Alabama farms will be operated to show farmers the best methods.

Experiments in progress that will be studied include one where cotton and corn have been grown in rotation with legumes for 34 years. This is the oldest experiment in the South, and shows the value of winter legumes as a source of nitrogen.

All other important agricultural subjects will be included on the program.

RADIO SAVES FARMERS LARGE SUMS ANNUALLY

There are farmers and others in Alabama who are making their radio pay for itself. Not only do they get all the enjoyment possible to lighten the cares of long summer days, but they are using the radio to keep ahead of the markets, according to reports received by S. P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industiries.

Reports received from various quarters show that farmers listen to the daily market quotations in a selective fashion. For example, if a man has potatoes, strawberries, peaches, watermelons, or green corn for sale, he is watching the daily price changes in order to compare prices in any one of a half dozen northern key markets.

Just now watermelon prices are quoted from Pittsburgh, Pa., New York City, Chicago, Cincinnatti, Detroit, Michigan, and Cleveland, Ohio, daily. These cities have about one-tenth of the population of the United States.

Watermelon shippers from Alabama through the daily radio over WSFA and WAPI, from 12:30 to 1:00 p. m., have access to all the market information available to any other class of persons. They thus are able to divert shipments and make consignments accordingly.

The radio broadcasts of weather enable shippers to plan shipments of perishables, to avoid freezing weather, high floods, and other weather conditions which might depress markets or cause a rise in prices.

The price movements of hogs, cattle, sheep, poultry, eggs, butter, hay, cotton, corn, wheat, oats, cottonseed, cottonseed meal, cottonseed oil, etc., are all given daily. Prices are as far as possible quoted at the same minute daily. Farmers can thus save time by going to the radio for what they wish to secure.

Cotton quotations are given three times daily over WSFA and WAPI by the Department at 9:30 a. m., 12:30 p. m., and 1:30 p. m., daily. The first and last broadcasts are of five minutes duration. The midday broadcast lasts 30 minutes and may include brief talks by agricultural authorities.

Reports received from a widely scattered number of citizens show that the interest in the radio news has been increasing and that farmers often visit their neighbors to get prices. One cattle dealer in North Alabama began eating lunch at a certain restaurant at 12:30 p. m. daily, in order to get Chicago and Montgomery cattle, hog, and sheep quotations. He later bought a radio for his own use.

AUBURN SAYS

The coldest place in the refrigerator—just under the ice chamber—should be reserved for baby's milk.

Life insurance companies, through foreclosures on farm mortgages, have entered the farming business. In Ohio they now operate 412 farms.

The planting of sudan grass as an emergency food crop is recommended on farms where drouth has cut the yield of regular feed crops.

The tomato has taken its place beside the orange as a source of necessary vitamins in the diet. Plan to can plenty of tomatoes this year.

Slip covers for upholstered furniture of unbleached linen or similar material help make the living room look fresh and cool in summer.

Farmers and farm women will gather at Auburn, July 28 to August 2, for the annual Farmer's Week exercises and the meeting of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

POULTRY Tips By LEONARD L. BROWN

MARKET POULTRY

At about five weeks you can begin to be able to separate the cockerels from the pullets. The cockerels at this age develop conspicuous bright red combs, while the pullets show no combs at all, or just very inconspicuous ones.

As soon as possible, some time between the 5th and the 9th week, take all of your cockerels out and develop them promptly for the broiler market, unless you have in mind keeping them longer for the later market seasons. For broilers, however, the cockerels should best be confined to limited size runs, in order to limit the amount of exercise they will get. A room 10 by 12 feet will be enough space for 250 fattening broilers.

For feed, a fattening ration should now be adopted, strong on corn, feeding it in small amounts, but often, to keep the broilers always well filled. At about seven weeks the mash should consist of one part of regular developing mash as previously described, to which has been added one part of yellow corn meal and one part of commercial skim or condensed buttermilk. This should be supplemented with cracked corn fed in pans or hoppers, with sour skim milk for drink, and green food for general conditioning. Marketing is usually the most profitable at about one and a half pounds live weight. Three to four pounds of dry feed is about the amount required for adding each pound of live weight to the bird.

The American Poultry School of Kansas City, Missoui, gives us the average weights of 100 Leghorn chicks as follows: at hatching time, 8 pounds, fifth week, 42 pounds, tenth week, 116 pounds. The heavy breeds start out at the same weight but get under way more slowly, being behind the Leghorn chicks until after the twelfth week, when they start to overtake the Leghorns and take on their natural heavy body development which makes them of greatest value for late season marketing.

In case the cockerels are being held for late season marketing instead of for the broiler market, the confinement and fattening ration as mentioned should be disregarded, and regular range and growing ration used as with the pullets you are developing for laying purposes.

SOUTHERN PINE BEETLE DAMAGES THE TIMBER

Montgomery, Ala., July 24—The Southern Pine beetle is responsible for many small patches of dead and dying pine timber found in various parts of the state, according to a statement issued by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Numerous small holes exuding pitch and boring along at the base of the trunks of the infested trees, indicate the presence of this insect. The beetle usually gains a foot hold on an injured or weakened tree, preferring these to healthy trees khich are more resistant.

When there are no logging operations in the vicinity, the causes of the attack can quite frequently be traced to a tree which has been struck by lightening. Fortunately, in such instances the damage usually is confined to only about a dozen trees in the immediate vicinity of the tree originally injured.

Stand of young timber damaged severely by spring fires offer a fertile feeding ground for the insect to start a severe infestation. Usually all the pine timber on such burned area falls victim to the ravages of the pine beetle.

The cutting of pine timber during the summer months results in the attack by this pest. Where the infestation shows a tendency to become widespread effective control measures should be taken. In fact, it may even become necessary to suspend operations during the summer months.

WEAVER SPENT $5.50 AND HE GOT BACK $25.00

Anniston, Ala., July 21.—W. D. Weaver, a three-horse farmer of Jacksonville, Ala., planted 5 acres of vetch in the fall of 1926. He made four bales of cotton on this land, compared with two and a half bales on the same acres the previous year. Mr. Weaver said: "I invested $5.50 and got back $25 increase. In 1927 I planted 15 acres; in 1928, 23 acres and in 1929, 40 acres, rain preventing my planting my goal of fifty acres."

"Vetch has meant a new day for me," says he. "I own 80 acres and it is a red stiff clay hard to work. That is, it used to be before I started with vetch. The farm was regarded as one of the poorest in the cammunity when I bought it several years ago. Everyboy knows how hard red clay land that has no humus in it is to work. I tried several ways of improving the conditions, and fertilizer too, but none gave very good results until I began with vetch. In four years' time vetch has almost trebled my yields of corn, cotton and other crops, and my fertilizer bill has been reduced materially each year."

$1,808 MADE NET PROFIT OF $11,103

Eutaw, Ala., July 22.—$1,808 was ivested in winter legumes in Greene County in 1928 and a net profit of $11,103,09 realized in 1929 from this investent, according to H. C. Appleton, County Agent. Thirteen farmers on 213 acres grew cotton after winter legumes and made 117 bales with a net gain of $21.93 per acre.

WEST CHILTON

We had a good rain here Monday afternoon. Crops are looking very well. Melons are plentiful and are being carried to market freely.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Walrdop visited Mr. S. D. Jones on Mulberry Sunday.

Mr. J. A. Raines of Verbena candidate for Tax Collector was here last week visiting the voters. Those who know Mr. Raines best, say that there is not a finer man in the county.

Mr. Pratt Crumpton made business trips to Birmingham, Bessmer and Fairfield last week.

Walter H. Gillespie candidate for Sheriff was here last week. shaking hands with the voters. Mr. Gillispie is one of the best known candidates and has many friends.

Mr. Frank Merchant of Free Springs visited at Mr. Pratt Crumpton's Sunday.

It is reported that worms are destroying young corn in the neigborhood of Free Springs, just taking it by the acre.

Mrs. Redding and Mrs. Dawson visited at Monroe Crumpton's on Mulberry last week.

Mrs. Lizzie Crumpton visited her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Atchison at Free Springs last week.

Over in West Chilton we have no candidates out for the coming primary. So we have no one to boost. Maybe sometime in the future we will have one of our favorite boys before you. We will expect your help.

The other precincts have their candidates out and are looking to all of us to help nominate them. Really it is not fair to consider the loyalty of the people in beats that have not had official representation in a long time if ever. Yes, they are entitled to considerattion. By thus doing help each other and add to the strength of the party. Consider the loyal people as well as the candidate. Would it not be ideal to have the northern, southern western and eastern parts of the county all officially represented after the elections? Thus distributing the pie all around.

Alfred Mims and Mr. Baker were here last week rounding up the voters. Mr. Mims is a true gentleman and Mr. Baker has a good reputation.

MOUNTAIN CREEK, ALABAMA

In answer to the many letters in last week's Union-Banner concerning my forecast of the coming primary, please be advised that I made this forecast without being requested to do so by any candidate.

This forecast was made and given out only as a news item. It was not our purpose to do any candidate any good or any harm.

I am indeed sorry that some seemed to think that it was written for the purpose of doing harm to some of the candidates.

I expect to support the nominee for each of the offices. With best wishes, I am,

Yours very truly,
CHAS. COOPER.

B. G. JOHNSON WRITES FOR O. H. McDOWELL

Editor Union-Banner:

We have several good candidates this time to elect from. Every body is thinking who will be the best man to vote for. I have for my choice O. H. McDowell, who is in the race for member County Board of Education. Our children are very dear to us, and let's give them the best training possible.

In my opinion the County Board has lots to do with the training of our boys and girls, and giving them what is rightfully theirs in the course of education.

Mr. McDowell moved into my community after he was discharged from the army and has been a trustee of our school almost ever since. He has taught school. He worked for Mr. J. N. Dennis at his gin for several years, and I have always found him ready and willing to serve the public honest and fair. He has been succesful in every thing he has undertaken in life, and I know him to be well qualified for the office he is asking for.

I feel sure he will conduct it in a manner that the voters will be pleased with, and the children get benefits from his work as a Board member if nominated and elected.

He is in favor of every movement that would in any way help to make our schools better. Voters if I know any thing about our needs, we need good schools. Yours sincerely,

B. G. JOHNSON.

CONCERT AT COOSA RIVER CHURCH NIGHT OF AUGUST 6

There will be a musical concert at Coosa River Church in Elmore County near Deatsville, Wednesday night, August 6th. This is the close of the singing school now being taught at this place by Prof. H. C. Collins, which when finished will have run 21 days.

Prof. Collins extends a cordial invitation to his friends in this county to attend this concert.

In the old days the farmers seemed to think that the money out in the west all went to Wall Street. Now Wall Street is wondering where it is going.

SINGING SCHOOL AT BLOW GRAVEYARD BEGINS 28TH

A singing school taught by Porf. Ammie Boswell of Coopers will begin at Blow Graveyard, sometimes known as Pleasant Hill, Monday of next week, July 28th. Prof. Boswell urges all to enter and enroll the first day, and he hopes for the support of the people of the community.

NEWS FROM SHILOH

Our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday School are progressing nicely, but there is still room for improvement.

Last Sunday was our regular singing afternoon; we met with a small crowd and did some good singing.

Singing was opened with the chairman singing two songs, followed with prayer. Directors were: F. I. Popwell, Clarence Billingsley, Misses Ella Mae Williams, Ethel, Etta, Agnes and Myrtle Mullins, Eula Nelson. Organists for the afternoon were the Misses Minnie Bice, Elmae Williams, Mr. and Mrs Clarence Billingsley and F. I. Popwell.

Mr. Barney Isbell of Columbiana spent the week end with Chester Wingard.

FROM REFUGE

Editor Union-Banner:

Just a few lines in regard to the singing held here Sunday evening. It was one of the best ever had here. Directors were: J. E. Miner, S. L. Baker, Marion Easterling, S. V. Miller, Chester Wyatt, W. L. Mims, R. E. Powell, and Floyd Little. Opening prayer was led by H. F. McCary. Pianists were: Miss Lillie Mae Weldan, Mrs. Annie Robinson, Marion Easterling.

Also I wish to say that the Lord is giving us a wonderful revival. Bro. Jones is delivering some wonderful messages. Come hear him.—Secy.

The Georgia Court of Appeals, according to the newspapers, has rendered a decision that it is woman's duty to drive from the back seat. Wonder if the court didn't mean to add the word "only."

Mrs. Mabel Williams Woodard left with the Ezells Sunday on her return to North Carolina. She was here last week teaching in the mission institute. While here she visited her brother, Rev. Grady Williams, and other relatives in Chilton County. Mrs. Woodard has been a missionary in China for the past six years.

Famous New Year Parade

The Mummers' New Year parade in Philadelphia was the outcome of New Year celebrations in various parts of the city. As the years rolled on, the individuals formed themselves into social groups and these later became the larger organizations; fantastic costumes were made up of the different marching organizations, and in 1901 Philadelphia was looking about for a proper means to celebrate the dawn of a new century, and, at the suggestion of H. Bart McHugh, Mayor Samuel H. Ashbridge urged upon city councils the passage of an appropriation to make possible a parade in which all of the clubs joined.

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes; children liked its pleasant taste. All drugstores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

"WE" Join With

Firestone

To Bring You Greater Values at Lower Prices

PRICES are low on many good tires, but there is only one "best". The Firestone Company, Firestone Dealers and Service Stores join in reducing distribution costs.

It was not enough for Firestone to originate and apply economies in tire building. Firestone now originates and further applies economies to distribution which reduce our cost and enable us to increase our volume at small profits. . . . We invite you to come in and see the new Firestone Line at these low prices. We not only have tires in all popular sizes, but we have the cross sections so that you may examine the inside construction of the tire, and actually see the advantages of Firestone over other makes. You will be convinced that no such values have ever been offered you before.

LEADERSHIP

Firestone brought out for automobile use:
—The first straight-side tire.
—The first rubber non-skid tread.
—The first commercial demountable rim.
—The first patented Gum-Dipping process.
—The first balloon tire.

PERFORMANCE

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires;
—hold all world's records on road and track for safety, mileage, speed and endurance.
—for eleven consecutive years have won the 500 mile Indianapolis Endurance Race.
—were on the Studebaker car which on a board track at Atlantic City in 1928 went 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes.
—ran 71,351 miles on a Detroit taxicab, before the first tire was replaced.
—were on the G. M. C. truck carrying a two-ton load that hung up the Coast-to-Coast endurance record.
—for 10 years have been sold on a mileage cost basis to taxicab and bus lines in greater volume than any other tires, and now equip the world's largest taxicab fleet and the world's longest bus line.

Jones Hardware Co. Is 28 Years Old

The Business Has Been An Important Part of Clanton's Progress For Quarter of a Century

There are a very few business establishments that have been in Clanton over 25 years. You could perhaps number them on the fingers of one hand.

Twenty-seven years ago Mr. Warren Spigener, who had been conducting a mercantile business in Goodwater, Coosa County, for some years, made up his mind that he would move to another town and go into business. Mr. C. Fenn Jones, a young man who had been "clerking" for Mr. Spigener, said he had a notion that he would go along with his boss and see if he could find greener pastures.

They selected Clanton and came here to start into buiness together. Spigener & Jones Hardware Company was the result of their combined efforts, and it was the first store of its kind in Chilton County. Mr Spigener later retired from the business.

Following the retirement of Mr. Spigener, Mr. Jones had associated with him other partners at different times, until ..... when he assumed complete ownership and control of the business.

When Mr. Jones first came to Clanton, a hardware store then was something new, as were many other business institutions that were springing up. A bank had just been started here, and pepole looked upon it as something entirely new and wonderful.

Compared with such store as those which had been operated in Clanton by Jean Evans and Joe Foshee, people wondered what the new hardware store would be like. They inquired what a hardware store could sell to make a living.

When Mr. Jones came to Clanton he made the trip through hilly country between Goodwater and Clanton with a horse and buggy. When he got here he found a sordid and dingy collection of rickety old wooden buildings, a few piles of crossties, and a muddy cross-roads which was called Clanton. What a wonderful vision it must have required 27 years ago to look through a quarter of a century and picture our city of 1930.

We do not know whether Mr. Jones was able to see through those years or not. Perhaps he was not. But he came here and pitched his tent and begin to dig his foundation for the future, which he faithfully believed would be a sufficient reward for his ideals of life and his plans for conducting an honest business. He had faith in himself and confidence in Clanton and the people who would make Clanton.

Those of us who have been here for 27 years find an interesting contrast in the picture of Mr. Jones's first hardware in the old wooden shanty next to Joe Foshee's (about where The Leader is today) compared with the splendid brick building and well appointed store that stands today on the corner of Sixth Street and Second Avenue.

What is it about a man and a business that makes it possible to start from nothing and within 28 years reach a place in the life of a community comparable to that occupied by the Jones Hardware Company of Clanton?

Beginning in May, 1902, the hardware store in Clanton grew from the very start. It was as good seed sown in fertile ground, watered and cared for with diligence. People began to come in and see what the hardware store had in it. Some predicted success, and some said it would be a failure. Some expressed a friendly attitude toward the new comers. Some looked like it would have pleased them just as well if Spigener and Jones had stayed on the other side of Coosa River.

Any business that can live and prosper and grow in a community for 28 years is certainly built upon something that is worthy of note. Such a something was found by Mr. C. Fenn Jones early in life. He held on to it and brought it here with him. He put it to work in his business, and it has proved to be the most valuable asset in his capital. What was that something?

It was Mr. Jones's own ideals of honesty, integrity, conservatism, and safety applier to the processes of dealing with his fellow man. It was his determination to do right, to sell goods in his store that would give full value to the man who bought the goods, while at the same time making for himself a fair profit.

Such policies as have been practiced by Mr. Jones will last not only for 28 years, but forever. They will never die. And while such principles make successful business men individually, they also make successful and prosperous towns and communities.

We want you to listen to what Mr. Jones says in his modest way about himself and his business:

"I have been here in business for 28 years. I have conducted myself and my business in a way which I believe to be right. I am thankful that I can say I have succeeded fairly well, and I believe the foundation upon which I have builded is good for another quarter of acentury at least.

"I have sold honest merchandise at a reasonable profit to myself, which has made my business able to stand and grow and continue to serve my customers, while others came and stayed for a while and then passed out of the picture.

"I cannot refrain from saying here that the people with whom I have done business have been good to me, and I appreciate them out of the fullness of my heart. I have always found here that the people have been ready to stand by a business concern in the practice of fair dealing and right principles. In my business experience here I have made friendships that will endure in my heart and soul forever. These friendships I count of more value to me than all the money I have ever made.

"I am glad that it has been my privilege to be a citizen of Clanton and Chilton County, as well as to do business here. During that time we have seen Clanton and Chilton County grow into one of the most promising and desirable sections of our great state. I am glad I came to Clanton, and that I have had a part in its progress and development. Our future here is great and unbounded. The next quarter of a century should carry us much further along in the march of progress."

C. FENN JONES

JONES HARDWARE COMPANY

For reasons which were considered sufficient and proper, Mr. Jones preferred not to have Jack Douglas draw a cartoon of him for publication in this feature. Therefore we are using an actual photograph with which to show our subject to our readers this week.

Here he is pictured above. It is just plain C. Fenn Jones, whose chief characteristic is the fact that he is always the same to-day as he was yesterday. People who have been seeing him every day for the last 28 years have been impressed with the smoothness and even temper which he always displays.

Mr. Jones has been in the hardware business here since the year 1902. For 28 years he has been continuously interested, almost every day at his place in the store, selling farm implements, furniture, paint, building material, and everything in the hardware line, to the pepole who trade in Clanton.

He was born in Coosa County, where he lived until he came to Clanton. He came from one of the pioneer families of Coosa, whose name has been prominently connected with affairs of that county since the days before the Civil War.

To know folks and take an interest in them, their joys and sorrows, is one of the delights of Mr. Jones. He has spent much time in getting acquainted with people whom he has come in contact with. In this manner he has made a great number of very intimate and lasting friendships. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity.

The first location of this business (Spigener & Jones) was in one side of an old wooden building about where The Leader now is. From there it was moved into the building now occupied by the grocery department of Clanton Cash Store, next to Marion Gore's. The next and last move was to the building now occupied on the corner of Second Avenue and Sixth Street. Gradual and steady growth made expansion necessary from time to time. A second story was added to the building. The two adjacent buildings were taken in and made a part of the store.

After Mr. Spigener retired from the business Mr. Jones had associated with him a number of other partners, but he finally assumed complete ownership and control. Mr. Eric (Buck) Hart has been an important figure in the business career of the Jones Hardware Company. Mr. Hart, who is now Mayor of Clanton, has been bookkeeper for the business

L. H. Bean Replies To B. Lawrence and J. D. Harrell Letters

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to answer the questions asked by B. Lawrence, and J. D. Harrell. You say I am a knocker to the schools. This is not true, I am 100 per cent for good schools, its the management I do not like. Mr. Lawrence and two or three others will call you a knocker if you stand for the right thing. I have never asked any thing of any of the school officials that Jesus Christ will not ask of them when he comes again. In most all the school matter throughout the county there is two faction, 2 or 3 wants to rule and run every thing. They are not willing to hear the people. They want to ring the bell. In other words, they call themselves the bully of the woods . This will apply to Mr. Lawrence and Mr. J. D. Harrell. They want to lead the way, Mr. Harrell has a boy who is a teacher and this is why he is allowing his name to be used to these letters. I want to tell Mr. Harrell that today you are a stumbling block to your own child. There is a possibility of me being elected a member of the School Board, and if I am your boy will have to deal with me. How will he feel and how will I feel when he comes walking in. The boy will be speechless, and all this dirty work you are doing will be fresh on my mind, and you, Mr. Harrel, as a citizen and a father ought to be careful. If I am successful in this race my term will be six years. I will be there when the other boys are gone, and I am going to let you reap just what you sow.

There appeared two letters in last week's paper. One signed B. Lawrence and the other J. D. Harrell. I am of the opinion, and every body I talk to seems to think that B. Lawrence is the daddy of both letters, as he and Mr. Harrell were together on Monday of that week. By their request I shall endeavor to explain to the boys why all the property is in my wife's name, so they can see that it is fair and nothing wrong at all. It was straight business. Over two years ago I had to have an operation which was serious. Dr. Blue of Montgomery and a lawyer advised me before I went to the operating table to fix my business so the courts and lawyers could not rob my wife and babies in case of death. This is why all the property is in my wifes name. When this was done I did not owe a penny to any body.

Yes, there is a fifty-two dollar judgment against me, but it is unjust. If it had been a just debt it would not have gone to court. Paying my just debts is part of my religion. Now, Mr. Harrell, I want you to answer a few questions. While you were looking up the records on my case did you find the records satisfied where you went on Junior Busby's bond in a whiskey case with the intention of him to escape telling the people about this and then tell them about you going to Squire Arledges next day and making all your property to your wife to beat this bond so the Sheriff could not make any levy to collect this bond and it is unpaid till this day. Now in this case, which one is the most honorable deed. I am going to let you say. Now Jim if you don't mind Lawrence will let the people of this county learn about your business.

The citizens of Providence Church tell me that you have never in your life carried out any dinner to help them when they had all-day singings. So why do you want to get on me? They further tell me that you and your wife and son were the only three in Beat 13 that voted for the One Mill Tax and that is why Mr. Lawrence is sticking to you I guess. Now I have always stood for every good school issue. I have always put up my part of the cash. I have never been a slacker in a good movement. It is true I fought the special and one mill tax, and I won out three times on the one mill tax. I think this will put stars in my crown with all the good people of this county.

You said the Sunday of the all-day singing at Jemison I absolutely refused to help feed the people. This is not true. My wife prepared dinner and I invited some of my friends to eat dinner with me, at home. My doors were wide open to all. At least 90 per cent of the people of Jemison did not spread dinner on the ground, but their homes were open and they were willing to help do their part. You state in your letter that I tried to get the women of Jemison to put up a cold drink stand to help raise money to feed the people. This is a lie. I never mentioned a cold drink stand to no body. In fact it never crossed my mind. But if I had it would have been enjoyed by every body on the ground, as the day was extremely hot. As for me having anything against the Board I have not and I never mentioned them in my controversy. It is you trying to injeca them into this but you can't do it.

Now, Bro. Lawrence you want to lead the people to believe you are a saint and always stand for the right thing. I am going to ask you to demonstrate this to the people of Chilton County. Your trustees of this place tell me that they are not any more than a knot on a log. That you tend to all this business of that nature. They have made these remarks in crowds. Now if the burden is on your shoulders, you say that you do not want to have any controversy through the papers, I am going to ask you to come to Jemison, get your trustees and get the school books and show us just how much incidental fees you have collected at this school last term and show what you spent it for. Also show us how much of this incidental fee you have paid on that big note signed by fifteen men. I have seen this note. I had it in my hands. and one of the signers told me about it. So come let's get together and treat each other right, be clean and honest. Just show us the true facts in this case and you and I will bury the hatchet, and if I have wrongly accused any one will apoligize to them with the greatest of pleasure.

About the only difference in yon and me is you always want to tax the poor people to death, and I will not let you. You had just as well junk your lod tax wagon for it is out of date. We are going to change the model on August 12th, 1930.

Let me know two or three days before you come up so I can have out a good many of the patrons to hear your report.

Bro. Lawrence I have met and talked with a great number of people and I want to tell you with the information I am getting you certainly stand bad with a great number of people in this county, and this is hurting our schools. You ought not to be a stumbling block to our children and our schools. And if you can't redeem your self with them you ought to get down and out.

Now you are trying to leave the impression on the people of this county that I am a bad man and that it will never do for me to be a member of the Board. You have called me a stumbling block to my own community and schools, you have not got any respect for me, you seem to want to heap up coals of fire on my back, and I want you to understand now I will feed you out of the same spoon. Now I want you to talk to the people in this county. I have answered your questions. Now answer mine. Tell the people how come a certain man in Jemison to have affidavits made against you and you crawfished on every thing. You called on your Bro. Masons to help you. I was a member of the city council here one time when some money was misplaced that belonged to two lady teachers and you come before the Board and asked that we make it good out of the city tax money which we did. Now just tell the people in a nice way what you know about this matter. Just tell us how come this money short.

Now what I have said has been with a good spirit and no ill feelings toward any one. I only offer this to you as good advice when politics don't concern you, you had better let it alone.

Yours for better schools,
L. H. BEAN.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE

WILL PREACH AT THORSBY

REV. F. M. BARNES

Rev. F. M. Barnes of Montgomery, pastor of the Clayton Street Baptist church, will preach in a revival at Thorsby Baptist church, beginning Sunday, July 27th, and continuing for ten days. Mr. Ralph Grant of Coopers will do the singing for the revival, the first to be held in the new Baptist church at Thorsby.

PASTOR AT THORSBY

REV. J. W. JONES

Under the pastorate of Rev. J. W. Jones, Thorsby Baptist church has for the past two years made wonderful progress. During this time a magnificent $12,000 church has been erected, to the credit of the people of Thorsby and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Smith and children and Mr. and Mrs. Flem Higgins and Flem, Jr., and Mr. Billie Smith, were visitors to Tuscaloosa last Sunday.

It will be of interest to Chilton County friends to know that Dr. Will Wilson of the T. C. I. hospital, dental department, left on Monday afternoon for Dallas, Texas, to attend a deltal convention. After the conclusion of the convention Dr. Wilson has planned to visit Colorado Springs, Yellowstone Park, Denver and Chicago. Dr. Wilson will be absent from his home for three weeks.

MRS. S. E. DUKE DIED JUNE 15

Mrs. S. E. Duke, age 75 years, died at her home in the Gowan Addition, Clanton, on June 15. She was the wife of C. L. Duke, who has been dead about 16 years. Mrs. Duke lived here with her daughter, Miss Ina Duke, since they came to Clanton from the old home in Coosa County about four years ago.

Surviving her are five sons: S. T. Duke, of Bowling Green, Fla.; W. C. Duke, of Marbury; J. J. and J. H. Duke, of Elmore County; Oliver Duke, of Liberty Hill Community, Chilton County. One son, J. B. Duke, was accidentally killed in Coosa County in 1918.

There are three daughters, Mrs. W. E. Blankenship, of Calera; Mrs. A. B. Blalock, of Marble Valley; Miss Ina Duke, of Clanton.

One sister, Mrs. M. L. Hall, of Clanton; three brothers, M. J., M. M. and Thomas Dozier; half brother, Ezra McIntish, of Birmingham.

The funeral was conducted at the home, by Rev. S. J. Ezell, after which Martin took charge and carried the body to the old Duke cemetery, near Marble Valley, for burial. The maiden name of the deceased was Miss Samantha Dozier.

The Duke and Dozier families have occupied a prominent place in the past history of Coosa County. Many of them have come to Chilton County.

CHILTON W. M. U. MEETS

The Quarterly Meeting of Chilton W. M. U. will meet with Mulberry church on Friday of this week, July 25th. On account of sickness the writer was unable to write the program, but we hope to have a good program and a large attendance.—Mrs. W. H. Raybon, sec'y.

Says Dangerous to Nominate One who Bolted

TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

I see in The Union-Banner that Mr. Chas Cooper has been writing in the interest of Mr. Walter Gillespie, for Sheriff of this county.

In the first place I want to say that I have always voted a straignht Republican ticket and have done all that I could from time to time for the Republican party in this county.

Therefore, being a Republican I am at a loss to understand how any straight Republican can support Walter Gillespie, after he has made the following affidavit:

State of Alabama, Chilton County:

Before me, J. Z. Mims, clerk of the Circuit Court in and for said County in said State, personally appeared W. H. Gillespie, who being duly sworn, deposes and says that he supported and voted the Republican ticket in the last general election in November, 1928, except for the office of Probate Judge and Commissioner for the 4th District of Chilton County, Alabama.—W. H. Gillespie.

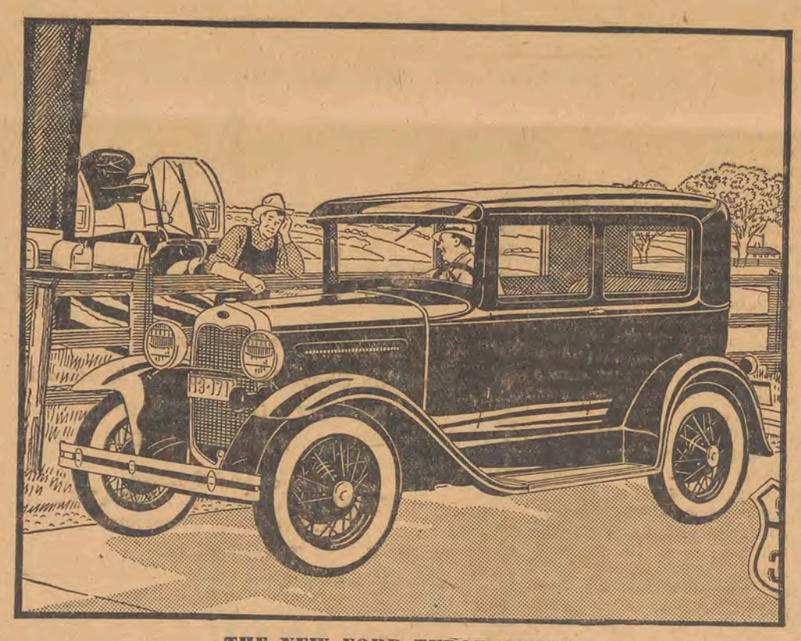
Sworn to and subscribed before me, this the 17th day of March, 1930.—J. Z. Mims, Clerk Circuit Court.

The above affidavit was published in The Union-Banner May 15th, 1930, and the original is now on file with Mr. J. N. Dennis, Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee, and anyone can see it for themselves.

I want to ask the Republicans of this county if they remember us electing Mr. L. B. Pounds in 1908, when we knew that he was not as loyal as he should be, and what was the result? At the crucial moment he knifed the Republican party and helped bring about a defeat in 1910.

Can we afford to elect a man, as a Republican, that states under oath that he did not vote the entire ticket two years ago? Mr. Gillespie was holding an office, as a Republican, then, and was untrue to the party that was feeding him. Can we expect him to be true to the party if we should elect him Sheriff? Why should we expect him to be any truer holding one Republican office than when holding another?

Should he be elected Sheriff he will help appoint the election officers in this County for the next four years. Would he appoint Republicans or Democrats? Which party would he favor? In 1928 he favoerd the Democratic party, and all we have to go by in judging his future actions is his past.



In writing this letter I am not advocating the election or nomination of any one man. I am interested in the Republican party more than in any one man. Therefore, I believe that we will be taking a long step towards turning the Republican party over to the Democrats should we elect Walter Gillespie Sheriff.

I hope that every Republican in this county will carefully consider these facts and remember that the Democrats have been working and are still working every trick in their power to capture this county and I trust that the Republicans will only nominate men who have been true to the party and in this way, and this way only, can we hope to maintain a Republican party in this county.

J. E. DORMINEY, Jemison, R 1.

RELIABILITY ECONOMY GOOD PERFORMANCE

THE NEW FORD TUDOR SEDAN

YOU are buying proved performance when you buy a Ford. You know it has been built for many thousands of miles of satisfactory, economical service.

Letters from users in every part of the world show the value of the sound design of the car, good materials and accuracy in manufacturing. You sense a feeling of sincere pride in the oft-repeated phrase—"Let me tell you what my new Ford did."

Further tribute to the sturdiness, reliability and general all-round performance of the new Ford is shown in the repeated and growing purchases by government bureaus, by police departments, and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most cases, the new Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests covering speed and power, safety, comfort, ease of control, oil and gas consumption, low yearly depreciation, and low cost of up-keep.

They have found, as you will find, that the Ford embodies every feature you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

L. H. Reynolds Writes About Resolution, Etc.

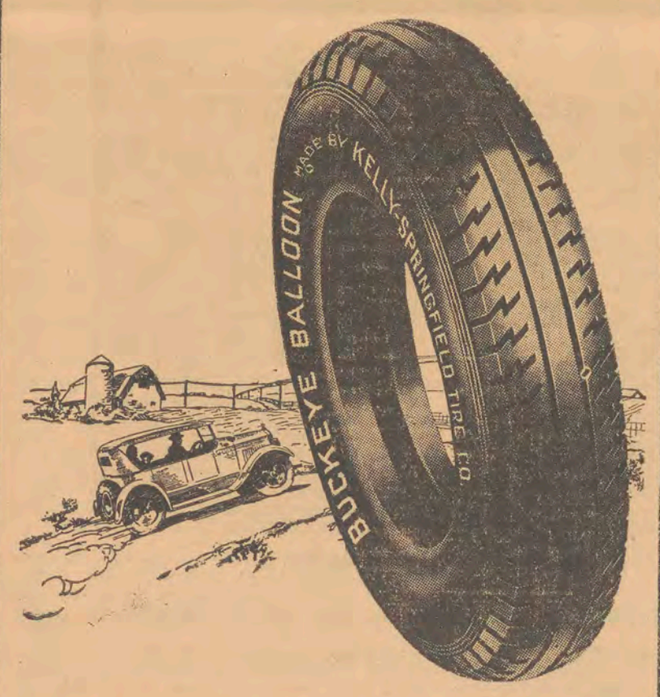
Clanton, Ala., July 22, 1930.
Editor Union-Banner:

Some days ago Mr. J. H. Martin asked several of us to explain the Lott case through your paper. I think your explanation was full and explained what it was all about.

I wrote this resolution and presented it to the Republican County Executive Committee, with a full knowledge of the meaning of it. We are going into a Republican primary to pick out candidates to put up against the Democratic nominees this fall. The voters have a right to know the politics of all candidates, and if they do not know what the politics of the candidates are, how can any voter vote intelligently? How do we know the politics of any voter? I have always judged anyone's politics by the way they voted in the general elections, not in primaries. What help is it to the Republican party to have a big vote in the primary, then the voters go to some other party and vote in the general election? Why have we got a Republican party today? Suppose we had all scratched the Republican ticket at the same election? Would we have a party today to run in? No; if a majority of the Republican voters had scratched like some did, we would now have Democratic officials, and the independent fellow that votes as he pleases deserves no credit for us having a party in this county. We owe it to the true and tried that have stood by our party all these years. You can stan by and hear the big politicians—those that talk the loudest and give the strongest advice to the Republican, telling what they ought to do and who they ought to nominate, and if you will pull back the curtain and look at the real man with the cover off, you will find that most of them was out at night two years ago working for the election of the Democratic ticket. You can judge what the consideration was.

Republicans, we know how all candidates voted in the last election, or at least, we know how they swore they voted. All said that they voted a straight Republican ticket except one, and if you want to nominate men that have been pretending to be Republicans and voting the Democratic ticket, that it your privilege. If you want to trust the leadership of your party in the hands of officers that believe this is the way to keep the Republican party going, you have the right and the responsibility is on you.

I will give you my idea of what it requires to keep your party in power in the future: Keep it in the hands of true Republicans, men and women that you can count on—not in the primary but in the general election. What did it benefit the Republican party in 1928 to have 2,800 votes in the primary then 400 of them voted the Democratic ticket in the general election? Now, some of the some crowd that tried to tear your political house down then now want to come in and take a front seat and take charge of the party.



My friends, (and I feel that I can call the Republican voters my friends), thirty-eight years ago I began to take a leading interest in the affairs of our people. I have been in the front ranks all this time. I have defended the party all these years. I have never got sore, but have always spoke out in the meetings. I have traveled many miles over your county trying to help you, at my own expense, and in thirty-eight years I have spent quite a little sum. I have never taken any help from anyone. I have helped my party when I thought it needed my help. I have always voted the Republican ticket and I have never scratched a single nominee. I can say to you that the Republicans who have voted straight deserve the credit for us having a party in this county today. The fellow who runs away when it suits him and joins the enemy deserves no credit for us having a party.

Every court of our State says the Republican voters have a right to know how their candidates voted, and by this they know what their politics is. It is up to you voters. Go to the polls, vote as you please, and then when the party has spoken stand by it in November and elect your ticket.

I have observed politics here as closely as anyone for the last thirty-eight years, and I say to you that we have never had any serious political trouble except that it came from within our party. Look back, voters, and tell us what trouble we have had except from some pretended Republican who was not true to us.

Do not forget that on August 12 your most important duty is to cast your vote for the Republican party rather than for the interest of any candidate. Your party should be first in your mind.

Yours very truly,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

A Good Tire at a Money-Saving Price

Built by Kelly-Springfield, branded with the Kelly name and guaranteed, like all Kelly tires, for the life of the tire—that's the Kelly-made Buckeye.

Buckeyes are full size, full ply and substantially built from start to finish. Buckeyes are not skimped to sell at a price; they are generously proportioned, have a full thickness of tread rubber and all four inch sizes are six plies—most other tires at the same price use only four or at least, five plies in these sizes.

It's not worth the time to shop around for tires when you can buy Buckeyes so reasonably and so handily—we can save you money. Come in and take a look at the Buckeye—its appearance alone will convince you.

MADDOX ASKS RE-ELECTION ON RECORD AS COMMISSIONER

Clanton, Ala., July 22.
Voters of Chilton County:

As the Republican primary is drawing near, I would like briefly to state to the voters some of the reasons why I am asking for your nomination on August 12th.

I will have served four years as commissioner when my present term expires, and this is the only office that I have ever held. As has been said by some of the voters writing in The Union-Banner, it is customary to at least give a man two terms as long as he is making an efficient and faithful officer. As is well known, the office of County Commissioner pays very little and this is certainly more reason why a man should at least serve the second term. During the four years that I have held office as County Commissioner the county has reduced its debt of about $200,000.00 to $110,000.00. In other words, the county's total indebtedness has been practically cut in half, and I believe that I can assure the people of Chilton County and the Republican party that if I am given an opportunity to serve another term as your county commissioner that this indebtedness will be completely wiped out. I might say also that notwithstanding we have been paying upon the county's indebtedness, at the same time we have been improving all the public roads of our county and we have been investing in improved road machinery and are using modern methods that are now being used by the leading counties of Alabama.

Whenever possible we have been widening and shaping the roads and graveling the worst parts, and I might state here that it has been my policy and that of the County to try to improve all the roads of the county to every man's door, and not build special and favorite highways. I would like also to call the attention of the voters to the fact that the records of the Commissioners Court were recently examined and was given the highest praise by the examiner. This examiner stated that Chilton county wos one of the few counties where he found all bills porperly itemized, sworn to, filed and paid as provided by law, and he had no criticism whatever to make of the actions of the Commissioners Court.

I, as a member of the Commissioners Court, have tried to work in harmony with all the people, and have stood for progressiveness in roads, schools, and the workings of the entire county, however, not forgetting to be economical and save the county's money in all its affairs. And as stated above, I believe if given a second term as your Commissioner, that we can have the entire indebtedness of the County wiped out and will leave a system of roads second to no county in Alabama.

As to my politics, I think it is unnecessary to state that I have always been a Republican and have always supported and worked for the ticket, and I might state here that whether you see fit to nominate me again in the coming primary that in the November election you will find me as usual, fighting for my party.

Yours very truly,
T. A. MADDOX.

COUNTY HONORED AT FLORENCE TEACHER COL.

Florence, Ala., July 18.—Miss Elizabeth Hubbard of Verbena represented Chilton County when the Florence Service Clubs entertained recently with a luncheon honoring the various county organizations on the Florence State Teachers College campus.

Miss Hubbard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hubbard and is a graduate of the Verbena High School.

Forty-six Alabama counties and five states are represented in the Summer school enrollment.

FORD MAKES 26.6 MILES TO THE GALLON OF GASOLINE

The editor of The Union-Banner was invited to "keep score" on a Ford car that was being tested for gasoline mileage Tuesday morning. The gasoline tank was disconnected, and a can attached to the car with a pipe leading to the carburetor. One-half gallon of gasoline was put into the can and we started out down the highway.

When she quit we were just beyond the bridge over the railroad at Mountain Creek, a distance of 13.3 miles from where we started. At this rate we estimated that the Ford will do 26.6 miles on a gallon.

The car was driven by Grady Bates of Clanton Motors, local Ford Dealers. It was a 1929 Model A Ford that has been run 10,000 miles without having a single lick of work done on the motor.

Mr. Howard Parrish, who for some time has been working with his brother here in the produce business left Monday to make his home in Birmingham.

Wallace Mims of East Pennsylvania, is here on a visit to his father, Harve L. Mims. He is accompanied by a friend, Mr. Musselman. Since leaving Clanton a few years ago, Wallace has had a long period of service with the United States Marines in Nicaragua and other stations.

Mrs. W. M. Wyatt and Mrs. T. E. Wyatt were in Montgomery Tuesday afternoon. They were accompanied by Mrs. Annie Armstrang, Mrs. Bessie Armstrong and Eugenia Wyatt.

Swept 12 Years Troubles Away

"For 12 years my condition was run down and was so nervous that a good night's sleep was out of the question. I suffered with indigestion, was badly constipated, and there were such pains in my back and left side I couldn't lie on them. Sargon built me up and strengthened me from head to foot and every ailment I had has completely disappeared.

MRS. J. W. CHAPPELL

"Sargon pills don't give temporary relief only, but their results have proved lasting—they completely relieved me of the terrible affliction without the last nausa or upsetting." —Mrs. J. W. Chappell, 2323 21st Ave., N., Birmingham.

SARDIS NEWS

Our singing society was called to order at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the chairman, R. W. Kendrick, who opened the singing by singing that well known hymn, "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms." After prayer the committee of arrangement made a program of directors who were asked to sing 2 songs each. Following is a list of those who took part in the singing:

G. B. Williams, Claude Traywick, Prof. J. W. Lowery, Prof. Mack Durbin, Mr. Harlom Littltjohn, and Mr. Houston Melton. The organists were Miss Gertie Lee Lowery and Prof. George Anderson.

After the directors had finished the program the president sang that well known hymn, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus say," after which the society was dismissed to meet with Pilgrims Rest the first Sunday afternoon in August. The society meets the first Sunday afternoon of each month at Pilgrims Rest, and the third Sunday afternoon at Sardis, we cordially invite the public to attend our singings. There was a large crowd of visitors from other communities present. Every one enjoyed the singing very much.

I also wish to announce that the singing school at Sardis began Monday morning, July 21st. Prof. J. W. Lowery of Clanton, Ala., is the teacher. Prof. Lowery insists that all who are desirous to learn to sing will attend this school. He hopes to make it the best school of its kind ever taught at Sardis.

The B. Y. P. U. of Sardis met Sunday night with a large audience present. The program was, "Baptism." Every one on the program rendered their part real well. It is remarkable how much interest the young people of this community are taking in the Master's work. It gives the writer real pleasure to report their work through the county papers. The writer also knows the editors are too glad to publish all good work done by young people.

Mrs. J. D. Griffin of Mulberry met with the boys of Sardis Sunday and organized a charter Royal Ambassador chapter. The chapter was organized with an enrollment of 17 members.

As has already been mentioned the public has cordial invitation to Sardis to help us out in any way you can, we need your help.

Say Jack, this old typewriter was hungry to write up a bit from Sardis, so it is asking you to give way and publish what it has packed away on this sheet of paper.—George Anderson.

Miss Emma Lou Bass of Birmingham is visiting Miss Mary Ellis. Miss Bass is a daughter of Rev. H. G. Bass and a student at Judson College, where she was room-mate with Miss Ellis.

Austin Mims returns to his post of duty with the U. S. Marines at Quantico, Va., this week, after a visit of several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harve L. Mims and other relatives. He has been with the Marines five years, and has 15 months more of his present term of enlistment. He has seen service in Nicaragua and different places.

Mr. J. D. Evans, connected with the firm of Gray and Wilmerding of Winston-Salem, N. C., will arrive some this week to spend his vacation in Clanton.

FROM J. P. BEAN

To the voters of Chilton County:

I take this means of expressing my appreciation for your support and influence in nominating and electing me a member of the Board of County Commissioners of Chilton County.

My interest and affiliation has always been with the Republican party. I have tried to the best of my ability to show my appreciation by the effort to discharge my whole duty.

In asking you for re-election to this office, I feel that with three and one-half years experience that I have had, enables me to serve you more efficiently another term.

By reviewing my past record you will find that I have always been in favor of upbuilding in every honorable way possible. When I went into office I found the task much larger than I expected. Since that time the duty has increased greatly.

I am asking your support with the full assurance that I will give the very best service possible.

I believe in an equal distribution of the County funds. I believe in accomodating every home in the district with roads, when practical. I believe in spending the County funds with home people. I believe in the "Pay as you go" plan. I believe in graveling roads as much as possible, thereby reducing machine work.

I admit that I have made mistakes but try to profit by them in that I try to avoid making the same ones again.

Will say that I cannot make a thorough canvass of all the County, as I hoped to, on account of the rush in road graveling and other duties. But, as I ask you to give me your very careful consideration, remembering that I have had only one term of office.

Just a ward to the ones who naturally want to criticize the Commissioners Court. Why not try to turn the sheet over and look at the improvements that have been made. It is needless for me to discuss these, but they are before you to see for yourself.

Thanking you again for your former help, your vote, influence, and criticism. My case is before you, so please give me your consideration, which I assure you will be greatly appreciated. I do not want to blow my own horn, but ask you to inquire of me and my work in the First District.

Yours very sincerely,
J. P. BEAN.

MRS. TURNER IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. J. T. Turner , of the Littlejohn settlement, was carried to the Woodlawn Hospital by Martin's ambulance Tuesday afternoon. She underwent an operation immediately upon arrival at the Hospital, and the the report came back here that her condition was very serious.

EASTVIEW NEWS

The revival meeting closed here last Friday night, which proved to be a big success. It was attended by large congregations; it was a union meeting, all denominations taking a part in the service. The prayer of our Saviors "that we all may be one" was answered in these services.—John 17:21. There were 12 added to the church during these services. The people wanted the meeting to run longer, but the pastor and Rev. Dopson had to leave Saturday to begin a revival at Mt. Springs church, six miles east of Clanton. At this meeting we learn the revival is going fine, being well attended and some additions to the church.

Mrs. Maggie Teel and daughter, Miss Ruth of Clanton were visiting here Sunday evening.

Mrs. Claudie Dopson, Mrs. Lois Wade and Mrs. Gillard of Eclectic were visiting friends here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson, Mr. Ellis Johnson and family, Rev. and Mrs. George Watson, Mr. J. Y. McWhorter, Mrs. Maggie Calamory, Mrs. Ada Johnson and Mr. Smith Luster, all of Mt. Creek, attended the revival here last week.

Mrs. Hiram Taylor and children of Montgomery were visiting friends and relatives here last week.

Come to Sunday school here next Sunday; we have an evergreen Sunday school with 78 on roll. This Sunday school has been a recruiting station for the church for in its teaching they learn more about the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

There will be prayer meeting here next Sunday at 7:30 p.m. You are invited to attend and take part in the service.

The singing school will begin here the first Monday in August, and run three weeks. Prof. J. M. Williams will teach the school. Be sure to attend; you will be welcome.

PLAY AT THORSBY JULY 26TH

Don't fail to see "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick," Saturday night, July 26th, at Thorsby Public School.

Now if you like good comedies, you'll want to see this one; curtain at 8 o'clock. Admission 15c and 25c porceeds to go for benefit of Salem church.

MACEDONIA CEMETERY

There will be another working at Macedonia cemetery, Beat 11, on Friday, August 1st. There are several graves needing rounding up, as they are badly sunken. Bring wheel barrows, pitchforks, etc., and other tools to work with.—Virgil Smith.

J. R. COST WRITES ON COUNTY POLITICS AND OTHER THINGS

Clanton, Ala., July 21, 1930.
Editor Union-Banner:

This is the first time that I have attempted to write, but I would like to express myself regarding the coming primary election. So far, it has been as clean a campaign as I ever saw. I have not heard any candidates slinging mud at his opponent, and we would like for it to continue the same.

The election is drawing near and we might look for something to come out yet. I have heard some little rumor in regard to J. M. Willis's past life; and I suppose that if we all would look back at our own lives we would find some mistakes. He does not deny the mistakes he has made.

Let us look at the 55th chapter of Iraiah, we find that he said: "Tho your sins be as scarlet they would be white like snow; though they be red like crimson they would be as wool." So, let us all have a forgiving spirit. So if we just can't get around harping on the past record of J. M. Willis, we will be compelled to take up the record of his opponents' life, for I am sure that Mr. Willis is not the only man who has drunk a dram or that has been under the influence of whiskey.

In 1927 Mr. Willis applied for a job with the convict department, and I would like for every voter in the county to see his reccommendation and see who it was that signed it, and if you would like to see it, Mr. Willis can show you. I will close for this time.—J. R. Cost, Clanton, Ala., Route 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Callen returned the first of this week from a visit in North Carolina. Their visit was cut short, Mr. Callen being called back home on account of urgent business matters.

A new coat of paint was put on the Clanton depot the first of this week. Painters used spray guns to do the work, and it didn't take but a little while to smear it on.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Smith of Wetumpka were in Clanton Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roper of the Alabama Power Company, Tallassee, were visiting friends at Mitchell Dam last Sunday.

Quite a number of people from Chilton County attended the singing at Liberty in Autauga county last Sunday.

Mr. Clarence K. Evans, of Corinth, Mississippi, spent the past week-end with his mother, Mrs. Gene Evans.

Mr. Julian Evans of Atlanta, Ga., connected with the brokerage firm of Gray and Wilmerding arrived Saturday night to spend two weeks with his mother, Mrs. G. T. Evans.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:
Circuit Court in Equity:

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Omar L. Reynolds that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that his place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the county of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said M. W. Castleberry to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 10th day of August, 1930, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.

Done at office in Clanton, this 3rd day of July, 1930.

THE TRAFFIC AND SUGAR PRICES

One of the most severely criticized changes in the new tariff law is the slightly increased tariff on sugar and all sorts of dire predictions have been made as to the effect of this tariff, despite the fact that sugar is cheaper today than it has been in this country, and lower than it was when sugar was on the free list.

During the World War sugar production was encouraged in Cuba to the point that after the war it became a glut on the market. New York banks made huge investments in Cuban sugar plantations which have suffered heavily in value because of the depressed sugar prices.

The beet sugar and cane sugar industry is one of considerable importance in the United States, furnishing employment to thousands of farmers and wage earners at wages far above those prevailing in Cuba. It is not desirable that we should be dependent entirely on foreign sources for sugar. Because of the great over-production in Cuba the competition from this source has become such that the American sugar industry could scarcely survive long competition under existing conditions. For that reason a slight increase in the tariff was deemed necessary.

Cuba has a preference of twenty per cent in the tariff over other sugar exporting nations, so that all our needs for sugar above the amount of domestic production is bought from that quarter. Because of our large purchases of sugar and other commodities in Cuba there is a larve balance of trade against us in our Cuban transactions. Hence it cannot be claimed that we are dealing unfairly with Cuba in making a slight increase in the triff. The new tariff has been in effect for some weeks, and sugar is still cheaper than we have ever known it.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Mouthpieces of the international bandkers and industrialists frequently repeat the statement that the prosperity of the United States is "dependent upon our foreign trade." To an extent that is true, but to an even greater extent it is dependent upon our domestic trade, and since our domestic trade is nine times our foreign trade, the ratio of importance of the two elements is as nine to one. Therefore the proposal that our foreign trade be promoted at the expense of our domestic production is irrational.

So long as we have hundreds of thousands of men unemployed in American industry because it is unable to meet the competition of cheap labor products from abroad, it is clear that we have neglected opportunities at home for increase of trade much nearer and more definite than the vague prospects of increasing our foreign purchases, thus displacing more of the product of American industry. An employed American wage earner is worth more as a trade prospect than a dozen wage earners in Japan, Belgium or Czechoslovikai, first, because he is able to buy comforts and luxuries as well as necessities and the foreign workman is living near the starvation border; second, the home wage earner as a customer is a bird in the hand while the foreign customer is one in the bush.

It is natural that the international banker who makes his earnings as a toll-taker in commerce, finds better opportunities for profit in foreign than in home commercial tranactions, and it is natural also that the mouthpieces of these international financiers should talk soulfully about our duty to the world, our obligation to be unselfish in our relationships with other nations, and the beauty of sacrifice in opening our standards of wages and living to free and destructive competition of foreign lands. It is natural, too, that the American international industrialists who have two thousand manufacturing plnats abroad in cheap labor markets, and the bankers who have made huge foreign loans and bought vast quantities of foreign securities, should wish to have their investments made good at the expense of the American people. It it natural that they should keep gonig a tremendous propaganda trying to persuade the American people to impoverish themselves to enrich foreigners and enable our international industrialists to earn profits on the operation of factories in which foreign cheap labor is exploited. And it is perhaps not surprusing that many Americans have fallen for this clever propaganda.

Within the past few years American capital, efficiency methods and machinery have added to cheap labor in foreign lands large scale production which has made competition between American and foreign wage and living standards more deadly than ever before. It is this change in conditions which made necessary an upward revision of tariffs. Critics of the new tariff do not attempt to point out items in which the new tariffs imposed more than represent the difference in wage scales at home and abroad—they content themselves with wild outcry consisting entirely of meaningless generalities.

The western farmers and the independent industrialists and merchandisers of the country may well wonder, when it is revealed that the international bankers and industrialists are so unanimously against the tariff and Wall Street and its orgns are a unit against the new measure, whether they are in company which intends them any good. The world-wide hullabaloo against the new tariff law has been bought and paid for by the international financial interests which are on the job of trying to bring wage and living standards throughout the world to a common level which for the American farmer and wage earner means a lower level. "The removal of trade barriers," and the "creation of equality of economic opportunity among nations" was the joker in the League of Nations covenant, which accounts for the tremendous pressure brought upon the American people to involve them in the European economic and political system. Having failed in putting the League over, the same internationalist elements have been trying to accomplish their purpose through economic processes. The unprecedentedly bitter fight on any increase in tariff rates was only one phase of this struggle.

DECATUR'S SWORD

A great-nephew of Commodore Decatur, just deceased, has devised to the United States Naval Academy a sword that was presented by the city of Philadelphia to the famous American naval officer.

The brave, romantic and genius-endowed Decatur remains one of the most attractively striking characters in the history of the nation. His sword very literally carved a new avenue for the onward march of Christian civilization, giving to the United States a sea prestige which struck terror to its foes and stirred the envy and anxious thought of England and other sea powers.

Decatur's famed toast: "My country, may she always be right; but, right or wrong, my country!" has stirred the soul of patriotism through all the years since his day. It has been criticized by moral controversalists, but its essence too deeply is implanted in the American heart ever to be dimmed to lesser luster, for it was born a very passion of partriotic devotion—as though one had said: "My family, may it always be right; but, right or wrong, my family."

Far better and nobler is the spirit, and implied intent, incorporate in the great sea captain's immortal declaration than the saccharine silliness of many modern pacifist slogans, which would transmute it to mean something like: "My country, may I be permitted to serve and defend her, if Europe and the rest of the world be willing that I should do so!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

BACK ON THE SEAS

At the present time the ocean-going American merchant fleet employed in established lines in foreign and non-contiguous trades consists of 671 vessels of 3,865,000 gross tons. This shows a 500 per cent increase in numbers and nearly 550 per cent in tonage since 1914. With few exceptions these vessels are of 2,000 gross tons and over and 60 per cent of the number and 65 per cent of the gross tonnage are now under private ownership.

It is certain that without the strong support of the government the merchant marine would have reverted to the humiliating and costly position it occupied before the war. The American people have benefitted by the mistakes of the past. They are convinced that the economic progress, trade stability and security can be largely assured by the maintenance of an adequate American merchant marine.—Wheeling Intelligencer.

Owen D. Young says America is "too rich to be loved." And if the international bankers and industrialists who want to flood the American market with the product fo the mills they have financed in cheap labor markets abroad have their way we will be too poor to be respecteo.

Major Berry, president of the International Pressman's Union, is out in a blast against increases in tariff rates in the tariff law. Doubtless what peeves him is the clause in the bill which prohibits American publishers from having their printing and press work done in foreign cheap labor markets at the sacrifice of printers and pressmen in the United States. Dirty tricks like this are enough to annoy any free trader.

One of the outrages in the new tariff law is the increase of 8 per cent in the duty on pottery. More than half of the glass and pottery workers in the United States are jobless because we imported last year some fifty million dollars worth of earthenware, glassware and pottery from Japan, Czechoslovakia and Germany, where wages of such workers range from one tenth to forty per cent of the American wage scale. It is enough to make a free trader see red to prevent him from buying a plate made by Japanese skilled labor at 8 cents an hour rather than from an American skilled worker at from 50 to 80 cents an hour, especially in view of the fact that it is desirable for the good of business to keep as many workers unemployed in the United States as possible.

Well the tariff has been passed and signed for some time now and Europe hasn't broken off diplomatic relations with us yet.

A justice out west gave a law violator an extra year in jail because he was a saxaphone player. Let us exclaim with Shakespeare "a Daniel come to judgment."

Did you ever go back home after spending a few years in the city and notice how much smaller the old swimmin' hole is than it used to be?

One thing which has always puzzled us is what the League of Nations does during the hot weather.

One nice thing about night baseball is that they never have to call the game on account of darkness.

Rev. S. J. Ezell, with his wife and children, left Sunday for a visit with relatives at Chesnee and other places in South Sarolina. They will be away about two weeks. There will be no preaching services at Clanton Baptist church next Sunday on account of the absence of the pastor.

Well, if the sixty-year-old flapper who bobs her hair and gets her face lifted can fool herself, that's something.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Well, folks, here we are again. The real old POTTER this time, too. First though, we want to offer our thanks to he who pinch-hit for us last week. That was just grand, the way he came through with a real "punch in a pinch." In the absence of the real POTTER, we consider it a REAL favor to have our little section taken care of in the way that it was. Thanks, again—and we are quite sure that all the POT'S readers feel the same way about it.

Before we get going with our story of the trip to the West, we want to finish with all the preliminaries. We want to thank "West Chilton" for his request of a story about the Grand Canyon, although we will not be able to give that, as our route led across too far South for that—we switched routes after we reached Fort Worth, Texas. However, we hope to be able to give you the "dope" on other things fully as interesting.

In the first place we can't remember it all at once. The only way we can think of all we saw—or any ways near it—is to take up the route at Clanton, as we took it on the trip, and tell of this and that just as it unrolled for us as we rolled along. In that way we can think of nearly everything. Surprise after surprise—for us—and maybe it will be the same for you. If we can tell of it all in a way that will make it even just half as interesting as it was to us, the story should be a good one. Here goes.

And don't think we will try to put anything over and get by with it, because we couldn't if we would. Dr. T. J. Marcus is on practically the same trip, and he will be back in the near future for any doubting Thomases to ask about anything we say which may sound as if it might be taken with a grain of salt—and there will be some like that. There will be a few "Believe It Or Nots" to be told about, so you might as well get all primed to believe them or disbelieve, just as you wish.

The POTTER had with him on the trip his better half and a two-year-old tike, who, by the way, is red-headed, and although we secretly saw to it that the old rolling pin was not included in any of the baggage, you can easily see that we had no chance at any time to stray from the straight and narrow way, even if we did pass through El Paso, Texas, and within a half mile of old Mexico, the land of hard "licker" and mud houses. Too, the POTTER is a prohibitionist, and all that.

Daylight of Monday, July 7, caught us at Livingston, Ala., with our first puncture of the trip. Livingston was unlucky for us, too, because we were there a little too early for the free air men to be at their places of business, so we had the "pleasure" of pumping one up—you know what that means. After a while we got all fixed up and made another start. No more trouble for the first two days. The roads were pretty good all through Mississippi, mostly paved. Crops looked fair, although needing rain. We crossed the "father of waters," the old Mississippi, at Vicksburg, on the new government bridge. Gee, but that is one grand structure.

Before crossing, however, we slowed up a bit in Vicksburg to take a look at the big cemetery on the big hill overlooking the city and the river, the site of the Battle of Vicksburg of Civil War days. We were much impressed with the number of marble markers there. Too, here and there all over the surrounding hills were cannon, slabs, and other markers to show where this and that division fought—and fell. Division markers from the Northern states—Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois—and others, are to be seen, and their names easily readable from the roadside. It makes one feel as if he were in some sacred spot—in the presence of those who saw such strife there, and now rest in peace on those green knolls. The prattle of sight-seeing tourists slows somewhat of its own accord, as if some sub-conscious chord is touched, causing one to pay homage to those whose memory is so preserved there. A little further, and other States' names stand out, as their sons' last resting places come into view—names of fair Southern states, and sometimes intermingled with those from north of the Mason-Dixon line. Right or wrong—one forgets that—only respect and sacred reverence for those represented there remains, as one passes. From the above, you can easily understand where the POTTER found the first real spot of interest, and although there were many such throughout the trip, none impressed us more than this beautiful City of the Immortals at Vicksburg. If you like history—if deeds of valor stir you, then you would certainly enjoy visiting this city, where so many such are commemorated. Beautiful? Yes! And the POTTER intends to return to this place some time in the future, to spend one whole day, roaming over those hills, and reading the different markers, and admiring the beautiful statues. You will excuse us if we were just a bit lengthy in describing this spot on the trip, but we believe you would feel just like we did about it. If you ever pass that way, don't fail to stop and see this part of Vicksburg. You'll never forget it.

About 2:00 p. m., we crossed the Mississippi into Louisiana, on the new government bridge. According to a newspaper article we read, relating the opening of this bridge, it cost $7,000,000.00. It is a great steel affair, carrying a double line auto lane, as well as a double track railway lane. The auto and rail lanes are separated by a steel guard, and on either side of the auto lane there are shoulders which curve up to the side so that an auto couldn't accidently swerve up the side and wreck—that is, if it is within the limit of 25 miles per hour which the law provides. The law also provides that there shall be no parking or turning on the bridge. It saves the tourist some two hours time in crossing the river, and the charge is $1.25 per car, one way, with an additional charge of five cents for each passenger. As one drives over and looks down at the slow boat chugging away with its load of autos, he realizes just what a boon to travelers the bridge really is. Up until the time the bridge was opened, we were told that the ferry charge was $6.00, one way—now the ferry charge is 75 cents—that's how much the bridge is saving tourists, even those who don't cross on it.

We want to tip you off if you happen to be planning a trip through Louisiana. Pin on your religion good and tight, or else carry along an expert "cusser" because you certainly will find it hard to keep your temper as you drive up and down the State, crossing and re-crossing the highway every once in a while. The cement all finished nicely, but they will not let you on it, because they are building up and grassing the shoulders on each side. Short snatches of only a few miles at a time is all that is allowed on the cement at this time. Here is one good example—from Talullah to Delhi is some 15 miles by the cement road, but the tourist must drive something over 100 miles to make the distance, crossing the highway four times. If you don't believe such a mess will "rile" you, just try it once.

We hate to leave our readers all out on a detour like we found ourselves at times, but it must be done. See you next week.—"JACK".

OLD FASHIONED COMMON SENSE

The American people are by no means destitute of good, old fashioned common sense. They have by no means come to despise the counsel of George Washington and John Adams that the surest way to secure peace is to be prepared for war. This is evidenced by the fact that, at this writing, there are 16,150 more applications to attend Citizen's Military Training Camps, maintained each summer by the federal government, than the camps are prepared to accomodate. There is an excess of applications in every one of the army corps areas, despite all the frenetic pacifism constantly being tossed about by those who foolishly contend that military training serves dangerously to keep alive "the will to war" and to instill a love of militarism in the youth of the republic. Any serious examination of the argument that such training retards movements to bring about a world peace concordat will prove the argument to lack substance or sound foundation. Lack of pre-war training has brought the nation incalculable losses in every military contest in which it his been engaged. Our national security and our moral capacity to keep peace, and to compel our simple rights as a peace to be respected depend upon our preparedness to make succesful defense against all hostile undertakings. The Citizen's Military Training Camps are excellently qualified to promote such preparedness.—Ft. Wayne News-Sentinel.

The Union-Banner received a card Monday from Mr. and Mrs. Frank James, mailed from Cincinnati Saturday. They say, "Toronto Next." In Toronto they will attend the annual convention of the United Sign Contractors of North America, to be in session this week. The James party will return to Clanton in about two weeks.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

I don't stand on the corner all the time. In fact, I just pass the corner now and then. Sometimes I feel about like the fellow of whom I used to hear a story in which it was said that by virture of certain circumstances he had "passed the corner." That meant that he was dejected, disguested, discouraged, blue, or something of the sort. When I get blue, I try not to show the color.

When one gets blue, the best medicine is to begin to go places and see things. Going around over the country I always learn something that is worth mentioning. For instance at New Salem last Friday night I was told that Mr. Burgess, who runs a farm in that neighborhood, recently sold to Hill Grocery Co., in Birmingham, sixteen hundred dozen "roastin' ears." The price was said to have been thirty cents a dozen. When I heard the statement, I thought of Gullahorn's prayer for the Lord to send him a barrel of pepper.

But really, to a fellow who has never thought of "roastin' ears" in any other quantity than a dozen or so for a mess now and then through the summer, it does seem that sixteen hundred dozen is a mighty lot of them at one time. That, kind friends, is diversified farming in Chilton County. "Roastin' ears" is not the only thing that is being grown here to supplement the cash receipts which comes to our farmers.

What is the difference between a tomato and a tomato? Perhaps it may be that one is bigger or littler than the other. Anyway, the point I want to get over to you is that some of our farmers are on to the diversification racket so well that they can discuss intelligently the different features about tomatoes, watermelons, and many other things, as to their growing qualities, marketing advantages and disadvantages, and palatability. You would be surprised to know how much more our farmers know about things now than they did a very few years back.

Joe Calloway feels better in recent days because he has had removed from his mind all doubts as to his physical condition. It was not done by a surgical operation; only a physical examination. He went up to Birmingham not long ago and had Uncle Sam's doctors give him another dressing down. When they told him his old hulk was O. K., Joe came back home and went to work as hard as ever. "I knew there was not anything wrong with me," he said, "but I just wanted to see if those doctors would say so too."

And Joe added a word of praise for the manner in which the army doctors give examinations. It is possible, he said, for any ex-service man to get a free examination, with pay for his time and fare to and from Birmingham. The office where the examinations are conducted is on the third floor of the post office building.

Another ugly spot removed from the face of Clanton. The old livery stable and barn of D. Y. Johnston, at the crossing of Fourth Avenue and Seventh Street (the Highway) has been torn down. In its place will be erected another modern gasoline and automobile service station. This one, I am told, will be a Sinclair place. That will make three of the gas companies represented at the intersection of the Birmingham and Selma Highways. Dorcas Maddox has the Gulf place, W. C. Billingsley the Texaco line. I don't know yet who will be the Sinclair retailer at the newest place.

Now for a few words about the picnic of the mens class last Thursday afternoon. The affair came off according to Hoyle, and was undoubtedly the best outing I have had a part in this summer. The place was Log Cabin Beach, at the point where the new Rockford Highway reaches the river below Mitchell Dam. It is one of the most delightful outing places in the lake region of Chilton County. About 225 men were present.

The picnic was furnished by the white button side of the class who lost in the recent attendance contest with the red side, by only a very small number of points. The reds may beat the whites in getting men to come to Sunday School, but I tell you I doubt if they can beat them in putting over a picnic, barbecue, and fish fry.

H. T. Pipes and Dr. Hinkle cooked the cornbred. Jean Gore had charge of barbecuing the chickens. Mr. McDuffie fried the fish. Uncle John Robinson had charge of the job of catching the fish. And this was the first fish fry I ever heard of where there was more fish than the crowd could eat. Charley Bell was on hand. He was doing so many things I couldn't tell just what his job was.

Uncle Tom Littlefield was there, and everything was going well with him until Dief appeared upon the scene. After Uncle Tom found that Dief was there he wouldn't drink another drop of lemonade. I was not able to find out what connection Uncle Tom made between the presence of Dief and the drinking of lemonade.

It was all we could do to keep Pap Billie Mullins from going a berry picking. He viewed with much longing the big patch of briars along the lower edge of Log Cabin Beach. All I need is my bucket and stick, he said, and I would fetch home the berries. He was reminded that it was after the fourth of July. That don't make no difference, he said. The devil can't fool me about blackberries, for I know he don't always do what he says, anyhow.

Farm and city folk have at least one thing in common—each believes that the other is hopelessly dumb.—Little Rock Arkansas Democrat.

We are frequently told that the future of American prosperity is based upon our export of manufactured articles. Nevertheless, the proportion of our domestic production to our export trade in this field was the same approximately in 1929 as in 1899, or as 9 to 1. It is evident that our prosperity has not been dependent upon the increase of our export of manufactured articles, but the maintenance of our domestic production and consumption. Among our most prosperous years were 1923, 1924 and 1925, when our export sales of manfactured articles ranged from only 6 to 8 per cent of our total production.

The total production of automobiles in the United States for the first five months of 1930 was 1,883,616, as compared with 1,804,725 in the first five months of 1928. It is possible that production of automobiles will be greater during the last few months of 1930 than it was in 1929, since motor production in that period fell below that of 1928, and the belief is general that the demand in 1931 will considerably exceed that of this year. There are signs of industrial improvement which can be seen by those who care to look for them.

The politicians and journalists who have been predicting and hoping that keeping out foreign cheap labor products by increased tariffs that will enable Americans to do the work instead, would cause unemployment, are doubtless doomed to disappointment.

RELATIVES FROM NORTH VISITING FRANZ FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Franz, whose home is in Reynolds Addition to Clanton, are in the midst of a veritable family reunion. The home, always open for the welcoming of guests, is in an especially inviting state this week with its assemblage of relatives, who by their presence are gladdening all who are in touch with the Franz household.

The Franz family, for several summers, have returned to their native heath in far-off Michigan, where they spend quite a while in visiting relatives; but Grandmother Franz is somewhat feeble, and this year the annual trip to the old home was not made. Instead the kinsfolk came down South.

It is most gratifying to all to note the keen enjoyment that Grandma Franz (Mrs. J. R. Franz) is getting out of the house-party. Her sister, Mrs. Loveland, is right there to love and be loved; the two sisters are inseparable." Grandma is 76 years old and her sister is 78. They rehearse the doings of those other days to the delight of the others. And tho these sisters are living on borrowed time, they do not feel that their usefulness is necessarily impaired. Topics of the day's affairs excite their comment just as quickly as ever. All of which proves the time-honored theory that we are never older than our pulse.

Registered as visitors in the Franz home, all relatives are: Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ashley, Robert, Donald and Helen Ashley, all of Battle Creek, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. N. C. VanHorn and Hazel VanHorn of Baltimore, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Franz of Charlotte, Mich; Clyde Franz of Collegedale, Tenn., and Mrs. Lavina Loveland of Battle Creek, Michigan.

Honoring the guests of the Franz family reunion, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Farley gave a melon-cutting at the Mims Swimming Pool on Wednesday evening. Added to the list of honorees, partaking of the Farley hospitality on this happy occasion were the names of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Barnhardt of Clanton and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Barnhardt and Miss Lilla Frank Barnhardt of Tampa ,Fla.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

Mrs. Jesse C. Jones was carried to South Highlands Infirmary in Bihmingham Monday. It is reported that she will remain there for treatment for several days, but will not have to be operated on, it is hoped.

RETURNS FROM FLORIDA

The Gerald-Horn party returned on Sunday evening from a thoroughly delightful trip to Florida. The party visited our Dr. Mastin's father in Belview, Fla., where the time passed quite enjoyably. Mr. Mastin, though 93 years of age, yet maintains a pretty home and continues to keep up with modern ideas, eagerly reading all literature that is designed to keep one abreast with the times. He is ever interested in receiving and entertaining guests.

After the visit to Belview the Gerald-Horn Party visited Daytona Beach and St. Augustine.

The visit to St. Augustine is full of interest for the tourist. Inspection of the old Fort affords much interest. The oldest known house in the United States and many other places in the interesting city were visited. The oldest house is in a state of wonderful preservation. The house with its beams are as it was originally.

To make the place more attractive for the inspection of the public, it has been furnished with quite fitting antique furnishings, among which is a suite of furniture that was used by Lady Washington herself. This was purchased many years ago while on exhibition at the World's Fair in Chicago. Some pieces were formerly used by the Princess of Roumania. All told, the old house is handsomely furnished and every piece of the furniture is teeming with historical interest.

The party left St. Augustine at sunrise of Sunday morning, breakfasted in Lake City, dined in Dothan, and reached home in the evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Early on that Sunday morning, facing the trip homeward, the party was especially appreciative to observe "old Sol" in a halo of glory as he seemed to follow them on their way. Mr. Gerald considers that the trip from St. Augustine, five hundred and two miles, was made in splendid time.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. LENA CULP

On Tuesday morning at 1 o'clock a dear, loving one was called to the shining gates of heaven. O, we will wait for the day to come when we shall meet her to part no more.

Her loving soul is transferred to God where she is now sweetly sleeping with Jesus waiting for that sweet day to come when loved ones will part no more. Dear Lena was only 22 when God called her home. But we must not say dear Lena is dead, but resting in heaven.

Our dear cousin was always ready and willing to do all she could for God. She was a member of Sardis Baptist Church, and had been for some 4 or 5 years.

Mrs. Culp leaves to mourn her loss, her dear husband, Mr. Clifford Culp; two darling little girls, one about 2 years old and the other just 6 weeks old. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fisher. One brother, Olive D., and one sister, Willie Mae Fisher. Two grandmothers, Mrs. Henry Fisher and Mrs. Tom Carter of Pletcher, one grandfather, Mr. Henry Fisher. And a host of friends and loved ones.

Dear mother, father, brother, sister, an angel has visited your home the fifth time. Let the assurance of her having entered the Kingdom of God be a comfort to you all for she is in a much sweeter home and awaiting to welcome you all.

A. A. Jackson, Candidate For Representative From Chilton County, Alabama

Editor Union-Banner:

Since I have visited most every community in the county, and talked with a good majority of the voters, I want to thank them fo rthe encouragement they have given me in making the race for Representative.

Almost one hundred per cent of the voters that I have talked with during the present campaign tell me that they believe in the principles that I advocate. Namely: All wealth comes from the hands of the farming an laboring classes and every profession under the sun has to look to them for every thing they possess. This being true why not send some of our farmers to represent us in our law making bodies.

Why should we farmers look to the professions to make laws for us to be governed by, who has to look to us for every thing they possess I think such conditions unfair. If we, the farming and laboring classes are smart enough to support our families and educate our children and also support and educate the children of other professions, and foot the bill of all extravagance, surely we are smart enough to make laws for all to be governed by.

I agree with The Union-Banner in what it said last week in giving the boquets of honor to my opponent.

He said it is almost universally agreed that we already have too many laws. That reminds me of a statement I heard from a lawyer once. He said we have too many laws, and for one to know the law he would have to read continually for six hundred years. And then remember all he read. He also said it takes a smart lawyer to find the law, and then a still smarter one to interpret the law.

Who is responsible for such conditions? Is it the lawyers or is it the farmers? I will let the reader answer the question.

The Union-Banner takes the authority to nominate my opponent as Chilton County's representative in the next Legislature of Alabama. Now I think that job belongs to the voters of Chilton County. I am not surprised. Other professions who do not farm have been running the affairs of our country so long. It seems that they think the farmer only has a right to vote for them and then do their biddings.

I think the editor of The Union-Banner is a fine gentleman. And The Union-Banner is the head-light of the Republican party of Chilton County. But I think our editor should apply the dimmer just a little, as the light is becoming a little too bright, and of a sparkling nature.

In conclusion let me ask the voters of Chilton County to take this nomination in their hands and nominate the man they believe is best qualified to fill the office. Their vedrict will be mine. With best wishes for our editor and the head-light of the Republican party of Chilton County.

Yours for a clean political campaign.

A. A. JACKSON.

SHOULD THE LIGHT BE DIMMER OR BRIGHTER

Mr. A. A. Jackson, candidate for Representative of Chilton County in the Legislature of Alabama, suggests that the editor of The Union-Banner ought to apply the dimmer to the "Headlight of the Republican Party of Chilton County." We wonder if it is the dimmer that is needed, or should the Headlight be made to shine a little brighter.

We shall not say which is needed most. Perhaps the light is already so bright that it is blinding to some. Then perhaps the light is not sufficient to illuminate all the places. The editor has a few things which he wishes to say to Mr. Jackson, and all others who may want to read it. We will leave it to the reader to judge whether we are putting on the dimmer or making the light a little brighter.

At the close of the last session of the Legislature of Alabama the editor of The Union-Banner, in appreciation of the excellent services of Mr. Percy M. Pitts, Chilton's Representative, took occasion to commend him for that service. Our "Nomination" of Mr. Pitts to succeed himself was merely a way we chose to accent the very worthy manner in which our Representative had succeeded in doing what the people of the county, particularly the Republicans, wanted him to accomplish for them in the Legislature, namely defeating the bill designed to abolish our Commissioners Court and have a Board of Revenue established.

We do not feel that it is necessary for us to explain to anybody that our "nomination" of Mr. Pitts, as above referred to, was merely an expression of appreciation for his services. Surely all who read it understood it in that light. No, No, Brother Jackson, the editor of The Union-Banner does not assume to do the actual "nominating" of candidates for the Republicans of Chilton County. We are willing and in fact insist, that the voters themselves have that right, and we do not even presume to advise them in the matter. We only want to give them such light as will enable them to see clearly through all the issues involved; and we don't want that light to be too bright nor too dim.

Last week Mr. Pitts chose to present to the voters what we said about him at the close of the last session of the Legislature, because it was what he considered a concise statement concerning the value of the services which he rendered in that body. At the time we said what we did in praise of the services of our Representative, Mr. Pitts was not a candidate for re-election. Neither was Mr. Jackson or onyone else a candidate for Representative.

It was a case of a Republican official who had achieved a remarkable record of success in serving the people of the county who elected him. We felt that we had a perfect right to say what we did about his services at that time.

The Union-Banner would not have brought that statement back before the people at this time, because we would not choose editorially to take a stand for or against Mr. Pitts or Mr. Jackson. We do not take such a stand with the editorial influence of the paper with regard to any candidate in the Republican primary. We have never done it, and do not intend to.

But we had a right to praise Mr. Pitts for his services in 1927. Who will deny our rights to do so? Now, if Mr. Pitts wants to place what we said about him in 1927 before the voters in this campaign, he has a perfect right to do that. Any officer has a right to stand upon his record. That is what Mr. Pitts is doing. Who will say that his record in the Legislature of 1927 was not a good record, and one which he may well be glad to stand upon in asking the people to re-elect him now?

The editor of The Union-Banner does not intend here to take back one single word of praise which we have said concerning the record of Mr. Pitts in the last legislature. We feel that he deserved our commendation, and that we had a right to give it to him. If Mr. Jackson goes to the Legislature and renders as good service to his county as Mr. Pitts did, we shall be the first to acclaim his honorable record to the people of this county. And further than that, Mr. Jackson, we will pledge you right now, that if you make as good a Representative as Percy Pitts did, we will "nominate" you to succeed yourself in the same sense as we did him.

Now, of course, the editor of The Union-Banner knows it is not for this newspaper to say who shall be the nominee of the Republican party for Representative. That is for the voters to determine. If they want to nominate Mr. Jackson, that will be perfectly all right with us. The Union-Banner has not printed in its editorial columns one single word that would tend in any way, either in purpose or influence, to favor either of the candidates for Representative.

That which was printed last week about Mr. Pitts was reprinted from our issue of September 8, 1927. Mr. Pitts reproduced it on his own authority, as his own paid political advertising. As explained above, when the editor wrote that in 1927 there was no campaign on. There were no candidates for Representative in the field. We are glad that we have never to this day heard a single Republican object to what we said about the legislative record of Mr. Pitts.

There you are now, Brother Jackson. You and Pitts for it. So far as The Union-Banner is concerned, we shall be satisfied with whichever of you the Republicans want to nominate. Pitts is running on his record. As a Republican, The Union-Banner is proud of the record he made, and we feel that every other Republican ought to be likewise. He saved the day for the Republican party of Chilton County in 1927, when some of our Democratic "friends" in Clanton had us ready for slaughter, the altar built, and the fire good and hot, fit to consume the whole lot of us at one lick.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

Lesson for July 27

DEBORAH, A LEADER IN A NATIONAL EMERGENCY

LESSON TEXT—Judges 4:1-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Say to them that are of a fearful heart, be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompence; he will come and save you.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Deborah a Brave Woman.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Deborah a Brave Woman.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Notable Women Patriots.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Woman's Influence in Community and National Affairs.

The book of Judges covers the period from the conquest of Canaan and death of Joshua to the judgeship of Samuel. While Joshua and the elders of his generation lived, the people in some measure remained faithful to God, but the very next generation went into apostasy. Their declension may be accounted for by:

1. Their failure to drive out the Canaanites when they took possession of the land. Their failure to carry out this command of God was their undoing.

2. Their amalgamation with the Canaanites. Their tolerance of the heathen about them was quickly followed by union in marriage.

3. Idolatry. Their intermarriage with the heathen was followed by worship of the heathen gods.

In order to teach this lesson intelligently it is necessary that the teacher have a grasp of the book of Judges from which it is taken. In chapter 2:6-19 is given a synopsis of the book. Observe (1) The sin of the people (vv. 6-13). (2) God's judgment for their sin (vv. 14, 15). (3) Their repentance (3:9). (4) God delivers them at the hands of the Judges (vv. 16-19). A repetition of sin, oppression by the enemy, repentance, and deliverance, is the story of the book of Judges.

I. The National Emergency (vv. 1-3).

1. Lapse into idolatry (v. 1).

Ehud was not only a righteous but a strong ruler. Under his judgeship, freedom had been enjoyed for many years. As soon as he was dead the people turned away from God.

2. The bondage of the people (v. 2).

3. The people cried unto God (v. 3).

Affliction brought them to their senses.

II. The Judgeship of Deborah (vv. 4-10).

The great national emergency confronting Israel was met by a woman named Deborah. Her name means "Bee." As suggested by another, she exemplified her name by her industry, sagacity and great service to the public.

1. The place where she judged Israel (v. 5).

It was under a palm tree. She held an open air court for the administration of justice.

2. Her method (vv. 6-10). (1) Her summons to Barak (vv. 6, 7). Barak means "lightning." Deborah, being a prophetess, was able to select a man whose gifts would enable him to rally the forces needed to gain victory over the formidable foe. Deborah gave definite instruction as to the number of men and the strategy to be employed, assuring him that God would deliver Sisera into his hand. (2) Barak's reply (v. 8). He expressed an unwillingness to go unless Deborah would go with him. (3) Barak rebuked (vv. 9, 10). Deborah yielded to his request, but made it plain to him that it would detract from his honor as a conqueror, "for the Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman."

III. The Defeat of Jabin's Army (vv. 11-16).

Sisera, the captain, gathered a mighty army and went forth, confident of victory over the ill-equipped and undisciplined army of Barak, but he made one sad mistake—he did not consider that it was the Lord's battle (v. 15). Through supernatural interposition the enemy became panic-stricken (25:20).

IV. Sisera Killed by a Woman (vv. 17-24).

In his flight Sisera took refuge in Jael's tent. In the guise of friendship she committed a most heinous murder after inviting him into her dwelling.

V. The Song of Deborah and Barak (ch. 5).

This song was composed and sung in celebration of the marvelous victory which God had wrought. Deborah set forth in the most definite way that the secret of victory was the help of God.

Consecration

All truly consecrated men learn little by little that what they are consecrated to is not joy or sorrow, but a divine idea and a profound obedience, which can find their full outward expression, not in joy and not in sorrow, but in the mysterious and inseparable blending of the two.—Phillips Brooks.

God's Plan to Cleanse

God brings men into deep waters, not to drown them, but to cleanse them.—Anghey.

W. J. Billingsley of Thorsby was in Clanton Tuesday on business.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Mrs. Clyde Mead has as guest for a few days Mrs. Jack Riley, who was formerly Burlin Caton.

The regular P.-T. A. social will be an ice cream social this time. It will be held with Mrs. C. S. Howard on Thursday, July 31st at 7:30 p. m. Every body welcome.

The peach season is now well on in Thorsby. Some are shipping, others are selling on the highway. The fruit is mostly of excellent variety and quality. Martin Petersen's famous Hale peaches are about ready.

Miss Lois Primm, who has been in summer school at Chapel Hill, N. C., came home Wednesday. She will again be principal of the school at Lay Dam.

Dorothy Butler will spend the week-end with her sister, Margaret, in Birmingham. Mrs. Butler and Miss Fairbank visited one of the opportunity schools held at Chilton County Training School Monday, and seem very much interested in the character of the work and progress of the students.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will meet Thursday afternoon of this week with Mrs. D. M. Paxson.

In the absence of The pastor on vacation the Congregational church people will have regular services except second and fourth Sunday morning preaching, when they will unite with the Baptists in their regular Sunday morning service, which will be July 27 and August 10.

Last Sunday morning the Christian Endeavor Society had charge of the hour for worship. Miss Dorothy Butler was leader and did it remarkably well. Conway Thornburg read the lesson. Miss Fairbank led in prayer. Mrs. Leonard Moody presided at the organ and Mr. Butler led the singing. Miss Mary Ella Gerald read a very interesting article on individual character and influence.

Mrs. N. A. Barnes of Hardaway, Ala., is visiting Mrs. M. J. Prim this week.

Miss Edna Raybon was the guest of Miss Margie Champion Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon made a business trip to Montevallo, Ala., Tuesday.

Mrs. W. H. Townsend had as her guest for the week-end her daughter, from Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin Thorson and family of Crooks, S. C., are visiting friends in Thorsby.

Naemi Turnquist, C. P. Turnquist, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Peterson in Fairview.

Mrs. C. M. Williams and children spent the week-end at Lay Dam with her daughter, Mrs. Thompson. She also spent Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. Burdette at Clanton.

Mrs. S. C. Wood had as her week-end guest her sister, Mrs. Hearn, and Mrs. Watts of Birmingham.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin and Mrs. Wood spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

Lloyd Howard has as his guest for a few days Milton Diefenderfer of Clanton.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin is sick in bed. Her little daughter, Peggy Mims is staying with her grand mother, Mrs. B. M. Franklin.

Rev. J. W. Jones is conducting revival services at Refuge Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hill of Lanette, Ala., are visiting relatives, Mrs. T. W. Robinson and Mrs. R. M. Smith.

Miss Virginia Bice has returned from Birmingham after spending two weeks with relatives.

Miss Mary Sue Robinson will leave Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hill at Lanett, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs, T. L. Robinson and son, Charlie, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Mrs. A. P. Villadsen of Tuscaloosa and son, Henry, are visiting Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Biddle, Orville Askew, and sister, Bobby, of Birmingham stopped by Sunday for a short visit with Miss Virginia Bice enroute to Fla.

Mrs. C. E. Bice, Miss Eliza Bice, and Miss Marjorie Bentley are visiting Mrs. O. R. Whitley in Birmingham.

Miss Jennye Robinson has returned from Tuscaloosa after visiting her sister, Mrs. A. P. Vallidsen. She attended a number of the summer dances at the University of Ala.

Mrs. O. P. Whitley, Mr. Earl Posey, Mrs. Hester Whitley of Birmingham were the guests of Mrs. T. W. Robinson Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollins Micksell, daughter and son of Iowa are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thompson of Birmingham were visitors for the week-end.

Mr. Russell Peterson left Moday night for Iowa after spending several months with his parents in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Moody, Mrs. J. E. Moody, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald and Mary Ella Gerald motored to Mitchell last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. E. L. Thornburg returned home last Saturday after spending two weeks in Birmingham.

Herman Harper and brother of Birmingham are spending several days visiting their grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Billingsley of Greer, S. C., are visiting relatives in Thorsby.

Mrs. Marvin Davenport returned home Sunday from Selma, where she had undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Soberg are spending a few days in Birmingham with their daughter, Mrs. Walter Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Peterson, Herbert, Jr., and Imogene returned to Birmingham Sunday after spending a week visiting relatives.

Mr. M. K. Mullins and family of Mobile are in Clanton this week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

Thin, Pale, Weak

"I HAD been through a bad spell of sickness which left me very weak," says Mrs. Virginia Spruce, of Stapleton, Va. "I was pale and felt lifeless, and my strength did not return.

"I spent most of my time on the bed. I was very nervous, and the least thing upset me. I did not have strength enough to lift a broom. At times I would have bad headaches, which would hurt me until I could hardly see.

"Someone asked me why I did not try Cardui. I had read of it, so I thought I would see what it would do for me. It was really remarkable how I came out. My strength returned, and my health was better than it had been in years. I gained in weight about ten pounds. My color was good, and I ceased to suffer from headaches. I have told my friends about Cardui because I was benefited after taking it."

JOE EARL GOWAN HURT

A painful injury was sustained by Joe Earl Gowan last Saturday morning while adjusting a light fixture in the Watkins Cafe. A large electric fan which was running near the place where he was working struck him on the back of the head, inflicting a painful wound and breaking a wing of the fan.

Joe Earl was stunned by the blow and suffered severely for a while. A physician was summoned, and the wound was found to be not serious. He was up and going again in a short while after he was treated by the doctor.

GUY DESHAZO EDITOR OF TWO NEWSPAPERS

The many friends of Mr. Guy H. DeShazo in Clanton and Chilton county, will be interested in the following announcement which was made in the Atmore Advance and Flomaton News last week by Mr. Tup Lucas, owner and publisher of those papers:

"The publisher of the Atmore Advance and Flomaton News takes great pleasure in announcing to the readers the appointment of Mr. Guy H. DeShazo as editor and manager of these two papers. Mr. DeShazo has edited these publications for the past three weeks and from the favorable comment heard by the publisher he will make good at the job without a question."

Mr. DeShazo is a Chilton County boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Will DeShazo of Mulberry. He is a newspaper man of exceptional ability, having had considerable experience in the business during recent years.

CURLEE CHILD IN HOSPITAL

Jack, eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Curlee (Lottie Robinson), is a patient in the Baptist Hospital in Birmingham, and has been there since July 5th.

The parents were on a visit to Chilton County relatives; the children were out at play, when Jack sustained a fall that broke his left arm about an inch above the elbow. First aid treatment was given by a Clanton physician. At the same time an x-ray photo was taken of the arm. The patient was then rushed to the Birmingham hospital, where the child has lain ever since with his arm suspended in a bandage from the ceiling.

The maimed arm was so very much swollen upon reaching the Birmingham phiysicians that it could not be set until the 21st. Though various anti-toxins were given. Jack has had to endure a seige of bronchitis along with much pain from his broken arm.

According to Mrs. Curlee, who returned from her grandson's bedside on Thursday, the patient is resting more comfortably, though he is not yet out of danger.

PROF. QUINN WILL BE PRINCIPAL OF GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Prof. I. J. Quinn has been employed as principal of the Clanton Grammar School for the next session which begins on Monday, September 8th. For the past three years Mr. Quinn has been principal of the school at Haleyville. He and his family have already moved to Clanton, and will live in one of the Woodyard houses near the Grammar School.

Prof. Quinn is a graduate of Howard College. He has had several years experience in teaching. For one year he was a teacher in the Cullman County High School, and also taught in the Fairview High School in Cullman County.

Friendship Singing

According to previous announcement, singing was held at Friendship church last Sunday afternoon, and it was a most enjoyable occasion. A very noticeable feature of the afternoon and one which went to show that the singing was good was the splendid attention given by the listeners. The people there enjoyed the singing as well as any gathering we have ever attended. All the seating room was taken, and the weather was awful hot, but everybody stayed with it to the end and were sorry to hear the benediction.

Singing was opened by T. E. Wyatt, and the chairman, J. D. Collins, took charge. After prayer by H. F. McCary, singing was begun. Those directing were: Rev. M. Lockhart, O. L. Devaughn, R. M. Robinson, Willie Mims, Ammie Boswell, H. C. Collins, S. V. Miller, W. G. Culp, Jasper Robinson, R. E. Powell, E. L. Powell, Johnnie Miner, J. W. Clackler, and W. M. Devaughn. The closing song was sung by Prof. H. C. Collins, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. M. Lockhart.

There were more directors present who could not be used on account of lack of time. The singing closed at 4:00 o'clock.

The Friendship singers wish to thank the many visitors for their help. We wish especially to thank Prof. H. C. Collins for the part he contributed. Prof Collins is teaching a singing school at Coosa River Church near Deatsville, and he brought a car full of his singers along with him from down there. We are very grateful for their help.

Prof Collins made a good talk, and his singing was greatly enjoyed. His many old friends and acquaintances present were mighty glad to meet him again. Announcement was made of the closing of Prof. Collin's school at Coosa River which comes off Wednesday night, August 6th, with a concert. It is hoped that some people from Chilton County will attend this concert.

REYNOLDS HAS NOT JOINED THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Probate Judge Replies To Insinuations Made By J. B. Atkinson In Editorial In Chilton County News Of Last Week

The following is a copy of a letter which Judge Reynolds delivered through the mail Tuesday afternoon to the office of Mr. J. B. Atkinson, with the request that he publish same in his newspaper, The Chilton County News:

Clanton, Ala., July 29, 1930.

Mr. J. B. Atkinson, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir:

I have read your double-barrel editorial in the Chilton County News of last week, in which you infer from my connection with the barbecue and public speaking in Clanton July the Fourth that I have joined the Democratic party in support of Judge Miller for Governor of Alabama.

For the past few years, since you were kicked out of the Republican party of Chilton County, you have written and published several contemptible editorials about me; and when I would answer them (although you had a newspaper at your command) you would not be fair enough to publish my reply.

Now, I am asking to say a few things in reply to your editorial of last week and give you a chance to publish the same in order that your readers may have a chance to see my side of the situation.

First, I want to say that I have not joined the Democratic party in Chilton County nor in Alabama. You know I have not done so, and you knew I had not done so when you wrote and published your editorial of last week. You say you welcome my activity in support of Miller and McCall. You know that I am not supporting Miller and McCall. You know that I am not having anything to do with the Democratic primary. You know the truth about my connection with the Fourth of July affair, which you tried to distort in your editorial last week in order to serve your own crooked political designs.

You sought in your editorial last week to put over by indirection, inuendo, insinuation, slur, etc., an impression upon your readers which you knew was false, and which you knew you could not get away with if you made a positive statement.

Since you did not tell the truth which you knew about my connection with the affair of July Fourth, I am going to tell it here myself, and see if you will be fair enough with your readers and me to print it in your newspaper, The Chilton County News.

I did introduce Judge Miller and Mr. McCall when they spoke here on July the Fourth at the barbecue that was sponsored by the Methodist ladies. As I am a member of the Methodist Church, I was interested in the purpose which the ladies had in mind by sponsoring the barbecue. That purpose was to help finance a church obligation, and not political in any sense. The church owes a large debt, and the ladies worked hard to raise some money by this barbecue to apply on the payment of the debt. When they appealed to me, as a member of the church, to help them make the occasion a success, I was glad to help them all I could.

You are an official in the Methodist church, Mr. Atkinson. Since you have introduced this subject into your political discussions, let me ask you how much did you do or give to help the ladies of the church in this effort they made?

Once before I recall that you tried to bring the Methodist church into politics in one of your dirty efforts to cast aspersion upon me. When I called your hand on it you tucked your tail between your legs and sneaked away just as you always do when you are faced with anything that requires the backbone of a man to meet.

It looks to me, Mr. Atkinson, if you are so ready to put politics into every activity of your church, you might sometimes also be willing to put a few dollars into it.

As you already know, those ladies who sponsored the barbecue and the speaking on July the Fourth, requested me to invite all candidates for Governor and United States Senator to make a speech on that occasion. I did invite those candidates, all of them. Some of them wrote me they could not come, and I at once requested them to send someone to represent them. Besides the candidates I invited all the State officials, members of the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals. I also invited many other prominent citizens of the State.

You know, Mr. Atkinson, what is the truth about my connection with the speaking on the Fourth of July. You know that your effort last week was an unholy, diabolical, insidious arraignment of innocent circumstances in an effort to stir up prejudices among the Democrats of Chilton County, by waving my name in front of their eyes. I know you have not got grit to tell the truth to your readers about anything political. Therefore I am telling it to them for you, and I want to see if you will publish what I have to say to them. Will you dare to give your readers my side of this argument just as you have already presented them with your own?

You say you welcome me into the Democratic party. I say to you, and you already know, that I have no intention of coming into the Democratic party. If I did have such inclininations, I most assuredly would not enter the folds of the Democratic party while you are its leader. It is a well known fact that everything you have ever attempted to lead has been a failure. A burial procession is always sad to me. If I were to join the Democratic party under your leadership, I would feel like I was joining a burial procession. I give you credit for one wise move in locating your office next door to the undertaker. When you wind up the Democratic party of Chilton County with your disastrous leadership, you will be handy for Martin and his hearse.

I guess it must be galling to you, Mr. Atkinson, because the Methodist ladies asked me to help make arrangements for the Fourth of July instead of asking you, the "leader" of the Democrats of Chilton County. If you do not know the reason why they did this, I guess they would tell you if you asked them.

You infer that I invited G. T. McElderry to come here and make a speech for Miller. I did not do anything of the sort. There again you choose to muddy the water so you may confuse and mislead those who are so unfortunate as to have to look to you for political leadership in Chilton County.

I was invited by the Republicans of Shelby County to speak at Shelby Springs on July 10th. Mr. McElderry was speaking when I got there. At dinner he referred to his friends in Chilton County and stated that he would like to come down here and make a speech to them. Because I wanted to be courteous and gentlemanly to him, just as I try to be to everyone, I said to him: "Well, come down and speak to them when it suits you, Mr. McElderry."

Now, I suppose, Mr. Atkinson, you would have had me cock one eye up toward the North Star, utter a grunt and a groan, and change the subject when Mr. McElderry hinted to me that he would like to come to Clanton and make a speech.

I never heard McElderry mention Miller's name until he spoke at Clanton. I did not know who he was for in the Governor's race, and did not care. If I had been going to guess who he was for, I would have guessed Watt Brown, your candidate, because he (McElderry) stated in his speech at Shelby Springs that he was a Ku Klux, and I see your Democratic papers in Alabama say that Watt Brown is the Ku Klux candidate for Governor.

Mr. Atkinson, you have been hard pressed for issues ever since you have been in the Democratic party. Do you remember when you were in the Republican party trying to get an office at the hands of the Republicans, how you used to write and say that the Republican party was the hope of the people. When you left the Republican party you were an applicant for appointment as United States District Attorney. If you had been appointed to that job by the Republicans, and were still serving in that position, would you at this time be a Democrat or a Republican? I believe your readers and political followers would like to see you answer that question in your newspaper.

You have taken advantge of your newspaper to show your dislike and hate for me personally. I have no newspaper; but as you have attempted to bring the affairs of the Methodist ladies into politics; and inasmuch as you promised a few years ago that you would have a joint discussion with me at the courthouse to thrash out our differences; now, would not Saturday, August 9th be a good time to have this joint discussion?

I assure you it will be a very great

MOORE'S DRUG STORE IN NEW QUARTERS SATURDAY

Mr. H. T. Simms and Mr. Glenn W. Moore, owners of what was Moore's Drug Store in the Mullins building, are this week moving into the building arranged for them where Hodges' store was, near Jones Hardware Company. These gentlemen state that they will be ready to serve the public in their new place Saturday of this week.

This will be a spic and span little place. The building is a beauty inside and out, and the fixtures, although the same as used by Moore's, are real nice, and when arranged in the new place, will be good to look upon.

Messrs. Simms and Moore invite the people of Clanton and Chilton County to come to see them in their new location.

REVIVAL AT FRIENDSHIP NEXT WEEK

The summer revival at Friendship will begin Sunday, August 3rd at 11 o'clock, and will continue on into the week some time. The pastor, Rev. A. L. Foshee, will preach Sunday and Sunday night; Rev. J. S. Holland of Tallassee will be there Monday morning, and will do the preaching from then on.

The public has a cordial invitation to attend both the day and night services—at 11:00 o'clock and 7:30.

PUBLIC SPEAKING AT CANE CREEK SATURDAY NIGHT

There seems to be but little interest taken in the coming election, and I have been thinking for some time that I would try to have a political speaking at Cane Creek. I have invited Judge Reynolds and Mr. J. Z. Mims to come out here next Saturday night, August 2nd and speak. Judge Reynolds has already agreed to come and speak then. And candidates for various offices are invited to be with us. Very truly,—J. S. Dennis.

Singing School Close

A kind of community gathering, singing and water melon cutting marked the closing day of the Devaughn singing school at Thomas Junior High School last Saturday. A number of the patrons of the school as well as other citizens of the community and singers from near by gathered at the school building, and after an hour of old-time handshaking and conversing together, all gathered in the house for singing. With the exception of a short but pointed speech by Rev. J. A. Raines, the morning was taken up with singing directed by students of the school. Some excellent singing was done by the students, assisted by other singers who had dropped in.

At noon dinner was spread underneath the spreading oaks, and another hour of sociability was enjoyed by everybody. A good rain had just fallen, for which everybody was thankful, and a general good time was enjoyed at the noon hour.

In the afternoon still other singers and listeners gathered, which made the crowd more jolly and even in better spirits than before. The afternoon was used for singing; some directing was done by visitors but most was by students of the school. The singing in the afternoon was exceptionally good, and everyone—both singers and listeners—seemed to enjoy it.

After the singing was closed a dozen or two fine watermelons, which were furnished by the good people of the community, were taken out under the trees and butchered. It is needless to explain that this was an enjoyable feature of the day, because anyone can guess how such an event is usually enjoyed. If this was any exception as a water melon cutting, it was a little bit the best ever held.

The day as a whole, like the singing school which it marked the closing of, was one long to be remembered and the effects of which will remain in the hearts of the attendants on down through the ages.

AUBURN OFFERS NEW DAIRY SHORT COURSE

Auburn, Ala., July 28.—To increase the service it is rendering the farmers of Alabama, the College of Agriculture of the Alabama Polyaechnic Institute will give a short course in dairying January 26 to February 28, 1931. Announcement of this is made by Professor A. D. Burke, head of the dairying department. He says that it will be the first short course on dairying to be offered in Alabama.

"These courses have been arranged for busy men who find it impossible to enroll for the regular college term," Professor Burke said. "The work will be given in the winter when farm and dairy plant work is least pressing." The instruction will include discussions of the latest developments in dairying and also practical work in the laboratories.

Two separate courses are offered, one for farmers and dairymen and one for dairy manufacturers. That for manufacturers includes testing dairy products, market milk in the plant, butter making, and ice cream making, and the other will include testing dairy herd improvement.

Those who attend the courses will have the opportunity of studying in the new Animal Husbandry and Dairy Building and the new dairy barn which have just been completed. A dairy manufacturing plant is being installed in the new building now and will provide facilities for the manufactured office cream, cheese, buttermilk, bottle milk, and other dairy products.

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS

The Auburn method of fertilizing cotton is popular with fertlizer dealers and the bankers as well as farmers in Walker County, County Agent J. W. Sartain reports. He says that C. C. Smith of Jasper sold more material for mixing fertilizer for cotton and nitrate of soda for side-dressing this year than ever before. After seeing crops of cotton and corn fertilized the Auburn way for several years Mr. Smith endorses the Auburn plan.

The business of the Jefferson County Truck Growers' Association showed a $20,000 increase over the previous year for the 12 months ending July 1. County Agent J. L. Liles reports that business handled to date this calendar year has been larger than ever before.

L. M. Hollingsworth, county agent of Randolph County, says that the cotton market reports being broadcast three times daily by Station WAPI are proving interesting and helpful to people of the Wedowee territory. The reports are marked on a blackboard where they might be seen by all interested.

SWEET POTATOES GROW FROM LEAF CUTTINGS

Auburn, Ala., July 28—A new and interesting method of propagating sweet potatoes has been discovered by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Dr. C. L. Isbell, horticulturist, has found that leaves, or parts of leaves, may be used for propagation.

So far as is known, this has never been done before, but Dr. Isbell succeeded in getting six different types of leaf cuttings to regenerate roots quickly.

This method of propagation may have commercial value since the leaves and parts of leaves rooted so readily. Dr. Isbell found that even "when the leaf blade was removed from a leaf cutting the remaining petiole had the power to regenerate a root," and that "leaf blades or parts of leaf blades with or without the petiole regenerated roots and shoots."

At present, sweet potatoes are usually propagated by two methods. One method calls for bedding potatoes which produce plants, and the other for making cuttings of vines and planting them where they are to grow. If there is enough moisture the pines take root quickly, though the bedding system is usually employed.

In warmer climates seed are used. it is known that parts of potatoes may be used the same as Irish potatoes, but this does not seem to have commercial value.

AGRICULTURE IS A BIG BUSINESS

Agriculture is the biggest business in the United States. It is also the biggest business in Alabama, since it employs, or at least three-fourths of the population of the State is directly or indirectly dependent on the soil for a livelihood. Unless the farmer prospers and flourishes, no other class can flourish and prosper. just at present the nationwide depression can hardly be lifted until the farmer grows a good crop and gets a profitable price for his produce.

The farmer with his vast and varied buying power and his production of billions of dollars worth of crops, cannot prosper unless he receives a living wage for his produce. He cannot prosper unless he makes a good crop. The country will gradually pull out of its depression just as soon as it is known that a good crop and good prices are in prospect.

FARMERS WATCH COTTON PRICES DAILY

Selling a bale of cotton is half the farmer's problem, raising it is the other half. Selling cotton is now a job requiring constant study in order to sell it to the best of advantage, in the opinion of Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture. With cotton now selling between eleven and twelve cents, it will be necessary for farmers to make every effort in order to sell for as high a price as possible.

The State Department of Agriculture is performing a great daily service in giving crop and market news to the farmer and others. It is now possible for a farmer with a radio receiving set to receive cotton prices, middling basis, three times daily, from the studio of the Department of Agriculture.

This important spot cotton news comes direct from the great markets of Liverpool, England, New Orleans and New York. These markets control in marked degree the cotton prices of the world. Their prices are brought to the Alabama farmer three times daily.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture gathers market prices from all over the United States daily. These prices are assembled in Washington and telegraphed direct to Montgomery where they are later sent over the radio to the farm fireside.

One farmer reported that he could not always leave the duties to listen to the radio market. He therefore trained an illiterate colored servant with remarkable memory to remember cotton prices. This servant never failed to get Montgomery spots, the average rise or fall of cotton prices and the general trend of the market.

J. H. MARTIN WRITES

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

We realize the 12th of August will soon be here, and it seems as most all of the candidates are stirring around. I have been trying to see as many of the voters as I possibly could for the last few weeks, but it is almost impossible to see and talk with them all.

The one particular thing that I am trying to impress on the minds of all the voters is to be very, very careful in making your selections. The time is here now when we need men in office who are pure, and men that will stand up for the rights of our people, and be loyal to our party.

Dear voters, it is very easy to get men to stand pat as long as every thing is rolling along smoothly. But when something goes wrong, then we don't know just where to look for them. I have been working for the Republican party for forty-one years, and have always tried to help elect men to fill the offices of our county that would try to carry on the work in a way that would benefit the people best.

And one thing Mr. Voter, I will assure you if I am elected for your Commissioner in the First District, I am going to do everything in my power to be of good service to you. I am quite an advocate of equal rights to all and special favors to none.

Mr. Editor, I notice in last week's paper something was said about turning on the search light. I say raise the dimmer and let the light shine.

Now, in conclusion I want to ask you again to consider well before casting your vote on election day, and try to elect a man that will stand by the people and for the people and for the walfare of our county. and if I am elected, that is where you will find me, working for the interest of our people, and if I am defeated you will still find me working for the Republican party.

Yours for success,
J. H. MARTIN.

W. R. HOLDITCH WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me small space in your paper to say just a few words in regard to L. H. Bean, candidate for School Board.

I have known this man over thirty years. I have always found him to be honest and reliable. I believe he will do every thing that he can in regard to giving us relief in this present school administration. I also believe he will keep a close watch on the board and will keep the people posted along this line. And I can cheerfully reccomend him to the voters of this county.

So go to the polls on August 12 and vote for L. H. Bean for member of the School Board of Education.

W. R. HOULDITCH.

W. H. Sartor -- The Fair

Some difficulty was encountered in securing the material for this little story, because it appears that Mr. Sartor has a little bit of touchiness about folks finding out how old he is. So we will hurry over the preliminaries and get started with the story. However, we can not get cranked off without saying that Mr. Sartor has been on the scene of activity in Clanton perhaps longer than any of his neighbors of to-day.

Really and truly it may be said that the position which Mr. Sartor occupies as one of the leading business men of our town has been a long and tedious process in which he has risen from the lowliest beginning. During his career he has encountered various degrees of success and misfortune, but he has come out of every crisis with renewed courage, and tackled the problems of life with new vim and determination. The story of W. H. Sartor is a romance of the building of the town of Clanton.

He first worked at a brick yard owned by Alex G. Dake, and operated near where the Chilton County High School now stands. He got 25 cents a day for driving a yoke of steers to turn the mud mill. It was there that the brick was made to build the first jail house in Clanton.

His next job was with the people who built the jail. On that job he got 50 cents a day. The jail was built of brick with wooden walls inside. Nails were driven into the wooden walls so close together that the heads formed a steel lining. And Mr. Sartor declares it was a good jail, because very few prisoners were ever able to get out of it.

When Randolph ran a saw mill near where the freight depot is now located, Mr. Sartor had a job rolling sawdust at 75 cents a day. From there he was promoted to a job of clerking in the store of Capt J. H. Hannon. There he worked in the busy season of the fall for three or four years at $10 a month and boarded himself. When the fall season was over and business in the store was not rushing, he went back to rolling sawdust, or doing other "light" jobs about the community, as the opportunity appeared.

The first real position which Mr. Sartor held was in the store of R. Ehrman, the Jew merchant and saw mill man, who was the hub of Clanton's business operations for many years. In this store he worked for fifteen years, starting in at $30 a month. He was getting $60 a month when he quit. In the store of R. Ehrman, Mr. Sartor sold the first goods that went out of the building now occupied by Mullins & Moore. It was a bolt of cotton checks.

Newt Kicker also worked for Ehrman during the same period with Mr. Sartor. They were buddies. While they worked for Ehrman they made their plans to go into business for themselves. They entered an agreement to save a certain amount each month until they had accumulated enough surplus cash to start out on their own hook. At the end of fifteen years they had reached their goal. Then they left Ehrman and formed the partnership of Sartor & Kicker. They were in business for five years, occupying an old wooden building that stood back of W. L. Sampey's store. Sampey's was on the corner where the Farmers Hardware Store now stands.

After five years of successful business together Sartor bought out Kicker's interest, and moved the business to the corner where The Fair is now located. The business was known as W. H. Sartor & Sons. Then when Mr. V. J. Elmore came to Clanton, he assumed a half interest in the Sartor business, and the name of Elmore's was given to the concern. This partnership continued for about eight years. Mr. Sartor bought Mr. Elmore's interest two years ago. Since that time Mr. Sartor has had complete control of the business, operating under the name of The Fair.

"The golden rule has always been my motto in business and in life," said Mr. Sartor. "I have always treated the other fellow just as I would like for him to treat me. When I make a thousand dollars, I hand over a hundred of it to the Lord, because I believe it all belongs to him. Then I give what I can besides that. I have always considered that I was working for the Lord, managing the business which he placed in my hands."

Mr. Sartor is one of the most universally loved men of this community. He has always been of much usefulness. He is a Mason and a Woodman, and a member of the Baptist Church. When sorrow and misfortune comes to anyone, you will always find W. H. Sartor on the scene, ready to help, to comfort and to cheer.

Austrian free traders, who are fairly numerous and very soaked with lore which Britain produced in and about its transition days, argue with great intensity that Australia should follow Britain's example. They are mostly a bookish lot with no personal experience of industrial affairs or national finance. The point they most persistently overlook is that Australia has none of the reasons which led its parent to his remarkable experiment and plenty of those which led the United States and Germany in the opposite direction.—Sydney Bulletin.

The speech of Dictator Joseph Stalin before the recent Communist Congress as Moscow filled thirty-seven pages of fine print. If the Russian peasants could eat words fewer of them would starve to death.

"Let us have America for Americans and none but Americans for America," cry the Hearst papers, which recently joined forty foreign nations and the international bankers and industrialists in demanding that our tariff laws be written in the interests o falienism and in ternationalism rather than for the protection of the American wage-earner and farmer.

The American capitalists who are equipping manufacturing plants and mechanized farms in Soviet Russia are not a new type of business man. There were the border traders who sold guns and whiskey to the Indians.

The census shows that the number of unemployed in the country is about two million. These figures have been greatly exceeded in former depressions. If industrial conditions in the United States had been as bad during the past few months as they have been portrayed by politicians who think they see votes in hard times, the vast expansion of private credit under the deferred payment plan would have caused a credit explosion in the United States which would have been heard 'round the world.

The Senate is said to have used five mollion words in discussing the tariff, which proves at least that the tariff doesn't interfere with the natural supply of verbosity.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

With European nations constantly speeding up their production and supplying their own wants, American students of economic affairs are coming more and more to the opinion that we ought to cultivate closer relations with the states of Central and South America. The people of these neighboring republics are purchasing from us in increasing quantities manufactured goods which they do not produce for themselves, and they are sending us in increasing quantities their commodities which we need but cannot produce for ourselves. Here is the ideal situation for the increase of international trade. Competition is at a minimum and there is an increasing demand for the exchange of products.

Some of our professional liberals who like to promote European welfare under the guise of internationalism have for years been trying to promote misunderstanding between Uncle Sam and his neighbors to the South. They have done this by questioning our motives in dealing with Latin-American countries. They have called us imperialists and have charged that we sought to dominate the countries of Latin-America, economically and politically. This in spite of the fact that we have not sought to increase our territorial possessions in Central and South America, when it would have been easy to do so, but have, on the other hand, followed each intervention with a withdrawal of our forces as soon as the peace and safety of the unhappy nation justified it. In all of their mouthings our own internationalists or professional liberals have been aided and abetted by the press and the diplomacy of Europe. For Europe has watched the growth of our trade with Latin-America with a jealous eye and is naturally anxious to do everything to prevent more amicable relations between North and South America.

But the task of the professional liberals and European propagandists has become increasingly difficult during the past few years as the people of the United States and of the Latin-American nations have become better acquainted. The happy outcome of our last intervention in Nicaragua with the supervision of the general election by our marines, has only served to increase the difficulties of the anti-American propagandists. And doubtless their task has not been made any easier by the announcement of the fact that at the request of the Nicaraguans themselves, Americans will supervise the elections in the little Central American republic next fall. For Capt. Alfred W. Johnson, former chief of the Division of Naval Intelligence at Washington, according to recent press dispatches, has sailed for Nicaragua for the purpose of supervising the elections. And he is to be assisted in this undertaking by some of the regular officers and noncommissioned officers of the Marine Corps, the army and the navy of the United States. These officials have been carefully selected for their knowledge of the Spanish laungage and of Central Amercian affairs.

Here is the best of the fairness of the election of 1928 in Nicarauga as conducted by the American officers, and as the New York Times recently remarked the assistance to be rendered is the more effective because it "rests not on force but on character, not on arms but on the ability of the American personnel to convince the voters and the candidates that fair play will be rigidly enforced."

All of which is especially gratifying when we remember the direful predictions which were being made by our professional liberals a short time ago as to the effect of our intervention in Nicaraguan affairs in the interests of the lives and property not only of aliens but of the people of Nicaragua themselves. They told us that Uncle Sam had embarked on a program of high handed imperialism which would for all time to come estrange us from Latin-America and would raise up a multitude of enemies against us south of the equator. Quite the reverse has been true Our relations with Latin-America were never better. Certainly the mission of Captain Johnson and the other Amarican officers to Nicaragua at the request of the Nicaraguan government is convincing evidence of this.

U. S. CAVALRY IS STILL IMPORTANT

There is an impression more or less general among civilians that the airplane and the armored tank have put the cavalry unit in the discard so far as modern worfare is concerned. This idea is howéver erroneous and according to Oliver McKee, Jr., writing in the current issue of the National Republic, the cavalry is not only stil with us but has acquired motors and an air service of its own, although it has by no means dispensed with the horse and the historic old army mule. In an interesing article under caption, "The cavalry is still with us." Mr. McKee says in part.

"Gen. 'Phil' Sheridan would rub his eyes no doubt for a moment if assigned to a regular American cavalry division of today. For he would find many things to wonder at—machine guns, an airplane squadron armored motors and other products, the mechanical and motor age. But he would not wonder long once he got in the sadle. For the spirit of the troopers of today is the same as that of the men led by Sheridan and other famous cavalry leaders of the past. The horse is still king. Mobility remains the sovereign virtue of the the arm of the service which gave Black Jack Pershing his early traning and if the cavalrymen recognizes the value of the inventions of the mechanical age, he uses them only as luxries enabling him to use the horse to better advantage.

"In the past year or so, American cavalry has been better reorganized from top to bottom. The reorganization has been effected in order to enable this mounted service better to discharge its mission, whether in peace or in war. A reduction in overhead and in increase in fire power have been the principal objectives of the reorganization. The cavalry has kept well abreast of the developments in motorization, with the result, that a cavalry division has a great deal of motor equipment. Indeed experiments have been made by which horses and men are transported by truck to the theater of probable operations, and the experiments seem to indicate that by the use of trucks not only will time be saved, but there will be a saving, too, in the wear and tear on the horses.

"The armored car squadron is one of the latest additions to the cavalry division. This will consist of a small squadron headquarters and three armored car troops. It will have all told thirty-six armored cars, and eighteen officers and 260 enlisted men. The armored car squadron can perform many services to the cavalry division of real value and the cavalry is the first to recognize and appreciate the help that can be given to him in this way.

"Another newcomer in the cavalry division is the light tank company. The cavalry has been using the same tank as the infantry pending the development of a light tank especially suited to cavalry operations. The new light tank under development will, it is expected, be of great lightness and mobility, thus increasing its value to the cavalry."

Confession may be good for the soul, but not for the defendant's lawyer.—Toledo Blade.

Stanley Baldwin, Tory leader, said in a recent address: "High tariffs interfere with busines but you will never get any country to reduce its tariff so long as it has freedom from our markets where it can dump anything it likes." With 54,000,000 people the United Kingdom collects a half billion dollars a year in tariffs. With 120,000,000 people we collect annually $600,000,000 in tariffs. In other words, the United Kingdom collects over twice as much per capita in tariffs as we do. And British statesman and their echos in the United States talk about free trade England retained relationship against the high tariff policies against the United States!

Every college professor and politician who talks about the glories of internationalism has some additional scheme to suggest whereby American interests shall be sacrificed to foreign interests. The American people have given till it hurts, but they are now told that they must give until they go broke.

The international bankers and industrialists who have acquired two thousand factories in the cheap labor markets of foreign lands and now through their politicians and journalists tells us that it would be a fine friendly gesture for us to let the American wage earner lay off work and let import swamp the American market, may not be so altruistic as they profess to be.

A visitor from Aberdeen at a Liverpool hotel inquired about the board charges. The figures being rather high, Sandy exclaimed.

"How much do you charge for garaging my car?"

No charge, whatever, he was told.

"Well, then," decided Sandy, "I will sleep in my car tonight."—Liverpool Post.

The American people are not so anxious about the high costs of living under a protective tariff as they are about the cost of low living under the alternative policy.

The internationalists who keep telling Americans how beutiful it is for them to make sacrifices for world welfare would have a hard time telling their hearers what sacrifices any other nation has made or is contemplating in behalf of the United States.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

The POTTER will continue this week with a description of his trip to the west coast and return. Opening the story last week, we were somewhat limited by space to get very far along with the story. We find that we will be forced to little more than skim over the top of the trip in telling of it, however, we expect to give the high spots—the most interesting places and things noted.

Too, we will have to cut short the story a little each week in order to comment on local items and happenings of interest as we go along. You see, if we did not do this we would be so far behind with our regular "line" by the time we finish with the trip that we never could catch up again. So, here we take up the trip.

We finally got through the Chinese puzzle which makes up the passage through "Lousy Arna" and stopped at a tourist camp six miles west of Monroe, La. We saw nothing of special interest in Monroe. The first night when we stopped our speedometer read 523 miles, so Monroe COULD have been interesting—we were a bit too tired to appreciate it though, if it was. Only one thing of interest was noted here—the great number of oil wells. And, too, we saw five of these on fire at one time. The low swamp lands in this region look like they had had a bath in oil, all black and everything. In short, it looked to us like the oil business had just about ruined the tree growth in this section. Great areas we saw without a living tree—overflowing oil wells killed it—big, little, old, and young.

Arising early Tuesday morning in order to be allowed to drive over a stretch of cement west of Monroe, which is open for passage to tourists from 6:00 p. m., to 6:00 a. m., while the men are not working on the road, we saved quite a bit of detouring. Reaching Shreveport, we noted the immense refining plant of the Louisiana Oil Refining Co., makers and distributors of "Loreco" gasoline and oils. Here we bought gasoline for 23 cents a gallon—in the back yard there were two oil wells in 30 steps of the pump which served us. We noted "dog-goned, confounded, pusillanimous" K. W. Henderson's KWKH radio broadcasting station towers, and then found a cafe for breakfast.

Not so very far in Texas we came to Edgewood, a town so named because only about two miles beyond is where the "real West begins." Here the tree growth, as we know it, just about plays out. There is some kind of desert bush which grows beyond the tree line, but even that gets to be smaller and smaller the further west you go, until finally it, too, gives way to the catclaw, cactus, and other real desert growth.

Along in this section, too, one comes to the "black prarie land" you have heard so much about. And when you heard it called BLACK land you heard right. It is really black—about like the soot from a chimney. Our bottom land is black, but not like that. A fairly good crop grows on it, too. although very little fertilizer is used. Here in this country black land denotes richness, but not there. As far as you can see down by the side of the road where road excavations have been made the same degree of blackness prevails, yet about the same variation in crops prevails there as here—some good farms, and some not so good, which serves to show that it is not the quality of the land so much as the farmer and his methods which determines the yield, just as it does here or anywhere else.

And then on into Dallas and Fort Worth, two BIG cities only 35 miles apart. In fact, they are nearly one city. A nice highway connects them, which, for most of the distance, is a 4-lane affair. That is, if you are traveling west you drive in the lane next the edge of the road until you overtake a vehicle which is not traveling as fast as you are, then dip around him and back to the edge again. In this way you can drive as fast or as slow as you please. There is no traffic congestion. This little section of road is the best sclution of the traffic problem we have ever seen—as systematic as clock-work.

The further west you go the smaller the growth, cultivated or not, unless it be in one of the many irrigated regions. Of course, we finally get out to where there is no farming unless by irrigation. We saw, time after time, beautiful level farms with pretty crops, palm trees, etc., on one side of the road—all the result of irrigation—while on the other was nothing but a barren waste as far as your eye could see. It brought to mind the story we heard of the land salesman in the west who was showing a bunch of prospects over the land he had for sale. He showed them all the pretty, improved land with its luxurious growth, and finished his spiel by speaking thus: "You can see, my friends, that all this country needs is good people and water." An old-timer over on the edge of the bunch hitched up his trousers, and said: "Huh, brother, that's all hell needs."

Some 60 miles west of Fort Worth is the city of Mineral Wells—the prettiest city we saw on the whole trip. It is REALLY pretty. The slogan of the Chamber of Commerce of Mineral Wells, Texas, is "Where America Drinks Its Way To Health." We found out why they say that—stopping at a filling station, the POTTER got the best drink of water he ever tasted. We were told that Mineral Wells is a health resort, depending entirely upon the upbuilding qualities of its air and water, and from our short stay there, we can easily believe every word of it. That's another place the POTTER has set aside to visit again and stay a few weeks in.

We took a cabin Tuesday night at Palo Pinto, 12 miles west of Mineral Wells, and drove to Abilene Wednesday morning, a distance of 106 miles, before breakfast. The thing about this section that impressed us most is the number of really BIG cities one passes through. You look at your road map and spot the "next town"—when you get there you run into traffic tie-ups, stop-lights, etc., which indicate a city of size and importance where you expect to find a small flag station. One town we were particularly fooled in was Breckenridge, Texas, and which will serve to illustrate to good advantage this part of our story. We expected to find a town about the size of Clanton—Lo and Behold—when we got there we were so bewildered we were almost run over by a street car, got balled out by a traffic cop, and got dizzy looking at the tall buildings. Maybe it wasn't so bad as all that, but it IS surprising the number of really BIG towns in this section of the country.

Along about 10:00 a. m.. of Wednesday we began to suffer from the desert heat for the first time. By that time we were somewhere near the middle of Texas, or maybe a bit past the middle. And it isn't the sun that burns in the desert, but the dry, hot wind. It gets into your nose and suffocates, parches your lips and face, while the sand stings like fire. From here on into El Paso, where we stayed Wendesday night, the trip brings about the same kind of scenery before one—mile after mile of open country—here and there a bunch of "white-face" cattle grazing, if they can find a grassy streak—here and there a short mountain strip which cools one off a bit. This part of Texas is really a tempering process for the REAL desert to be found in Arizona and New Mexico and eastern California.—"JACK."

THE LEARNED COLLEGE PROF.

One of the thousand college professors who recently joined forty other unselfish foreign powers in protesting in the American protective tariff the other morning threw off a sheet made in England by workmen receiving half the American wage drew on a pair of socks made by French workmen receiving forty per cent of the American wage, cotton underware made by the East Indian workmen at one tenth the American wage, a pair of shoes made by Czechoslovakians working at one fourth the American wage had a suit of clothes made by cloth woven by Scottish workmen receiving thirty per cent of the American wage and a hat made in Italy by workmen receiving twenty-five per cent of the American wage, took up a walking stick made in China by coolies receiving one tenth of the American wage, and repaired to a store where he bought his wife a set of dishes made by Chinnese toilers receiving one eighth the American wage, then ordered up a few tons of coal mined by soviet surfs working at fifty cents a day and noticing on his way home a number of idle American textile workers, hosiers, pottery makers, shoe workers hat makers and miners, sent in his membership to an organization engaged in securing social justice for American tailors and started a learned brochure on "The cause and cure of unemployment in the United States.

The New York Times prints a dispatch from itsParis correspondent stating that as a result of new american tariff law Europe is considering the application of a quota or contogent system to the import of American motor cars. It is a well known fact both in Europe and the United States that this embargo system against products has not been discussed in Europe for four years, but has partially been put into effect. The import of American cars into Austria has been limited to a total of less than 75. It would not be a bad idea if some of the American metropolitan newspapers would begin to discuss our tariff relations with Eunrope from the American rather than the European viewpoint.

A report of the Federal Trade Commission shows how a combination of Canadian paper companies which would be prohibited in the United States under the anti-trust, under pressure from two Canadian provincial premiers, raised the price of print paper to American publishers $5 a ton and is planning to make another hoist of $5 a ton. With paper on the free list of the business of supplying American newspapers with paper stock has been driven to Canada and American newspaper are now learning something about how free trade destroys monopolistic trimming to the consumer.

The latest Red rebellion in Mexico in which twenty people were killed, was the results of organizations perfected by agents of the Soviet government working from the late soviet embassy in Mexico. What wonder that the radicals and the "liberals" call so loudly for the Russian recognition and a Soviet headquarters at Washington.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

E. H. Mims, of Concord said last Saturday: "I notice in the paper where Bill Hays has some fine peaches at his farm at Thorsby. I want to show you what I have in that line." He carried me out to his car, and there he had them. No doubt about it, peaches as fine as any we have seen. And, by the way, I think there has never been more fine peaches any time anywhere than in Chilton County this year. As he went away, Mr. Mims said: "Just for fun, tell Bill I have peaches on my outside rows that are better than those he had down here last week."

Did the Shriners have a good time on their visit to Clanton and Lay Dam last Thursday afternoon? If you ask me that question, I would say yes, and by a big majority. The festivities at Lay Dam were cut somewhat short by the big rain that came up just as the barbecue was being finished, but it was a joyful occasion after all.

I was interested to notice in the papers recently that Broadus Connatser, playing first base with the Terre Haute, Indiana Club, is up at the top of the Three-eye League in batting average. Week before last he was the league leader. In the Sunday summary for last week he was in second place. His many friends regret that they do not get to see more of this player. He ought to be playing at home in the Southern League. He is a member of the New Orleans Club.

When I called in at W. W. Fox's store Monday morning for the usual word of cheer from "Uncle Will," I was greeted by Miss Genie Collins, who promptly offered to sell me anything or everything in the store, which was the first I knew about this popular lady being on the sales force. Miss Collins is known by a whole raft of folks throughout Chilton County. She served for four years as County Treasurer, where she became acquainted with many people. She will be glad for her friends to call on her at the Fox Store, and if she can possibly sell you anything, she will certainly do it.

The visit of Newt Askins to Clanton last week brought back to me some memories of the past. I thought of the times when Newt and Calvin Wilson were beginning their career as soda jerkers at Upchurch's. For a number of years these boys have been in business for themselves, Calvin at Montevallo and Newt at Alexander City.

Fenn Jones is making a mighty nice place out of the old Hodges Building. When it is occupied by the new drug store of Mr. Sims, it will be one of the most attractive places in Clanton. There are lots of people who do business on that side of the street between the banks and the courthouse, and it will be right handy for them to get drinks and smokes on that side of the street.

I notice that the place which has been occupied by Nettles Grocery Co., is vacant. They folded their tents like Arabs, and silently stole away. Few people knew about their departure until they were gone.

As I was down on the main drag Tuesday afternoon one of the big freight trucks came oozing into town, pulled up toward the curb, scraped a piece of the fender off a Chevrolet that was parked "in its way." When he pulled out he "cut the corner," and a couple of cars had to dodge like the dickens to keep from getting bumped. The only time I ever wish Loss Robinson was on the police force is when I see one of those big trucks acting like the town belonged to it.

NOT FAULT OF GOVERNMENT

The Macon, Ga., Telegraph says:

"But what do the soviet leaders want with propagandists in this country where judges sentence one man to twenty years on the chain gang for stealing a ham and another to one year in prison for stealing a bank?"

Such propagandists are needed by the soviet leaders in this country to supplement the efforts of well meaning but thoughtless editorial writers who attempt to create the impression that instances such as those cited by the Macon editor are typical of American justice as administered by judges and juries under the American Constitution and laws.

Such subversions of justice as those cited may occur among the hundreds of thousands of cases decided in American criminal courts, though usually the illustration used is that of the starving man sent to prison for stealing a loaf of bread for his famished family, while the criminal goes free who stole a million dollars. That such occasional, and mostly mythical, incidents are so characteristic of our form of government that they constitute a nation-wide argument for the case of bolshevism, under which the Macon editor would have been jailed or shot for such a comment as he has safely made in America, is of course untrue.

For every instance of a man sent to jail for stealing a ham, it is possible to point to hundreds of cases where judges and juries in cases calling for mercy, have extended it, in acquittals or suspended sentences. For every bank official guilty of looting a bank who escapes either detection or punishment, there are a good many ham-stealers, since the ham-thief offends only against a single individual, while the looter of a bank has a host of injured depositors after his scalp.

Our criminal laws are made by the representatives of the people. Our judges in the courts which try ham thieves are chosen by the people, and the juries by lot from among the people. If they go wrong, it is not an indictment of our form of government which argues for a military autocracy such as that which has stamped out human liberty in Russia. It is an indictment of individuals, of states and of localities which have failed in their duty under the laws. It does not bolster the cause of bolshevism, which rejects and denounces all reformist programs and movements.

France is again said to be in a state of irratation against the United States. But France has never got over her grouch over the sending of two million Americans soldiers to the western front. Just imagine how sore France would have got if we had sent four million and canceled all the debt.

The rebellion in East India has almost destroyed American export trade in that quarter, and doubtless that is one of the reasons why our "American" radicals and "liberals" are whooping it up for Gandhi.

A statue to President Buchanan has been dedicated in Washington. That statue should have had the inscription "He was too proud to fight" on one side of it and "He kept us out of war" on the other.

If the Senate and the stock market could both be induced to adjourn the country might be able to stagger to its feet again.

It is really surprising how the new tariff law has cut down commodity prices and caused depression all over the world, but cheaper living is not what the opposition to the new law is not what the opposition to the new law promised us under an increased tariff.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

REMEMBER THE DAYS OF OLD, CONSIDER THE YEARS OF MANY GENERATIONS

The text is found in Deuteronomy 32:7. This was the farewell address of Moses. I beg you to read the 32 and 33 chapters of Deutronomy in connection with this study. Moses says in obidence to God: Remember." "Remember the days of old." Your mind clings to this statement. It could not be unorthodox because Moses spoke it, and God made him write it. He tells you and me to remember the days of old.

There is a great deal said in the Bible about "Remember." That is, we are to recall these wonderful lessons of old this morning. Certainly the word "remember" plays an important role in the teachings of God's word. This brings to our mind the importance of rightly observing the 4th commandment by keeping it holy unto the Lord. It is the only commandment which God wrote with His finger using the word "remember." He says, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." That is, this commandment is so important that God began with the word remember.

Visiting in the far east as one looks upon those pillows of salt near the Salt Sea he thinks of God's word which says "remember Lot's wife." To impress it more deeply on the mind is the fact that Lot's wife is embalmed in one of them. We are to remember Lot's wife to be careful that we worship not the world and the things of the world, but to look at all times to the true and living God who giveth all things. "Remember Lot's wife." Remember the frailties of the human heart to walk not therein.

Again in God's word we read the words, "Remember the days for the time is short." Friends, you would be suprised the number of times this sentence comes to me. There it is in God's word to you and to me. He says this to all of us. It comes to us in God's word, the Bible, the only book to all mankind. It is "The Book," a different book from all other books and all other teachings "Remember the days of old." You say, "What is it to remember?" It is a faculty of the mind and soul that recalls things of the past. It brings to my mind a stanza of the poet:

"I remember the place where I was born,
I remember the window that looked out upon the lawn."

This memory is so important that I love to think about it. If I did not have it I would not know you in heaven and you would not know me there if you did not have it. It was so important then that it will last forever. A man said to me, "Why in the world do you live so much in the past?" I said, "The past is loaded with blessings of family relationships, desires to educate men and women in the bible, strict adherence to the truth, lives as pure as the drifting snow that falls upon the sod." You just stop to remember the days of old.

The first thought that comes to you is that old homestead with its many hallowed and sacred memories. I remember that old fashioned homestead in eastern South Carolina. I can never forget it. I remembered it this morning as I walked across the street to church. I could hear the music of the cypress trees and the wind pealing in the cedar trees and whispernig in shrilling tones through the long leaf pines. No music in the mountains of Lebanon can equal that of the cypress, the cedars, and the great tops of the long leaf pines of that dear old homestead.

In the book of proverbs we are commanded to remember the ancient land marks. So far as I am concerned the ancient land marks which my humble father and mother set is like the old homestead, unsurpassed. Their example of Bible study and worship service to me is very thrilling. I just go back there and go with them to church and sit throughout the service. O just to sing with them again such songs as, "O Happy Day," "Come to Jesus now." There is nothing in all this world that can keep my mind from clinging to and cherishing those ancient land marks. They are truly one of the greatest inspirations which can come into the heart and mind of any right thinking man or woman.

God used Solomon, no doubt before he had failed so desperately to live for Him, to write these words in the song of Solomon: "Remember my love." God comes to you and me, "Remember how I have loved you from of old. Remember how I lead Israel out of Egyptian bondage into a promised land of freedom. Remember this morning how greatly I love you." I remember how my kind earthly father and my dear, sweet mother loved me. I remember how they taught me to love my heavenly Father. I remember my first picture of Jesus which my gentle mother in great tenderness placed before my eyes. I remember their going away. I remember it as I return from speaking the last sad rites over the sleeping body of friends. And yet it is sad but true that some men never think of that. How can I forget their love? How can we forget the love of our heavenly Father?

He says, "Remember my love. I have loved you with an everlasting love. I have loved you with a strong love, and I have drawn you to my heart with the cart ropes of my love. I have loved you with an unchanging love. 'Heaven and earth may pass away, but my love will live forever.' I loved you away back yonder when you were an infant and when you knelt at your mother's knees. I have loved you with a great love. I loved you with a matchless love." Next we read that God's banner of love is over us. O such love, such matchless love. It is the love of the Saviour's blessings.

These old Testament heroes wrote down their experiences, and in one God says, "Remember my covenant." Now a covenant is an agreement between two persons, God and man, or man and man. God is just saying, "Remember my promises to you." The reason Moses was not permitted to put his feet in the promised land was because he broke his covenant with God. I remember the covenant I made with God away back yonder in South Carolina. Do you remember the covenant you made with God? The covenant which I made was this: "If I would believe in Him, repent of my sins, confess my sins and be sorry because of them, forsake my sins and keep His laws, looking to the Saviors for salvation that He would save my soul." Friends, this I promised to do after my heart was cleansed in the blood of Jesus Christ. If I break this covenant I will lie. I will lie to God, my home, my state and nation. He is saying to us this morning, "I want you to keep my covenant with you and your family." O, to remember the ancient land marks when there was not such a thing as a divorce because the people had such a sense of the sacredness of truth in keeping a covenant. O, to remember the ancient land marks when there was such a sense of a church covenant. Men wrote down covenants as if they were writing with a pen of steel that they were going to stand by Christ, the Bible, and the Sabbath day, and the church. They kept such covenants undefiled and in unadulterated truth, such is love.

A love covenant is the linking of men to Christ, and is pure and holy when written with the blood of Jesus Christ. It is love that makes one remember to do God's commandments. God writes, "Remember my law." Friends, we are to remember God's law, and truly no man can keep the laws of God unless he is truthful and his life is saturated with, and conforms in obedience to the ten commandments. Remember the ancient land marks. Away back yonder when there was only one Bible in a community these commandments were writen upon the brow of each man and woman. I would rather have these ten commandments written and stamped indelibly in all their purity and truth upon my heart and mind than to possess a diploma from the highest college of the land.

Think of the ancient land marks in these words: "What is man's chief end?" "Man's chief end is to glorify God and enjoy Him forever." To glorify God and enjoy Him forever we must read and know what God says to us in both the Old and New Testaments. The Bible is the only place where we can find the rule whereby we may glorify and enjoy Christ. Think of the ancient land marks of the family altar. Our fore-parents kept the home fires burning on the family altar. Each child had to quote a verse of scripture and reverently kneel for prayer. Here is one which no doubt was quoted many times. "I was glad when they said unto me let us go into the house of the Lord."

"Remember my law," God says to us. He is telling us to remember to go to His house for worship. O, that ancient land mark in the little country church where we went to Sunday School, preaching. Remember the weekly prayer meeting. Well do I remember my father and mother leading me in the ways of truth. I remember the moss-covered bucket which I drew water to carry mother early in the morning. Many times have I felt mother's hand on my shoulder as she said, "So, get up and study." You and I must remember the Bible to study it more. We must read the Bible more, pray more, and work more. I well remember the days of old, the days of inspiration, the days of strength, the days of loving and acceptable service unto our Lord and King. Never can I forget that angel mother face and loving care that I walk in the ways of Jesus Christ. Never can I forget my father's strong hand which clasped mine and said, "Son, I want you to be brave." It inspires me to walk more closely in the steps of Christ and be braver to fight the battle in His name and for His sake.

A. A. Jackson, Candidate For Representative From Chilton County, Alabama

To the voters of Chilton County:

As the primary is near at hand, and the voters of the Republican party of Chilton County will on the 12th day of August select their candidates to run in the November election.

As it will be almost impossible for me to see all the voters of the county, I want to speak to them through The Union-Banner, the headlight of our party.

First I want to say that it is rumored by some of my political opponents that if I were elected as your Representative, I would fail in getting any cooperation with my Democratic opponents in the Legislative hall of our state.

I will ask the voters to pass such reports unnoticed. I have ben dealing with the public since I was eighteen years old.

I have come in contact with most all professions in a business way, including lawyers.

Now I want to ask those who are talking such stuff to tell the voters where I have failed to get cooperation with the business and professional people.

Some are talking such bunk because they are afraid the voters of our county will elect me to represent them in the legislature, and get enough cooperation from my Democratic friends to get a law passed giving the voters of Chilton County the right to elect our County Superintendent of Education by the voters of Chilton County.

Dear voters did you know there were fifteen counties in the state that got that law passed during the last session of the legislature. Why should Chilton not have such a law? Since at least ninety-five per cent of the voters of Chilton County are demanding it.

Elect me and I will try my hand in getting enough cooperation to have the law passed.

Dear Farmer do you remember two years ago, when the big campaign was on and farm relief was the issue of the campaign? Farm relief was promised by all candidates. Have we received the relief?

You know cotton has declined one hundred per cent in price, and wheat seventy five per cent in price. This is the kind of relief we have got. And will still get under our present system, which has been created by the professions that do not farm. If the farmer ever gets relief it will have to come by and through him.

In conclusion let me say that there are tricksters who will wait until the last moment and then circulate false and slanderous reports on candidates whom they want to defeat.

Such tactics should be an insult to every voter, and totally ignored. Let everybody play fair. This is a family affair, let us be honest like brothers and sisters should be.

If I have to be dishonest to defeat my opponent let me go down in defeat.

Yours for fair play,
A. A. JACKSON.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

James Duke Heflin is now forty-six inches tall—yes three feet and ten inches in height; and he feels every inch of it, for the boy has just passed his sixth birthday.

The gang, as well as the dainty little maidens, were all on hand on Saturday afternoon to help celebrate. There were twenty-five names on the list and practically all came. There were:

Mrs. J. Lee Smith, Mrs. Marcus Polk, Jr., and others assisted Mrs. Heflin in arranging petunias, perrennial Phlox and other decorations, all of which were in perfect harmony with the mints that were enclosed in transparent bags and the embosed cake that centered the table.

This was James Duke's first celebration and it is with keen delight that he shows guns of water-squirting variety up to those about two feet long, and many other gifts.

James Duke Heflin is a big boy now. He is six years old and is forty-six inches tall. He helps his daddy do any amount of work around the place. More than that, he expects to be a man some day and is already looking forward to having one of the juciest plums that our city fathers can hand out. James Duke's boyhood ambition is to be the driver of one of our city's dumpcarts, when he gets to be a man.

Misses Helen and Jane Roberts and Pauline Plyler have returned home after spending a week at Womans College, Montgomery, attending a conference of workers of the Epworth League.

Mr. and Mrs. Newt Askins, of Alexander City, were visitors to Clanton last Thursday, attending the Shriners picnic at Lay Dam.

Purebred bulls were recently bought by farmers of Baldwin County. This makes a total of 22 head of purebred bulls that have been placed in Baldwin this year, according to County Agent E. E. Hale.

It is expected that 2,000 pounds of Austrian winter peas will be planted in Henry County this fall. County Agent C. S. Keller says that a large percentage of the farmers already believe in legumes as soil builders and that others will be convinced before the season is over.

Mr. J. Mell Martin left last Friday on a vacation trip to several interesting places in the North and East.

MACEDONIA

Mrs. Margarett Glass has been on the sick list. We hope her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Beadie Bearden and children returned home Sunday after spending two weeks with Mrs. Luann Bearden.

Mrs. Lula McGraw had as her guests last Monday her father, Mr. Joe Smith of Clanton, a sister, Mrs. Eunice Dobbs, and two children of Mineral Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Dennis and little son of Clanton.

Rev. Will Hughes of Birmingham spent a few days last week with his son, Mr. Hicks Hughes.

Mrs. Lula McGraw and Mrs. Bearden visited Mrs. Margarett Glass last Tuesday.

Mr. Clarence McGraw and Mr. Fred Boothfield made a business trip to Montevallo last week.

George Waldrop of Dogwood spent last week with his uncle, Mr. C. L. Bearden.

Mr. Hick Hughes and family, Mr. Fred Boatfield and family, Mr. Clarence McGraw and family, all attended the preaching at Pleasant Grove Sunday night.

The revival meeting begins at Macedonia the second Sunday in August. We are hoping to have a great revival. Every body come and be with us.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today, this same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drugstore.

CONDONING FATHER LEAVES SON IN TREE SITTING FOR RECORD

Tuscaloosa, Ala., July 20.—A probate judge father drove 100 miles to Tuscaloosa Saturday night to return his son from a visit here and when he found the boy sitting in a tree he said "go ahead" and went 100 miles back home again—alone.

So tree sitting has the apparent approval of L. C. Reynolds, of Clanton, Ala., and his son, Sidney Lewis Reynolds, 13 up since 2:55 a. m. Saturday can sit indefinitely as far as parental interference is concerned.

Milton Ellis, 14, Tuscaloosa, is Sidney's partner. They ascended together. C. W. Adams, 12, and M. T. Ormond, 10, have been up since 10 a. m. Saturday. All four weathered a rain and wind storm Saturday night.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The state press has made much comment over the record of two boys of our state, who stood an endurance test a short time ago, in Tuscaloosa by tree sitting.

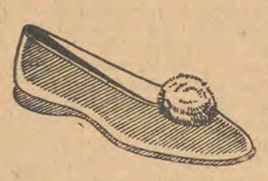
Sidney Lewis' friend and co-partner in the tree-sitting scheme is Milton Ellis of Tuscaloosa. Milton is now visiting Sidney Lewis and is enjoying all the delights of visiting the various fishing grounds of Chilton County, for genial Claude is giving the boys a good time in celebration of their recent feat.

The boys appear to be none the worse for their late endurance test. They had read of a boy in another state who was trying out the tree-sitting trick. These boys thought: "How easy, nothing to it." So up into a tree they went after a brief night of rest. To be exact, they went up into their tree headquarters at 2:55 o'clock on Saturday morning, the 19th. At midnight of that Saturday they had achieved our state record for tree-sitting.

These boys remained up in the friendly mulberry tree, with its branches fully 20 feet above ground, until the following Tuesday morning, when, according to the story of the boys, "the ground forces gave way."

In the meantime, an electric light had been placed up in the tree; congratulatory letters from all around had been read; telegrams came from far away. All sorts of treats of the eatable sorts were sent by admiring friends, and according to the boys, "we had plenty of company."



We would have gained the world record for tree-sitting, but lamentingly, "the ground forces gave way." When asked for explanation of ground forces, it was revealed that the younger boys who had been carrying food and doing what they could to promote the comfort of the tree-sitters, got tired and "struck." 'Twas ever thus," our success always depends upon those around us.

These boys declared they could have continued to sit indefinitely; in fact they could do little except sit after they came down, for they had been sitting for seventy-nine hours and thirty minutes. We are keeping our eyes on such boys and hope they will eventually succeed in hitching their wagon to a star.

The Tuscaloosa Times was ready to install a radio when the boys came down.

Memorable Blizzard

The storm of March, 1888, is generally known as the New York blizzard, and was one of the most severe ever experienced on the Atlantic coast. It was characterized by the rapidity with which its energy was developed and by the extreme precipitation, principally snow, which fell. The storm extended from Cape Hatteras to southern Massachusetts, obtaining its greatest violence in New Jersey, southwestern New York, Block island, southern New England. The snow which fell was estimated at about 40 inches. Railroads were blockaded and telegraph and telephone communication stopped. New York was entirely cut off from all communication with the exception of the Atlantic cable.

SOME FIGURES ABOUT THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE

During the past few weeks, supposedly for political reasons, some have been making the statement that we have no Sheriff in Chilton County, thus inflicting upon Sheriff Collins an unwarranted and unjust reflection. In answer to these statements some of Sheriff Collin's friends have gone over the records of Sheriff Littlejohn and the records of Sheriff Collins and made some comparison of figures that seems to prove that Sheriff Collins is making a record that is in keeping with that of his predecessor in office.

During the four-year term of Sheriff Littlejohn the record shows that he had 219 cases for violating the prohibition law; had 53 still cases investigated by the grand jury; and secured 40 indictments out of the 53.

During the present term of Sheriff Collins which lacks six months being out yet) he has had 301 cases for violating the prohibition law; had 69 still cases investigated by the grand jury; and has secured 65 indictments out of the 69.

These figures are not published with any intention of any agitation between Mr. Collins and Mr. Littlejohn. Everybody seemed to be satisfied that Mr. Littlejohn made a good record in the Sheriff's office. Then, if the record of Mr. Littlejohn was considered good, we ask our readers to study the above figures, and see if you think it is fair to Mr. Collins to spread such propaganda as is being passed out by those who declare that we have no Sheriff. —Editor.

Price-Quality-Service

Come in and see the facts for yourself

YOU no longer need to send for tires by mail, nor do you have to buy tires made by some unknown manufacturer. Firestone prices are now the lowest in tire history, but more important than that, Firestone quality has never been higher.

We've taken the mystery out of tire buying

Visit our store and we will show you the "inside facts" about tires. We have actually cut up new tires and have the cross sections for you to examine—you will easily see why Firestone quality is so outstanding.

Don't worry about punctures and blowouts

Punctures and blowouts are bothersome and most people fear them—but NOW, because of the patented Double Cord Breaker, Firestone has practically eliminated them. Come in and let us show you this feature that puts two extra plies of cord right under the tread where most road wear comes and where punctures and blowouts start.

Compare Prices and Specifications

Because Firestone Tires hold all world records on road and track for speed, safety and endurance, many people think they are high priced—but just check these low prices—then compare quality—you will be dollars and miles ahead.

T. J. Hubbard Writes About Primary Election

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

It is not often that I write through the paper to the voters of the county, but I think the time has come when our party should be careful and I believe that advice for the best interest of our party should come from those who are Republicans and have been year in and year out and not from those who change their politics every few years.

I might say that I expect I am the oldest Republican in Chilton County, and that I held the office of Tax Collector for three terms, commencing about thirty-four years ago. In my memory I have seen many men elected to office as Republicans, but before they left office they had gone to the Democratic party. We have also many times had traitors in our party who, when given the power, betrayed us and at the same time we have had men who have stood straight regardless of the conditions or circumstances. It therefore is important upon August 12 for us to decide as voters who will be of the greatest benefit to our party and not merely what candidate we will benefit by giving them our votes.

My years are numbered in this world and I have no political hope and I am seeking after no favor whatever, but what I have to say comes from an old time Republican and is spoken for whot I think is the best interest of our party.

In the first place unless we put Republicans in office and men we know will stand with us, then we cannot hope that our party will continue to prosper. The best way to tell a Republican is by his vote. If he has always voted the straight ticket in the past and has benefited the party by his time and money, then you can risk the office with such a man. However, if there is a candidate running who has not supported the ticket in the past by his vote, and we have lots of candidates who sometimes vote the ticket and yet do not come to help the party when in danger, then such a man is dangerous to put in office.

I spent a great deal of my time at Clanton and I believe I am familiar with the ways of the Democrats, and whenever you see the Democrats around Clanton pulling for a Republican candidate or saying such and such a Republican will satisfy them, then, as a general rule, you had better not vote for that Republican candidate, because in my experience I have seen it that the Republican who is making the greatest fight for the Republican party and against the Democratic party is generally the candidate whom the Democrats don't want. I have seen men in my day like Pounds and Judge Adams and many more that I could mention who betrayed our party, and I am appealing to the old Republican stand-bys of this county to be sure of the men you are voting for will stand with our party. I know that there is an element in this county, and we have some as candidates, and a good many who claim to be Republicans, who go into our primary and then will not support our ticket in November, and whenever we turn our party over to men of this type then it will be the last Republican party in Chilton County.

As I said above I believe that our party is bigger than any one man and we should not risk the safety of our party in the hands of any one man unles we know that he is absolutely true and unless he has been tried and found faithful. I do believe that when a man has been tried and found faithful to his party that he should not be turned out just because he has held the office for one or two terms. If an officer has been faithful to his party and has made an efficient officer he should be rewarded, but if not he should not ever be allowed to serve his second term. S. M. Pate and his family have been faithful to the Republican party for many years. He has never failed to come to the need of the party with his money and time. He has made a very efficient officer, courteous in office, and it has never been said that Sam Pate has ever in the least failed to do his duty by his people and party. J. T. Rockett, as Tax Collector, has always made a very efficient officer. Neither of these men have ever been criticized in the management of their office, and they are old standbys of the Republican party and have gone with the party in days gone by when the party was in danger, but their loyalty has never waivered, and I believe, in view of their faithfulness and loyalty to their party and their experience in office that the Republicans of this county should again nominate and elect these two men to office. I do know this, that our party will be safe in their hands. It is far better that we trust the leadership of our party with the tried and faithful, even though they have served several terms in office, than we should risk it with one who might become a traitor. We have not had a traitor to our party since J. B. Atkinson left and went to the Democrats, and that is why I am begging you to be certain of your candidate.

I would like to say also a word in behalf of our Sheriff's race. The Sheriff's position is very important, he helps select the managers of elections and he has great power to control among the people of the county, and I would say next to that of Judge of Probate it is the most important in the county. If we elect a Sheriff who is not our friend but who will lean to the other side in four more years you will be electing a Judge of Probate and other officers, and if you have the Sheriff who is not our friend he can turn many voters against our party in four years. I have known Walter Gillespie for many years. He has held several positions in the hands of the Republican party, and I had always thought he was a friend of the Republican party, but I read in The Union-Banner a few issues ago where, under his own oath, he himself swore that he did not support the Republican party in full. In other words, voters, the test of our party always comes in the general election and when we were needing every vote we could get here is one of our own voters, a man whom the Republican party had helped, when the fight came he deserted us. He does not say whether or not he voted for the Democratic candidates, but you well know that when he fails to vote for the Republican nominees that he helps in this way to elect the Democratic candidates. There is, therefore, no credit due to Walter Gillespie, that we have a Republican Probate Judge or a Republican Committee in Chilton County to-day, and if a few hundred more voters had voted like he did then our ticket would have been defeated. He now comes back and asks the Republicans to elect him to one of the most important positions in Chilton County. I say to you Walter that you are not entitled to it. The Republicans of Chilton County ought to vote for a man who stood by the party. You are now standing side by side with a man who did support the ticket and yet you say you should be preferred under them. I say to you voters if Walter Gillespie is half Republican then is he not the same man now and will he not continue to be so during the next four years. George Murrah is a straight Republican, he is an honest boy, his people are Republicans, and he has never deserted his party. He has four years training in the Sheriff's office. He is honest and capable and will make us a good officer and certainly the Republican party owes him the nomination over Walter Gilespie.

As I state above I have no political axe to grind and I have no interest for any particular candidate, but my interest is to see a true Republican nominated and men we know will stay by us in times of danger. I have seen some letters written in The Union-Banner from men whom I understand were not Republicans, some of whom can't vote and others who split their ticket. Voters let us not be deceived, but study your man carefully, and after the primary a man who is true will be easier elected and when he is elected we will know he will stay with us and in doing this we will build a strong party in the county.

Two of a Kind

"Yes, Willie," a man said in a sour voice to his little son, "you kept your promise to run all the errands without growling last month and so I'm going to keep my promise and reward you."

The man took out a $5 gold piece and a silver dollar.

"Now, Willie-boy," he said, for he was a great bluffer, "which of these nice coins will you have?"

"I won't be selfish, papa," said Willie, who was a chip of the old block, "I'll take the little one."

But his father slipped the gold piece back into his pocket.

"For not being selfish," he said, "I'm going to give you the big one."

Must Make Complete Stop

Suppose a cannon ball traveling in one direction meets and carries back a rifle bullet traveling in the opposite direction. Does the rifle bullet stop completely in reversing its course to travel back with the cannon ball? The fact is the rifle ball will have to stop a theoretical instant before starting in the opposite direction, notwithstanding the cannon ball continues on its original course. No moving object can completely reverse its course without first coming to a complete stop. Theoretically the cannon ball will be slowed up slightly.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Not Eligible

Little Jane was the youngest of a family of several girls and she'd been brought up on feminine chatter of "he said," "he did," and she had been flower girl at a wedding of two of her sisters. She started to school and the whole family was interested in questioning her about various school matters.

"Do you love your teacher, honey?" one of the girls asked her.

STATE TAX MEN AND BANKERS IN ACCORD

Months of Negotiation Lead to Agreement on Changes Broadening Method of State or Local Taxation of National Banks.

NEW YORK.—Months of conference and negotiation between an American Bankers Association special committee and the Committee of the Association of States on Bank Taxation have resulted in an agreement on a form of amendment to the Federal statute dealing with state or local taxation of national banks that "maintains the integrity of the protective principles of the section and is satisfactory to the commissioners' committee," says the American Bankers Association Journal.

Thomas B. Paton, the organization's General Counsel, in making the announcement says that previously proposed amendments to the statute, which is known as Section 5219, have been opposed when it was felt their terms would enable any state to place banks in a tax class by themselves.

"The law as it stands today," Mr. Paton says, "permits state or local taxation of national banks or their shareholders in one or the other of the four following forms: the shareholders upon their shares,—a property tax; the shareholders upon their dividends,—a personal income tax; the bank upon its net income; the bank according to or measured by its net income. Only one form of tax can be imposed, except that the dividend tax may be combined with the third or fourth form if other corporations and shareholders are likewise taxed.

"The conditions permitted are: the tax on shares must be at no greater rate than on other competing moneyed capital; the income tax on shareholders must be at no greater rate than on net income from other moneyed capital; the tax on bank net income must be at no higher rate than on other financial corporations nor the highest rates on mercantile and manufacturing corporations doing business within the state; the tax measured by net bank income is subject to the same limitations as the tax on net income of the bank but may include entire net income from all sources."

States Seek Broader Law

National banks and their shareholders are taxed in different states under a diversity of systems, he says. The U. S. Supreme Court has held that the low millage rate on intangible personal property is in violation of the present law where it results in national bank shares being taxed at a rate greater than that assessed upon competing moneyed capital. A number of states, unwilling to use the income methods permitted, had the alternative of either repealing the intangible tax laws or limiting taxation of national bank shares at the intangible rate. Therefore they sought a broadening of the permissive provisions.

Also, Mr. Paton points out, a Supreme Court decision held a state's excise tax on corporations invalid where it included income from Federal and local government bonds in the excise measure. This created doubt as to some state bank excise taxes.

"Conferences have been held to reach some agreement which would protect the banks, satisfy the tax commissioners and avoid a contest in Congress," Mr. Paton says. "From the standpoint of the tax authorities, the main objectives have been an amendment which would permit certain states to retain their low rate tax upon intangibles and at the same time derive an adequate, but not excessive, revenue from national bank shares, and an amendment which would permit certain states to tax corporations on their net income, excluding income from tax-exempts, and at the same time derive the same revenue from the banks as heretofore. From the standpoint of the banks, it has been deemed imperative to maintain the protective principles of Section 5219.

The Changes Agreed On

"In the proposed amendment the existing provision permitting taxation of bank shares no higher than the rate upon competing moneyed capital has been modified with respect to certain intangible tax states only by a provision under which, instead of the moneyed capital limitation, the rate shall not be greater than the rate upon the shares of other financial corporations, nor upon the net assets of individuals, partnerships or associations employed in the banking, loan or investment business, nor higher than the rate assessed upon mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations with head office in the state.

"Also an added fifth alternative permissive method, designated as a specific tax, permits a state, in place of an ad valorem tax on bank shares, to add together total dividends paid the preceding year and the increase in capital, surplus and undivided profits, less additions to capital or surplus paid in by stockholders, and to divide this total by the number of shares. The state may tax the shares based upon this amount, but not to exceed the rate on other corporations in proportion to their net profits.

"This method is designed for states which have heretofore taxed national banks upon their entire net income from all sources at a proportionate rate to that assessed upon business corporations. The amount which is the basis of the tax is the equivalent of the entire net income from all sources, but being assessed against the shareholder upon his property in the shares and not a tax upon the bank, it is not open to the objection as an indirect tax on exempt income."

FROM J. A. RAINES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me to say a few things in your valuable paper to the voters of this county.

The day of decision for the candidates is fast drawing near. This means that you are soon to go to the polls and vote for those candidates, for the various offices, whom you have selected from among all the others. I am glad that you have this privilege, and hope you may feel the weight of responsibility that attends such privilege.

When I entered the race for Tax Collecter it was my purpose to try to see all the Republican voters in the county, but I have failed to see some of you. I hope those of you whom I have not seen will not feel slighted, for it was not my purpose to pass you by.

I do not ask for this office on the ground that I am more deserving than the other candidates, nor do I claim that I am entitled to the office until I receive more votes in the primary than does any other aspirant to the same place.

I am asking for the office because: 1, I feel that I need it. 2, I wrong no man when I ask for the place. 3, Because I thought it very probable that I would be elected (a) because the present incumbent has held the office so long. (b) Because no other person has any rightful claim to the office, after the present term ends, until he is elected by the people to such office. (c) Because Beat 5 has been helping Beats 9, 4 and 10 elect their officers for the last 20 years—so far as I know all principal officers have come from these three beats for that period—and it must help them elect the Sheriff, the Tax Assessor, and the Representative this time, or the Democrats may elect men to these offices. So, I feel that it is reasonable to expect the loyal Republicans in these beats, together with those in the other 12 beats, to join Beat 5 in electing me to the office of Collector.

Some one has said, "A preacher should not be elected to office." I think this is begging the question. Any person should know that collecting the taxes, which is purely a business proposition, should not corrupt a man any more than would teaching or farming.

Now voters, as for as nominations are concerned, my destiny will be in your hands on August 12. Just think seriously over the things that I have mentioned, then go to the polls and vote your conscientious convictions and I will assure you that your choice shall be mine in November.

With an armful of good wishes for my rivals, and an humble reliance upon you voters for the nomination, I am,

Yours very truly,
J. A. RAINES.

BREAKING UP BROODINESS

about this time every year, when the summer heat sets in, the hens of most any laying flock are likely to go broody. One factor in maintaining high egg production during the spring and summer months is to break up broody hens as quickly as possible after they become broody.

This is vitally important for two reasons. In the first place, if they are allowed to sit on fertile eggs for even a few hours, the germs will develop, which is one cause of heavy loss in marketing eggs from farms. In the second place, the longer a broody hen is allowed to sit on the nest, the longer it requires to get her back into laying condition, and consequently the greater the loss in egg production. As soon as a hen is observed to remain on the nest at night, she should be removed and placed in a broody coop, where she can be properly fed and watered. The broody coop should have a slat bottom in order that the air may circulate from beneath and thus tend to keep the hen from sitting. The body will be kept cooler and the hen will get over her broodiness. While confined in the coop, she should be fed and watered regularly in order that she may get back into laying condition as quickly as possible.

Of course the old rule that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure holds good in the case of broodiness as well as anything else. Broodines is something that can be bred out of a strain of birds by a good breeder, just as winter pause is bred out, and persistency of lay, intensity of lay, and early maturiay, are bred in. Breeders cull broody hens on sight. If the broody bird can be caught the first night and be put immediately into the broody coop for 24 or 48 hours, they will usually he over it and get back into lay proptly. However, if they go broody two or three or four days before being broken up, they will go off feed, which results in partial or full moult, which in turn will keep the birds off lay all the way from six weeks to three months.

F'nd That Chuckwalla Has Dainty Appetite

It is not always the loveliest creature that feeds on the daintiest diet. The chuckwalla lizard of the Southwest, the second largest lizard in the United States, is not exactly a stage beauty among the animals, yet his choice appetite runs very strongly to flowers. A specimen captured in the Grand canyon had in its stomach 118 flower heads of three species of composite plants and three flowers of the yellow bean bush. These represented the breakfast of the chuckwalla. In his second stomach—the reptile has two—was another mass of flower tissue, but more advanced in digestion. The chuckwalla has for years been a favorite dish among the Indians, and many a lost prospector has overcome the white man's repugnance to eating "varmints," to find with surprise that this big lizard is made of good meat. After the recently captured specimen had yielded up its skin for museum purposes, its flesh was roasted and eight persons had a chance to find out what chuckwalla meat tastes like.

FROM JESSE BAKER

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to state to the voters of Chilton County that I have endeavored to see every one, but of course have missed many, which I very much regret. I wish to state to every one, whether I have seen you or not, that I certainly will appreciate your vote and influence. I have conducted a clean, honorable, and honest campaign and have given my opponents a square deal. I have not used any untrue method, or anything I want covered up, against any one.

Public office, when obtained right, is a gift of the voters, and when obtained otherwise is wrong. My campaign methods are such as will stand under the law. Politically I am a Republican. My father's and mother's people were Republicans, and have helped to put every Republican in office that has gone in in this county. That is the record, and I will leave it to you as to whether that is good or bad.

I have never believed in attacking the record of our county officials, for the people in a general way understand that themselves.

As stated by one in The Union-Banner a few weeks ago, men inside the party can cause more trouble than those on the outside, therefore watch out for those who cause disturbance on the inside.

I would be glad for every one to have the opinion of the people where I have lived all my life as to my fitness for the office of Tax Assessor, which I am asking you to give me. I have a deep interest in Chilton County and its people. I like to see its people progressive and moving along together.

I have always taken a great deal of interest in the Republican party of our county, and I like to see our candidates go out and solicit votes on their own record and let the other fellow alone. Any unfair methods used by one candidate against another will tell out on him, and go straight to the fellow that you might try to undermine.

As before stated, I have conducted a straight and honorable campaign. Have treated my opponents as I want them to treat me, and when the election is over I can take them by the hand and truthfully say I have given you a square deal, and should you see fit to nominate one of my opponents I will do my utmost to elect him as well as all the rest of the ticket.

Thanking the people for the courtesy shown me during my campaigning among them I now leave the matter with you, hoping that you can see your way clear to cast your vote for me for Tax Assessor for Chilton County on August 12th.

Respectfully,
JESSE BAKER.

LOMAX

The hot and dry weather has damaged the crops considerably in our community.

Mrs. Sarah Jowers of Birmingham is spending her vacation with her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Jackson of this place.

We prophesy that Lomax will have the honor of furnishing the next representative from Chilton County in the next legislature.

The road crew with their big machinery did some good work on the road leading north west from Lomax. We appreciate this work, as it is the first real working the road has had.

Mr. Chas Weaver and wife from Chicago are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jackson.

We hear it rumored that Judge Reynolds has been welcomed to come back into the ranks of the Democratic party and vote his choice of candidates for the several officers to be chosen therein. We would not give the repart any credit at all had it not been that the Judge appeared to be the general manager of the big Democratic rally that was held in Clanton on July the Fourth. We give the Judge credit of being an expert straddler, but when it comes to straddling two political horses that have the bucking qualities as does the two that he seems to be trying to straddle, he is liable to get a terrible fall, and get badly hurt.

We want to commend J. N. Dennis for his letter in The Union-Banner of last week in which he said he would be at the court house to receive the ballot boxes and returns, and that they would be securely kept by him, as required by law. And that each voter and candidate must have a square deal. Bro. Dennis you are a man of my own heart.—J. Bice.

After a week's stay in a Birmingham infirmary, Mrs. Jesse Jones returned home on Sunday much improved.

NOTICE OF REPUBLICAN PRIMARY ELECTION AUGUST 12

Notice is hereby given that the Republican party of Chilton County, Alabama, desires to enter and will enter the Primary to be held on the second Tuesday in August, 1930, the same being the 12th day of said month, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices, viz:

Tax Collector, Tax Assessor, Sheriff, County Commissioner of the First District, County Commissioner of the Second District, one member of the County Board of Education, Representative in the Legislature of Alabama, and State Senator.

The quaified Republican voters of Chilton County are hereby notified to assemble at a convenient place at or near their respective voting places in each precinct on August 12, and elect two delegates from each precinct to the County Republican Convention to be held at the courthouse in Clanton on Friday, August 15, at 10 a. m. The purpose of said county Republican Convention is to elect delegates to the District and State Republican Conventions.

Dated this 15 day of July, 1930.

J. N. DENNIS, Chairman,
J. Z. MIMS, Secretary,
Chilton County Republican Executive Committee.

NAOMI AND RUTH: A STUDY IN RACIAL RELATIONSHIPS

LESSON TEXT—The Book of Ruth.
GOLDEN TEXT—And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Ruth a Helpful Daughter.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Naomi's Faithfulness Leads Ruth to God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Neighbors of Other Races.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Way to World Brotherhood.

I. How Naomi and Ruth Were Brought Together (1:1-15).

On account of famine in Bethlehem of Judah, Naomi with her husband and two sons sojourned in the land of Moab. After the death of her husband, her two sons married Moabitish women. After a time her sons died also. After the death of her sons, Naomi resolved to return to her homeland, having heard that the Lord had visited his people in giving them bread. They went to Moab to escape trouble but only got into more. This is always the case when God's people go into the world to escape difficulties. It was not until Naomi was thus chastised that she resolved to return. When the time came for her to go, Ruth and Orpah accompanied her for a distance.

II. Ruth's Noble Choice (1:16-18).

Greatly as Naomi loved her daughters-in-law, she would not have them go into this matter blindly. She wished them to know the seriousness of their action.

1. No chance for them to marry again (v. 11).

Naomi told them that she had no more sons for whom they could wait. In that day for a woman to be unmarried was the greatest disgrace. Society differed then from now. No avenues were open by which women could earn their living.

2. Heathen gods must be renounced (v. 15).

Idolatrous worship could not be carried on in the land where God's people dwelt. This was delicately touched upon when Orpah went back. She went back when it was plain that there was no chance for her to get a husband. After Orpah's return Naomi put an additional test upon Ruth, that of giving up her religion. Ruth was equal to the occasion. Her mind was fully made up. She was willing to accept as her God the One who was able to produce in his subjects the nobility of character she had observed in Naomi. Ruth's determination was so definite and unfaltering that her expressions have come down to us in words which "no poetry has outrivaled and no pathos has exceeded, and which has gone through centuries with the music which will not let them be forgotten." She was determined to share Naomi's journey, her home, her lot in life, and grave in death, whatever or wherever that would be. To crown it all, she renounced her heathen gods and worshiped Jehovah, the true God.

III. Blessings Which Attended Ruth's Choice.

1. She found the true God (1:16).

Instead of a heathen god who was unable to help her, she had the Living God, the God of Israel.

2. She found friends (ch. 2).

As she went to glean she was led to the field of Boaz, a man of grace and wealth. The servants of Boaz treated her with consideration.

3. A good husband and happy home (chs. 3 and 4).

4. An honored place in the Israelitish nation (4:13-17).

5. She became a link in the chain of the Redeemer's ancestry (4:18-22 cf. Matt. 1:5).

The one who fully decides for Christ and gives up all for Him shall receive a hundredfold in this life and in the world to come eternal life.

The story of Ruth is a fine example, first, of right racial relationship. The union of Ruth with Israel was around the true God. And, second, of dispensational truth:

(1) The famine in the land indicates the testing of the Jews in the great tribulation.

(2) The going into Moab indicates the sojourn of the Israelites among the nations.

(3) The sickness and death in Moab indicates the chastisement of the Jews and their sorrows in the present age.

(4) The return to the land indicates the gathering of Israel to their own land, Palestine.

(5) Ruth's decision indicates the gathering of the Gentiles through the influence of the Jews.

(6) The marriage between Boaz and Ruth indicates the union of the church with Jesus Christ.

Adds Charm to Character

Small kindnesses, small courtesies, small considerations, habitually practiced in our social intercourse, give a greater charm to the character than the display of great talents and accomplishments.—Kelty.

THE ROMANCE OF HOME HEATING

It isn't hard to imagine the joy with which primitive man must have greeted the discovery of fire, and the comparative protection from the rigors of winter which that discovery afforded.

But when we consider how home-heating methods have improved from the first campfire in front of a cave down to a modern heating appliance such as Estate Heatrola—there's a world of romance in the story.

The Fireplace

For centuries, man depended on the campfire in front of his cave or tent, or inside, with a hole in the roof to carry off the smoke. Then came the open fireplace, a very inefficient heating method—little more than a glorified campfire, depending on radiant heat—which warmed the face and left the back freezing.

The Franklin Stove

Benjamin Franklin developed the first heating stove. It was, in effect, a grate or fireplace in the center of the room—with a hood over it to carry off the smoke. It was better than the fireplace, because it radiated heat in all directions.

Natural later developments were "cannon" stoves, and still later the oak stoves and base burners.

The Warm-Air Furnace

The first real development in heating since man first discovered fire, was the warm-air furnace. For the first time, homes were heated without depending upon radiant heat. Air in the space between the heating unit and the casing was heated by contact with the hot surfaces, and circulated through the house.

The Heatrola

Employing the principle of warm-air circulation for the first time in a first-floor heating plant, The Estate Stove Company of Hamilton, Ohio, developed Estate Heatrola ten years ago. Many features, which we will gladly explain, account for the basement furnace.

Free Coal

To those foresighted residents of Clanton who will give us their orders for a Heatrola between August 9th and August 30th, we will deliver a supply of coal—absolutely free—when the Heatrola is installed in the fall. We are able to offer the advantages of membership in the Free Coal Club through the cooperation of The Estate Stove Company, Heatrola builders.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:
Circuit Court in Equity:

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Omar L. Reynolds that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that his place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the county of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said M. W. Castleberry to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 10th day of August, 1930, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.

Done at office in Clanton, this 3rd day of July, 1930.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

50 Years' Use of Black-Draught

"About fifty years ago," says Mr. Lewis G. O'Shields, of Portersville, Ala., "my mother gave me the first dose of Black-Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children.

"I have used Black-Draught for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes close on constipation.

"I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and backache.

"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in the home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time."

W. T. BEAN WRITES LETTER TO VOTERS OF THE COUNTY

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I am taking this means to address the voters of Chilton County in the interest of my candidacy for the office of tax assessor of Chilton County. First, I would like to say that I am making this race wholly upon the merits of my life's work in this county, and not upon any demerits of some one else. I want to invite everyone who is not already familiar with my record to make as full investigation as is possible and then be your own judge as to whether I am compteent and worthy to have this position. I am willing to be judged by the work I have done for the last twenty five years as a teacher, as county official, as a business man, and as a party worker, and by any other services that I may have rendered the county. If my records warrant your support, I shall very greatly appreciate it; but if I am not the choice of the voters on August 12th, I shall be found doing everything I can to elect the ticket in November.

My attention has been called to a criticism that is being made to my adminisration while I was county superintendent of education, in which it is being said that I did nothing for the schools and that the schools were nothing like as good then as they are now. All that I wish to say in reply to this is that I did all that I could do with the amount of money that I had to spend. The most money that I ever had to operate the schools on in any one year was less than $45,000, and I gave every white school seven months free school. I do not think that the criticism is fair to me when I had to operate the schools with about one-fourth the amount of money that we now have and expect me to do as much as is now being done.

I wish to say one thing relative to my ability to serve the people in the tax assessor's office. While I served as county superintendent of education I handled several hundred thousand dollars for the schools and no state examiner ever checked me even one penny's error in my books, and I will make this promise, that should I be elected tax assessor and should ever cause any tax payer to have to pay one extra cent on account of an error or negligence in assessing his taxes, that I will repay him every cent that I might have caused him to have to pay extra. I just ask that you file this paper away for future reference should my statement ever be called into question. I further promise you that if I should be elected to this office that I will ever exert myself to assist the people in any way whatsoever that I am called upon to do and will show them every courtesy and favor that I possibly can.

As to my political record, may I say that I have never held but one political office. I was elected county superintendent of education in 1912 by the vote of the people and was appointed by the county board in 1916 for a term of 2 years, thus making six years that I served in that office. At the expiration of two terms I voluntarily stepped down and did not ask for re-election, because I do not believe in giving any man more than two consecutive terms in the same office if the new man is as well qualified for the office as the old one is. I fully believe that this is bad party practice. As to my party affiliations, I can say that I have always supported the full Republican ticket, and for the last several campaigns I have given much time fighting in the front ranks for the interest of the entire ticket.

I have tried to see every Republican voter in the county during this campaign, but I have found it impossible to do so. I have not slighted anyone, and whether I have seen you or not, I am taking this opportunity to solicit your vote and influence. Again I assure you that if I am not the choice of the people, that their choice will be my choice in November. Very Sincerely,—W. T. Bean.

Andrew J. Easterling and family left Wednesday for their home in Santa Rosa, Texas. They have been spending several days here with relatives.

W. S. CLARK, MT. CREEK

Editor, Union-Banner:

As the primary is drawing near, I presume quite a lot of the voters have about made up their mind as to how they will vote August, 12th.

So far I have not written any letters to the people through the papers and this is the only one that I expect to write before the primary. In writing this letter I hope to make a real personal appeal to the Republican voters of Chilton County in behalf of Beat Five in general and Bro. Raines in particular. Down in beat five we have over one hundred qualified Republican voters and we have done the best we could for the Republican party in Chilton County, so far we have never had an officer of rank elected from this beat. We would at this time greatly appreciate it if the Republican voters of Chilton County would help us to nominate Brother J. A. Raines as tax collector.

We have not got one word to say against either of the other candidates but we surely will appreciate your help at this time. Brother Raines has been a life long Republican, his father before him was a Republican. He has been a country Baptist preacher for a number of years. He has been earning his living by farming principally. His primary motive in preaching has always been to lead the lost and erring ones to the Master.

If you voters will be good enough to help this brother at this time, beat five as a whole will appreciate it. We believe that every Republican voter at this voting box will vote for him. We do not know of a single one who will vote against him at his voting place.

Bro. Raines has been here about twenty years. He was born in Coosa County in the Weldon store community. He was fully competent to discharge the duties of the tax collectors office. Thanking you in advance for your consideration of the above request, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
W. S. Clark

SEVENTY IN SINGING SCHOOL AT COLLINS CHAPEL CHURCH

Prof. W. M. Devaughn opened up his singing school at Collins Chapel church Monday morning of this week. There were 57 the first day, but the number increased to 70 on Tuesday morning. Prof. Devaughn is teaching this school by himself; he has three classes in harmony and two classes in rudiments. It is expected that his number on roll will go still higher yet before this week is over.

There are pupils attending this school from several other places than Collins Chapel. One comes from Prattville, a distance of forty-six miles; he makes the trip night and morning.

FAVOR McDOWELL

Editor Union-Banner:

We have a fine bunch of candidates to choose from this time. We can't vote for all of them, so we must choose our men and vote for whom we think will make us the best officials. Everybody has a choice, and we have ours. We believe that O. H. McDowell is the man for the county board of education. Mr. McDowell is well known to us and we know him to be a man of good character and a man who is always willing to do what is best for his community and county. We know him to be well qualified for the office he is asking for.

Knowing of his ability and qualifications for this office, we feel it our duty to recommend him to the voters. One of his highest ambitions is to help the cause of education to advance.

Thanks for this space.—J. H. Popwell, J. M. Popwell, Clanton, Ala., Route 6.

MONTHLY BUSINESS MEETING

Circle No. 1 of the Baptist W. M. S., held their monthly business meeting at the home of Mrs. Willie Bean on 4th Avenue. The devotional was led by the president, Mrs. D. D. Mathis, J. A. Jones, Ludie Lenoir, Ben Sims, E. W. Klinner, and the hostess.

FROM CHAS. COOPER

Editor Union-Banner:

Your explanation last week of the way the article two weeks ago got into print without the writer's name being printed with it was manly on your part and I appreciate it, but I feel as Jesus told the rich young lawyer once, one thing likest thou yet. You did not tell us the man's name who seemingly yields such influence over you or your staff.

Now I may be going too far and you may consider it none of my business but since you and your paper is our medium through which we may express our ideas and since this was in rebuttal to my own expressed opinion through your columns I feel that I and the public have a right to know the whole truth of the matter; so I am requesting you that you tell us who the dark horse is, that is the man who came in and asked that your paper depart from its long standing custom of fair play.

Now Mr. Editor, I have never met Mr. Green Gore personally and so far as I personally know Mr. Gore is a gentleman, but because of the fact that this man whom I would like to know asked that his name be withdrawn or not published with the letter, I felt that I should investigate some and see just who this Green Gore was, who seems to be such a stand-patter.

I have not found out all perhaps but if this Green Gore is the G. B. Gore that appears on the criminal record of Shelby County, Alabama, for violating the prohibition law, if this be the Green Gore who appears on the criminal record of Chilton County, Alabama, for violating the prohibition law; if this be the Green Gore who disturbed and terrorized the good citizens of Coopers and Verbena during the construction of Mitchell Dam; if this be the Green Gore that I hear reported took money from both the Republicans and Democrats and then voted the Democratic ticket in the general election in 1928 and if I be the Charlie Cooper who ran for Commissioner in 1916 and got defeated and even got sore, I would still consider I was on top in so far as Mr. Gore is concerned.

Now, Mack, it is getting late in the game it is true, but be a square shooter and let us know who the man is that wanted Green's name withheld. I would like to look at him so that I may further see who we are that are for George Murrah, because I presume he is Green's cohort and they are the ones Green means when he says "we" are doing things.

Anxiously awaiting your divulgence of the man's name at your earliest convenience, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
CHAS. COOPER.

MEETING AT COURTHOUSE POSTPONED

The revival which was to begin at the courthouse last Monday night has been postponed, on account of inability of the evangelist to reach Clanton for the opening date as announced. The meeting is in progress, however, at the church at the east end of Second Avenue, Clanton.

The evangelist is expected within the next few days, however, when the revival will be moved to the courthouse, and carried on as announced last week.

An effort is being made to have Rev. Ernest Wicks, late of Angelus Temple, to come here for at least a week's meeting. Rev. and Mrs. Wicks are at Wichita, Kan., attending the Mid-West Conference of Foursquare church in Michigan. Watch for further announcement.

In the meantime, you are cordially invited to attend the services at the Foursquare church, east end of Second Avenue, Clanton.—J. Mat Johnson.

FROM ROBERTA CURRY IN EUROPE

With our temperature up near the highest point of endurance, a letter from Robertat Curry advises that she is seeking comfort in London by sitting in front of burning gas logs.

There are, of course, many, many interesting places in London, and Roberta is taking in all of them her time will allow. She writes at length of her visits of inspection to Westminster Abbey, where the remains of many notables, poets, scholars, as well as royalty, lie in repose. "Visited London Tower, saw the Crown Jewels, passed the Old Curiosity Shop; the Bloody Tower, where Sir Walter Raleigh was in confinement for twelve years before his execution; will visit Stratford-on-Avon, Shakespeare's home; saw the celebrated St. Paul's; went to the ultra-fashionable Hotel Savoy; saw the richly gowned girls who had been presented at Court; saw a crisket match between Eton and Harrow; went to Hampton Court, the home of Cardinal Whoolley, and all through his castle; the grounds with their brilliant flowers and beautiful shrubbery are well-kept; tomorrow we go to Windsor.

"Upon our visit to the House of Parliment we saw the nails upon which the Duke of York and the Prince of Wales hang their hats when they enter the House of Lords. And whom should I run upon in the House of Parliment? Dr. Joe Johnson of Chattanooga. He was with his uncle and aunt, Admiral and Mrs. Sellers. We had expected to see them in Paris, but they came to London instead of coming directly to Paris.

"But the most delightful thrills of our whole trip were had on our air trip over to London. We were given chewing gum to prevent air sickness. Most of the time we were sailing 4,000 feet high, for the most part above the clouds. We made the trip in two hours; otherwise it would have taken a full night to come across from Paris and cross the English Channel. We are sailing on the 16th for home, and expect to arrive in New York City August 2."

CHILDREN ADOPTED BY BEAN FAMILIES

One of the interesting stories of to-day is that of the two Bean families who went to Nashville during the past week and selected a little boy to have and to cherish as a son in each of the homes.

Some years ago Postmaster Wiley Bean and wife visited the Nashville orphanage. A little boy there was attracted by Mr. Bean, and the little fellow expressed the wish to be Mr. Bean's boy. Goodby was said, but somehow the memory lingered after the Beans had come some. It not only came "in the night time of sorrow and care," but would intrude when there were contemplations for the future.

As a finale to all these memories Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bean and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bean went up to Nashville last week and claimed the boys for adoption. A little fellow who will be five months old on August 3 was chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bean. His name is Charles Palmer, and he appears to like his new home. He has gained one and a half pounds since his arrival here.

The little boy who was accepted by Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bean is about two and a half years old. They will call him Wiley.

HOME BURNS

A young couple, father 23 years old, mother 17 years old, with a 7 months old baby started out on a small farm with a very simple little home and were working hard on their crop and very happy. Last week, this little house and all of the furnishings and the smoke house were completely destroyed by fire. Only some of the bedding was saved. They have to make the second great effort to begin again.

If there is any one who has any piece of furniture, cooking utensils, etc., that they could help this couple to start over with, please bring it to, or notify the Child Welfare office, Clanton, Ala., upstairs of the Gore Building, or phone 41. You may have some discarded pieces that could be freshened up by this young couple and help them to tide over this distressing time.

HANDS PLAN REUNION

Members of the Hand family will hold their fifth annual reunion August 8 at Poplar Springs Church. The morning part of the day, beginning at eight o'clock, will be for the family only. At twelve a picnic dinner will be spread in the grove. In the afternoon a short appropriate program is planned. Rev. J. L. Hand will give a short talk on "Why we have Reunions." At three o'clock Rev. Hodges, from Anniston will preach.

The public is cordially invited to hear this message.—Edith Hand.

EZELLS TO RETURN THIS WEEK

THORSBY SECTION

New buildings in Thorsby are attracting considerable attention from people who are passing. One of the mail clerks on the trains said recently that "in no small town between Nashville and Montgomery is there so much activity in building as at Thorsby."

E. N. Dyrhovd's new bungalow, on Summit Ave., is now under roof and will soon be ready to occupy.

The new building at the highway and N. St., is nearing completion. Mr. Franklin says he expects to move in about August 15th. For the type of building and the purpose for which it is intended, it is a very creditable addition to Thorsby architecture.

In the next block, south, at the corner of the highway and Summit Avenue W. H. Goodgame is putting up a substantial block of one story stores on a triangular piece of ground. The corner store 50 feet front on the highway by 100 feet on Summit Avenue is already leased to Thorsby Drug Company. And together with the two smaller stores, comprise a frontage on the highway of 78 feet, which will be mostly of plate glass. The walls, floors and a lot of paving between the sidewalk and the highway will be of concrete. This property is supposed to be ready for occupancy September 15th.

In the same block a little further south, Mr. G. C. Stanford, who runs the filling station and barbecue-cafe stand is putting up a three room cottage for living quarters.

Fruit in variety and of excellent quality, despite the heat, is displayed at all the stands along the highway, at Thorsby, all home grown. Apples, peaches, and grapes are now in evidence. Some are shipping peaches and grapes, while water melons have been going out by truck loads for some time. It seldom pays to have "all ones eggs in the same basket."

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mixon, of Deatsville, were guests at the H. L. Walker home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Learin and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Rozar, of Birmingham, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Howard.

Mrs. W. H. Wilson spent the week-end with her daughter, Frances.

Mesdames Grover Bice, Lee Pate and H. L. Walker spent Friday in Montgomery.

Mrs. S. C. Wood's mother, Mrs. Parnell, and brother Eugene, of Birmingham spent the week-end with her.

Dr. and Mrs. Wood and Mrs. McDonald Pearson went to Lay Dam and had lunch at Swan's Barbecue last Thursday.

Sumner Gerald, who has been teaching for a summer course in Birmingham is now at home, he will have vacation till September 1st.

The play which was rendered at the Thorsby Public school by the boys and girls from Collins Chapel was enjoyed by each and every one who attended. There should have been a larger crowd.

Miss Sallie B. Wood of Samaria is spending a few days with Misses Era and Dessie Robinson attending the revival.

Miss Nora Wood is expected to arrive Wednesday of this week.

W. H. Townsend, Sr., was carried to Norwood Hospital in Birmingham Monday morning for examination by a specialist.

Mrs. Townsend and her daughter, Mrs. Feenker, of Birmingham are spending the week at home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan; Mrs. Hattie and Miss Mary Ella Gerald,

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie, Loyd and Ella Howard and Mrs. Bena Busby, spent a very pleasant week-end at the home of Mrs. Anna Phalin in Tuscaloosa, Ala. They reported that the crops around Tuscaloosa had suffered more from the drought than they have in our county. Most of the cotton that they saw was very small and the corn in some fields was entirely drid up.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan, Mrs. James Bosworth and children spent Tuesday night at Mitchell Dam with Mr. Bosworth.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard spent Thursday as the guests of Mr. J. B. Marlar and daughter, Mrs. Annie Thacker of near Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard was the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peterson on Saturday.

Miss Marcus and Miss Hayes have been visiting friends in Birmingham for the past few weeks. Miss Turner will visit friends in Thorsby for the next few weeks.

Sunday morning Yancey Kelley, Aubrey Wright, Orville Mastin, Margaret Butler, and her room mate, Rosana Percell, and Dorothy, who spent the week-end in Birmingham and Thorsby. They and Mr. and Mrs. Butler went twenty miles south where they met Clarence's family and friends and had a picnic dinner for the day.

A young man, John Zarube and his sister stopped in Thorsby to see Mr. Butler and Margaret, whom they knew in Florida eight years ago. They are from Florida and had been on their vacation, and this brought them through Thorsby on their way back.

Miss Marguerite Davison came to Thorsby Sunday night and leaves Tuesday afternoon for Union church to continue her work.

Cecil and William Each left Friday for Florida where they spent the week-end with their folks. Cecil returned Monday morning. They went in William's car.

BETHSALEM NEWS

Our Sunday School was called to order last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with a large crowd. There was 62 members present and several visitors. We were glad to see so many present and hope to see more at Sunday School next Sunday.

The revival meeting here closed Friday night. It was attended by large congregations, and there was twenty-two added to the church during the services. We were glad to have a large crowd with us. The people wanted the meeting to run longer but the pastor and Rev. Sturkey had to have Saturday to begin a revival at Poplar Springs church.

The singing was called to order last Sunday afternoon by Mr. O. C. Billingsley. The directors for the afternoon were J. Z. Mims, R. M. Brigance, O. C. Billingsley, Mable Wilkins, Alta Belle Vinson, Vera Vance, Minne Bice and Lera Billingsley. The organists were: Mrs. J. Z. Mims, Mrs. Leola Billingsley, and Miss Minnie Bice.

We were glad to have a large crowd at the singing and every one is invited to come back next Fourth Sunday afternoon and bring your 1930 song books.

Remember Sunday School next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Every one is especially invited to come and take a part with us.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Robinson are now living at Sulligent, where Mr. Robinson has a position with the Sumpter Farm Stores.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson made a business trip to Quincy and Tallahassee, Florida, last week.

AFTERNOON SINGING AT CHESTNUT CREEK SUNDAY

There will be singing at Chestnut Creek, Coopers, Sunday afternoon, August 3rd. The United Singing Society will be with us, also Prof. J. B. Hammond from Elmore. Prof. Hammond will have with him a little boy who will direct and a little 9 year old girl will play for him.

Singing will begin at 2 o'clock and everybody is invited to come. We are going to try to have a good singing.—I. D. Huett.

Colossal Frozen Falls Unequaled for Beauty

Four thousand feet high and a mile wide—a solid mass of ice scintillating and gleaming with a myriad lights—the Hochstetter ice falls in the Tasman area of the southern Alps are one of nature's most marvelous sights. They fall from the Grand plateau and the Linda glacier and swell the volume of the mighty Tasman glacier three-quarters of a mile below. The eye of man has beheld no scene which is the peer of these colossal falls. Plunging precipitately down the rugged slopes of a mountain more than 12,000 feet in height, with a huge black rock in their midst as the only contrast to their dazzling purity, the falls are justly famed as nature's supreme gift to a beauty-loving world. One glimpse of such transcendent loveliness provides the awed observer with a lifetime of vivid recollections. There is every truth in the assertion that neither pen nor camera can convey an adequate appreciation of the glory of these falls, but in the minds of many people now departed over the seven seas they will ever remain an indelible and haunting memory.—Exchange.

SAMARIA

We have just closed a fine revival here. Rev. L. G. Payne of Ft. Worth, Texas, did the preaching. There were 11 joine dthe church. There were large crowds attended both morning and evening services.

The B. Y. P. U. was reorganized and will meet beginning next Sunday night at 7:30. The B. Y. P. U. is a very important part of church work and we hope to have one of the best in the Association. Visitors are always welcmoe.

The W. M. U. met Monday afternoon.

Miss Dessie Robinson of Thorsby spent the week with Misses Nora and Sallie B. Wood and attended the revival services. She returned home Friday, accompanied by Miss Sallie B. Wood.

Sunday School meets every Sunday at 10:00.

We were glad to have Bro. Payne conduct our meeting. He was pastor of our church for two years. He gave up the church about two years ago to enter the Seminary in Ft. Worth, Texas. We are hoping God will direct him back to his native state when he completes his work there.

EAST VIEW

Rev. A. C. Nelson returned home last Friday from Mt. Springs, where he and Rev. Dopson had been engaged in revival services. They report a good revival and 7 added to the church. All the services were attended by large congregations.

Rev. A. C. Nelson left Saturday for Eclectic, Ala., where he will conduct a revival.

Miss Gracie Brown of Wetumpka spent last week here with her cousin, Miss Cornelia Nelson.

Mrs. Mildred Griffin is visiting relatives in Elmore County this week.

There was a large congregation at the singing here last Sunday evening. Prof. Williams brought his class from the Floyd singing school and there was several present from Pleasant Valley and we had a real good singing, that was enjoyed by all present. It was interesting to see several small boys from Floyd singing school directing songs.

Prof. J. M. Williams will begin a singing school here the first Monday in August. Every body is invited to attend this school. Prof Williams requests that the patrons of the school come the first day of the school if possible.

Mr. Y. O. Nelson of Elmore County was visiting here Sunday.

REPLY FROM J. D. HARRELL TO L. H. BEAN

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to answer Mr. L. H. Bean's questions. I am glad that Mr. Bean answered part of my questions after so long. I am also glad that Mr. Bean showed the people what kind of a principle he has when he stated that if he was elected he would remember me if my son ever should happen to come before him as a teacher in this county.

Now, Mr. Bean, you stated that I went on Junior Busby's bond with the intention of him escaping, and that I went to Squire Aldridge the next day and had all my property made over into my wife's name. I want to tell you Mr. Bean, and the people of Chilton County, that is a wilful misrepresentation. Mr. Bean, you cannot find on record anywhere in the United States where I ever made my property to my wife to beat any debt.

Mr. Bean, if you did not owe anybody a penny when you went to have your operation, why did you consult a Montgomery attorney about your property? You say you will leave it up to the readers of this paper to say. But as you explained my case to them, I will now have to investigate yours a little more.

Mr. Bean, what was this judgment for? Did you receive $50 from a certain man in Jemison, and later he came to you and wanted his money back and you would not give it to him, and he sued you and got a judgment against you?

Mr. Bean, I was not in quite as good financial condition as you were for I was in debt some and am yet. But they are just and I am going to pay them when I can. If I should happen to die before I get them paid, I feel sure that my wife will stranghten them up. Did not twelve men say your debt was just?

Respectfully,
J. D. HARRELL.

Mr. L. C. Ross returned last Sunday from a business trip to St. Louis. He was accompanied by one of his customers, a prominent merchant of Talladega.

LITTLE FOLKS DO EXCELLENT WORK AT FRIENDSHIP SCHOOL

Prof. L. T. Grant's singing school at Friendship came to a close last Saturday. Quite a few patrons and visitors were present to listen to the litttle folks sing. The school, about 35 in number, consisted almost entirely of beginners, but very satisfactory results were obtained any way. The students, as well as their talented and efficient teacher, are certainly to be commended for the splendid work which was done during these three weeks.

During the day Saturday every student of the school who wished to was given the chance to direct a song, and this included a majority of them. The way that they performed was evidence of the fact that Prof. Grant had been working with them and that they had been working with Prof. Grant.

There is already quite a bit of talk of having a school here again next year, and if so even a greater success than this one is predicted.

NO SINGING AT CONCORD

There will be no singing at Concord next Sunday afternoon, on account of some wanting to go to the all day singing at Providence in Coosa County.

The revival begins here next Sunday and will run into the week folfowing.

AN EYE FOR AN EYE, AND A TOOTH FOR A TOOTH

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a little space to say a few words to the Republican voters of Chilton County concerning the present campaign that is being made for membership on the County Board of Education.

What I want to bring to the attention of the voters is the very unreasonable and very dangerous attitude that has been expressed by Mr. L. H. Bean, candidate for the School Board, in last week's paper.

Mr. Bean warned those who are opposed to him that if he is elected, he will remember their opposition to him when they come in before the County Board of Education to do business with him.

Now, my fellow citizens, I do not know Mr. Bean very well personally. All I know of him is what I have read of him in the paper during this campaign. But I want to impress my readers with this thought: A man who announces to the world that he will keep his campaign grudges after he is put into office is a dangerous man for any people to put into any office.

I want you to stop and think what it means if we put a man into office who tells us that he will deal with the people according to whether they supported or opposed him in the political campaign.

I believe a public official should be big enough to lay aside his campaign arguments when he goes into office and deal with everyone just the same, regardless of whether they voted for him or not. A man who will not do that should not be placed in a public office.

On the strength of what Mr. Bean said in his letter last week, I say to the Republican voters of this county that such a man has no business in any public office. It would be an eternal shame for the Republican party of the county to put up such a man as their nominee for any office.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN L. SMITH.

WEST CHILTON

Seasons continue favorable for the crops in this locality. Take the section of the county between Randolph and Jemison crops are good.

J. N. Cofer is erecting a new residence just across the road from his present dwelling.

Mr. Sam Pate was over here last week calling on his many friends. His record is first class.

Dr. and Mrs. Crumpton and two grand children of Clanton passed through West Chilton Sunday enroute to Free Springs to visit Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crumpton. Their many friends were glad to see them.

The holy ordinance of Baptism at the hands of Rev. Dyer was administered to one convert at Union Springs Sunday morning. Miss Dovie Smith received the ordinance.

Mr. John Bean was here last week seeing the voters. Mr. Bean is a man of intelligence and has a goodly number of friends.

Oscar Dobbs went to Mineral Springs last week. His father came back with him.

Tom Rockett was here the other day. Every body knows Tom. His official work is equal to the best.

Mr. George Murrah, deputy Sheriff, was in this locality a few days ago. He is a man of experience in the Sheriff's office.

Rev. B. Lawrence has been called to the pastorate of Randolph church.

Some writer has intimated that farmers should live on their own products more. But instead they rush their products on the market, already full to get cash. How can farmers do without cash in this day of high taxes, automobiles, and increasing light? But the light is not due to our brain power. But to the fact that now is the due time for increasing light. Increasing light brought the National Farm Board into existence. There is no going back with the farmer. He is entitled to, and must have equal representation all along the line. He is the foundation of the whole structure.

PER CAPITA EXPENDITURE FOR DEP'T OF EDUCATION LOW

The educational services provided the public school system in Alabama through the State Department of Education cost the State only 26 cents per enrolled school child for the entire year 1928-29. When based upon the census child, the basis provided by the constitution for the apportionment of funds to counties, the yearly cost becomes less than 19 cents Since the average school term for that year was 149 days it becomes evident that the daily pupil cost of maintaining the Department of Education in Alabama is negligible, being practically one-tenth of a cent. The average spent that year for overhead by local boards of education was $1.67 per pupil attending.

These calculations are based on the figures shown in the annual report of the State Superintendent of Education for the year 1928-29. This report has just been received from the state printer and is available to all.

The expenditures in Alabama for a State Department compare most favorably with those made for similiar purposes in other progressive states. While very few reports of superintendents of education show the cost of maintaining their departments of education, from those which do, we find that Alabama is not extravagant in this respect. Based upon enrolments we find that New Jersey spends 25 cents, Arkansas 26 cents, Minnesota 31 cents and New York $1.02 per pupil per year for the maintenance of their state departments of education.

Of every one hundred dollars spent in Alabama in 1928-29 for its public schools only 70 cents was spent by the State to maintain a well-staffed, non-political department of education. During the same year local superintendents spent on the average $3.30 out of every hundred dollars for general overhead. When the state overhead is added to the local overhead the total becomes slightly less than 4 per cent of all expenditures. This cost is not excessive when compared with other states since most southern states and many of the other states spend proportionately more for the administration of their schools. In one state this percentage was as great as 7.6 per cent in 1925-26, the last year for which complete data on other states are available.

While the expenditures for state overhead may appear large in the aggregate, the benefits which could be given to the State as a whole with that amount of money are almost negligible. Some contend that school terms could be materially lengthened if the money spent for the State Department of Education could go for that purpose. This argument loses its weight in light of the facts. Last year it cost on the average $114,975, exclusive of expenditures for buildings and debts, to operate all the schools of the State for one day. Since it cost the State $167,891 to maintain the State Department of Education that year, it appears that the average school term could have been extended approximately a day and a half had the money which was spent for the State Department of Education been used for that purpose. This assumes, among other things, that expenditures would have been as wisely made without state supervision as with it. Spending this amount for local schools, however, would not have guaranteed this term extension since an additional expenditure of three million dollars for current operation alone extended the average term for the State only one day over the previous year. It is evident, therefore, that the additional schooling which could be bought with the amount spent in maintain the State Department is indeed meager.

Friends of education in Alabama are proud of the efficient and courteous State Department which directs and guides the educational activities of the State. These friends are also proud of the records of achievement which the school system of Alabama has been making the past few years. Outstanding American educators have commented favorably upon the progress made and have indicated that it is due in large part to the efficient, professional staff of the Department of Education which has sponsored educational advancement.

SHATTER-PROOF GLASS USED ON NAVAL SHIPS

The safety features of shatter-proof glass,, such as is used in the windshields of Ford cars, have been recognized by the Navy Department and, according to a report of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, its use in the windows of pilot houses and fire control stations of naval vessels has been an important factor in preventing accidents.

"On the bridges of Navy destroyers, the use of non-scatterable glass has saved personnel from injury due to the impact of heavy seas," the report says. "On the larger fighting vessels, the use of this glass has prevented injury from flying glass broken by the shock of heavy gun fire."

The shattre-proof glass in windshields of Ford cars is made of two pieces of thin, selected, ground and polished glass, coated with chemicals to form a cement coating. A layer of pyroxylin plastic is introduced between the two coated sheets and they are united to form a single sheet of laminated glass by means of heat and pressure. The laminated sheet is then sealed at all edges to prevent the action of air and moisture on the pyroxylin plastic and chemicals.

When broken, each small particle of glass adheres firmly to the pyroxylin plastic internal layer with the result that there is no flying glass. Numerous letters received by the Ford Motor Company testify to the effectiveness of the shatter-proof windshield in saving lives and preventing serious injury.

FORD HAS 50,000 ACRES IN GEORGIA

Savannah, Ga.—Henry Ford has increased his holdings in Georgia in the amount of 20,000 acres. He put on record last week at Clyde, the isolated county seat of Bryan county, deeds for numerous small and large tracts, the total being 20,000 acres. His total acreage in Bryan county is now more than 50,000.

One of the tracts includes "The Cape," which is of interest because it is the site of Hardwich, one of the famous "dead towns" of Geargia. In 1775 the town had a boom on the report that it was to be the capital of the Georgia province. The capital did not come to Hardwick and the town passed out of existence.

Mr. Ford continues to have much work done on his Bryan county possessions, with no announcements as to his ultimate plans.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Find enclosed $1.50 for which please send me The Union-Banner for one year.

Respectfully,
W. A. CLACKLER.

Rte. 2, Littleton, New Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Renfroe Mullins left on Tuesday morning for a motor tour of South Alabama, Mississippi, and perhaps the itintrary may take them as far as Texas. The trip combines business and pleasure.

The Union-Banner is $1.50 a year

pleasure for me to meet you in a joint discussion before the people of this county at the courthouse on that day. And if we have this joint discussion, I do not think your next editorial would state that I was coming into the Democratic party under your leadership.

In the past I have asked you several questions pertaining to your official life, which you have ignored. I want to repeat some of those questions again. Did you not, while you were Mayor of Clanton, advise the people to vote a bond issue when the debt of the town was already beyond the limit, and after the bonds were voted and issued they could not be sold? Were you ignorant of the law, or did you try to fool the public, and perpetrate a fraud upon those to whom you tried to sell the bonds?

Didn't you in a speech at Cane Creek before the citizens of that community stand up and say that you were opposed to legislating people out of office when they had been elected by the voters of this county? Then didn't you do as you always do, go back on your word and do all in your power by going to the legislature for days and weeks, trying to get them to legislate men out of office in Chilton County, after those men had been elected by vote of the people?

Is it not a fact, Mr. Atkinson ,that you are right now trying to get candidates for the legislature and Senate to promise you that they will help legislate officers of this county out of office after they have been elected by a majority of the voters; and that notwithstanding your efforts to get Republicans to come into the Democratic party.

You say if I come into the Democratic party I will support the nominees, Yes, I have a good record on that subject. Since my first vote over forty-two years ago, I have never scratched a ticket. I suppose you have read the resolution which I introduced before the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County in which I stated that I regard it as unethical and dishonorable for people to deliberately go into a primary with the intention of voting for other party nominees in the general election.

Mr. Atkinson, there are many issues in your own party which you might declare yourself upon, and I imagine would be interesting reading to the Democrats of your county. You could tell them who you supported for President in 1928. You could tell them whether you are for a Ku Klux government in Alabama or not. You could tell them how the State taxes have increased by millions of dollars in the last few years. You could tell them whether you are in favor of an increase in taxes or a reduction in taxes. You could tell them whether you had recommended for appointment to office by the Governor of such men at J. L. Johnson. Mitch Bates. and others. You could tell them whether or not you have received fees to get the Governor to pardon convicts. You could tell them whether or not you aided and assisted in securing the parole of Republicans in 1928 in order to get them and their friends to vote the Democratic ticket.

Now, in conclusion, Mr. Atkinson, I want to make it clear to those who read this that you could have had but two purposes in your editorial. The first was to hurt the cause of Judge Miller and Charlie McCall in Chilton County, whom you are known to be opposed to as candidates for Governor. Then, of course, your other purpose was to cast some kind of aspersion upon me.

I hardly think your editorial will have either effect, as there are very few Democrats in this county who are so small as to let such an editorial as you had in your paper last week affect their political views. I suppose you are well aware, Mr. Atkinson, that most of the Democrats of Chilton County have very little respect for you or for your opinions.

As stated above, I hope you will be fair enough to publish this letter in your newspaper, Mr. Atkinson, in order that those who read your editorial of last week may likewise have an equal chance to know my side of this matter and judge the situation for themselves.

Yours respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

Profit in Long-Leaf Pine

Long-leaf pine is one of those accommodating trees which return a high revenue to the grower and yet are not particular about growing conditions.

The trees pay a double profit to the grower, both the turpentine and lumber yields being on a paying basis. An ideal crop is offered for the sandy lands of the South, for the trees will thrive either in wet or dry areas. They are resistant to the fire menace, too, and in return for a little protection during the first four or five years of growth develop by themselves without attention thereafter.

More Tocsin Than Toxin

A sign in the yard next door said: "Very bad dog. Beware, boys!"

It kept the boys away. So when Mrs. S. saw a big snake in her yard one June day she said to her husband: "Maybe we can keep those kids off our garden now. You fix the sign."

It was hung on a big tree in the backyard and it read:

"Very bad snake. Watch out!"

Soon the neighborhood—yes, several neighbors—heard about it. Mrs. S. had a backyard full of boys with air rifles, clubs and stones for two days.—Indianapolis News.

THE INDIVIDUAL YET NEEDED BY BUSINESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

SOME seem to think that the day of the individual in business has passed. But they are wrong. While the individual may not attract such outstanding attention as he did in the days of old when institutions were conducted on a smaller scale, he nevertheless is to be found in any large corporation, dominating the situation, giving orders here, cooperating there and shouldering the responsibility of keeping a large group of lieutenants, captains and privates working in unison and moving forward under the banner of progress. And all of these are held accountable to the public because the public has entered into a partnership agreement with the corporation through purchase of stock.

John G. Lonsdale

Welfare of Workers

Even in the gigantic mergers that have taken place within the last two years there remains more than ever the necessity for a leader, an aggressive personality, whose duty it is to see that basic principles are not forgotten, that the rights and privileges of the individual workers and the customers they serve are as well provided for as in the smaller business units.

It is gratifying to note that our corporations are giving more and more concern to the welfare of their workers. Numerous benefit organizations have been formed, opportunities offered for advancement of education and position, hospital service established and insurance and retirement pensions provided.

This general humanitarian movement in reality is the outgrowth of analysis, which has disclosed the need of improving the well-being of our individual workers, realizing at the same time that our institutions will benefit.

PREPAREDNESS IN BUSINESS

By R. S. HECHT,
American Bankers Association.

My observations for many years, both as an employee and as an executive, have convinced me that the reason some men and women go ahead and others do not is that some keep themselves constantly prepared to accept and fulfill larger duties and responsibilities as they offer, and some do not.

Grant, as we must, that there is a certain element of luck in the conditions under which opportunity for promotion comes to different men and women, we nevertheless must also see that it is each individual's own state of preparedness which determines his ability to seize opportunity if and when it comes, and having seized it, to succeed in meeting the greater demands which it inevitably places upon him.

Real advancement never means going ahead to easier tasks, but always to harder ones. Opportunity for advancement is worthless unless in accepting it you are able to carry with you the abilities and qualifications that prepare you to meet the heavier exactions that are an inherent part of opportunity.

It is far better to go into action in the field of enlarged responsibility prepared and qualified, rather than that you and the institution you work for shall be exposed to the hazard of your having to build up to new responsibilities after having assumed them.

The new spirit of all business seeks to prepare its people in advance through education for the higher duties it holds in store for them.

Bank Bandits Active

The greatest number of bandit raids on American banking ever recorded in the figures of the protective department of the American Bankers Association were reported during the six months ending last February. Bank members of the association reported for investigation 311 forgery cases, 107 holdup robberies, 16 burglaries, 2 sneak thefts and 8 mortgage swindles while non-member banks, numbering less than half the total enrolled in the association, suffered 86 holdup robberies and 9 burglaries, non-members being burglarized or held up once for every 89 banks, as compared with once for every 164 member banks. The association detective agents caused the arrest of 143 of the 236 bank criminals apprehended during the period covered.

The association's report on these conditions urges support of the movement to provide city police departments with radio-equipped cruising automobiles which have proved particularly effective in Cleveland and Detroit in the broadcasting of alarms and the closing in on criminals immediately after or even in the midst of the perpetration of crimes. Last year the average time elapsed between the receipt of radio calls by these cars and the 1325 arrests which followed was one minute and forty-two seconds, the report says.

Flagrant Instances of Plants Without Morals

Some years ago an Indian scientist showed that many, if not all, plants have feelings very like our own. No one has yet discovered the brain of the plant, but it is unquestionable that while some are normally clean-living things, others display craft, cunning, and even criminal tendencies in order to obtain a livelihood.

One which is both criminal and cunning is the plantain, which infests lawns. It is clever enough to adapt itself to circumstances by spreading out its leaves so flatly that they escape the attentions of the lawnmower. And it goes farther than this. It wants to obtain sunlight, and it can do so only if the grass does not put it in the shade. Being a thorough criminal, it puts out its flat leaves in such a way as to kill by suffocation the grass growing near its roots.

Ivy strangles growing trees, and the small convolvulus plays a similar evil part to grasses and plants. But perhaps the worst criminal in the underworld of plants is the dodder. It attacks clover fields and is capable of feigning death for weeks until an unwary plant appears near it. Then it sinks its suckers into the flesh of the victim and commits murder.—London Tit-Bits.

Monk's Self-Sacrifice Ended Bloody Contests

Battles in the arena between gladiators were stopped for all time in 444 A. D. by the impulsive action of Telemachus, a Christian monk.

It is said that the first set combats between gladiators in Rome were in the year 263 B. C., and that they were given by Decius and Marcus Brutus at the funeral of their father. Later the idea spread, and the contests became a favorite means of amusing the populace. It grew to such enormous proportions that Trajan gave an exhibition at the Coliseum lasting 23 days, in which 20,000 gladiators were slain.

In 325 A. D., Constantine abolished these contests. But a century later, up on the retreat of Alaric with his Goths from Rome, the Emperor Honorius celebrated the event by a revival of the combats. It was then that Telemachus leaped into the arena, holding high a cross and calling upon the people to prevent further bloodshed.

The reply of the populace was to stone him to death. Afterward, in deep sorrow, they repented the act, and Honorius proclaimed the combats forever at an end.—Popular Biography.

Rough-and-Ready Washing

The time-honored joke concerning the ravages of the laundry on one's underwear is no joke in India, declares an Englishwoman, resident of India, writing in the London Daily Mail. This week, she says, there are two frocks ironstained, three rents in a new silk slip, the seam of a favorite silk jumper ripped open, a sheet torn almost in two, and a couple or table napkins which will now have to serve as kitchen rags.

My husband has fared just as badly. Another four of his soft collars are in shreds, two dress collars have been returned with the edges serrated like a saw, and a pair of white trousers is now conspicuously decorated with the outline of a large iron.

ROOMS FOR RENT—3 rooms, next to Court house, prefer to rent to parties without children. Apply to Mrs. J. M. Potts, Clanton, Ala. 7-31-3t-pd.

S. R. DELOACH DIED TUESDAY NIGHT

Mr. S. R. Deloach, age 82 years, died Tuesday night at the home of his son, S. D. Deloach, in the Enterprise community. Mr. Deloach had been in failing health for several months, and had been seriously sick for the past two weeks.

He will be buried today (Thursday) at Bethany at ten o'clock a. m.

His wife, who is 86 years old, survives him; also the following sons: S. D., O. D., E. A., and J. J. Deloach; two daughters, Mrs. W. Y. Keel and Mrs. J. W. Neely.

FAITHFUL WORKERS CLASS

The Faithful Workers Class of Clanton Baptist Sunday School will hold their regular monthly business meeting at the church at 4 o'clock on next Tuesday afternoon. All members are requested to come, bring a picnic lunch.

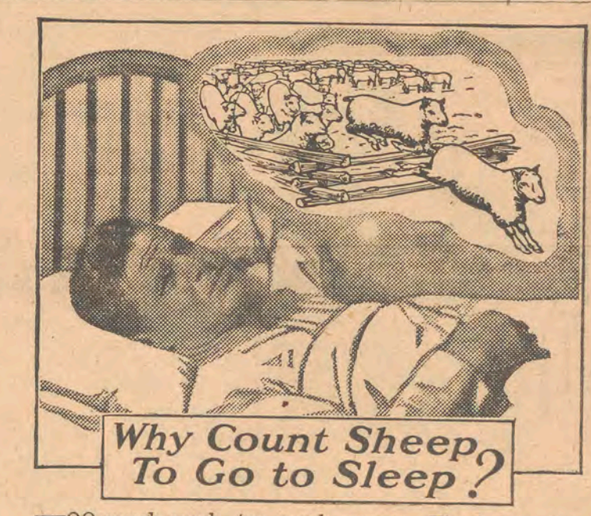
The Housewife's Duty

To her home, not to her grocer

The housewife was not put on earth to support grocers. She owes no grocer a living. She does owe herself and her family the greatest amount of the best food her money can buy. Her only duty when buying food is to her home.



The honest grocer asks no favors. He does not expect charity. He is willing to be judged by the amount of good food he gives for the consumer's dollar.

A & P is a grocer who has already been judged by many consumers. After seventy years in business, it enjoys the patronage of over 5,000,000 thrifty housewives.

So large a following of critical shoppers is the result of a single simple fact—that the public buys where it obtains the most for its money.

Marked Change in President's Tactics

Political Fisticuffs Invited As President Wields "Big Stick" Reminiscent Of Roosevelt's Regime; Critics Once Accused Him Of Timidity

Washington, Aug. 1.—A marked change has been noticeable in the tactics adopted by President Hoover during recent weeks.

After having tried unsuccessfully to use pacific influences during the first 17 months of his administration, the president now is showing a decided tendency toward political fisticuffs.

The change was first manifest when he forced congress to submit to his wishes on the World War veterans' pension bill, and it has been developing ever since.

Critics Scored

Within the past few days, Mr. Hoover has seen fit to strike at those who have been criticising his frequent appoint of commissions; he has secured from Claudius H. Huston an announcement of his intention to resign as chairman of the Republican national committee; he has ridden rough-shod over the opposition to Nicholas Roosevelt as vice-governor of the Philippines, and has strongly criticized the opposition to the London naval treaty.

Then, too, the president has departed from his usual policy in going to the defense of Representative Reese, Republican, Tennessee, in a primary campaign, with a letter endorsing Reese's stand against government operation of Muscle Shoals.

To Visit West

In addition, Mr. Hoover has said he would go west despite the murmurings of the wheat belt, and he has impatiently ordered his cabinet officials to expedite their plans for cutting expenditures.

The change to something akin to Rooseveltian methods is all the more pronounced inasmuch as the president had been accused of timidity earlier in his administration.

GOOD MEETING CLOSES AT PLEASANT VALLEY THURSDAY

Thursday night of last week came to a close one of the best and mostly enjoyed meetings ever held at Pleasant Valley. There were eight additions to the church, some by letter and some by experience.

The meeting at Pleasant Valley was kindly what you call one of those ancient—or one of those kind that used to be—where folks get happy and shout, or in other words, where they really feel the presence of the holy ghost and don't mind letting the world know about it. By way of parenthesis The Union-Banner will say that we need more of this shouting religion — the real, genuine old-time religion. People should give way to the powers from on high, and if they would more people would have such experience as several had last week at Pleasant Valley.

The preaching was done by Rev. A. D. Huett, formerly of that community but now of Howard College. And this fact brings to our mind another portion of the scripture which goes something like this: "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country." Well, Rev. Huett has broken this adage at least in one instance. He has taken great honor to himself—or rather to God who sent him and gave him the power, among the people of that community. Rev. Huett did some wonderful preaching and the people gave great response. The pastor at Pleasant Valley is Rev. J. D. Hughes.

ENFORCEMENT OF DRY LAW IS ASKED PUBLIC BY NATION

Washington, Aug. 5.—Obtaining the sympathy and help of the American public are two objectives of Prohibition Director Woodcock in his task of enforcing prohibition with reorganized forces under the justice department.

"After all, who can object to a fair, honest, earnest and lawful enforcement of a law of the land?" The new dry chief asked a radio audience last night in conclusion of an address outlining the ways in which he proposes to execute his task.

"I ask the support of all citizens," he said. "To those who have been making the unlawful traffic possible by affording a market for the contraband, may I suggest, simply and in no sense officiously, for the decision is yours—is the opportunity to obtain a drink of liquor in an unlawful way comparable in importance to you to the opportunity to contribute to the ideal of a law abiding nation?"

"To the great mass of American men and women I say give us your sympathy and help."

MISS JEFFERSON BECOMES THE BRIDE OF MR. SIMS

Wedding Takes Place Last Sunday Morning At Lawley

A wedding of much interest was that of Miss Cornelja Jefferson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Jefferson, of Lawley and Mr. Hubert Sims, which was quietly solemnized last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the bride's home. The living room was attractively decorated with ferns and garden flowers. To the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march played by Mrs. C. N. Parnell, of Maplesville, the bride and groom entered the living room together. The vows were spoken by Rev J. S. Dunlap. The bride wore a gray flat crepe ensemble suit with accessories to match. Her flowers were roses.

After a short wedding trip to South Alabama, Havana and Jacksonville, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Sims will be at home in Florence, Ala.

The out of town guests were Mrs. C. N. Parnell of Maplesville, Mrs. F. A. Shanks of Maplesville, Mrs. Katie Collins of Montgomery, Mrs. Ben Davis of Montgomery, Mrs. Eugene Thompson of Havana, Florida, Mrs. Cliff Jefferson of Jacksonville, Florida. Mrs. W. M. Cost and family of Jemison, Mrs. Ken Daniel of Tuscaloosa, Mrs. Bedford of Northport. Collis Crawford Haynes, Tuscaloosa; Charlie Head of Jackson, Tenn., Leroy Head of Northport, Newman Head of Birmingham.

WILLIAM ALBERT GANDY

Wililam Albert Gandy, age 74 years, died at his home at Billingsley last Sunday night. He was buried at Billingsley Tuesday morning. Mr. Gandy had been in the mercantile business at Billingsley for the past 35 years, and was one of the most beloved citizens of that community.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Minnie L. Gandy, and one sister, Mrs. Gray, of Clanton.

REV. DYKES WILL CONDUCT REVIVAL MEETINGS

The revival meeting at New Salem Baptist Church will begin next Sunday, August 10, and continue for the entire week. Rev. B. F. Dykes will do the preaching.

Beginning Sunday, August 17, Rev. Dykes will conduct the revival at Collins Chapel Baptist Church during the following week.

Rev. Dykes is a Chilton County product, and is one of our most popular and able ministers. The public is extended a cordial invitation both from Rev. Dykes and the pastor, Rev. Appleton, and the people of those communities to attend the revival services.

TWO DAYS TO MARRY

There will be a play, "Two days to Marry", sponsored by the American Legion and 4-H Club Boys of Fairview, at the Chilton County High School auditorium, Saturday night, August 9, beginning at 8 p. m.

Everybody come and enjoy a good laugh. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

To the Republicans of Chilton County

I again appeal to each of you to go to the Republican Primary Election on August 12th and vote what your best judgment tells you is to the best interest of our county.

Remember that no matter how regrettable it may be, sometimes misrepresentations and false accusations are made and unfair and unlawful practices used in order to obtain nominations. I believe that you will weigh all this and vote for the right, for law and for order, as that is the only thing that will be in the interest of our party. No party can continue to succeed without its officers and nominees are law abiding themselves and thereby command the respect of our Christian citizens.

Really no voter is under obligations to vote for any nominee who obtains his nomination by fraudulent or illegal methods. The U. S. Senate has gone as far as refusing to seat officers elected by questionable practices. The use of money or other thing of value to influence votes is not only in violation of law but ruinous to any party. Any criticism or discrimination against any voter on account of the way they vote in the primary election should not be tolerated by any true citizen.

It is your right as guaranteed by our constitution and anyone violating same is not a friend to the Republican party or to our country.

Again appealing to you to go to the polls and vote your convictions, and assuring you that your ballot will be kept secret and inviolate as the law requires, I am, yours very truly,

J. N. DENNIS,
Chairman Chilton County
Republican Executive Committee.

Elect Delegates To Chilton County Republican Convention

The qualified Republican voters of Chilton County are hereby notified to assemble at a convenient place at or near their respective voting places in each precinct on August 12th, at 2 o'clock, P. M., and elect two delegates from each precinct to the County Republican Convention to be held at the courthouse in Clanton on Friday, August 15, 1930, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

The purpose of said County Republican Convention is to elect delegates to the District and State Republican Conventions.

We suggest that where there are two voting places in the same precinct, that one delegate be elected at each voting place.

In precincts with only one voting place, two delegates are to be elected at that voting place.

It is expected that the Beat Committeeman of each Beat will call the Beat meeting, and look after the election of delegates to the County Republican Convention as above outlined.

J. N. DENNIS, Chairman,
J. Z. MIMS, Secretary,
Chilton County Republican Executive Committee.

REVIVAL BEING HELD AT COURTHOUSE IN CLANTON

The revival announced a few days ago to be held at the courthouse in Clanton was changed on account of inability of Evangilist Dailey to reach here on time. However, services have been being held since the time announced. For the first week they were held in the church, moving to the courthouse on the arrival of the evangelist.

Beginning last Monday night, services have been held at the courthouse every night this week, with Evangelist Dailey of Anniston conducting the meetings, sponsored by the local Foursquare church. Fairly good crowds have been in attendance each night, both while at the church and courthouse.

Following is Evangelist Dailey's program for the remainder of the week:

Thursday night—"The measure of a man."

Friday night—"My life story"—full of thrills and tragedies; from the gamblers hell to the pulpit. The evangelist will tell about his experiences in Dothan, when they tried to kill him and finally burned his tent that seated 3,000 people.

Saturday night—"When chickens come home to roost."

Sunday morning—"The woman who didn't sell out."

Sunday afternoon 3:00 o'clock—"But he was a leper."

Sunday night—"What I would do if I were the devil and lived in Clanton."

Announcement will be made at the service Sunday night as to whether the meeting will continue for another week. Everybody invited to every service.—Foursquare Church.

REVIVAL AT JEMISON BEGINS TODAY, AUGUST 7

Revival services at the Jemison Baptist church, begin tonight, Thursday, August 7th, at 7:30 p.m.

Services will be held daily—10:30 and 7:30 p.m. Preaching will be done by Rev. R. T. McLeoud, evangelist.—Rev. J. W. Jones, Pastor.

MR. LANDE GONE TO MARKET THIS WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. Lande and son Irving Mr. Harry Margolis, and Miss Bertha Margolis, left last Sunday for an automobile trip to Chicago and other points in the North and East. They will combine business with pleasure on this trip, visiting relatives in Chicago.

The trip will be extended to St. Louis, Baltimore, and New York, where Mr. and Mrs. Lande will buy a brand new stock of Fall and Winter merchandise for The Leader.

They expect to be gone about two weeks, and soon after their return the new stock of goods will begin to arrive. Mr. Lande says "The Leader always leads in values," and that he will have something specially attractive for his customers when his new goods are placed on display in his new store, which has been made new and more complete in every detail since the damage which was suffered some months ago.

VISITORS FROM FLORIDA

On last Thursday the following gathered at the home of O. L. Ray: Mr. H. B. Owen and family, Mr. J. E. Ray and Family, Mr. J. D. Mullins and family and Mr. T. A. Powell and family, to greet Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Powell and children, Thermon and Monia, and Lois Powell, from Pensacola, Florida.

The few days they had to spend with us were enjoyed by everyone. On Friday the crowd spent the day at J. E. Ray's with the addition of Mr. W. L. Powell and baby, Mrs. F. Owen and Mr. Joe Gray. Then Saturday at J. D. Mullins's and Sunday at the home of Mr. T. A. Powell .

We are very sorry that Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Owen could not be with us the last two days, but his baby became very ill with colitis.

And we must mention the good things we had to eat. There was surely never a table filled with better things to eat. It was this way at all the different homes.

Everyone was sad Monday morning when they had to return to their home.

Republican Meeting Next Saturday

We are requested to announce that there will be a Republican meeting at the courthouse on next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A prominent Alabama Republican from outside Chilton County will address the voters on matters of general interest to the Republican voters.

This meeting is not in the interest of any particular candidate or candidates. All Republican voters of the County, all Republican candidates, all Republican managers and clerks of the coming Primary, and all members of the Republican Executive Committee of the County are urged to be present.

SHERIFF COLLINS AND FORCE HAVE BUSY WEEK OF NABS

Fifteen Arrests Made Since Saturday Of Last Week

In reporting his list of catches for last week end, Sheriff Collins said: "We have another court docket to report this week." The following investigations were made, with the results of each:

Saturday morning Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah arrested for gaming at Lay Dam, Sam Cleckler, Lafayette Ellison, Elijah Smitherman and Harvey Lee Jones. Each was placed under bond of $100.

Saturday afternoon Will Kennedy, negro who lives on Rudolph Moates's place, was arested at his home by Sheriff Collins and Deputies Murrah, Foshee and Easterling. He had about five gallons of home brew. Kennedy was put in jail and later made bond for $300 and was released from jail.

Later Saturday afternoon the home of Luther Ward at Thorsby was raided, and a quantity of whiskey and home brew fixtures and containers were found. Ward was arrested and bond set at $300.

The same evening the officers went up to Calera and got Arch Robinson, who had been taken up by the Calera officers for passing bad checks. He was placed in jail and has not made bond yet.

As the officers passed along the highway above Thorsby they noticed two men on the side of the highway apparently having a big time. On investigation, it was found that two men named D. E. Patterson and Gene Stockdale had a supply of home brew with ice, had them a glass and were drinking it, having a high-heel time. The two were arrested and placed under bond of $300 each, which they made and were released.

A little later in the day Odis Ellison was arrested at the Shelby County line on the highway, with a half gallon of whiskey. He was put in jail and later made bond of $300.

Saturday evening about night the officers were called to Thorsby, and Floyd Caton was taken into custody charged with desertion. Caton was located at the home of Mrs. Viola Scott. When the officers approached Caton ran, but George Murrah proved a little lighter on foot and overtook him. Scott was placed in jail, where he still remains, not having made bond.

Saturday night at Verbena, the officers divided and placed themselves two on each side of the highway. Soon Tom Middlebrooks of Montgomery drove up, stopped his car, took out his whiskey and began drinking. The officers closed in on him and took him in charge. He was released on bond of $300.

Sunday morning Sheriff Collins, Deputies Murrah and Foshee located about five gallons of home brew near the home of Mack Baker on the Kincheon road. The officers waited a few minutes, and Mack Baker and Jay Foshee came up and went to driving. The officers closed in and arrested them. They were released after making bond for $300 each.

Instructions About Marking of Ballots

One of the election officers who is to serve in the Primary Election of Next Tuesday has requested The Union-Banner to publish the law which relates to the marking or preparing of a ballot for a voter who is unable to read or otherwise unable to prepare his or her own ballot.

In regard to this matter the law is very plain and explicit, and we publish it below, as it is written in Section 632 of the Political Code of Alabama:

"If a qualified elector is unable to read or is so physically disabled that he cannot make his cross mark on a ballot, and asks to prepare his ballot, the inspector shall swear him to such disability, and thereupon no more nor less than two inspectors shall go with him into the booth and mark his ballot as he directs. If more than one political party is participating in the primary one of the inspectors shall be of one party and the other of another party participating therein. In no event than those specified in this section shall anyone assist a voter to prepare his ballot."

NOTICE TO LEGIONAIRES OF CHILTON COUNTY

Post Commander Stapp calls attention to the fact that this is the beginning of the new Legion year. At the next regular meeting Monday night, August 11th, new officers will be elected for the new year.

Post Commander Stapp urges every member of the Chilton County post to be present and take part in the election of new officers.

Dr. Marcus on Trip To Los Angeles

Gives Important Things Seen Along Route, Will Start On Return Trip About August 10th, Arriving In Clanton In About A Week.

Editor Union-Banner:

As promised, I will give you a brief report on our trip west.

We left Clanton at 5:30 on the morning of July 12th, going via Selma, Meridan and Vicksburg. Making 360 miles the first day, spending the night in Tululah, La., leaving there next morning. We made 475 miles next day, reaching Colorado, Texas the second night, spending the night in Colorado, Texas. Leaving next morning at 7:40, we made 427 miles the third day. Reaching El Paso, Texas. On the morning of the fourth day we crossed the Rio Grande, going over to Juarez, Mexico, and spent about an hour, and after having our car greased and oiled we left El Paso at noon going on via Las Cruses, New Mexico, going on to Wilcox, Arizona that day which is 262 miles from El Paso. Spent the night in Wilcox, where we had our first trouble with mosquito . Leaving Wilcoz at 3:15 next morning we journeyed on and about 10:30 we had our first car trouble, a puncture in right rear tire, being at this time more than 1,900 miles on our trip. Had puncture repaired at Elroy, Arizona. We proceeded on to Gela Bend, where we began on our trip through the desert about noon, and you can bet it was hot.

We reached Zuma about sundown, going on to El Centro, California, where the routes diverge. We found the nearest way out of the desert was via San Diego and after driving about 50 miles we got out on the mountain where it was cool, and having made 502 miles since early morning, we felt like resting, so we made camp out of our auto and remained there until about 4:00 next morning, driving on down into San Diego for breakfast, and reached Los Angeles at 1:30 the 7th day, making 203 miles that day. So you can see we made the trip, 2,517 miles in six and one-half days, averaging about 387 miles a day.

We reached our destination without any car trouble, with exception of one puncture.

This is a wonderful country. And the finest climate I was ever in. Have had to use blankets every night. We found fairly good crops on our way out, but most all the way rain was needed. Roads were fine but had two or three detours, which added mileage. But detours were in good condition.

We expect to start on our return trip home about the 10th of August. And will go by San Francisco, Reno, Denver, and Memphis. Had expected to leave here sooner, but we had a 10-pound grand-daughter to arrive in our sons home today at 10:15 a. m., so will have to remain a few days longer than we expected.

We appreciate The Union-Banner you have sent us, that we might get the home news.

We failed to reach Los Angeles in time to buy any of the 5-cent gasoline, as I am told the price only remained down two or three days. We paid any where from 15 to 29 cents per gallon for gas on the trip.

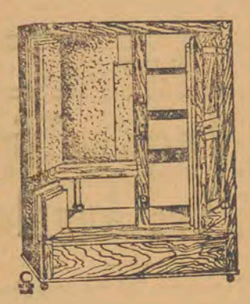
I met Samuel Wesley Adams last Sunday. You remember him. Son of W. M. Adams. Have not met with Mr. P. C. Mims yet, will look him up this week.

The people I have met so far are very sociable. I have not had the opportunity to go aground much so far. Been to the beach twice, and to some of the large numbers of parks they have here. They are beautiful and very interesting places.

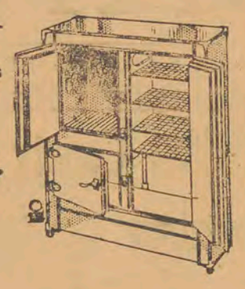
I hope every body is getting along fine back in old Chilton. And that there has been some rains to help the crops. I haven't seen but one shower since we left home. That was the first day on our trip, while in Mississippi. I am told there will be no rain here until December.

I will close. Hope to see you soon.—T. J. Marcus.



HOOVER ORDERS AID TO FARMERS

Washington, Aug. 5.—President Hoover announced today no stone would be left unturned by the government in its efforts to assist in relieving distress caused by the unprecedented drought.



The seriousness of the situation in a wide area east of the Mississippi and in the middle west has been the subject of conference between Mr. Hoover and Secretary Hyde.

The result was a detailed survey to be made by the department of agriculture which will have a report next Monday.

LETTER FROM MR. D. H. GENTRY

To the voters of Chilton County:

In reply to a letter from T. A. Maddox, who is one of my opponents, which appeared in the Union-Banner of a few weeks ago in which he is asking for a second term, I just wish to say that as a general rule I believe in a second term and that I have always stood for a second term. But the county only gave me one term and they gave Mr. Mims only one term. Mr. Maddox did not seem to believe in the two term matter four years ago when de defeated Mr. Mims, who had been there for only one term. I feel like I am as much entitled to ask for the second term as Mr. Maddox is. Too, he speaks of what the commisioners have done toward paying the old indebtedness off. The voters should rember that when I was commissioner that the county had an indebtedness of around two hundred and thirty eight thousand dollars and it was about all that we could do to pay the interest on it. That was before the Alabama Power Company began paying taxes and taxes then probably were not half what they are today. It is a hard matter to pay off a debt when there is nothing to pay it off with. I feel that I have never been given a fair show in the commissioners office, because there was but little to operate the county with when I was commissioner Today we collect over $4,000 per month gas tax from the State. I have never had the privilege of giving my friends the benefit of this money.

I do not write this as a criticism of Mr. Maddox, but I do feel like this is justice to myself to let the voters know that he has had altogether a different situation under which to work than I had. Please just compare what he has done for the county with what I did for it in the terms of the amount of money that eich one had at his disposal.

I do not want to use too much space in your paper, but I shall be glad that every Republican voter in Chilton County will give me a close consideration for the office of commissioner of the second district and I shall appreciate your vote and influence in the coming primary, if you think that I am competent and worthy of your influence. Very truly,—D. H. Gentry.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Folks, you just ought to come and watch our Sunday school grow; not only watch it grow but help us to make it grow. We had 65 on roll Sunday and hope to enroll fifteen more next Sunday.

Our prayer meeting was also good Sunday. We are going to meet next Sunday at 9:00 a.m., for prayer meeting; Sunday school at 10:00, and Rev. M. Lockhart will preach at 11. Hope everybody will come and hear him for he is a young preacher and we should encourage him as much as possible.

The Maple Springs singing society will meet in the afternoon, and we especially, invite all singers to come and be with us.

Let all come to these services and see if we can't be benefitted. What we sow, that shall we also reap.

Mrs. Hubert Devaughn, Secy.

J. M. WILLIS WRITES TO THE VOTERS

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give me a little space in your valuable paper to say a few words. This is my first attempt to say anything through the paper since I wrote my platform soon after I first announced myself a candidate for Sherfif. I want to say in the first place, for the benefit of some who might doubt my competency of filling the office which I ask for. I fully realized that the Sheriff's office was a very important one and that there is a big responsibility on one's shoulders. At the same time I sized myself up to be big enough for the job. I believe that plenty of self-confidence and a little common sense and sound judgment with a little legal advice is what it takes to make the pot boil. So if I had not thought that I was big enough for the job, I certainly would not have put myself up to be shot at. Second, I want to say that I am asking the voters of this County for the nomination to this office straight from my own shoulders on general principles and not on the other fellows demerits. So if I am your nominee on the 12th of August I will put forth every effort possible to win in the general election, which I believe I can do.

Now I am going to try to see every voter that I have not already seen between now and August the 12th and if I happen to miss seeing some of you I certainly wont do it on purpose and I will appreciate anything you will do in my behalf. Now I want to say to some of those who tried to throw some little stumbling blocks before the people secretly against me. I can and I will forgive them for that for I have got a forgiving heart and I certainly do appreciate the kind of bloood that was bred in my veins and everybody who knows me know me to be of that nature. Now I want to say that the time is drawing near for the primary to end. As this will be my farewell appeal to you Iwill leave my case with you. If you believe that I am worthy of what I am asking you and if you believe that I will give you a square and fair demonstration, then I will ask you when you go to pick out your self a Sheriff think of me. If you can make up your mind to throw it my way this time I certainly will appreciate it and if not your choice will be mine. I have run a clean race to my fellow opponents. I have stood by the party since 1914 when I first made up my mind to attach myself to any party and I expect to remain so. Now in conclusion I want to say to the voters that I certainly do appreciate the nice respect that you have shown me in listening to my little appeal to you in canvassing the county and I want to say further that if you elect me I can show my appreciation better by serving you than I can tell you. Yours for a square deal and success to the Republican party.

I am yours very truly,
J. M. (Tug) Willis

PERCY M. PITTS WRITES

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

There are many Republicans whom I have been unable to see personally, even though I have spent considerable time attempting to do so; however I trust that all of us will go into the Primary on August 12th, next Tuesday and vote for our choice and nominate a ticket that will be elected in the general election.

The voters of Chilton County honored me by sending me to the State Legislature in 1927 as their Represenative in that body. At that time I was aware of the responsibility that you placed upon me, and at all times tried to work and vote for the best interest of my county and state. As most of you will remember during the meeting of the last Legislature Mr. J. B. Atkinson, Dr. P. T. Hinkle and a few other Democrats of this county put forth every effort to abolish the Commissioners Court and other offices who were elected by the vote of the people, mainly for the reason of the fact that they were held by Republicans.

These local bills were introduced in the Senate and passed; however when they reached the House of Representative, through the help of my friends down there, these bills were defeated by a large majority, after a long drawn out fight. The same fight, I am reliably informed is coming up again in the next Leglislature, regardless of whether you indorse the stand I took for the people and give me an indorsement of what I did in 1927; or see fit to send my opponent. My record for local self government as a member of the last Legislature is known to most all of the people of this county and is past history.

I am asking you to indorse me by vote and influence on August 12th, in order that I may have an opportunity to again represent the people of this great county and state and I feel that through the experience I had during 1927 that I can be of more help to my County and do more for our people in keeping our government in the hands of the people.

I am convinced that a large majority of the voters desire to have the opportunity to elect by popular vote our County Superintendent of Education. If I represent you in 1931 I will introduce a local bill and do all in my power to give you the opportunity.

The record will show that I voted for a state wide bill or general bill giving this right to all counties. This bill was defeated in 1927 by a small majority.

I shall favor those bills which will seek to lower the taxes in our state which is now a great burden to the people of this county and state. The Legislature cannot by any authority known give Farm relief or control the price of cotton. I only wish the Legislature had this power. It is true that I am not a farmer, nor a merchant; however as a lawyer I have always and at all times represented the peoples interest and not the interests of individuals or corporations. Should I again represent you in the Legislature I will continue to work and vote for those measures which in my humble judgment are for the interest of the people of Chilton County.

Regretting my inability to have had the opportunity to speak to all of the Republicans personally regarding my candidacy and again assuring you that your choice will be mine and that in the future as in the past you will always find me working for the interests of the Republican party both in County and State, I am,—Percy M. Pitts.

MRS. LIZZIE WILLIAMS

In Memoy of My Loving Grand Mothtr, who Departed this Life on the 12th day of June, 1930.

Dear grandmother we are lonely here since you have crossed the tide, but your noble record seems to cheer us while we stay on the stormy side. Earth has lost many happy charms for me since you have gone away; but heaven will the brighter be since you have gone there to stay. We miss your smiling face; we miss your words of cheer; we miss you all about the place, we miss you everywhere.

We miss you in the early morn, we see your vacant chair; we miss you when the day is done, when we say our evening prayer.

Farewell, our dearest one, we'll travel on in pain; and when our work on earth is done, we hope to meet again.

Lesson for August 10

HANNAH, A GODLY MOTHER

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 1:9-18, 24-28; 2:19.

GOLDEN TEXT—My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Hannah's Prayer Answered.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Hannah's Prayer Answered.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Can We Honor Our Parents?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Value of a Godly Home.

I. Hannah's Sore Trial (1:1-8).

Elkanah had two wives in violation of God's law. God's primal thought for man was one wife. Therefore, for Adam he made Eve. Hannah's sore trial grew out of jealousy which naturally springs up between two women, wives of one man. The violation of this law of God concerning marriage has always been attended with trouble.

II. Hannah's Prayer (1:9-18).

She had the good sense to take her troubles to the Lord. This believers should do, even though the troubles result from sin.

1. Her bitterness of soul (v. 10).

Though Elkanah loved her and sought to lighten her burden, he was unable to bring to her the needed solace.

2. Her vow (v. 11).

Hannah prayed, asking God for a son. The name Samuel means "asked of God." In connection with her asking this gift from God, she vowed to give the child back to God. Much can be expected of children born into the world under such circumstances.

3. Hannah misjudged by Eli the priest (vv. 12-16).

The priest observing the motion of her lips and not hearing the sound of her voice concluded that she was intoxicated and demanded that she put away wine. She defended herself against this inference.

4. Blessed by Eli (vv. 17, 18).

Following her explanation he pronounced a blessing upon her, joining in the prayer that God would grant her petition.

III. Hannah Gives Samuel to the Lord (vv. 24-28).

For a time she cared for Samuel in the home. Always the best nurse for a child is its mother. According to her vow, at an early age she took Samuel to the sanctuary and gave him over to the charge of Eli, the priest, to minister therein. We thus see in his tender years Samuel's ministering before the Lord.

IV. Samuel's Ministry (ch. 3).

1. His call (vv. 1-10).

(1) The occasion.

From his birth Samuel was dedicated to the service of the Lord. While going about his regular duties the Lord spake unto him. In Samuel we have a striking pattern of child religion. In the Scriptures we have set forth two types of experience: First, the one who experiences God's saving grace after having lived in sin; second, the one brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord from infancy.

(2) His obedience.

When the divine voice was discerned Samuel rendered immediate obedience. He expressed his willingness before he knew what was required. He did not inquire what was wanted and then let his obedience depend upon the agreeableness of the command.

2. Samuel's prophetic message (vv. 11-18).

The time has now come for him to pass from the authority of Eli to that of the Lord. The first message entrusted to him was a most terrible one. He hesitated to tell it to Eli, but being pressed, he manifested true courage. It must have been a bitter experience to Eli to see Samuel recognized and himself passed by. This fearful visitation of judgment upon Eli's house was due to the sins of his sons. Eli was held responsible for not restraining them. He seems to have been a good man but lax in the discipline of his children. Parental laxity is most cruel. To tolerate evil when one has the power to restrain it is to become party to it.

V. Samuel Established in the Prophetic Office (3:19-21).

"And Samuel grew, and the Lord was with him, and did let none of his words fall to the ground. And all Israel from Dan even to Beersheba knew that Samuel was established to be a prophet to the Lord." Little did Hannah know that the boy who had been given in answer to her prayer would one day become the spiritual head of the nation. Truly, he that honors God shall be honored by God.

J. BICE FOR SANDERS

Editor Union-Banner:

I want to say just a few words in your valuable paper in regard to the candidacy of W. L. Sanders, who is running for member of the Board of Education.

Mr. Sanders has been serving the patrons of Jackson Chapel school as their chairman of the Board of Trustees for the past two years, and his service has been crowned with success. He was re-elected a few weeks ago to serve two more years.

The school at Jackson Chapel has prospered during the past two years under the management of Mr. Sanders and his co-workers. I think the voters of Chilton County would make a wise selection by electing him as a member of the board of education.

Mr. Sanders believes in the patrons of each school having some say-so in the school affairs of our county, and is opposed to the present monarchal system by which our public schools are now being operated under. Mr. Sanders is a true loyal American and believes in all government being by and for all the people. Yours truly,—J. Bice.

CHESTNUT CREEK CHURCH

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. A large crowd was present both Saturday and Sunday, and three splendid sermons. Sunday afternoon our singing society met, and everybody seemed to enjoy it. The house would not hold the people; we sure could see the need of our extra buildings Sunday afternoon, and we assure you that if you will come back next first Sunday afternoon we can seat you, for the building committee began this morning, together with other members of the church to build the Sunday school rooms. Every member is invited to come and help if you can.

We were indeed glad to have all the visitors, and they are invited back the first Sunday afternoon in September.

Singing was opened by the chairman, I. D. Huett; prayer by Mr. Alfred Robinson. Directors were: E. L. Glasscock, Akins Collins, J. L. Johnson, W. L. Sanders, A. H. Glasscock, Warren Johnson, O. L. Devaughn, C. H. Robinson, R. M. Robinson, Mr. Wilson, L. T. Grant, N. A. Smith, J. B. Hammonds. Those performing at the piano were: Lee J. Grant, W. G. Culp, J. B. Hammonds, C. H. Robinson. Mr. Hammond's little daughter played for him; she is just nine years old. It is just a gift from God for this little girl.

Visitors, come and be with us again.—Mrs. Luke Calloway, Secy.

NOTICE OF REPUBLICAN PRIMARY ELECTION AUGUST 12

Notice is hereby given that the Republican party of Chilton County, Alabama, desires to enter and will enter the Primary to be held on the second Tuesday in August, 1930, the same being the 12th day of said month, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices, viz:

Tax Collector, Tax Assessor, Sheriff, County Commissioner of the First District, County Commissioner of the Second District, one member of the County Board of Education, Representative in the Legislature of Alabama, and State Senator.

The quaified Republican voters of Chilton County are hereby notified to assemble at a convenient place at or near their respective voting places in each precinct on August 12, and elect two delegates from each precinct to the County Republican Convention to be held at the courthouse in Clanton on Friday, August 15, at 10 a. m. The purpose of said county Republican Convention is to elect delegates to the District and State Republican Conventions.

Dated this 15 day of July, 1930.

J. N. DENNIS, Chairman,
J. Z. MIMS, Secretary.
Chilton County Republican Executive Committee. 7-17-4tch

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF CHILTON COUNTY

As this is the last issue of the paper before the Primary election comes off, I wish to take this means to speak a last word to the voters of the county.

First I will say that I have tried to see all the voters personally and would be very glad to speak to each one, but it seems that it is most impossible to do that. I am a farmer and have been very busy since spring in making my crop. I have put forth all the effort I could since I finished my crop. I desire that you all take this as a personal appeal for your vote and influence.

I have waged a clean campaign and have treated my opponents as I would have them treat me. They are all fine fellows and I am sure would like to asses your taxes for the next four years. But I would like to impress upon you that I also would like to assess them. I feel that I am competent to do the work. I have never asked for an office of any kind before. I have always supported and voted the Republican ticket and I am fully convinced that the Republican party is the party for the people of our county.

I hope and hereby insist that all our Republicans go out on next Tuesday and cast your ballot from an honest heart and that after due consideration. If after you carefully consider all the facts and fellows in the race you can cast your vote for me for Tax Assessor of Chilton County, I am sure that no one will appreciate it any more than I will and I also assure you that I will at all times strive to serve my people and not give any one just cause to regret having voted for me.

I consider the offices of the county belong to the people of the county and that service is all that the great majority of its citizens get out of the offices, therefore, it will give me the greatest of pleasure to give the very best service possible.

I am now leaving the matter in your hands and believing that the right thing will be done. If you see fit to nominate me I will appreciate it and will do all I can honestly do to be elected in November. However, should you think one of the other men are the proper one and the people nominate them, your choice will be my choice in the general election and I will exert myself to see that he is elected in the general election.

Again insisting that we all go to the polls and cast our ballots for the candidate of our choice, I beg to remain. Yours for the success of the Republican party.—J. E. Easterling.

ENDORSE PERRY GORE

Editor Union-Banner:

As citizens of beat 9, we want to say a few words in the interest of Mr. Perry Gore, who is a candidate for commissioner from this the Second District.

We have known Mr. Gore all his life; he is one of our very best citizens; he is always ready to do his duty in any public matter. If his church needs his help he is one of the first to help, and when his school or any public matter needs his assistance, he always contributes liberally. In fact, no one who knows Mr. Gore will criticize him in party affairs. He is strictly a Republican and yet he never goes to the extremes to criticize those who do not agree with him. He never has been known to criticize Republican officials, trying to stir up strife and prejudice to get votes. He is a straight-forward Christian gentleman. He is perfectly reliable and will always do what he says he will. His word is his bond.

Perry Gore has made a wonderful financial success of his own affairs. He is one of the best farmers in the county. He knows the value of the dollar, and when he spends a dollar he wants to get the value of it. We and all of his neighbors believe that he would make this county one of the best commissioners it has ever had. We know the finances of Chilton Counyt would be safe in his hands.

Voters, we feel like the interest of the Republican party is at stake in the coming election. It is one of the most important primaries the Republicans have ever had. It is feared that too many kickers and too many people who are not real Republicans are trying to get hold of our party. You can rely on one thing—that Perry Gore is a true Republican, and he has always been true to his party; has never complained about any candidate nominated by the Republicans, and he will not complain this time. He will be the same Perry Gore, whether he is nominated or not.

We hope that the Republicans of this county will nominate Mr. Gore. You will make no mistake if you do. The finances of the county and the interest of the Republican party will be safe in his hands. Yours very truly,—Gerald Hubbard, Mrs. Mollie M. Sessions, Ruben Jackson.

AKINS I. COLLINS, CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY TAX ASSESSOR

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I have a few words to say in regard to my campaign for Tax Assessor. I am trying to see personally every voter, but knowing that this is almost impossible, I am taking this means to speak to those I may fail to see, asking them for their support, and thanking those whose time I have taken for the courtesy and patience shown me.

I have never had a county office, but have always voted the Republican ticket and have done everything I could for my party; therefore I do not hesitate to ask for the office. I am soliciting it on my merits and by no other means. I am making a clean and honest race and no one can influence me otherwise. I want your suppor. if you can conscientiously g ve it to me. If you cannot, vote for the man you think deserves it and I w ll help you elect him in the final e ection. I have no ill feeling against my opponents; I consider each of them my friend and some of them c se friends.

If I am nominated and elected I w ll remember that you are the ones w o gave me this position, and you w ll always find me trying to serve y u in every way possible.

Now, in conclusion, I want to ins t that every voter go to the polls o August 12th, as it is his or her duty, and vote his honest convictions. Yours very truly.—Akins I. C llins.

PERRY GORE WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words to the voters of this county in regard to my race for Commissioner of the Second District of this County.

In the first place I wish to say that I have not said one word nor will I say one word against any of my opponents. They are all good men.

I have supported the Republican ticket ever since I have been old enough to vote. I have never scratched a ticket in my life. And regardless of whether I am nominated or not, I pledge the Republican party my untiring efforts for the success of the entire ticket in this county this fall.

It has been impossible for me to see all the voters in the county, and I take this means of assuring each and every voter that I will greatly appreciate your vote and influence, and should I be nominated and elected I assure you that it will be my intentions to never say or do a thing that will cause you to regret having voted for me.

Let me urge every Republican voter in the county to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for the men of your choice and when the nominations are made let every Republican get up behind the entire ticket and elect it this fall by the largest majority we have ever elected a ticket in this county.

Again assuring you that I will appreciate your vote and influence, I am, Yours truly.—Perry Gore.

FROM O. H. McDOWELL

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to thank the voters for their promised support and co-operation, and ask for a continuation of same upon my own merits and qualification, promising to be friendly at all times, and if nominated and elected, I promise to be ready at all times to be governed by the voice of the majority of our people. And not to offer any special favors to any individual, or any community, any further than I think it best for the interest of education, taking the children throughout our county as a unit.

Our people know what is best for themselves, and are ready to ask for what they think best.

I have made a clean campaign, and will continue to do so. Again soliciting your support and influence, I remain.—Ollie H. McDowell.

Dr. N. S. Johnson returned Tuesday from Salida, N. C. where he has been for the past two weeks, taking a course in obstetrics and diseases of children.

IGNORANCE DROPS COMES BACK WITH LETTER ON CO. POLITICS

Editor Union-Banner:

It seems just like I can't let this campaign pass without saying something through the paper, and if you will give me space I will say a few things to the voters of Chilton County. It appears that we have two factions in Clanton; some call them two courthouse rings among our present officers. One of them is the school board, and they are fighting for the man that they know they can handle and who will help them to keep things smuggled up and not let the people know just what they are doing.

Yes, the school board wants to keep the people in the dark, just like they did when it came time to elect a county superintendent of education the last time. You know how they kept it a secret, so that nobody would have a chance to qualify for the office but B. Lawrence. This act of the county board almost represented the stealing of the office and giving it to Lawrence. Of course I know they do not want L. H. Bean on the Board, because he stands for the people's rights and to let them know what goes with their money. Each year, at the close of each school as you saw in his platform, that is just what he will endeavor to do. I have known L. H. Bean for a number of years, and he has always appeared to want to be fair with every body and wants to help build up every good cause that comes along. So I hope you will all vote for L. H. Bean, whom I know to be the people's friend, especially those who live out in the rural districts.

Well, the other faction I had reference to is those who want to stay in office all the time. I want to say that our tax assessor and tax collector are both good men, but I think they have had the office long enough and too I believe we have just as good men as they are out of the office and just as good Republicans. And I believe more deserving, as they have had the office for ten years and the others need the salary these offices pay. And too, I think it unfair to keep men in office over two terms, when we have men of our party who would be just as efficient. If we are going to keep the same men in office all the time, what encouragement is that to the rest of the people in our party? Messrs. Pate and Rockett seem to be somewhat hoggish, and they are going to stand around the pie troft until they are knocked in the head with our vote; and you had just as well to get ready and do that on the 12th of August. They are both in good order and can live without the office.

One other thing I want to say and that is in regard to our representative. I don't like the idea of sending lawyers to the legislature to make laws for us, as you know they are all organized together, and of course they are going to make laws to their interest. What did they do last term at Montgomery? They made a law that nobody but a lawyer is allowed to write up a land deed, and of course he can charge whatever he wants to. Also they fought the passage of the conpensation law. Why? Because it would throw them out of getting cases through the courts, and that would throw them out of work. I want to say above all that farmers should have someone who would represent them at Montgomery and work for the interest of the farmer, on whom we all must depend for something to eat. This office I feel just like Mr. A. A. Jackson can amply fill with credit to himself and his people and party. Why not change horses once in a while?

We want J. E. Cobb up here for commissioner in the first district. He is a good business man and a perfect gentleman and courteous. I have known him ever since he was a child and during this campaign I have only heard of one man to criticize him, and he is a disfranchised Democrat—and he is one Mr. O. B. Smith. He went to Mr. Cobb and told him that he knew all the people around Coopers and if he would promise him certain things he could get him 20 or 25 votes down there. But Mr. Cobb told him that he was not making any promises to anyone, so he got mad with Mr. Cobb. I have been told that another candidate came along and got him to go down to Coopers and get him the votes down there where he once lived. So he went and spent a week or more.

Just think of it—a Democrat without the right to vote wanting a Republican candidate to make him certain promises.

Well, I want to say a few words about who I think should have the sheriff's office. Dear voters, we need the man who will give us the best service, and I believe that man is W. H. Gillespie. But some are fighting him; but who are they that are fighting him? It is Judge Reynolds and his courthouse ring. What are they fighting him for? Because he did not vote for the Judge two years ago, and he wants to make it appear that Mr. Gillespie is a Democrat, just because he didn't vote for him two years ago. Yes, he wants to turn a good man out of the Republican party and wants us to help him do it, just because he is mad at Gillespie. I will never help in a case like that. The Judge doesn't charge him with voting for the Democrats in his stead.

No, I believe that Gillespie loves the Republican party, which he has helped to build up here in this county and will strive to hold up its principles as much so as the Judge. I have confidence in Mr. Gillespie that he will make us a good sheriff and will not turn over his part of the Republican party to the Democrats, no more than Reynolds or his court house ring. Of course, as others call it a ring, I do likewise. Any way, when the Judge speaks, there are certain ones who know to obey.

Now, dear voters, we are always ready to criticize our officers that we send to Clanton for letting Reynolds lead them about. You cannot expect anything else when you allow him to tell you who to vote for. Sure he is going to select those that he can handle; that is why he wants Pate and Rockett to stay in office, and others all the time.

I will close by saying, let us have a square deal and don't raise family trouble.—J. N. Scott.

MISS LENA DOWNS WRITES ENDORSEMENT OF GILLESPIE

Edito Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the issues of the present campaign.

I am glad to give my unqualified endorsement to the candidacy of Mr. Walter H. Gillespie for Sheriff of Chilton County. There is nothing wrong with the politics of Walter H. Gillespie; there is no better Republican to be found anywhere than Mr. Walter H. Gillespie.

It comes with poor grace for any man who fraternizes with the whiskey element of the Democratic party, who presides at Democratic speakings and who introduces Democratic candidates for governor, to challenge the Republicanism of Walter H. Gillespie. Gillespie's high character and moral and physical courage make of him a real Republican.

Gillespie's long and honorable record as a county, State and federal enforcement officer, coupled with his high and unquestioned ability and character, peculiarly and excellently qualify him for the office of Sheriff. Gillespie will play no favorites when he is Sheriff, and no one will "get by." In my opinion, there is not a man in Alabama as well qualified to be Sheriff of Chilton County as is Walter H. Gillespie, and I earnestly appeal to the common sense and sober judgment of the good women and men of this county to stand with us and help us elect him Sheriff of our county. In order that conditions may be made better for the boys and girls of our county and that our homes and churches may be protected from the evils that now confront us.

LENA DOWNS.

CITIZENS ENDORSE COBB FOR CO. COMMISSIONER

Jemison, Ala., August 5.

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

As the day of the primary is drawing near, and the people will select their standard-bearer in the November election. We as citizens ask the voters to give their support to Mr. Joseph E. Cobb, who is a candidate for Commissioner from the 1st district. Eight years ago Mr. Cobb was a candidate for the same office and was defeated by the late Thomas J. Dorminey. Yet he carried all the north end of the county where he was known.

He is clerk of Center Hill Baptist church, a man who is well thought of in the community in which he is living. As for his ability to handle the county's affairs, he certainly has made a success of his own business. He stands for equal rights to all and special favors to none.

Now, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, Mr. Cobb lives on the west side of the district. We have not had a commissioner from this side in a number of years. We believe that if Mr. Cobb is elected the people will get a square deal; that he will take orders from no one but the people. Now, Mr. Cobb, so far as we are able to discern, is making the race solely on his own merits and not on the demerits of anyone.

THE DEATH OF A DEAR FRIEND MR. WILFORD LANGSTON

Mr. Wilford Langston, son of Mr. J. W. Langston, died in the Baptist hospital at Selma July 22nd. Mr. Langston was 22 years old when God called him away. God knows best or it would not have been done.

Mr. Langston was loved by every one. He leaves a mother and father, one sister and five brothers, and a host of friends to mourn his death. Mr. Langston' home is at Montevallo.

A precious one from them has gone; the voice we all loved is stilled and a place is vacant in that home that can never be filled. Written by a dear friend, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Easterling.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A . BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

"I PRAY NOT FOR THE WORLD BUT FOR THEM WHICH THOU HAST GIVEN ME."

We are still studying the prayer of Christ in the 17th chapter of the Gospel according to John. In this prayer Christ says: "I pray not for for the world, but for them which Thou gavest me out of the world." This is one of the most comforting and the most helpful petitions in this Lord's prayer which is recorded in the 17th chapter of John.

Then He continues by saying: "I pray not that Thou shouldest take my disciples out of the world, but that Thou shouldest keep them out of evil. O kind father, that they may be kept from the evil which is in the world." Then you inquire as to the evil in the world. Christ meant by that the sins which are in the world. He meant by that the temptations in the world. He meant by that the sin of selfishness, the sin of egotism, the sin of criticism, the sin of worldiness, the sin of wicked pleasure, the sin of greed, the sin of graft, the sin of worldly amusement, the sin of self-satisfaction, the sin of self-contentment, the sin of idolatry. "I pray," He says, "that they may be kept from evil."

Think of Jesus Christ praying for you and for me that we may be kept from the evil. He is praying that you are I are permitted to live in this beautiful old world, but that the world may not live in us. It is a great thing that the ocean liners plough through the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and other blue waters of deep seas, but while it is great for the liner to be launched out in the ocean, it would mean total destruction for the ocean to get in her. She would sink should the ocean get in her. Just so, Christ says that it is all right for the Christians to live in the world, but it means the sinking to utter destruction for the world to get in the Christian.

It is all right for you and for me to walk over the goodly soils of the hills, valleys and mountain, in this grand old world. It is allright for us to enjoy the fruits of the bountiful harvests of our labor in this grand old world. It's all right for us to enjoy the flowers, the birds, the trees, the bees and all the other things. It is all right for us to enjoy the great improvements and inventions of scientific strides in this grand old world which God has given us to live in and make better by having lived in it. But, my friend, the world must not get in us because that would be evil.

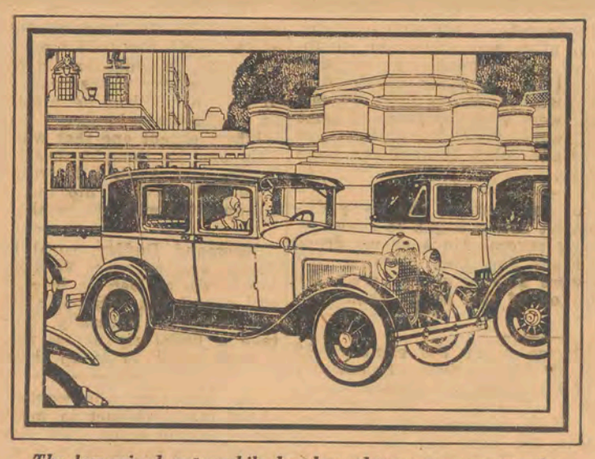
Christ to pray by saying: "I pray not for those who are in this world, but I pray for those who believe in my name in this beautiful world." Did you ever stop to think that Christ is holding you in His spike-scarred hands praying for you and for me? He holds us by the hand and looks up into the face of the father and presents your case and my case. O, my friend, how could you and how could I live and stand our grounds against the storms of temptations and trials of this life unless Christ was our intercessor? He truly is the great Intercessor for you and for me. He is our only Mediator. "There is only one Mediator between God and man, the man Jesus Christ."

He also said in His prayer, "Father, I have kept them, and they are not of the world; and now, Father, keep one as we are One. Sanctify them through Thy truth." He was thinking about how those men needed to be sanctified by the truth, the Word of God. He was thinking about those men dying unto sin and living unto God. Sanctification is a saving grace whereby we die unto sin and turn unto God for salvation by the use of the word of God, prayer, good works, and the influence of the Holy Spirit. That is, we become more and more like unto Christ.

Early this morning I thought if only you and I could catch the Spirit of Christ. If we have not the spirit of Christ we are none of His. It is a wonderful thing to reach forward in our prayer life for the Spirit of Christ and so press forward to the mark of the prize of the high calling in Christ Jesus. In so doing day by day we become crucified with Christ, that is, my self life becomes crucified with Christ. My lazy life, my indifferent life and my worldly life is nailed by spikes to the cross of Jesus Christ. Certainly this is what Christ meant when he said, "Sanctify them through Thy Truth, Thy Word."

We can only come to the truth through the truth, this word of God. We, as little babes just crawling, need a revival of Bible reading and study. We need to feed on the sincere milk of the Word. Isaiah tells us that we need to feed on the Word of God. If Jesus Christ walked into your home this morning where would He find the Word of God? My friend, is it in the rubbish? Is it on a shelf laden with dust, unused and unkept? Has its pages been turned this morning by your hands? Is that the kind of use you make of God's Word? If you do not read it today, this morning, you will not read it today. If you neglect its sacred pages a week you will neglect them a month.

O, my friend, are you neglecting to read and to feed upon God's Word? Just think of the neglect of God's Word and yet Jesus Christ Himself in that upper room said, "Sanctify them through Thy Truth, Thy Word is Truth." This Word of God, this pleniary, this inspired Word of God, this Bible our mothers and fathers read and cherished in their hearts and lives. They hugged its precious promises close to their hearts as they sat in that old cane bottomed chair and read and reread them.



Once an old Christian colored woman was told by the physician that her mistress whom she had so long served was soon to die that day before the sun would go down. She went to her mistress got down on her knees by the bed side and said to her, "Mistress, you must take the journey through the valley of the shadow of death before the sun they say, and I just want to tell you that before you take that journey you need to hug the promises of God." My friend, we need to hug the promises of God. It is this Word of God which is quick and powerful and sharper than a two-edged sword. It this Word of God which liveth and abideth forever, God says, "Heaven and earth may pass away but my Word shall not pass away." It is this Word of God which is the guide of our lives from earth to heaven. It helps us to meet the devil and come out victorious for Jesus' sake in His name.

The next petition in His prayer is this, "As Thou hast sent me into this world, even so have I sent them into the world. As my Father hath sent Me, so send I you." He meant that the Father in the fulness of time according to prophecy of the angel in the hill of Galilee announcing to Mary, a virgin, that she would bear a son whose name would be Jesus for He saves His people from their sins, His father had so sent Him into the world. He meant that one wintry night He was born of a woman in a Bethlehem's stable amid the shouts of the son of God. Christ the Shiloh means "One Sent." It is written, "The sceptre shall not depart from Judah until Shiloh comes." "As my Father sent Me." O how sweet it is to believe and be sent forth by Christ because the Father hath sent you. "As my Father hath sent Me, even so I send you. I want to send you out to the task which angels would covet. Michael, the archangel would like himself to come down to earth and reap and glean in the fields which are white already unto harvest. The angelic host would like to come down to earth and bind up broken hearts. They would like to climb up dark stairways and enter into lonely homes and give words of cheer, comfort and help, and divide the last bite of bread to the hungry. I am going to now send you into the homes to give the needed love for which many are dying. Just look at my cross which I bore for you. Look at my hands and feet, spike-scarred as they are, for you. See me daily, and catch my Spirit. Get an inspiration in all that I have done for you."

I gave my life for thee, My precious blood I shed.
That thou mightest ransomed be, And quickened from the dead.
I gave, I gave my life for thee, What hast thou given Me?

Meeting the Needs of Millions of People

The low-priced automobile has brought greater opportunity and added hours of recreation to millions of men and women.

BECAUSE the automobile is such an important factor in the lives and prosperity of so many people, the purpose of the Ford Motor Company is something more than the mere manufacture of a motor car.

There is no service in simply setting up a machine or a plant and letting it turn out goods. The service extends into every detail of the business — design, production, the wages paid and the selling price. All are a part of the plan.

The Ford Motor Company looks upon itself as charged with making an automobile that will meet the needs of millions of people and to provide it at a low price. That is its mission. That is its duty and its obligation to the public.

The search for better ways of doing things is never-ending. There is ceaseless, untiring effort to find new methods and new machines that will save steps and time in manufacturing. The Ford plants are, in reality, a great mechanical university, dedicated to the advancement of industry. Many manufacturers come to see and share the progress made.

The greatest progress comes by never standing still. Today's methods, however successful, can never be taken as wholly right. They represent simply the best efforts of the moment. Tomorrow must bring an improvement in the methods of the day before. Hard work usually finds the way.

Once it was thought impossible to cast gray iron by the endless chain method. All precedent was against it and every previous experiment had failed. But fair prices to the public demanded that wasteful methods be eliminated. Finally the way was found.

A better way of making axle shafts saved thirty-six million dollars in four years. A new method of cutting crankcases reduced the cost by $500,000 a year. The perfection of a new machine saved a similar amount on such a little thing as one bolt. Then electric welding was developed to make many bolts unnecessary and to increase structural strength.

Just a little while ago, an endless chain conveyor almost four miles long was installed at the Rouge plant. This conveyor has a daily capacity of 300,000 parts weighing more than 2,000,000 pounds. By substituting the tireless, unvarying machine for tasks formerly done by hand, it has made the day's work easier for thousands of workers and saved time and money in the manufacture of the car.

All of these things are done in the interest of the public — so that the benefits of reliable, economical transportation may be placed within the means of every one.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

"Clear up your skin, dear, and you will be popular, too"

If you desire a clear skin you must keep your blood in good condition.

A lovely, clear skin is within your reach may be found in every good drug store in America. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy which is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years. Sold in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

WITH the last blemish gone, confidence returns. More friends, more invitations—more good times. With the joy and pride of possessing a clear skin, self-respect increases.

A lovely, clear skin is within the reach of all. To you who have lost it, hope is offered, that you, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders, take a few bottles of S.S.S.

POULTRY Tips By LEONARD L. BROWN

HOT WEATHER SUGGESTIONS

It is particularly important during the warm summer months that all of the eggs sent to market should be infertile. The male birds should never be allowed with the laying flocks except during breeding season.

Whether fertile or not the eggs should always be kept away from the direct rays of the sun and for that matter away from all avoidable heat. They depreciate very rapidly during the warm months and must be carefully guarded in every way of course. A consistent lay of good weight, well-textured, chalk-white eggs will net a handsome profit during the summer time as long as they are well cared for.

It is suggested that during the summer the amount of grain being fed should be cut down. The green growing things that the birds will pick up on the range during the summer time of course will be particularly wholesome for them. Sudan grass is very good for chicken range. It grows well in hot and dry weather and if it is kept mowed so that it does not become long and stemy, will provide a wholesome and profitable range for the birds.

Heat brings the house flies. That may mean a lot of trouble with your poultry flock unless it is made impossible for the flies to transfer contagious ailments such as tapeworm. Flies that have access to poultry manure are always sure to carry tapeworm eggs and very likely other troubles. If possible, keep all poultry manure in a fly-proof pit and in any case as far away from both young and old stock as is possible.

Although we have frequently mentioned the need of sanitation for the poultry quarters in this column, it is one of the most important factors there is in successful poultry raising and one of the most often neglected ones. At this time of the year there is likely to be a great deal of limberneck which often proves fatal to the birds due to there being a dead chicken or two, or rats, or carcasses of other animals about which the birds may find and eat. Many other kinds of infection tend to result from careless and unsanitary conditions about the poultry yards. It will pay you well to inspect the poultry range frequently for things of this kind and to check up on them as you would for a playground for your own youngsters.

Mell Martin has had a vacation for the last ten days. He returned Sundayfrom his long trip which carried him to Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va. From there he took a boat and went up the Chesapeake Bay and Potomac river to Washinton D. C. From Washinton he went by Railway to New York City, and up the Hudson river by boat to Albany. From Albany he went across New York State to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, returnhome by way of Cleveland, Cincinnati and Louisville.

H. G. Boyd and Leo Alred made a trip to Cullman, Hartselle, and Decatur last Sunday .

Grady Heflin went to Moulton last Sunday to see his Mother, who has been sick for the past few days.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space in the dear old Union-Banner to say a few words in regard to our Sunday School. It is doing very well at present time. Our B. Y. P. U. is also doing very well. We would like to see a large crowd out next Sunday night.

Miss Dank Heflin has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Leslie Gore.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonie Gore of Shelby and Mrs. Mack Robinson of Lowndesboro, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Gore Sunday.

Mr. M. Gore and Mrs. Gradie Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gore went to see brother Trice who is on the sick list last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Mary Giles, Mr. Sam Jones and Miss Dank Heflin spent Sunday afternoon with Birtie Lou Gore.

Mr. Theodore Gore has been on the sick list for the past three or four weeks and is not doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Euell Robinson spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gore.

A Reader

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lande and Mr. Harry Margolis left Sunday for a visit of a few days with relatives in Chicago. Before returning to Clanton, Mr. Lande will visit the markets of the North and East and purchase a full new line of fall and winter merchandise for The Leader.

WHERE WASHINGTON CROSSED THE DELAWARE

It is interesting to note that a joint resolution to be introduced in Congress by members from Pennsylvania and New Jersey proposes that a Washington memorial bridge be erected over the Delaware river above Trenton to mark the spot where the commander of the Revolutionary forces crossed the river for that historic surprise attack on the British. It is estimated that the span would cost about $1,500,000. The purpose is to have it finished in 1932, in time for the bicentennial celebration of Wishington's birth. The idea is a good one. In addition to reminding us of one of the most colorful episodes in the history of the country, it would be another link to bind the two states together. There is a park on either side of the river near the point mentioned; and now a memorial bridge sponsored by the government would be a fitting climax to what has already been done.

It is a matter of gratification to know what memorials in this country are more and more tending to the useful and the practical. Great highways and bridges may easily be as impressive as statues in honoring the great men of the nation. In this instance the memorial would combine beauty with utility. It will also have local as well as national interest, because it calls to mind the various campaign in the Jerseys and in Pennsylvania. Most of us are familiar with the famous painting, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," and recall the thrill it gave us in our youth, even though it represented the great commander as standing up in the boat, to the peril of himself and his companions.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

The latest threat of French reprisal for the new American tariff law, which after repeated increases in French tariffs in recent years, hoists the tariff on French exports to the United States all of three per cent, comes from the head of the French Dressmakers, Syndicate, who says the way to meet the situation is to plant French industries in the United States, and train American workers to French methods—all but the low wage part of them.

This is a sensible suggestion. By just such methods foreign countries have brought about the export of two thousand American industrial plants, which with their cheap labor advantages, now want freer access to the American high wage market. By just such a method, high tariff, Australia has tolled $200,000,000 of American Capital to Australia.

With French capital invested in American industries, we will have the workmen as consumers as well as producers. Their standard of living will be our own, which will remove the menace of cheap labor competition.

That is one way of meeting the situation. Another would be for Europe to lift her wage scales and standards of living to our own. That would remove the necessity of American protection against unfair European competition. That probably is a long way off, not because it is impossible, but because Europe is wedded to the system of cheap production based on cheapening of the workers, although thereby they destroy their consuming power and make European industrialists turn to the United States as an outlet for surplus production.

In the meantime the stories of proposed reprisals by the other nations of the world against the United States are wearing out. The same stories, it will be remembered, were circulated after the passage of the tariff bill back in the Harding administration. There were no reprisals then and there will be none of any consequence now. As a matter of fact most of the nations of Europe, and Canada, too, collect more tariff per capita than does the United States. This makes all of the talk about protests and reprisals sound a little illogical, to say the least.

And it is to be noted, too, that the stories of how the tariff would immediately increase the cost of living are about as close to facts as the reprisal stories. Remember the tales you were hearing, and the pathetic speeeches made in Congress not long since, about how many millions the increase in the sugar tariff would load on to the poor house-wives of America? Well, only the other day the price of sugar sank to the lowest level in a hundred years.

The "increasing the cost of living" cry will now have to be placed away in moth balls and saved for the next tariff battle ten years hence. It proved to be a bloomer eight years ago when a protective tariff measure was passed and it will be a bloomer again. If commodity prices stiffen it will only be because business is reviving and the people are back at work and consuming again. The new tariff will doubtless help bring the condition about, but no free trader will at that time be found who will be willing to give it any credit.

W. H. GILLESPIE SAYS ALL LAWS SHOULD BE ENFORCED

Editor Union-Banner:

As this is the last opportunity I will have to say anything to the people of Chilton County through your paper until after the primary, I wish to state that I have endeavored to see every voter in the county, but of course have missed many, which I very much regret, but I wish to say to everyone whether I have seen you or not I will certainly appreciate your vote and influence in my behalf for the office of Sheriff of Chilton County.

As I have stated before, I believe that all laws both criminal and civil should be reasonably and sensibly enforced, and if elected Sheriff I will put forth my very best efforts to see that the laws are impartially enforced, giving everyone a square deal before the law, using no partiality, having no pets, but giving everyone the same chances regardless of politics, religion or financial standing. I will also state that if I am elected Sheriff that there will be no violating the law by anyone going into the ballot boxes and disclosing the secrecy of anybody's ballot.

I have not promised anyone a job as deputy sheriff, neither would I consider the application of anyone for such job until after I know that I have been elected Sheriff, but if elected I will select and employ for my deputies good, straight, honorable, law-abiding and moral men who are good Republicans, who can command and exercise good common sense in all circumstances. I would not work anyone as a deputy who was not sober, temperate and honorable.

I have been a Republican in politics all my life. I have never failed to contribute every dollar and all of my time that was requested of me by the different committees of the Republican party, both county, state and national during my life, and if elected Sheriff of Chilton County I will put forth every honorable effort to help support, build up and maintain a strong and respectable Republican party, not only in Chilton county but throughout the State of Alabama. I believe that the greatest principle put forth in building up and maintaining the party is for its officers when elected to discharge their duties impartially under all circumstances.

I do not believe in a dirty, mud-slinging campaign and I will not indulge in it. I have repeatedly requested my friends throughout the county to refrain from and not indulge in mud-slinging against my opponents. I have conducted a straight and honorable campaign and have treated my opponents as I want them to treat me and when the election is over I can take them by the hand, look them in the face and truthfully say I have given you a square deal, and should you see fit to nominate one of my opponents for Sheriff I will do as much as any man to help him, and the entire ticket in November.

Thanking you people of Chilton County for the kindness and courtesies shown me during my campaign among you, I now leave the matter with you hoping that you can see your way clear to cast your votes for me for Sheriff of Chilton County on August 12th, I am, yours for success.—W. H. Gillespie.

Of course the way to secure unemployment in this country is to let more of the cheap labor products of foreign producers into our markets and displace just that much of the product of well paid American labor. Any anti-tariff journalist or politician is wise enough to know that.

Two of the leading chain store systems of the country have announced reductions in retail prices all along the line. It seems probable that the management has not read Pat Harrison's tariff speechs telling how many billion dollars the new tariff law was going to add to the cost of living.

MOTOR EXPORT MARKET

Two concerns most active in attacking the new tariff law while it was before the President for signature were the General Motors Company and Henry Ford. In published statements Henry Ford and President Sloan, of General Motors declared that the enactment of increased tariffs would destroy our export trade.

It now develops that both Ford and General Motors have for months been engaged in negotiations, now being consumated, for a heavy interest in the two principal automobile plants of Italy with expansion of their facilities. Italy already had so high a tariff on motor cars that 95 per cent of the domestic demand was being supplied by home factories. Since the new tariff law was passed, as alleged "relation," Italy has increased her motor tariffs one hundred per cent, the old rate being several times the American tariff.

In view of the fact that 95 per cent of the Italian demand was already being supplied from Italy, it is of course evident that this expansion of Italian motor plants with American capital was not to supply a home market, but for export. That export includes markets heretofore supplied from the United States. It looks forward, perhaps, to importations into the United States, following the example of Henry Ford's tractor plant in Ireland, where production costs, chiefly labor costs, are 60 per cent of those prevailing in Detroit.

It is a natural thing for these motor manufacturers to make all the money they can. The propriety of issuing publicity declaring their anxiety about our foreign markets when they were preparing to supply these markets from abroad is open to question. It is by such propaganda as this that a temporary misunderstanding of the new tariff was created. But the facts will out.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Top o' the morning to you, folks. We hope this hot dry weather isn't getting next to you like it is some of the boys around here. It affects them in different ways; some of them seem to work just so much harder, while some just look like they want to wilt down and dry up on the stalk.

Taking up the western trip, we want to tell you this week about that part through New Mexice and Arizona. This was really one of the most interesting parts of the trip for us.

In El Paso one really sees Mexicans in numbers. All along for quite a distance before reaching El Paso you see them here and there, but this town, as one would rightly suppose is full of them. But, for the most part, they have their own section of the city, and stick pretty closely to it. This brings us to El Paso, Texas, where we spent Wednesday night, after a drive of 595 miles, our longest drive of the trip for one day. Detours and all, El Paso found our speedometer registered 1,558 miles for the three days on the road.

You can imagine that we didn't get such an early start the next morning (Thursday) after driving so hard the day before. As we left El Paso we were told to run our timepieces back an hour, as the time region line is at this point. It did seem kind of curious to stop at a filling station at 6:00 o'clock, lose five minutes getting gas, oil and water, and leave at 5:05.

A few miles out of El Paso we went into New Mexico. The route we chose carried us over about 175 miles of New Mexico road. The New Mexico laws are rather tight on the oil industry, and the first stop for gas made us realize it very forcefully. Whereas we had been buying gas for 14 to 18 cents, we paid 25 cents in Deming, N. M. However, we were not long in finding out why—the quality of gas sold in this state is much better than in any other state we traveled in. New Mexico levies a tax of five cents per gallon on gas to take care of the state's expense in making a weekly inspection of all pumps and gas in the state. The tourist may rest assured that he will get full measure and extra good gas in New Mexico.

Farming by real irrigation begins in New Mexico. Some of the finest crops we saw were in this section. The more mountainous region begins here, too. About noon we left Lordsburg, N. M., and crossed into Arizona, where we had to stand our first inspection, for any cotton, fruits or honey we might be carrying. All our baggage was checked for such, and we were allowed to proceed. As we were pretty well up in the mountain region at this point, and as it only rains in the mountains and this was their rainy season, the first rain we encountered on the trip began to fall while we were being inspected.

This was another new experience for us. We would run through a mountain region, with rain and wind, dive into a hollow where we raised dust in clouds, and the next minute be up on another mountain and in the rain again. After a while we began to see the effect of the rain, though. As we would dive, so to speak, into the gorges between the mountains, we soon learned to watch out for "dips," paved sections on the cherted road, several yards in length, which are so constructed to take care of the wall of water which rushes down after rainfall in the mountains. A matter of five minutes may make a difference of several feet in depth of water in these "dips." For instance, at one place we saw another car almost swept away by force of some four or five feet of water, while we waited some five to ten minutes and rolled through the same place on dry cement.

In this section of the country, the many different kinds of desert cactus began to show up. We had been seeing several kinds as we drove through western Texas and New Mexico, but many new kinds were sighted along here. We will have more to tell of this as we skim over the return trip.

In the afternoon we began the climb of 12 miles to the city of Globe, Ariz. Somewhere near the middle of this climb we crossed over a deep gorge on the top of Coolidge Dam, an irrigation structure. Here is something else curious—although above the dam one sees a vast expanse of water, there is nothing below it to show that there ever was a drop of water there, except maybe the grass is just a wee bit greener here, probably from seepage. The road winds around on top of the dam, which is an enormous concrete affair, and very beautiful. Another curious thing about this dam is that it is built in a half-moon shape, the middle of it being several yards higher up the gorge than the ends.

From Coolidge Dam to Globe the road is of chert and gravel. Although we had been on what is known as the Apache Trail for some time, we saw our first real Apache Indian at a store just around a bend of the road from the dam. This fellow was a very intelligent man, and graduate of the mining department of the University of Arizona. Later we were to see several Apaches, but none in his class. He was very much interested in our description of the southland, but could not seem to understand how southern farmers managed to raise crops, depending entirely on rainfall for water for the land. He said that the largest "forest" he had ever seen was one of some twenty acres, near Los Angeles. He had a good laugh as we told him of how one would drive for hours through woodlands in the east and south.

Reaching Globe near nightfall, we decided to drive on to Miami, a small town some six miles from Globe. In this six miles one drops down the side of the mountain about a mile. Globe is 4,350 feet above sea level. As we drove up the mountain to Globe, we noted how easy it was for our Ford to attain a speed of 40 miles per hour, although the road had a surface of loose gravel two or three inches deep. When we turned over the mountain and started the descent we were more astounded to find that our car had to be "juiced" to run at that speed. In short, it takes about as much gas to go down the mountain as it does up. Thinking that our brake drums must have taken in water and swelled the linings, or that something was wrong to cause our car to slow up "in neutral" we drove to a garage—the mechanic had a good laugh—he said there was nothing wrong. On account of the high altitude, with the light air above and heavy air below us, it all had a tendency to push upward on our car, causing it to slow up when we turned down, and help to push upward a bit on the climb.

Now that's our first "Believe It Or Not," and maybe you don't, but it's true, nevertheless. We will have just two more of this kind of reports which may seem just a bit hard to swallow, but you can just take this one for a starter and be prepared for the worst in next week's story.

We spent Thursday night at Miami, after the worst days, so far, on the trip, although it had been somewhat cooler than wednesday, on account of the mountain travel. We were to have our worst day on Friday, but we didn't know what was ahead of us—if we had, it is very probable that we would have turned back here. Now for some local stuff.

Old man politics is certainly heating up. The weather man seems to have caught the spirit and is trying to outdo the candidates so far as heat is concerned. He's out of luck, though—the better chance a guy thinks he has of being elected, it seems, the hotter he gets, and keeps on getting.

The POTTER went to Atmore last Sunday to help an old friend and side-kick, Mr. Guy DeShazo, do away with his birthday dinner. Mr. W. F. DeShazo, Guy's father, helped him eat it, too. The crops from here to Brewton are not much, but below there they're fine. By the way, on this trip Sunday we had our first glimpse of Florida. Atmore is only one and a half miles from the state line, and Guy was good enough to carry us over, so that we could say we had been in Florida, even if it was for only a few minutes. Visited the state's new prison farm near Atmore while on this trip, also. Guy is getting to be "some pumpkins" around Atmore nowadays—rising from "one of the boys" to editor-manager of The Atmore Advance in two months. Pretty speedy, eh? Atta boy, Guy!

We've always heard that you couldn't get the farmers in this neck of the woods to work together. The merchants of Clanton have gone them one better, however. You can't even get our merchants to REST together. Along in the early part of the summer an agreement was reached to close and rest every Thursday afternoon, but that don't go any more. If consistency is a jewel, co-operation (if we could have it) would be a diamond mine.—"JACK".

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw—and Some He Saw Not.

The Man on the Corner can't see many sights these days. The Miller and McCall and Davis campaign placards have got so thick that the view is obstructed.

I can't get anybody to talk about anything but politics, candidates, etc. And that don't suit me exactly for this column. I prefer something else to write about.

But I suppose if I had anything else to write about this week, there would not be room to print it in the paper, since the candidates and politicians have taken up so much space with their last appeal to the deer peepul.

I did run across one thing of interest right here in the editorial sanctum. Didn't even have to get out and run it down in the regular customary fashion. Buster Foshee drove up in front of the office Tuesday afternoon. As he unloaded he brought out something in a fruit jar. No, that wasn't it what you thought.

Buster had just returned from St. Augustine, Florida, where he has been visiting his brother, Durwood. He brought back with him a quart jar of water from the Fountain of Youth, which was found by Ponce de Leon, the Spaniard, in the year 1513.

You remember the story of Mr. De Leon's adventures in the land of flowers. The Indians of the north had told him of a fountain toward the south, in which an old man might take a dip and be restored to his youth. He at once set out to find it. When he reached the place where St. Augustine is he found a bunch of springs, all sulphur, except one that was pure and sparkling. This one he thought must be the Fountain of Youth, and marked it with the Spanish Cross. I guess he took a dip too, and I guess he was disappointed with the results.

Raymond Duffey, rural letter carrier at Mt. Creek, was in town Tuesday. He is preparing for a trip to Detroit in a few weeks where he will attend the national association of rural letter carriers. Naturally, Mr. Duffey expects to take a little trip across the river or lake into Canada while he is up there.

No American who wants to buy a foreign cheap labor product in preference to a product made by the better paid American can honestly claim to be an advocate of social justice, because he wishes to build up the policy of cheapening commodities by cheapening the man who makes them. Those who oppose a tariff system which makes it harder to encourage the foreign system of cheap labor production nave no real interest in the standard of living for the masses, nor does he have an intelligent appreciation of the essentials of our own national prosperity.

LARGE VOTES POLLED IN HEFLOX COUNTY PRIMARIES

According to a report in The Montgomery Advertiser Wednesday morning, a large vote was polled in two counties of Alabama, Chambers and Jackson, which held Jeffersonian Democratic primaries Tuesday. It was stated that about 2,000 votes were polled in Chambers County. Heretofore Chambers County has voted 3,500 in the regular Democratic primary. The primary Tuesday was held for the nomination of county officers.

The report said that 3,500 votes were polled by the Jeffersonians in Jackson County, which is something over half the normal vote of the county.

The Heflin and Locke supporters throughout Alabama are jubilant over the result of the primaries in those two counties. There are other county primaries by the Jeffersonians in the offing, and they predict that the result will open the eyes of those politicians in Alabama who have been predicting that the anti-Smith boom was receding.

Hard-Soft Large-Small CORNS

Out To Stay Out--Roots and All Magic Oxygen Salts Bath Never Fails No More Burning Aching Feet

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a delightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox footbath for 3 or 4 nights—then lift corns and callouses right out—roots and all and they won't come back either unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging is required because Radox liberates oxygen that softens hard outer layers of corns, each night penetrating the pores further and further, carrying the salts right to the root of corns which are so loosened they can be lifted out bodily.

Your feet are made strong—healthy—vigorous — hard skin on heels and toes goes also.

Alred Drug Company and all good drug stores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't insist upon them ordering if you want to experience great foot-joy and comfort.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society will be held Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Miss Marion Fairbank, on the hill, in one of the Boys Dormitory cottages. The program will be on India, and the refreshments in Hindu style. Come and try them.

Mr. and Mrs. Astro Wright are spending a few days with Mrs. Wright's parents at Lyerly, Ga. Mr. Wright's sister, Mrs. Clarence Marcus, who was for several months an assistant in the store, and Dewey Robinson will have charge of the business while they are away. Mrs. Marcus's young sister is staying with her a few days.

Mrs. E. N. Bentley and their two children spent most of last week visiting friends in Birmingham.

A letter received recently from Sam Thorson of Minnesota, who with his wife made an extended visit in Thorsby last winter, says he had been to the famous Mayo Brothers Hospital at Rochester, Minn., and had an operation for what seemed to be a cancerous growth inside his mouth on the lower jaw. The wound was said to be healing and its possible will make further trouble. Mr. Thorson was well known to early settlers of Thorsby.

Mrs. M. A. Barnes of Hardaway, Ala., returned to her home Friday, after two weeks visit with Mrs. J. C. Primm.

Dr. S. C. Wood with Fhank Wood his brother-in-law, a Mr. King, of Selma, with several others, made a week end fishing and hunting trip to Orange Beach, South Alabama. They had unusaual success. Frank shot an alligator at a distance of 75 feet which measured 8 feet 11 inches. Mrs. Wood went as far as Selma, where she remained with her sister, Mrs. King, and returned to Thorsby with the doctor and Frank Monday morning.

Mrs. C. W. Karlson received a cablegram announcing the sudden death of her brother, Carl Ingelson, aged 69, at Helsingboro, Sweden. She also recently received from another brother a letter giving details. From this letter one is able to get glimpses of a man living in apparent health and strength, surrounded by his family and very happy, taken without a moments notice, as there was abundant evidence that the man was well prepared for "promotion". His friends cannot mourn "as those without hope."

It so happens that the only church service at 11 o'clock a. m., next Sunday, that will be held in Thorsby, will be at the Congregational church. We are not informed as to the nature of it, but feel confident that those having the matter in charge will give something worth while.

The Each family is expected to return from their vacation on Monday of next week.

Mr. Man Forester of Head River, Georgia, was the guest last week of Miss Doris Freeman.

Master Braxton South, after a month's visit with Mrs. G. W. Freeman and family has returned to Birmingham.

Mrs. G. W. Freeman, Doris and Orville Freeman, spent the day last Wednesday with Mrs. T. A. South, whose home is in Birmingham.

Eloise Sigrest and Roberta Wright of Gadsden spent the week-end with Dorothy Butler. They were all college mates in Montevallo over a year ago.

Mrs. Elery Hansen of Lay Dam spent the week-end with her father, Mr. E. N. Steiner.

Miss Marguerite Davison returned to Thorsby Monday morning, and expects to be here until Saturday, when she will go to Watson's Chapel where Hazel Maddox is engaged in student summer service work.

Cecil Each has changed from night work at the ice plant to driving an ice truck in the day time.

Mr. Luke Denton from Birmingham visited Gresham Lowery last week-end. Mr. Denton and Mr. Lowery entertain quite often over radio StationWBRC, as "Melody Pals."

Rev. Dempsey W. Hodges, from Dothan, Ala., visited Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Lowery this week-end. He will assist Rev. Lowery in a revival at his church west of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Garrick had as their guests this week-end Miss Sue Townsend and Mr. Wille Mac Townsend from Marion, Miss Voncile White from Clanton, Mr. Jarrell Burdette from Clanton, Miss Katie Myrtle Cobern from Howard College, and Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Wilson from Birmingham.

Miss Minnie Garrick, who has been spending the summer in Thorsby, went to Birmingham Sunday to visit her sister, Mrs. O. E. Wilson.

Mrs. C. M. Williams and family, with T. B. Burdett and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Thompson at Lay Dam Sunday.

It will be of interest to friends of Miss Dovie Tatum, formerly of this place, to know that she and Mr. Herbert Vines of Ensley are married. We extend heartiest congratulations to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pate had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Davis from Clanton last Thursday.

The P.-T. A. social being postponed last week on account of revival meetings at the Baptist church, will be held Saturday night at 7:30, August 9th. This is to be an ice cream social and everybody, men, women, and children, are cordially invited. The place is at Charlie Howard's.

Helen Dieenderfer spent a few days last week visiting Ella Howard.

Ella Howard is visiting with Helen Diefenderfer at Clanton for a few days.

Mr. I. S. Gerald left Saturday for a two weeks visit in Geeorgia, North and South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Chambers of Flint, Michigan arrived in Thorsby last week and expect to make their home here. They have rented rooms at Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Moody and Miss Ruth Gerald spent the week end with their mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald.

Mrs. J. L. Mixon arrived home Saturday after a three weeks visit at Union Springs and other places.

Mrs. J. O. Johnson is making an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. Euell Peterson, of Gary, Indiana. Mrs. Peterson has been quite ill for several months and is slowly improving.

SHAW BROTHERS PUT IN GIN

The Shaw Brothers Gin at Jemison is in fine shape for the opening of the cotton season, which is expected to begin with full swing some time during the month of August.

During the present summer the Shaw Gin has been made completly new from start to finish with the installation of a brand new Murrah Gin system. The work of installation is completed and the new Gin is ready for operation all except turning on the juice.

The power to run the gin will be furnished by Alabama Power Company, which has become the most satisfactory way of operating gins in recent years.

There has been a Murrah Gin operated in Clanton for the past few years, and it proved highly satisfactory to the farmers who patronized it. Shaw Brothers are proud of their new outfit, and feel that it will enable them to serve the farmers of north Chilton with even better ginning than they have done in the several years which they have operated their business.

Rev. J. S. Holland of Tallassee is preaching in a revival at Friendship this week. Good sermons are being delivered, and fair response is given by the people in attendance and otherwise.

TROUBLE REPORTED BETWEEN PATE AND JACKSON

Andrew Jackson Said to Have Been Seriously Injured In Altercation With Stephen Pate Tuesday Night.

It was reported in Clanton Wednesday morning that Andrew Jackson a farmer, near Thorsby was seriously cut Tuesday night by Stephen Pate, when the two men are said to have had some trouble concerning business relations. We understand that Jackson lives on Pate's farm near Thorsby and that Pate came down from his home in Sylacauga, and that the trouble arose between them over some matter of land rent or the crop which Jackson is making on Pate's place.

It is said that Jackson, who was in a very serious condition, was brought to a doctor in Clanton for first aid, after which he was carried to a Birmingham hospital.

Both men are prominent in the northern part of Chilton County, where they have been identified with public affairs for several years. Pate recently moved to Sylacauga.

STAPP WARNS FARMERS OF ARMY WORM

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, this week warns the cotton farmers of Chilton County to look out for the army worm. This pest has already appeared in many parts of Chilton County, according to Mr. Stapp and has done considerable damage.

Farmers are urged to watch their cotton fields very closely every day as the worm usually appears and inflicts very heavy damage on short notice.

Poisoning measures should be instituted at the first signs of appearance, according to the County Agent.

VOTED FOR PRESIDENT LINCOLN

Speaking about politics, Mr. D. W. Barnes, of Jemison said Monday, "I am a Republican and I mean a real Republican too. I have been a Republican all my life. I am proud of the fact that the first vote I cast was for Abraham Lincoln when he ran for president the second time. And I have never failed to vote a Republican ticket since that time."

We did not learn the age of Mr. Barnes, but it was evident from the way he looked and what he said that he is one of the oldest citizens of Chilton County. He lives in the Jemison neighborhood and is supporting Joe Cobb for County Commissioner in the first district.

HILL'S 25-CENT SALE CONTINUES THIS WEEK

The special 25-cent sale of Hill Grocery Company, which was announced last week, will continue through Saturday night of this week. Mr. McEathern states that the sale last week was a great success; that many people came and bought a lot of the special offerings while the reduced prices were in effect.

Attention of the buying public is called to the continuation of this sale through this week. It will pay you to look over the list of offerings, and take advantage of them. The prices on many staple items are such as to warrant the buying of a good supply for the future use.

Remember this sale comes to a close on Saturday night of this week.

John H. Gore, Mrs. Brand, Mrs. Lillian Robinson, Aubrey Gore and Mildred Gore left for Atlanta Wednesday morning; they will return the latter part of this week.

FAMILY DOCTOR MADE MILLIONS OF FRIENDS

Fifteen years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became famous for a single prescription, which now, after forty years, is still making friends.

Today Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people never think of using anything else when they're constipated, headachy, bilious, feverish or weak; when breath is bad, tongue coated, or they're suffering from nausea, gas, or lack of appetite or energy.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made today according to the original formula, from herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant-tasting; thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

O'NEAL AGAIN HEADS STATE FARM BUREAU

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 4.—Without a single change in either personnel or policy, the Alabama Farm Bureau Feedration and its subsidary organizations will operate during the ensuing year. This became known at the conclusion of the ninth annual convention in Auburn, July 31st to Aug. 1st, when all officers were re-elected by unanimous vote and resolutions adopted.

president for the eighth consecutive year. R. F. Cromm, Evergreen, and W. M. Hester, Russelville, were re-elected vice-presidents. These three officers and L. M. Griffin, Moundville, J. L. Edwards, Selma, Dr. W. C. Braswell, Elba, J.H. Thompson Ft. Payne, and E. S. Pace, Eastaboga, constitute the executive committee with Allan Northinton, manager of the Farm Bureau Cotton Association, and Mrs. J. D. Giles, Selma, president of the Alabama Council of Home Demostration Clubs, as Ex-officio members.

In his annual report President O'Neal said that during the last twelve months the Farm Bureau Federation and its subsidary organizations have done a cooperative business of 16,000,000. This includes cooperative buying, selling and financing. During its first nine years the organization has done a business of 100,000,000 President O'Neal said.

Special significance was attached to the fact that the ninth convention was held in Auburn where the Farm Bureau had its beginning. Auburn is the home of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute which furnishes the research facts and other information upon which this large body of leading farmers who are members of the Farm Bureau have builded and are operating their program.

The attendance was large and the delegates displayed unusual enthusiasm and determination to go forward with the cooperative movement under the Farm Bureau banner with the help of Auburn and the Federal Farm Board at Washinton.

COLLECTIVE WORK IS URGED BY WILLIAMS

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 4.—If Alabama farmers expect the assistance of the Federal government through the Federal Farm Board, they must become members of the cooperative associations and stick together and work together, Carli Williams, cotton member of the Federal Farm Board, Washington, told a large audience at the opening of the 9th annual convention of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation in Auburn, July 31 to Aug. 1.

The audience, numbering 1,200 leading farmers and agricultural workers gave the closest attention while Mr. Williams told them about the problems of the American farmers and why it is not feasible for the Federal Farm Board to work with the farmers except through large cooperative groups. He said that the Farm Board is unable to go direct to small coopertative bodies. The Board is endeavoring to get the farmers to organize on a commodity basis such as the American Cotton Cooperative Associtaion which is an overhead selling organization for all the state cooperative cotton associations.

The speaker endorsed and praised the work of the cooperative marketing associations, using the Alabama Farm Bureau as an example. Farmers who have become members of these bodies are ready to take their places as partners with Uncle Sam, he said. Lack of sufficient members in these cooperative organizations is the biggest handicap to the solution of the major problems of agriculture, he declared.

Continuing he said, "American farmers and those working with them must do two things to place agriculture on an aqual basis with industry. First, they must adjust production to consumer demands, and second they must establish a system of efficient and economical marketing of farm products. This can be done through cooperative marketing associations with the help of the Farm Board as now being porposed."

Source of Fabled River Styx Merely Waterfall

Solos, a village on the slopes of Mount Helmos, not far from Akrata in the division of southern Greece known as Achae, is near the supposed site of the fabled River Styx. In Greek mythology the Styx is a mighty river, the tenth part of the water of Oceanus, which flows in the lower world. It is described by Homer and Hesiod as the terrible black water falling from a high precipice and dashing itself upon a lofty rock, through which it passed and then fell into the Crathis.

The fabled waters of the Styx have been identified by students of antiquity as the two slender cascades falling over a high perpendicular precipice of Mount Helmos, near Solos. After winding among a labyrinth of rocks the water unites to form a mountain torrent which eventually joins the River Akrata (Crathis). Superstitious feelings of dread still attach to the water, which is considered of a peculiarly noxious character.

Pliny Stirred to Wrath

Those who have watched some volunteer fire companies in action will be amused by the fact that Pliny got all wrought up about this matter of fire-fighting back in 106 A. D., writes Joseph T. Armstrong in the New Orleans Item-Tribune. In a letter to the Roman emperor Trajan, Pliny described a fire at Nicomedia, which consumed several homes, the town house and the temple of Isis.

Pliny indignantly blamed this damage in part to "the indolence of the people, who manifestly stood idle and motionless spectators of this terrible calamity." He said there were in the town "neither engineers, buckets nor any single instrument suitable for extinguishing fires," and recommended that a company of 150 firemen be formed.

FAVORS A. A. JACKSON FOR COUNTY REPRESENTATIVE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to our next representative from Chilton County to the Legislature of Alabama.

I wish to say to the voters of this county that we must go to the polls on August 12th and cast our vote for one of the two candidates—Mr. Percy Pitts, the lawyer, or Mr. A. A. Jackson, the farmer.

It is very clear to me that if we farmers don't send somebody to our law-making bodies who knows what we need, we shall never get any relief. Mr. Jackson is a man who knows what it is to till the soil. He knows the burden of the farmer because he was reared on the farm; he also has about fifteen years experience of city life. He has been before the public since he was 18 years of age. He has gained the confidence of many people, both great and small, and I am sure that if he goes to the Legislature of Alabama he can gain the confidence of the legislators and that he can carry at least a part of his platform through.

He tells us that the first bill he will carry before the house will be to give the people of Chilton County the privilege of electing their superintendent of education. Mr. Jackson does not believe in this monarchal school system which we now have in Chilton County, and if we people of Chilton County elect him to office I feel sure we will have some of our rights restored.

I wish it were possible that we could have a farmer from every county in the State in the next legislature of Alabama. We must begin to elect men to office whose sympathy reaches out into the homes of the farmer and all the laboring class of people.

Now, let me ask the voters of this county to give Mr. A. A. Jackson a careful consideration, and after doing so, if you can give him your support I am sure you will never regret it. Yours truly,—E. C. Traywick.

Mr. James Wade went to Eutaw, Alabama last Sunday.

DAIRYING

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.
— St. Louis, Mo.—

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-eight years of veterinary work. Eminent authority on diseases and raising of dairy cows other livestock and poultry. Nationally known lecturer, writer and author.

THE COW IS KING

A great general once said that an army travels on its stomach. A modern sage has gone further and declared that a nation is great in proportion to the amount of milk consumed by its citizens.

Whether the United States is the wealthy, powerful country it is because we are a people of milk-drinkers might be questioned. But the fact remains that we are a healthy lot, our athletes are among the best in the world, our soldiers, when they have to, can lick any equal body of men in uniform—and we do recognize milk as one of our most valuable foods.

Milk for babies and invalids has always been considered essential. In recent years the reasons for this have been better known. Milk is a complete food in itself. It contains nearly everything the body needs. It is rich in proteins. Milk contains the minerals we require with the exception of iron and iodine. And last but not least, milk contains the four important vitamins needed by growing children and adults who wish to keep fit.

Now health is one of the most important topics before the American people today. In magazine articles, in advertisements, on the public platform, the subject of keeping fit is discussed. eW have learned that it is just as easy to eat to excess as it is to drink to excess. Diets are being followed as never before. There are more bathroom scales in use today than at any time in history. We watch our weights as closely as we do the weather.

The future for milk, man's food, looks very rosy. The dairy industry, already the biggest of all American industries, is destined to enjoy still greater progress. There are as many dairy cows in the United States as there are automobiles, possibly a few more. The average milk production per cow is climbing steadily upward. An interesting fact in this connection—while the total milk produced is 50 per cent greater than it was ten years ago there are actually nearly one million fewer cows on our farms.

One of the most favorable signs for the future growth of the dairy industry is the basic fact that the cow is efficient as a manufacturing plant for human food. In fact, the cow excels all other domestic animals in that respect. Poultry and hogs come next. But the cow has the advantage over the pig and hen; it can eat roughage while her two competitors must have grain.

As the king of food producers, the dairy cow has already shown its worth on the high-priced farms of Holland and other foreign countries. As long as large farms and ranches prevail in this country, with pasturage plentiful, we shall be large producers of beef cattle. But as intensive farming increases, dairy herds will continue to grow in popularity. We are not yet the leading dairy country, although we have more dairy cattle than some others. The average production of our cows do not equal that of other nations, but we are gradually creeping up.

By far the majority of our milk is produced from small dairy herds. The specialized dairy industry requires large capital and involves certain risks. The subject we are most interested in is that of improving the herds and increasing the profits of the average farmer. In the series of articles which are to follow, I propose to discuss topics which will be of interest to the owner of herds.

There is a mistaken notion among farmers that the dairy animals they see on exhibit at State and county fairs are raised for show purposes only, and that their chief value is in the prizes they win. As a matter of fact, the purebred cow is the most profitable cow for the farmer to own. This is easily proved. Correct breeding, correct feeding and faithful adherence to a few simple rules will enable any farmer to produce milk at a profit as a side line without increasing labor costs and with only a moderate investment.

Mexican Code of Honor Strange to Americans

In many business places of the City of Mexico, cuspidors are chained to the desk or wall to prevent some intruder from carrying them off. On the streets office boys carry thousands of dollars in canvas bags on their shoulders from banks to offices. Business men convey the day's receipts to the banks shortly before the closing hour. Their habits in this respect are known to every crook in Mexico, yet it isn't once a year they meet with a holdup. One's cook is trusted with from $10 to $20 to go to the market, and she returns and accounts for the money, yet while her employer's back is turned, she will shove five cents worth of tea, coffee or sugar into her pocket. To take money intrusted to her to do the marketing would be thieving, but in taking little things from the kitchen suppiles, she is following the custom of the ages.

Mr. Clark's letter was a strong argument for the voters of beat 5. It rings in thunder tones to the other precincts.

Fonza Hilyer and family visited at Union Grove Saturday.

Hon. Percy M. Pitts was visiting his friends here last week. Everybody knows Mr. Persy Pitts. His record is good.

Miss Bevie Smith of Birmingham spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Hubbard, here.

Will was rounding up the voters.

W. G. Culp was here last week.

Mr. Pat Lowery of Providence was here Sunday.

L. G. Posey went to Birmingham Saturday.

H. S. Watkins was here last week accompaning Deputy Sheriff Murrah in locating the voters.

Some of the writers and candidates have portrayed a spirit of brotherhood in this campaign, both wise and commendable. We repeat this is a family affair, not to defeat some aspirant but to select some standard bearers for November. Those who do not win on the 12th will be needed in November, hence the spirit of brotherhood is so important. It is the only way to permanent success politically and otherwise and is not impossible. Some candidates have given their platforms particularly, others in a general way. One of the most particular in that is W. L. Sanders, and is worthy of consideration. So it is quite proper for us to consider all platforms. The efficiency of all candidates. The voters where the candidates live and last what we all need as a county and let the sirit of brotherhood prevail.—Z. J. Jones.

FAVORS JOSEPH E. COBB

To the voters of Chilton County:

I wish to say a few words in regard to Mr. Joseph E. Cobb, candidate for Commisioner of the first District of Chilton County.

I have known Mr. Cobb for thirty-five years as an honest, straight forward citizen and believe all legal voters will be doing themselves and Mr. Cobb justice by voting for him.

I am a neighbor of Mr. Cobb and am well known over the county as Detective D. W. Barnes.

Yours very truly
D. W. Barnes

CARD OF THANKS

Through the kindness of The Union-Banner we wish to thank the many people of Chilton County for their assistance given us in the loss of our house, furnishings, and outhouses. It is impossible for us to see each one personally but nevertheless, we are very grateful to each and everyone and for every thing they have done.—Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Hayes.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless thay may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

S. M. PATE WRITES TO VOTERS OF THE COUNTY

Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words to the voters of the County. First, I want to thank the people of the county for what they have done for me in the past.

I have served you as Tax Assessor the best I could in every respect. I am always willing and ready to do anything for you that I can. I am never too busy to stop my work and help you in any way.

My record is here before you. You can come and investigate it for your self. I have been examined by State examiners and they have not been able to find anything to criticize me for yet.

On next Tuesday, August 12th you are going to vote for some one for Tax Assessor of this great County of ours. I want you to think back and see how much trouble I have caused you, then you refer back several years ago and see what you had. As to my opponents, I have nothing to say against them in any way; during my campaign I have not mentioned either of them unless some one asked me who was running.

Some people say that I have been in office long enough; so, after you investigate my record and habits, then if you think either one of the gentlemen running can serve you better, then it will be your duty to vote for them.

The only thing you are going to get out of this is the service you get. The office belongs to the people. I am only a servant working for you, and you are the one who will say who shall be the one to serve you.

Now, in conclusion, I want to say to you to go to the polls next Tuesday, August 12th, and cast your vote for your choice, and your choice will be mine. I am sure I will do everything in my power to elect him this November.

I want to ask you again for your vote and influence.—S. M. Pate.

COLLINS CHAPEL GRAVEYARD

All who are interested in a grave yard cleaning at Collins Chapel are requested to meet Friday morning, August 15. Come early with a hoe, rake, or some implement to work with.—Z. Y. Appleton.

MR. SANDERS MAKES FINAL APPEAL TO CHILTON VOTERS

Editor Union-Banner:

I will thank you for a little space in your columns to say a few words to the voters of this county in regard to my race for member of the Board of Education.

First, I want to say that it will be almost impossible for me to see every voter in the county before the election, but I can assure you that your consideration and support will be greatly appreciated, whether I see you or not. I sure appreciate the encouragement that has been given me from different parts of the county; and if I am elected I shall conduct myself in a way that you may not regret your vote. And to those who wish to vote for my opponents, I shall not think hard, for that is your privilege.

If I am elected, I shall serve everybody just alike, regardless as to how they voted.

I hope to have the co-operation of both the people and the Board, and by having this, much good can be accomplished. There is no chance to have a real school system in Chilton County or elsewhere without the co-operation of the patrons and trustees of each school district. We must also have the co-operation of the school teachers, and by so doing it will mean much to the advancement of education. We must remember that together we stand and divided we fall. This means that we must have the co-operation of the people as a whole, regardless of who is elected to office, before any progress can be made.

I ask you again, to consider the platform on which I stand which appeared in this paper a few weeks ago, and if you can give me your support and influence I will appreciate it.

I want to say in conclusion that many people think there are to be two members of the board elected this time, but that is a mistake. Only one is to be elected.

SINGING AT UNION GROVE

The United Singing Society sings with the Union Grove Class next Sunday afternoon. All singers are invited to meet with them.

FROM W. G. CULP

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

I ask your indulgence for a few words with reference to my candidacy for the office of Tax Collector of Chilton County in this, the last issue of The Union-Banner before the primary election which comes on next Tuesday, August 12.

As you of course know, I was a candidate for this office in the primary election four years ago, and was defeated by only a very small number of votes. In this campaign I have endeavored to make a personal contact with every Republican voter in Chilton County. I am sure there are some whom I have not seen; but that has been due to circumstances which were beyond my control.

My campaign for this office has been conducted on what I have at all times regarded as the right and honorable thing to do and to say. I have ever kept foremost in my mind the fact that the voters and those other candidates who are seeking the office have certain rights that no one can take away from them. With those things in view, I have made my appeal to the voters in an honest and straightforward manner.

The information has come to me that some of my opponents have made the argument against me in this campaign that I have held an office for the past twelve years, at a salary as much as that which the office of Tax Collector pays.

In answer to this argument, I want to remind the voters that I have never been elected to any public office. The job which I have held is an appointive job, and I have held same subject to the pleasure of the Sheriff who appointed me as his Deputy.

With reference to the salary which I have received as Deputy Sheriff, I submit the following statements from the different Sheriffs for whom I have worked:

State of Alabama, Chilton County: I hereby certify that I was Sheriff of Chilton County from January, 1919 to January, 1923, and that during said time W. G. Culp was Chief Deputy, employed solely by me, and subject to my orders at all times, and that I paid him as such Chief Deputy the sum of $75 per month.—J. L. Gore.

State of Alabama, Chilton County: I hereby certify that I was Sheriff of Chilton County from January, 1923 to January, 1927 and that during said time W. G. Culp was Chief Deputy employed solely by me, and subject to my orders at all times, and that I paid him as such Chief Deputy the sum of $100 per month.—T. J. Littlejohn.

State of Alabama, Chilton County: I hereby certify that I have been Sheriff of Chilton County since January, 1927, and that during that time W. G. Culp has been Chief Deputy, employed solely by me and subject to my orders at all times, and that I have paid him as such Chief Deputy the sum of $100 a month.—J. D. Collins.

Section 10188 of the Code of Alabama provides that a county such as Chilton must have one Chief Deputy; that he shall be appointed by the Sheriff of the county; that he shall serve as such Chief Deputy at the pleasure of the Sheriff; that his salary shall be not less than $900 nor more than $1,500 a year.

The Commissioners Court of Chilton County has been giving the Sheriff's office the benefit of this full amount of $1,500 a year. Under the provisions of said section there is no other way in which the Sheriff's office could get this amount except it be paid out of the Treasury of the County in the name of the Chief Deputy. I have received for my salary the amounts as set out in the above statements from the respective Sheriffs for whom I have worked. The remaining part of the $1,500 a year above my salary has been turned over to the Sheriff by me.

Now, since my opposition has chosen to use this argument about salary (apparently in an effort to create the impression that I have received as much salary as the Tax Collector). I will say in adition to the above facts about my own salary as Deputy Sheriff that I do not know what salary the Tax Collector's office has paid. I have made some inquiry as to the amount of salary the Tax Collector has received, and have been unable to find out. So in order to be fair, I will not make any statement as to the amount of the salary of the Tax Collector; but I am willing to leave it to any intelligent, fair-minded person to judge whether or not I have received as much salary as Deputy Sheriff as the Tax Collector's office has paid.

In conclusion, I want to say to the Republican voters of Chilton County that I very deeply appreciate the support which I received in my former campaign, and the pledges of support which have been expressed to me in the present campaign. I am willing for the ballots of the Republican voters to decide the matter for me on next Tuesday.

If I am nominated, I assure you that I shall do all in my power to win for myself and the Republican ticket in November. If one of the other candidates is nominated, I will give him and the other Republican nominees the same degree of loyalty in November as if I were the nominee.

Your very truly,

W. G. CULP.

FROM COLUMBIA, ALABAMA

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper, as it has been several years since I have bothered you.

I was born and reared in Chilton County. That is yet my home. I am at this time living in Houston County. The farmers here have begun picking cotton, and it looks as though there will be a large crop made down here.

Well, how is politics up there? It is getting mighty warm down here, on Governor and on Commissioner of Agriculture. It is between Miller and Davis for Governor, and it is between Storrs and Moore for Commissioner of Agriculture, and I would ask all of the Republicans that vote a split ticket to vote for J. M. Moore, as I know that he will save the tax payers of the state some money, as Mr. Storrs will not save any money for the people.

For a small example of how he is spending the people's money, he has 4 inspectors out of this little town to inspect gasoline tanks, gins, warehouses, etc. I have been here 2 years, these men make an average of 3 days a week. These men draw $160 per month, or more, and $3 a day hotel expenses, car, gas, and oil furnished. And these men are using these cars for pleasure, and home use.

I think that if Mr. Storrs let these employees use this state property for personal use, as these men are doing, I don't think that we need him in office. And I know all of this to be true, as I am here and see these men.

Every week they leave out on Monday to go, maybe to Tuscaloosa or Birmingham, or some place else, and come in on Thursday, not later than Friday a. m. And you see they don't do much work, as they stay on the road most of the time going and coming home. And I presume all the rest of the road men, which is 48 in number, do likewise.

Hoping the voters in Chilton County will do all you can for J. M. Moore. And one other thing, Mr. Storrs is paying these road men here a salary now, and furnishing car, gas, oil, and has assigned them counties to canvass for him, and I am sure lots of this money is coming from the Treasury. —W. P. Martin.

ENDORSE W. L. SANDERS

We the undersigned patrons of Jacksons Chapel School do hereby endorse W. L. Sanders, candidate for member of the Board of Education.

He has served us as chairman of the board of trustees for the past two years, and great progress has been made. He realized it would take the cooperation of the patrons to make the school what it ought to be.

He sought the cooperation by acting as servant instead of our boss.

He, together with the other trustees gave the patrons the right to assess the incidental fees.

He saw that each patron was given credit on the books for the amount they paid. He saw that each patron paid his fees and that everybody paid alike. He had the books audited and the name and price of each article was given. After the books were audited he asked if the patrons were satisfied as to how the money had been handled and there was no complaint.

We feel that he deserves a fair consideration from the voters of Chilton County in the August primary.

Mrs. Emma Lowci, Frank Lowci, A. E. Jackson, J. Bice, W. K. Traywick, J. H. Jackson, Mrs. Lora Jackson, J. T. Burnett, Aaron Parker, F. J. Little, Mrs. Mary Jane Little, A. A. Jackson, Willie Cleckler, Joe W. Traywick, F. J. Parker, Mrs. Laura Hilyer, S. H. Hilyer, E. M. Hilyer, R. D. Caton, Cornelius Caton, E. C. Traywick.

CITIZENS ENDORSE BEAN

To the Voters of Chilton County:

We, the undersigned citizens of the 1st district feel it our duty to let the voters in other districts know how the poeple at home feel about J. P. Bean for re-election to the office of County Commissioner. All that it would take to convince you that this man should be re-elected to office would be to know the conditions before and after.

We believe in appreciating a thing while it is at hand to appreciate. Never before have we had as good roads in this district as now. Mr. Bean never lets an opportunity pass to accommodate a citizen of the county with roads and mail routes. He has very little to say, and for this reason we fear the people might not know just how we appreciate his services as commissioner.

Mr. Bean, we dare say, has done as much hard work in his life as any man of his age. He will work and he does work. He believes in giving all that is in his power for the working people of the county. His judgment on road matters is good. Help us give him his place another term, as he deserves it.

We feel that this is the sentiment of the people in general in the First District. If anyone doubts what we say, let him come up to Mr. Bean's district and see for himself. Let us appeal to you again to help us elect the man we are satisfied with as commissioner for the First District.

NEWS OF SAMARIA

There was a large crowd present at Sunday school last Sunday; we hope to have all of these and others with us next Sunday.

The B. Y. P. U. met Sunday night at 7:30; we enrolled 14 and there were others present who did not enroll. We had one of the greatest subjects of the entire quarter, that of soul-winning.

Young people, it is a great opportunity that we are able to get Christian training that the B. Y. P. U. affords us. Our fathers and mothers did not get this, so let us put forth every effort possible to get into a good B. Y. P. U.

The subject for next Sunday night is "The Influence of the Bible on Literature." This is a great subject. Dr. Phelps says: "I thoroughly believe in a university education for both men and women, but a knowledge of the Bible without a college course is more valuable than a college course without the Bible."

Recently a group of young men and women was graduated from one of the leading universities. As they were preparing to leave and go out into the world, it was decided that a simple test of the Bible should be given them. Only one out of a big number made a passing mark. This shows that we do not feed upon the spiritual food as we should.

Miss Pearlie Vinson is visiting in Wetumpka this week.

Mr. J. G. Wood is visiting his daughters, Miss Georgia Wood and Mrs. T. E. Williams in Decatur.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Williams left Decatur Monday enroute to Clanton to visit relatives. They are going by automobile to points in Tennessee and Georgia, and will arrive in Clanton the latter part of the week.

Miss Nora Wood returned home Saturday from Thorsby, where she has been attending the revival.

INDEPENDENT GROCERS' ALLIANCE of AMERICA

FROM L. H. BEAN

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say just a few words to the voters of this county. As I have said before I would like to meet and shake hands with all the voters and patrons of this county. But it will be impossible, for I have to work.

I want to say in the first place I am a life-long Republican. I have never voted anything but a straight ticket. I am 49 years old, and have never asked the people to give me an office before. I am interested in the schools of this county. I have some children to educate and I advocate the rural schools. You can educate your children much cheaper in the rural schools than you can in the high schools. You can teach to the 10th grade in the rural schools and your incidental fees will run about $1.00 to $1.50 a term. The present rule is when they make the sixth grade you are forced to put them in high school and pay $10.00 per term incidental fee. Why do they do this? Just for the difference in the $1.50 and $10.00, which is $8.50, more per child they get. This ought to be clear to the minds of all the patrons in the county.

So stand up for your rights and keep your rural schools. If I am elected member of the School Board it will be my policy to clip the wings of some of the droans now on the county payrole. I can save enough in two years to furnish all the grammar schools free books. I don't believe in spending money without getting something in return. I want every dollar to count 100 cents. And I believe I can come as near getting it as most any fellow you ever saw. It has been said I could not do anything by myself. But I can. I can watch and keep the other fellow straight and keep the outside world posted. The question has been discussed between Harrell and Lawrence that if L. H. Bean was elected on the school board it meant a six years defeat to the one mill tax.

I have been told by one of the best citizens of the county that Lawrence wanted to call another election in thirty days from April 8th, 1930. That he thought the people did not understand the question. But we did. We have defeated this tax three times and can make it the fourth if necessary. Mr. Harrell and B. Lawrence seem to want me to answer all their questions. I will when Mr. Lawrence answers the questions I asked him last week.

What about John L. Smith, that you used his name to a letter against me this week. Ain't that the same John L. Smith that taken the bankrupt law and beat the Downs Grocery Co., also J. Lee Smith, and the Farmers Hardware Co., of Clanton? Please explain this to the people of this county.

Now Mr. Voter this shows you the type of men that is backing Buford Lawrence. So do not let them influence you in any way. Just vote for a man who stands for the right things, and who you believe will be a friend to the schools and the people. When you have done this you have discharged your duty as a citizen. He has a desire to hound me all he can. He says it will be an everlasting shame on the party for me to be the nominee for School Board.

Now I want to say if I am the nominee I expect to make it an eternal blessing to the party and the schools of this county. If I go there it will be by majority of the voters of this county. I will not be smuggled in like you were. My campaign is open to the world and my life is an open book. I have nothing covered up or hidden.

My policy is to let the people rule. I want the patrons to elect their three trustees and also their teachers, and when you give them this right they will line up with you and then the biggest school trouble is over.

I feel like I can safely say this Lawrence and Harrell Propaganda is apparently done to cloud the issue and divert the public attention. This is their method of defeating me in this election.

Mr. Voter I want to ask you to show me a man on the Board that has ever raised his voice against the bad practice and waste of the school funds. Not a single man has ever done this. They line up and endorse just any thing B. Lawrence wants to pull over. Will the good citizens of this county stand for this or do you want a man that will save your money and protect your interest in every way possible.

I have talked to some of the best school people in the county and they tell me without a change in the school system of the county that the schools are gone. So now is the time to make a start to put your school back in the hands of the people. If elected I expect to make friends and better schools through the county. It will be my desire to conduct my life in a way that the pepole will have more confidence in me at the end of the six years than they have now.

I have nothing to offer you but straight business. August the 12th is getting close by and it is up to you. Vote for the man of your choice. I have not worried anybody canvassing. I stayed at home and worked. What I have said has been through the paper, and in conclusion I extend a special invitation to all my one mill tax friends to vote for me on August 12th.

As I have warned you before. Look for the wolf in the last moment. He is coming. Do not be deceived, stand up and do the the right thing. Smile and the world will smile with you.—L. H. Bean.

GEORGE MURRAH, CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF MAKES ADDRESS

Clanton, Ala., August 5th.

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

As it has been impossible for me to see and talk with all the voters of the county, I take this method of soliciting your vote in the Republican primary to be held next Tuesday, August 12th, 1930.

In the first place I wish to say that I have always supported the Republican ticket and have never scratched a ticket. When a majority of the Republicans of the county have made their nominations, I have never raised a question but have done all that I could to help elect them. I will do the same this year, whether I am nominated or not.

Should you favor me with the nomination and election, I pledge to you my best efforts to enforce all the laws. I will use men of good character and men of good standing for my deputies.

Let me urge every Republican to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for the men whom you believe will render the best service to the County and men who will stand by the Republican party while in office.

Again soliciting your vote and influence, and assuring you that I will greatly appreciate the same, I am, Yours very truly.—George W. Murrah.

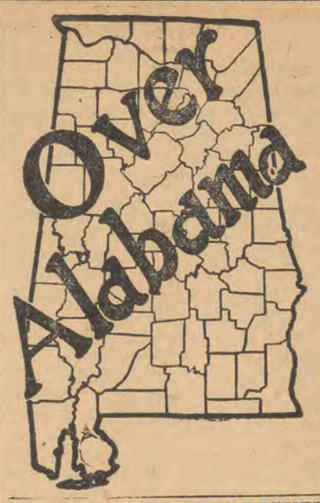
Nurse Tells How CARDUI Helped Her

Mrs. W. A. Cox, a well-known professional nurse, of Burnside, Ky., writes:



"I was in very bad health, and only weighed 110 pounds. I read in the papers about Cardui, and thought I would give it a try-out. After I had taken one bottle, I could see that I was improving. After I had taken it a month or two, I began to gain, and I weigh at present 168, and have weighed that for some time. I am now 55 years old, and can do as much work as the average middle-aged woman can.

FARMERS FACE PROBABLE LOW YIELDS

Will the Alabama farmers bring home the golden dollars this fall in an abundant shower, or will it be a shower of half dollars? This is a question to be answered in the main by the size and the price of cotton crop. On August the 8th, at 12:40 p. m. the exact estimate of acreage and condition will be broadcast from the department of agriculture studios in Montgomery, over stations WAPI and WSFA, by F. W. Gist, state and Federal statistician, according to announcement on Monday by S. P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture.

This important news will give farmers and others the first official news relative to the growing acreage of cotton and its conditions. The acreage of abandoned cotton will be given together with the condition in terms of percentage.

The average percentage condition of cotton for the past five years has been 69 as of August 1. For the past ten years, the percentage has been 66, of a possible 100 per cent.

At present the price of middling cotton is about $35 per bale lower than one year ago. The price has been steadily tending lower sice the 1929 crop was gathered. Middling cotton has been under 12 cents for for many weeks and the new crop has sold for all future months for less than 13 cents during the past week. The outlook for profitable cotton prices this fall is not promising. Cotton picking is now well under way in South Alabama, and the prospects for an early crop are excellent at this date.

FROM A. A. JACKSON

This being the last opportunity to speak to the voters of Chilton County, through the headlight of our party, I want to say that the success of our party depends upon the conduct and honesty of its members. The only way to keep our party pure and above reproach is for each member to be honest.

I have been over a good portion of Chilton County in the past few weeks, and talked to many voters. And some of them tell me that we are liable to have some dishonest work done in our primary. I do hope and pray that such will not be the case.

I want my opponent, Mr. Pitts, to have every vote that is cast for him, and I want all that is cast for me. I had just as soon a thief would steal my mules as to steal my votes. Let us all look out for the welfare of our party by applying the Golden Rule.

So long as our party is governed by truth and righteousness, just so long we need not fear our opposing party. I often hear Republicans say they will follow their party as far as right and honesty goes, and when that stops they stop. The only way to preserve our party is for all its members to stand like a stone wall for honesty.

I want to assure the voters of Chilton County that if they see fit to elect me as their representative, I shall use all honorable means possible to carry out the platform as outlined in connection with the list of endorsers that urged me to make the race for Representative of Chiltion County in the next Legislature of Alabama.

Hoping that our party may make a record in the coming primary that each candidate and voter may be proud of, and that all candidates that may be nominated Aug. 12th may be crowned with success in the November election.

I amyours for the application of the Golden Rule,

A. A. JACKSON.

NAMES VEGETABLES TO PLANT FOR FALL

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 4.—To make the fall garden as good as the spring garden, Julia Brown, extension horticulturist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, suggests the planting of Vegetbles in August or early September. Mr. Brown said that the home garden has always been an important factor in household economics.

Vegetables that may be planted in August or early September include beans, beets, carrots, radish, parsnips, mustard, turnips, tendergreens, spinach, kale, chard, cabbage, collards, Chinese cabbage, parsley. salsify, lettuce, Kohl-Rabi, Endive and Brussels sprouts.

"Snapbeans should be planted within two months of the first frost date," Mr. Brown said. "Beets, carrots, radish, and parsnips provide important root crops. Carrots and parsnips should be planted in every garden. Both stand well. Parsnips will remain in the ground in good condition through the winter. Mustard, turnips, tendergreen, spinach, kale, chard, cabbage, collards and Chinese cabbage will provide a good supply of leafy vegetables for a long time."

The Auburn horticulturist urges gardeners to grow tendergreens. "Once you grow it you will certainly add it to your permanent list," he said. "Chard and Chinese cabbage should also be grown in more home gardens. The Japanese turnip is a good type for producing fall greens. It produces more greens than either of the other types and is resistant to plant lice."

Fall planting requirements call for thorough preparation of ground and planting when there is plenty of moisture. Seed in the fall garden should be planted about twice as deep as in the spring, Mr. Brown added.

15,000 DEMAND SARGON DAILY

(By Richard L. Simms)

Atlanta, Ga.—More like a tale from the Arabian Nights of old than a record of modern business achievement reads the story of the marvelous growth and development of Sargon, the new scientific compound which has become the sensation of the drug trade throughout the United States, Canada and other countries.

The old illustration of the pebble dropped into the pool best describes the phenomenal and unpdecedented demand and its fame is rapidly spreading over the entire American continent like a great tidal wave.

Recently compiled figures reveal that approximately 15,000 men and women are marching into the drug stores daily for Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills, the marvelous new treatment that is restoring health to countless thousands by new and remarkable methods undreamed of only a few years ago.

Already more than 5,000,000 suffering men and women have put it to the test and have told other millions what it has done for them.

Marching in regulation U. S. army fashion—single file—this vast army of Sargon users would reach from New York to San Franciso and at the present rate of sale—would, in a few years time, encircle the entire globe.

The only explanation of Sargon's triumph in the medical world is Sargon's true worth. Back of its triumph in the drug stores is its millions of users that have made it the most widely talked of medicine in the world today.

Sargon is extensively advertised, it is true, but no preparation, no matter how extensively advertised, could pohhibly meet with such phenominal success unless it possessed absolute merit and extradordinary powers as a medicine.

There can be but one possible explanation for Sargon's amazing success and it can be told in one word—MERIT!

Sargon is sold by Alred Drug Company, Clanton, and Thorsby Drug Company, Thorsby, Alabama.

Popular Cotillon

The cotillon is a dance of French origin, and is performed to quadrille music. It was a fashionable dance at the court of Charles X, where it had been adapted from a peasant dance. At first for one, then for two performers, it soon became a ronde dance, in which form it was introduced into England. There are hundreds of possible figures in the modern dance, and the accessories are most elaborate. The cotillon is begun by a small number of couples, who occupy the floor while the rest of the guests sit about the ballroom. These couples select others from among those seated, and, after going through a figure, all take seats and are replaced by other couples until the whole company has danced that particular figure. Another method is for each set of couples to dance a different figure.

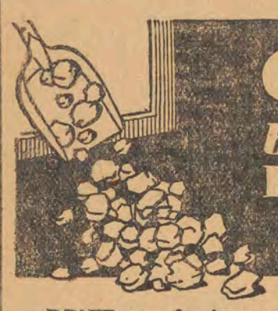
A. F. MIMS WILL REMAIN IN RACE FOR TAX COLLECTOR

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

As we come to the close of the present Republican Primary Campaign in Chilton County, I want to say a few words in regard to my candidacy for the office of tax collector.

When I was defeated for the nomination to this office two years ago, I was satisfied with the verdict of the Republican voters in the matter. I am asking for the place again this time believing that my loyalty to the Republican party in the past justifies me in asking my fellow citizens for their support in my behalf.



I want to say that I appreciate the support of my friends in my other campaign. I hope that those same friends will stay with me this time and others will join in the support of my cause.

I have heard in the last few weeks that some of my opponents have told some of my supporters that I would come down out of this race before the primary. In regard to this matter, I will say that I do not understand why anyone would seek to do me the injustice of spreading such a report among my friends.

I will say here, as I have said before, that I am in this race till the finish. Nothing will put me out of the race for tax collector unless the voters do it with their ballots on next Tuesday, the 12th of August. And I want to say to my suporters that I believe that I will win and I urge you to stay with me and work for me until the race is finished.

If I am nominated for tax collector by the Republicans on next Tuesday, I shall deem it the greatest honor that has ever been bestowed upon me, and I assure you that I will do my best if I am elected in November. If one of my opponents is the nominee, I will do as I have always done in the past. I will be entirely satisfied and will do all I can to help carry the Republican ticket to success in November.

In conclusion let me say that I have done my best to see all the voters and I want to insist that every Republican in Chilton County go to the primary next Tuesday and cast your votes for the candidates of your choice. Yours truly,—A. F. Mims.

FROM J. T. ROCKETT

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words to the Republican voters of Chilton County.

As you know I am a candidate to succeed myself as Tax Collector of Chilton County, subject to the action of the Republican Primary to be held next Tuesday, August 12th, 1930.

I have served you in this office for two terms and during that time have been examined by the State examiners several times and my accounts have always been found correct and my official acts have never been criticized by any State examiner.

The argument has been made that I have held the office long enough and that it should be passed around. Now the only thing that the voters will get out of the office is service. Don't you think with my past experience that I can render you as good, or perhaps better service in the future than those that have not had any experience? In your own business would you fire a man that had been faithful to every trust, and had rendered you good service, and hire a man that you did not know whether or not he could do your work in a satisfactory way? Then if you would not do this in your own business, why would you do it the County business? Isn't the principle the same?

Then too, according to the last treasurer's report published in The Union-Banner in July one of my opponents, Mr. W. G. Culp, is now drawing a salary of $125.00 per month, which amounts to $1500.00 a year. Mr. Culp will have served in this capacity 12 years next January. In other words when his present time is out and when my present term expires he will have been in office two years longer than I have. Then where is the argument to pass things around and give it to some one that has been in office longer than I have?

In conclusion let me say that I have waged a clean fight. I haven't a word to say against any of my opponents, they are all good men.

Let me urge every Republican in the County to go to the polls next Tuesday and cast your vote for your choice and when the nominations are made all get behind the nominees and elect them by an overwhelming majority in November.

Assuring each and every voter that I will appreciate your vote and influence, and assuring you that whether I am nominated or not that I will use my best efforts to help every Republican nominee in the general election, I beg to remain, yours truly.—J. T. Rockett.

N. Y. Woman Lost 14 Pounds of Fat

ONE 85 CENT BOTTLE OF KRUSCHEN SALTS DID IT

"I am starting on my second bottle of Kruschen Salts and am real pleased with results. I take it for reducing and so far have lost 14 pounds, and I think it is doing wonders for me. I do not feel so tired evenings when I get home from work."

A generous bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Alred Drug Company or any drug store in America—take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on starches and walk a little each day.

Before the bottle is empty surplus fat is leaving you—indolence changes to activity—you'll feel younger—eyes will brighten—step grows spry. Millions know this—you ought to know it. Kruschen Salts is the ideal treatment for constipation, indigestion, headaches, nervousness and acidity.

WHY WE JOINED with Firestone to give Lower Prices and Greater Values!

WE WANTED the advantages locally, that Firestone has nationally for reducing our costs and building volume business on small profits.

A Department Store for Your Car

Our costs are absorbed by several different lines instead of one. We sell and service the complete Firestone Line, including Tires—Tubes—Batteries—Brake Lining—Rims and Accessories. Instead of buying the items from several different places, we get them from nearby Firestone branches or warehouses—all from one place on one shipping order—one handling.

Our Costs Are Lower Your Savings Greater

Firestone leads in bringing down prices. Firestone leads in new tire improvements and builds more miles into tires than any other manufacturer. Every advantage Firestone has in world wide resources—buying rubber and cotton at the lowest prices—is put right back of us for the benefit of our customers. Result—you get more in value for less in price. The name "FIRESTONE" on every tire is the pledge of the manufacturer that the tire you buy is the best you can obtain for the price you pay.

Compare Construction and Values

DOUBLE GUARANTEE

All tires guaranteed without limitations by us and Firestone. Drive in today! We give service for the life of our tires and see to it that you get all the mileage and satisfaction that Firestone builds into them.

★A mail order or Special Brand tire is made by some unknown manufacturer and sold under a name that does not identify him to the public, usually because he builds his "first grade" tires under his own name.

SIX PLIES UNDER THE TREAD

THE patented Double Cord Breaker provides for two extra plies of cord right under the tread. They take up road shocks and resist punctures and blowouts. In the Firestone Anchor Super Heavy Duty this means 8 plies under the tread—Extra strength right where the wear comes.

GILLESPIE, CULP, COLLINS ARE WINNERS

MISS ROGERS WON FOR POPULARITY

At the close of the popularity contest Saturday night, in which a group of Clanton young ladies were bidding for honors, it was found that Miss Katie Mae Rogers had won the prize. She was crowned queen of Clanton Tuesday, and led the automobile parade in which all the girls participated Tuesday afternoon.

Following is the vote as given out by the management of the contest after the parade Tuesday afternoon:

Katie Mae Rogers	6,875
Gladys Williams	5,865
Gertie Fiquett	3,410
Mary Goodwin Jones	2,976
Voncile White	1,890
Mary Foshee	1,360

Janice Danforth	1,195
Elizabeth Crump	985
Melna Dial	560
Pauline Lawrence	460
Vivian Gray	280
Corine Polk	220
Bernice Williams	200

OLLIE A. BAKER VISITOR

Mr. Ollie A. Baker of Birmingham was in Clanton Saturday. Mr. Baker was born in this county near Clanton, but has not been here, except for passing through in about 25 years. He is the son of Amos Baker, who is also now living in Birmingham. The father and son are engaged in the diary business.

Mrs. Sallie Eiland of Montgomery spent last week visiting relatives in Clanton.

Homer, Ira, and Lois Hand of Bessemer were recent guests of Pearl and Bonnie Hand.

Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Hand and family of Climax, Ga., were recent visitors to Mr. W. W. Hand and family.

DIEF IS IN TIRE SELLING CONTEST

Dief's Service Station, local Goodyear Tire Dealers, are engaged in a special tire selling campaign for this summer, which ends on the last day of August. The campaign includes contestants representing every Goodyear dealer in Alabama, and the boys at Dief's have made up their minds that they will go over the top, just as they did last year in the winter campaign.

In the contest last winter Dief won first prize, which was a beautiful desk set. This time the prize will be a trip to the Goodyear factories at Akron, with an inspection tour through all the plants, including the place where Goodyear is manufacturing the great new Zeppelins.

Dief says he is well up toward the top in the race so far, and if any of his friends want to help him put the campaign over and win the prize, he will appreciate it as a personal favor, and at the same time will sell them Goodyear Tires with the well-known quality and value which has become the outstanding characteristic of Goodyears.

CURTIS MOORE GOT A FREAK

Mr. Curtis Moore of Verbena Route 2 was in Clanton Wednesday morning and had something to talk about besides the primary election—in fact he didn't even mention the election; of course we know that he had heard that we had an election Tuesday.

Mr. Moore said that he had a three-legged chicken at his place and he wanted to tell the Banner readers about it. The chicken was hatched last Sunday; it has two normal legs and has an extra one growing out from its rear end. The extra leg has two toes on it.

Mr. Moore says that he will bring it to our office in a few weeks, if it lives. The chicken seems healthy now.

Republican Primary Tuesday Indicates Defeat of All Who Were Running for Re-election, Save Percy M. Pitts.

Incomplete and unofficial returns of approximately 2,500 votes gathered from the Republican Primary Tuesday indicate that the following were nominated for the various offices:

For Representative—Percy M. Pitts.
For Sheriff—W. H. Gillespie.
For Tax Collector—W. G. Culp.
For Tax Assessor—Akins I. Collins.
For Commissioner First District—Jos. E. Cobb.
For Commissioner Second District—J. M. Mims.
For Member School Board—W. L. Sanders.

In the race for Sheriff W. H. Gillespie appears to have received 125 votes more than his two opponents combined.

W. G. Culp, on the unofficial returns appears to have received 133 votes more than all his opponents combined.

The vote for Tax Assessor was not such a run-away. Akins Collins has the edge in the unofficial returns with 54 votes ahead of Sam Pate, his closest rival.

It was an easy win for Percy Pitts in the Representative race, he having bested his opponent, A. A. Jackson, by 462.

The race for County Board of Education was close between the three candidates, L. H. Bean, O. H. McDowell, and W. L. Sanders. Sanders appears ahead of McDowell by 27 votes.

For County Commissioner in the first district Jos. E. Cobb appears winner by a good margin, while Jim Mims seems to have a commanding lead in the second district.

The tabulations on this page give the unofficial figures as they were available Wednesday morning after all the beats in the county had been heard from. It will be seen that the figures are not complete, and those that are given are unofficial. But we believe they are accurate enough to determine the result. It is hardly probable that the official count will change the result materially.

The official count will be made Thursday at noon by the Republican Executive Committee, when the final tabulation will be made and the result declared.

CRANE AND WELLS

There were many people surprised Saturday night, August 9, when the wedding took place of Mr. Hudson Crane, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Crane, and Miss Ruth Louise Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wells of Liberty Hill community. They were married at the home of Rev. Gibson near Fairview. We wish them a long and happy life together. They will make their home at the bride's father's.

LANDE WILL RETURN FROM MARKET THIS WEEK

We have received word from Mr. Maurice Lande that he expects to return to Clanton this week after having spent several days in the markets of the north and east.

"I have bought a dandy line of merchandise," said Mr. Lande, "and when I get back home and get everything shaped up in my new store, I shall be better able to serve our customers than ever before in the history of our business."

MANY ATTENDED BOAT RACES LAST SUNDAY

The newest form of amusement is boat races. The first performance of this kind was staged at Oscar Norman's place at old Rushton, on Lake Mitchell last Sunday afternoon. The attendance was large. Of course boat races are not new in some places. It has been going on for ages, perhaps; but it is new in this section.

The boats which entered the races last Sunday were of the outboard motor type, and very small light craft. About a dozen entrants were in the contest.

The hero of the occasion was the eleven-year old son of Mr. Tom McGough, of Montgomery, who carried off the honors in the first two races.

Mr. Norman had everything at his place fixed up in tip top shape to accomodate the visitors and the contestants.

NEGRO KILLED AT MITCHELL DAM

Leonard Shelton, negro, was shot and killed Thursday night at Mitchell Dam, by Mose Wallace another negro. Wallace also shot and seriously hurt his wife.

The trouble is said to have come up when Wallace came home and found Shelton in company with his (Wallace's) wife. Shelton was shot one time with a .38 Colt pistol. The bullet went through his body. After he was shot Shelton jumped out of a window and ran a few yards when he fell dead.

Wallace's wife was shot through the lower part of the neck. After he had shot her he put her in a car and brought her to the Central Alabama Hospital for attention. Wallace was placed in jail where he remains at this time.

Coroner Mell Martin was called to Mitchell Dam to investigate the case. After the investigation an order to bury the body of Shelton was given, and instructions to hold Wallace in jail.

FIRST BALE OF COTTON WEDNESDAY

The first bale of the 1930 cotton crop was ginned by Jasper Dennis Wednesday morning. It was brought in by J. T. Arant, from the farm of Bazz Foshee of Clanton. The bale weighed 526 pounds. It was bought by Mullins and Moore, the grade was middling and the price paid was a premium of about $10 above the market price.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Robinson and family of Mitchell Dam were recent visitors to Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hayes of Birmingham.

DR. ABERCROMBIE VISITOR TO LOCAL KIWANIS CLUB

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton, at its regular weekly luncheon last Thursday, was honored by a visit from Dr. John W. Abercrombie of Montgomery, who is Lieutenant Governor of one of the Divisions of the Alabama Kiwanis District, and himself president of the Kiwanis Club of Montgomery.

The entire time of the program was given over to Dr. Abercrombie for an address to his fellow Kiwanians. He spoke about thirty minutes discussing that ideal of Kiwanis which includes the practice of the Golden Rule in all human relationships.

"Is there a need for a place for the practice of the Golden Rule in our human relationships?" Was the question which Dr. Abercrombie answered in his discussion of his subject. His address was greatly appreciated by his hearers.

Other visitors at the luncheon were: Dr. and Mrs. Blasingame, of the State Departmen of Education, Buford Lawrence, Superintendent of Education, I. J. Quinn, the new principal of the Clanton Grammar school and Mr. Jack Monroe, who has recently come to Clanton as manager of the Southern Bell Telephone Co.

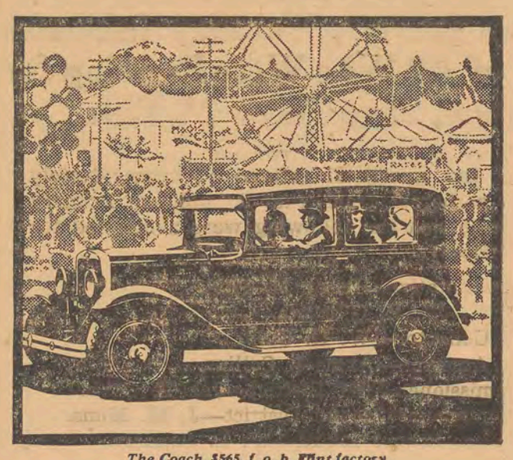
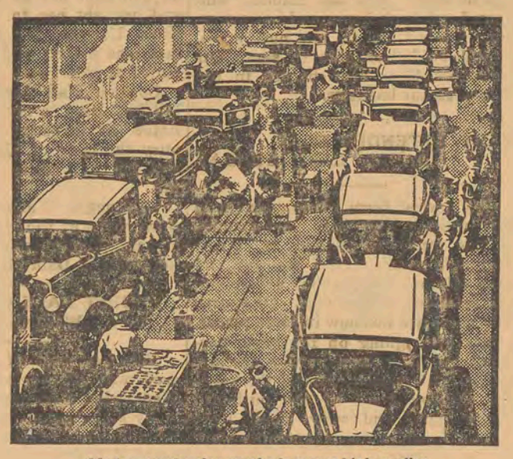
IT'S WISE TO CHEVROLET CHOOSE A SIX

Announcing a new production record



2,000,000 Chevrolet Sixes now on the road

Since January, 1929, Chevrolet has produced and sold over 2,000,000 six-cylinder automobiles—nearly five times as many as any other manufacturer has ever built in an equal length of time.



These 2,000,000 buyers have chosen Chevrolet because it offers many desirable qualities not obtainable in any other car so low in price—

—the smoothness, silence and flexibility of a modern six-cylinder engine—the comfort and roadability of a modern, full-length chassis—and the style, safety and distinction of bodies by Fisher.

Yet, despite these fine car advantages, the Chevrolet Six is unusually economical. Its gas, oil, tire and upkeep economy is unsurpassed. And

County Farm Agent's Notes

ALABAMA PECAN GROWERS FACE FUTURE HOPEFULLY

Alabama pecan growers need no longer fear problems in marketing large crops, according to J. Lloyd Abbott of Spring Hill, Alabama, who has recently taken a leading part in organizing the National Pecan Marketing Organization with a capital stock of a half million dollars. Mr. Abbott's national reputation among pecan growers and his success with other pecan organizations is ample assurance of continued development or organized selling.

This national selling organization followed, after a recent meeting in Montgomery, at which 75 growers from representative southern and western states were present with representatives from the Federal Farm Board.

T. H. McHatton, president of the National Pecan Association, C. C. Teague, persident of the California Walnut and Fruit Growers Exchange, spoke as representatives of organizations selling a hundred and fifty millions worth of produce annually; C. S. Wilson, fruit growing representative of the Federal Farm Board, explained the working plan of the Board in detail, while other men of prominence were heard.

A large committee from the South with J. Lloyd Abbott of Spring Hill and J. A. Kernodle of Camp Hill representing Alabama, were appointed and later spent four days in Washington, working with various departments of the U. S. government in organizing details of the new selling organization. This committee found the same cordial degree of cooperation which had featured the general meeting in Montgomery.

Following this organization, Messrs Abbott and Kernodle returned from Washington filled with enthusiasm regarding the favorable beginning made by pecan growers. Pecan growers have realized for some time that they were facing a time of overproduction and unprofitable prices, unless means were taken to advertise, increase marketing outlets, and stabilize the market.

Since Alabama is the leading pecan state east of the Mississippi, this decision of Alabama leaders to join the big coopeartive organization is an indication of posperity of Alabama growers. With leading growers in Alabama and in the South on the committee, there is every assurance that the rights of individual growers will be safeguarded. The orgaizations from the different States have worked in entire harmony. The identity has been lost in the parent organization, but all are working in harmony for the common good in the new national pecan marketing association.

J. Lloyd Abbott of Spring Hill is vice president of the newly ogarnized national pecan marketing organization. Mr. Abbott is a member of the State Board of Agriculture; he has been secretary-treasurer of the national pecan association for the past ten years. He brings to this great organization a long career as a grower, experimenter and salesman.

Messrs. Abbott and Kernodle will soon hold a group meeting with representatives of Extension Service, Farm bureau, State Board of Agriculture, and district and county agents of pecan producing counties and make plans for a signup campaign in Alabama. It is hoped that H. G. Lucas, pesident of the national organization, and S. H. Gibbons, in charge of field work, will be present. Mr. Gibbons was formerly a member of the Auburn teaching staff, ad County Agent of Baldwin County.

Something like 17,500,000 acres of land that were formerly in cutivation in this country have been destroyed by gulleying, or so severely washed that the farmers cannot afford to attempt their cultivation or reclamation, according to the U. S. Bureau of Soils and Chemistry.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Some of the cotton harvested in Alabama this fall will be snapped instead of picked, predicts Prof. M. L. Nichols of the agricultural engineering department at Auburn. Investigation in DeKalb County shows, he said, that snapping and ginning cotton costs $17 per bale, while it costs $21.75 to pick and gin a bale.

A steady decline in the prevalence of bovine tuberculosis in the United States has taken place in the last few years as a result of the cooperative campaign to eradicate the infection, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports. The average infection among the cattle for the entire country, is now 1.7 per cent, whereas in 1922 it was 4 per cent. Alabama has made notable progress.

A new and promising fumigant which may prove to be more satisfactory than carbon disulphide is ethylene oxide, a material discovered in the course of the search for better fumigants conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Preliminary tests with this gas have been given more encouraging results in the fumigation of dried fruits. It appears to be more effective, pound for pound, than carbon disulphide, and apparently can be used with greater safety.

A total of about 122,957,000 people — just a few thousands under 123,000,000—probably will be shown as the population for the United States for 1930, when the final count is announced at Washington by W. M. Steuart, director of the census. The 1920 population was 105,710,620.

Prosperous farmers are not found on poor land. Austrian winter peas or hairy vetch planted in the fall will enrich the soil.

Lack of feed and tormenting flies is often the cause of a decided drop in milk flow in the summer.

Garbage that is to be fed to the hogs should be clean. Hogs do not like dish water and soap.

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS

The census buerau at Washington reports that the population of Alaska is now approximately 59,000 as against 55,036 ten years ago.

By a recent ruling of the Alabama Public Service Commission rural rates on hydo-electricity were lowered in Alabama. An official estimate is that it will save rural customers $27,000 annually.

Cotton leaf worms have appeared in at least nine of the counties of Alabama, and county agents are advising the farmers as to control measures. Entomologists at Auburn say that a big outbreak would result in serious damage to cotton.

Farmers in the Ohio and Mississippi are suffering heavy losses due to the severe drouth which has prevailed several weeks. Corn and wheat prices have advanced recently as a result of this drouth.

Press reports from Washington say that there will be a shift of 27 congssmen as a result of the 1930 census as based upon a law passed recently by congress. Alabama will lose one, while California will gain eight and Michigan four or five. States in every section of the country will be affected by the shift.

During the last year the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and its subsidary organizations did a cooperative business of buying and selling totalling $16,000,000, according to a report presented by President Edward A. O'Neal at the annual convention at Auburn. During the first nine years of its existance this organization did a cooperative business of $100,000,000.

BETTER COTTON SEED FOR ALABAMA IS AIM

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 12.—To have cotton seed of the best varieties for planting next spring, farmers in at least fifteen counties of Alabama will observe "gin days" this fall. It will be done under the direction of the county agents. J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, estimates that more than 40,000 bushels of one variety, D. P. L. 4-8, will be kept pure of planting.

Another variety to be included in "gin days" program is Cook 1627. This variety was developed by the Experiment Station of Auburn. A third variety to be included is Cook 307-6, which is wilt-resistant variety. It, too, was originally by the Auburn Experiment Station.

At each of these "gin days" only one variety will be ginned. Before any of this cotton goes into the hopper the gin will be cleaned thoroughly in order to keep the seed pure. As an extra precaution for pureness the seed of the first two or three bales ginned will either be sold to oil mills or classed as seconds for seeds.

Although this procedure calls for extra work returns from it will more than offset the handicap, Mr. Lowery said. It means that next year a much larger acreage of Alabama cotton will be of these leading varieties without the presence of inferior varieties. It means also that Alabama will be a step nearer to the production of cotton with staple which meets the requirments of spinners of Alabama and other States.

The aim is to replace varieties of inferior staples with varieties of the desired staple. These varieties produce the desired staple, and also produce larger yields per acre.

AUBURN SAYS

Afraid to Fish

Along the headwaters of the Orinoco river in Venezuela, a little known to white people, dwell a race of Indians whose religious beliefs make them fear to fish or eat the flesh of any animal. Believing that the souls of men enter beasts after death they are careful not to harm any lower creature superior in the biological scale to bugs, worms and ants. These they eat freely. These strange Indians were discovered by Dr. Herbert Dickey of New York while trying to find the sources of the Orinoco.—Exchange.

COOPERATIVE FORESTERS AID FARMERS

Montgomery, Ala., Aug, 12.— A working day averaging ten hours replete with difficult labor in behalf of the timberlands of the state proved the lot of the forestral agents during the first six months of the year according to the compilation of the records for the first half of the year just completed by the State Commission of Forestry.

During the period of the report sixty-four men were employed jointly by the United States and the State of Alabama in cooperation with the citizens in developing forest growth on lands which otherwise would remain chiefly idle. The ascertainable increase in the values of such lands amount to several millions of dollars annually over what would accrue without efforts, points out the Commission.

The Commission of Forestry is one of the few public agencies that requires a daily work report from each field employee showing exactly the kinds of work performed, the amount of time spent on each, where the empjloye went with whom he conferred, where he spent the night and other items indicating the character and value of his service. A sufficient number of individual reports are checked and investigated by inspectors to determine whether the employees is accurate in their preparation.

The sixty-four men engaged in cooperating with local citizens and communities served on an average of three months during the semi-annual period. A great variety of work was performed. Forest planting in cooperation with farmers consumed 2 per cent. of the time; conferences with landowners and other citizens on forestral matters occupiend 15 per cent.; posting signs and notices, 1 per cent; construction of permanent improvements, such as telephone lines, observation towers, firebreaks, roads and trails, 3 per cent; assisting citizens and landowners in forest fire suppression, 9 per cent; estimating damage and securing other data on forest fires, 8 per cent; clerical work, 5 per cent; Sunday and holiday time, 8 per cent; miscellaneous forestral activities, 15 per cent; while 34 per cent was consumed in travel about the various districts in connection with the main lines of work.

CHEVROLET PRODUCTION MAKES AN INCREASE

An increase of twenty per cent. in production of light delivery trucks during the first half of this year over the same period in 1929 was announced today by Sidney Corbett, manager of the commercial car division of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

This production increase Mr. Corbett attributed to the need of the light deliver ytrucks in federal, state municipal and utility construction projects now under way, and to the growing use of the light truck in rural sections. Farmers especially, are finding the light delivery an economical and necessary addition to farm equipment, he said, and the wide variety of body types available enables the user to choose the exact body for the work to be done.

While commercial car production is necessarily a minor part of the total output of the Chevrolet Motor Company, Mr. Corbett pointed out that it is accounting for a constant increasing production of years' output. The company first began building commercial cars in 1916, he stated, and since that date 1,169,000 units have been built, up to the middle of this year, or in the ratio of better than one commercial car to each six passenger cars.

NEW IDEAS FOR HOME LEARNED AT AUBURN

Auburn, Ala., August 12.—After studying the latest findings in clothing, cookery, nutrition, household economy, and home decoration during Farmers' week at Auburn more than 300 women from Alabama returned to their homes to make practical application of these new developments in conducting their households.

President Bradford Knapp of Auburn officially bestowed the mark of distinction on 151 farm women from 40 counties for qualities of leadership displayed in the improvement of Alabama homes.

Climaxing the program, the annual meeting of the Alabama council of Home Demonstration Clubs cocnvened to report on progress made for the past year and to project future lines of endeavor. Plans for 1931 include an even more extensive betterment campaign in all phases of rural life through the leadership of home demonstration clubs and agents.

Officers for the ensuing year are: Mrs. J. D. Giles, Dallas County, president; Mrs. W. F. Jeffers, Etowah, first vice-president; Mrs. Gordon DeRamus, Autauga, secretary; and Mrs. Sears Lee, Perry treasurer. Mrs. Wilbur Hull, Limestone was elected director of the first district to serve with Mrs. Hugh Tompkins, Bullock, second district; Mrs. Hugh Morton, Perry, district three.

DAIRYING

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.
—St. Louis, Mo.—

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-eight years of veterinary work. Eminent authority on diseases and raising of dairy cows other livestock and poultry. Nationally known lecturer, writer and author.

IT IS BLESSED TO GIVE AND RECEIVE

The Dairy Cow Contributes to the Profits of the Farm and at the Same time helps Maintain the value of the Land.

A friends of mine who traveled abroad this summer was struck by two observations he made while motoring through Bavaria in southern Germany. Houses and barns were built together under one roof. The very finest country homes were erected in that way so that it was not a matter of economy. The other thing that impressed him was the value placed upon fertilizer. Out in the front yards, alongside the highways, one would see the carefully stacked piles of manure, guarded and cared for as if it were so much grain.

This leads us to one of the most important benefits of dairying—its relation to the fertility of the soil.

The history of farming shows that the raising of grain is always the first development. It is true the discoverers of this country brought some cattle with them. But it was two hundred years after the coming of Columbus that we began to think seriously of the dairy cow. Then we decided to import a few improved breeds from Europe where dairying was already an outstanding industry.

The year 1850 is given by most writers as the date when dairying in this country really came into its own. About that time we inaugurated milk trains, which furnished the city with milk from distant points. It is said the first cheese factory was established in New York in 1851. Condensed milk was discovered in 1856. There followed in order the cream separator, which revolutionized the dairy industry, the Babcock test, cold storage, the formation of dairy associations, instructions in agricultural colleges, studies of nutrite values in milk, and the present era of improved herds and greater production.

But the raising of grain crops has always been the mainstay of the American farmer. The inevitable result is a decline in the fertility of the soil. The grounh must contain nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium in proper quantities to be productive. Those chemical elements are removed when grain is harvested and sold. They must be returned to the soil in the form of fertilizer. For instance, if we replace the chemicals that a bushel of wheat takes away with it, we spend about 27 cents for fertilizer. A bushel of corn robs the soil of about 23 cents worth of fertilizer.

Dairy products, on the other hand, take little from the fertility of the farm and the herds return in the form of manure the most valuable form of fertilizer we have.

It is estimated that the value of fertilizer produced by an average dairy cow in a year's time is equal to about $28.00 in commercial fertilizer. If proper methods are employed, 80 per cent of the quantity of fertilizing element from farm animals can be saved and used.

An indirect benefit that comes from the dairy herd is the fact its presence on the farm influences the yearly plan for crops. In grain raising, rotation of crops is necessary. Hay and silage which can be fed to the cattle, and which take their place in the cycle of crops, naturally are welcome.

It seems to me that in this article and the one preceeding it I have established a pretty good case for the farmer who includes the dairy cow in his program. First of all, milk is an essential food in our diet. Secondly, skim milk is the best food there is for poultry and hogs, also the diary cow is a cheap producer of food, excelling the hen and the pig in this respect. And as I have attempted to demonstrate in the above, the dairy cow contributes very materially to the fertility of the farm land. When we have learned the value of natural fertilizer as the European farmer has learned it, we will place dairying in its proper place throughout agriculture.

MR. WALLACE FOX GIVEN PARTY

Mr. Wallace Fox came home on the 13th day of July to spend a few days with his father and mother, and other relatives and friends. On July 18th his father and mother gave him a party. Those who attended it was his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bone and family, Mrs. W. L. Roper and little daughter, Madolene, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bray, Miss Gussie Ratcliff, Mrs. Martha Large, Mr. Tom Fox, Mr. Harry Fox and James Ware.

Late in the afternoon ice cream and water melon weer served. It was an enjoyable day for us all, and on July 26 he left for Detroit, where he is an inspector of the Ford factory.—Mrs. Julia E. Fox.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Listen folks, are we going to sit at home and see our Sunday school go dead? Why not go to Sunday school and make ours one of the best there is. We would be glad to have several more present next Sunday it is our regular preaching day, and we hope to see a large crowd out.

Miss Gracie Giles returned home Sunday, after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. A. J. Jackson and Ms. J. W. Baker, of Talladega.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jackson and Mrs. Allie Jackson of Talladega spent Sunday with Mr .and Mrs. L. S. Giles.

Mr. and Mrs. Tray Henderson of Siluria is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abb Retherford.

Miss Maude Retherford and Miss Gladys Dobbs spent Sunday afternoon with Misses Mary and Gracie Giles.

Misses Laura and Maggie Martin are visiting their sister, Mrs. Lonnie Gore of Shelby this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Zed Robinson of Gorgas spent a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Giles.

Messrs. Dayton and Theseus Ashcraft are visiting friends in Sylacauga this week.

Mr. Oscar Robinson from Los Angeles, California, is visiting his sister, Mrs. L. S. Giles.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Taylor of Clanton spent Saturday night with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wash Heflin.

Miss Louise Giles of Clanton spent the week end with Misses Lurla and Lola Vinzant.

Mrs. J. L. Peters spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Grover Bolton of Mt. Zion.

Mr. Ulmer Ashcraft returned Sunday after spending two weeks with friends in Hollins.

Listen folks, let's have a short vacation and come back to Sunday school: You are always welcome to Mineral Springs and feel at home. Don't forget Saturday night and Sunday are regular preaching days at this place.

WEST CHILTON

Still sweltering in the heat of the August sun.

Prof. Cofer's music school at Freeman closed Saturday; the school was quite a success.

Business looks good at John S. Waldrop's, with store well supplied with clerks, the grist mill going, a good crop in sight, customers coming in.

C. C. Crumpton of Free Springs was here last week. He was truly a welcome visitor; born and raised in West Chilton. He knows this section from anti-bellum days until the present.

Presuming everything was fair and honest in the election Tuesday, all will be for the nominees regardless of their preferences. Hoping the spirit of success will overshadow all selfishness and prejudice.

Fifty years ago (1880) was a campaign year in this county. Hon. Wm. A. Collier, one of Clanton's original attorneys, was in the race for the Legislature, and was elected at the August election. His opponent, we think, was D. Wirse. No primary election then, no waiting util November; no paper in which to make announcements. Every man ran that wished to, independent of parties. The candidates then did their convassing on horse-back—no auto even thought of. But how will it be fifty years hence?

Rev. G. W. Fereman of Randolph preached at Macedonia Sunday. The pastor was called off to a funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sorrell of Montevallo were visiting here Saturday.

Miss Bevie Smith returned to Birmingham Monday.

Had a nice shower Sunday afternoon.

B. C. Forbes, writing in the Hearst papers, says: "Canada, our best customer is incensed over our new tariff. They call it a sky-scraping tariff. Americans are being rather too liberally fed with editorial tripe of this brand. Official figures show that under her present tariff Canada collects in tariffs $22.65 per capita, as against American tariff collections of $5.17 per capita under the new tariff law, and that under our new tariff we will collect in tariff 15.43 per cent of our import values while Canada wil lcollect 15.84 per cent of her import values, despite a 20 per cent preference on goods imported from the United States as compared with the tariffs charged on American imports. In other words Canada has a higher tariff than onr ne wtariff and calls our tariff an outrage. The idea that it is such being chiefly disseminated by American journalists and politicians. If the new American tariff is a "sky-scraper," what about the higher Canadian tariff which existed when our new tariff law was passed? Americans who have been trying by misrepresentations to incite foreign nations with higher tariffs than our own to "retaliatory" action against the United States, might be more usefully employed.

Mr. Ralph Jones of Birmingham was visitor to Clanton last week.

PLEASANT VALLEY

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. We had good attendance Sunday, and hope the interest will continue. Visitors are welcome at all times .

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon, and with the help of our visitors, we did some real good singing. Directors were: H. F. Burkhalter, Elmer Prickett, Joel Prickett, P. H. Headley, Riley and Dennis Culpepper, Marshall Burkhalter, C. M. Billingsley and J. M. Williams. Organists were Mrs. J. M. Williams, Mrs. C. M. Billingsley and Dennis Culpepper.

We were glad indeed to see so many visitors out. We had visitors from Floyd, East View and other places. We can't find words to exprss our apprciation of their presence and help. We take this means of thanking you, and invite you to come back evey second Sunday afternoon.

You will always find a welcome awaiting you at Pleasant Valley. Remember the time—every second Sunday afternoon.

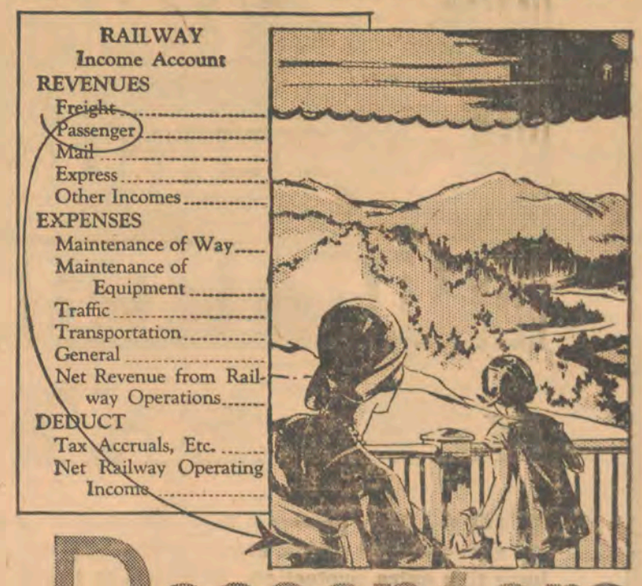
MR. POWERS HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Powers delightfully entertained a number of their friends at their home at Lay Dam last Friday night, in celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mr. Powers.

For the birthday dinner a long table was set on the lawn of the lovely home, where the guests enjoyed a most delightful repast. As all were seated around the table, Mr. L. F. Gerald arose, advanced to where Mr. Powers was seated at the head of the table, and presented him with two lovely gifts, one from the employees of Lay Dam, and the other from the other invited guests. The speech of presentation was characteristic of the wit and humor of Mr. Gerald, and evinced an uproar of cheers from the jolly gathering of friends. Mr. Powers responded in a short speech expressing his thanks for the kind attentions of his friends.



Tables for bridge were arranged on the lawn under a mellow glow of electric lights suspended from the overhanging trees and shrubbery. Soon after the bridge games had started it began to rain. But the interruption was for only a few minutes. The host and hostess soon had everything removed to the club house nearby, and the fun went right on in spite of the interference of the rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers are among the most delightful entertainers. Their lovely home at Lay Dam is a gem of beauty, set in a cluster of surroundings, the charm of which is impossible to express in words.

All departed with the expression of good wishes to Mr. Powers, and the hope that he may see many happy returns of his birthday.

THE OLD RELIABLE L&N (LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.)

AN ILLUSTRATED INCOME ACCOUNT

Passengers

Here's what real passenger service means: A father placed his wife and child on "The Pan-American" of the Louisville & Nashville R.R. They were going to New Orleans to visit the wife's mother. The father had a comfortable feeling regarding their safety. Not a single passenger's life has been lost in twelve years in a train accident on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad. He knew that his wife and daughter would be well cared for. There was a ladies' lounge room, an observation car, a radio. The mother and child went comfortably about the train as if they were at home. Attendants were courteous and solicitous of their welfare. During the trip, the mother had her hair dressed by the maid on the train. Both the mother and child had their accustomed shower in the morning. They left the train rested, refreshed.

On the income account of the railroad, this event was recorded by a small figure under Passenger Revenues. But how much more it meant to the railroad than this is indicated by the elaborate preparations made for the event; by the millions spent for cars, locomotives, proper maintenance, wages, safety, and comfort.

To provide safety and comfort, to pay employes, to contribute to prosperity, railroads must receive their share of revenues and must not be over-burdened with taxes.

Fair Enough

One night, in pouring rain, two men who had quarreled turned out to settle their differences.

They fought until one got the other on his back and held him there.

"Will you give up?" he asked, and the reply was, "No," so the man on his back was kept pinned to the ground.

After a time the question was repeated, but again the reply was "No."

"Then," said the other, "will you get on top for a bit and let me get under? I'm getting wet through."

Marvel of Nature

Perhaps nothing in all nature is so marvelous as the migrating instinct which takes hold of most species of New England birds twice a year, guides them thousands of miles over land and sea and then months later brings them back again—often to the very nest in which they were hatched. Humming birds, so tiny and fragile in appearance that they hardly seem real, fly all the way from Massachusetts to Central America. Remember that three inches is a fair length for a humming bird.

Famous Cave

St. Michael's cave on the Rock of Gibraltar, about 1,100 feet above sea level at its mouth, slopes rapidly down and extends more than 400 feet into the rock. Its extreme limits, however, have not been fully explored. It consists of a series of five or more chambers of considerable extent connected by narrow and crooked passages. The outermost cave is 70 feet in height and 200 feet in length, with massive pillars of stalactite reaching from roof to floor.

WAS 56 YEARS OLD SUNDAY

Herbert C. Hoover

Although his physician says that he is in better shape physically than when inaugurated, the friends of President Hoover who have seen him recently after an absence of months have commented upon the new lines traced in his face and the white hair above his temples where only gray was visible when he entered the White House.

Trees Change "Voices" With Changing Seasons

It may not be generally known, but it is perfectly true that it is quite possible to recognize trees by their voices, though not, of course, so simple a matter as that of identifying birds. In summer, the sounds are produced by the leaves rubbing against each other, and trees with small leaves, like the birch, for instance, speak in much more rapid tones than do the large-leaved chestnuts.

Like the cuckoo, trees change their notes with the seasons. A dry leaf produces a different sound from a soft one. Tennyson mentions the "dry-toned laurels' pattering talk." In autumn all trees have drier leaves than in spring. In winter trees talk through their twigs. Thick branches produce lower notes than thin ones, as Professor Humphreys has pointed out, and when the branches vary in size the range of notes is correspondingly greater. Hence the muffled plaint of the oak and the sibilant sigh of the pines. The murmur of the forest is really the whisperings of innumerable voices, each with its own distinctive character, blended into one current of sound.

Testify to Ingenuity of German Clockmakers

The most famous small clock in Germany is that known as the "Schnapphans" in Jena's rathaus. Just before the hour strikes, an angel rings a small bell while a saint on the other side of the face reaches an apple on the end of his staff toward the devil, whose head just shows beneath the feet of the saint and the angel. As the devil opens his mouth, the wary saint draws the apple back and the devil must wait another hour before trying again for the tempting morsel.

A skeleton nods its head solemnly and turns an hour-glass when the hour strikes at Ochsenfurt on the Main, while at the same time the figure of a long dead burgomaster with a long white beard opens and closes his mouth several times. Two windows above the burgomaster's head fly open and two city fathers lean out to listen to the words the burgomaster has been pondering for an hour. A third window springs open revealing a maiden who points proudly to the coat of arms of the city. The clock was built in 1505. —New York Times Magazines.

Pharmacy a Profession

Pharmacy is essentially a field of science with the art of compounding and dispensing drugs as its important function. Pharmacy is, however, also a profession; as such it is closely associated with the medical profession in the responsible duties of dispensing the agents used in curing disease. It requires integrity, a special knowledge and skill, and is practiced in accordance with a code of ethics accepted by the organized members of the profession. The practice is regulated by the state; the pharmacist is registered by a state board especially appointed for that purpose. The situation in pharmacy today is similar to that in medicine 15 years ago with too many ill trained and unqualified practitioners and too few who are well trained and highly qualified.

Important Malay State

Kuala Lumpur is the largest town of Selangor, one of the Federated Malay states, lying south of Perak on the west coast of the Malay peninsula. The area of the entire state is about 3,500 square miles. Coffee, pepper, gambier and india rubber are included among the agricultural products. The state is particularly rich in tin. Trade is quite extensive and is facilitated by 100 miles of railways. The bulk of the population is composed of immigrants, Chinese and Hindus coming and going in great numbers.

REVIVAL AT MAPLE SPRINGS

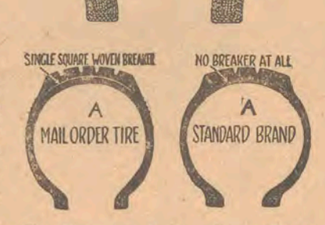
The Union-Banner has been requested to announce that the summer revival will begin at Maple Springs Church next Sunday, August 17th. Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby will do the preaching. People of all the neighboring communities have a cordial invitation to attend and worship with the Maple Springs folks.

8 plies under the Tread

Here is EXTRA SAFETY!

FOR the high powered, high speed cars of today, with needed quick starts and stops, you should have this extra protection. Just look at the inside of this Firestone Anchor Super Heavy Duty Tire. There are eight plies of cords under the all Non-Skid, Center Traction Tread. It is a big—tough—strong tire—a construction that insures against punctures and blowouts.

Come In and See for Yourself!



We have cut up various brands of tires, so that you can see the inside construction. Come in and make these comparisons, section for section, and you will readily see the superiority of Firestone.

We sell and service the complete line of Firestone Tires, Tubes, Batteries, Rims, Brake Lining and Accessories, and actually give you greater values.

DOUBLE GUARANTEE

Every tire Firestone manufactures bears the name "FIRESTONE", and every tire we sell carries the Firestone Unlimited Guarantee and ours. You are doubly protected—absolutely assured every dollar you spend buys real quality and satisfaction. We guarantee that you will get all the miles out of your tires that have been built in by Firestone.

The Firestone Anchor Super Heavy Duty Balloon has a double cord breaker—8 plies under the tread. Some other makes have no breaker at all and some a single breaker made with old-fashioned, square woven fabric that Firestone discarded when they developed the balloon tire.

SAFETY . . . Everyone Should Have
PRICES . . . Everyone Can Afford to Pay

WE HAVE JOINED with Firestone's Co-operative Plan to give you lower prices and plus values by reducing operating costs, and with volume business on a small margin of profit we are able to make you these substantial savings.

REPORT FROM OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS FOR FOURTH WEEK

According to the report of Prof. H. A. Harris, the negro opportunity schools in Chilton County are running ahead of the white schools in matters of enrollment and average attendance. His report for the fourth week shows 366 enrolled in the negro schools, and only 260 in thirteen white schools. The average attendance in the negro schools was 271 each day for the fourth week, and only 202 each day in the white schools.

The following tabulation shows the figures for each of the schools. The first column of figures is enrollment and the second column is the average daily attendance.

CHURCH OF THE FOURSQUARE GOSPEL

The Foursquare Gospel revival which has been in progress for the past two weeks, first in the Foursquare Church and then at the courthouse, has closed and the activities of the church will be carried on as usual at the church building at the east end of Second Avenue. We invite all who attended our revival and have no church home to come and be with us in our regular services.

Evangelist Dailey is a fearless man of God and a forceful speaker. Both the attendance and the attention was good. Ten persons came forward confessing their faith in Jesus Christ. We hope to have Bro. Dailey with his large Gospel tent equipment with us again sometime in the late fall.

Following is the program for this week end:

Children's Church Saturday, 2 p.m.
Choir practice, Saturday, 3 p. m.
Sunday School, Sunday 10 a.m.
Morning worship, Sunday, 11 a.m.
Crusaders meeting, Sunday, 7:30 p.m.
Evangelist message, Sunday, 8 p.m.
Sermon subject: "Sirs, we would see Jesus."
Bible study every Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Baker of Tarrant City, Alabama, Mrs. J. L. Bennett of Atlanta, Georgia, and Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Marcus of Kennedy, Alabama, visited friends and relatives in and around Clanton Sunday.

Favorite Recipes of a Famous Chef

as Told to Anne Baker
By LOUIS DIAT, Chef,
The Ritz Carlton, New York

Potage St. Germain and Creme Washington offer a soup and a vegetable dish with just enough of the French touch to make them a bit more than an acceptable addition to the family menu. Here is the way Mr. Diat prepares them.

Louis Diat

Potage Saint Germain—Wash well and soak for several hours one cup of split dried peas. Drain and plunge them into boiling salted water for twenty minutes. Chop coarsely one leek, one onion, and two carrots. Brown them in two tablespoons of butter. Drain the peas and add them to the chopped raw vegetables. Shred and add three green lettuce leaves. Pour over this four cups of white stock, which is made from veal or chicken. Cook slowly for one hour. Rub through a strainer one cup of fresh green peas which have been boiled in salted and slightly sweetened water for twenty-five minutes. Add this puree to the potage. Pass the whole through a tammy, or very fine sieve. Reheat. Just before serving add one teaspoon of melted butter, two tablespoons of thin cream and two teaspoons of sugar. Serve with small croutons fried in butter, or buttered and browned in the oven.

Creme Washington (Corn Cream)—4 portions—Melt two tablespoons of butter and stir in two tablespoons of rice flour or cornstarch. Add slowly one can of corn. Stir carefully while it comes to a boil. Pass through a tammy or fine wire sieve. Add one cup of milk and reheat. Just before serving add one teaspoon of sugar and three tablespoons of heavy cream.

TWO MILLION CHEVROLET SIXES

Flint, Mich., Aug 11.—Another automotive record toppled here on Thursday when the Chevrolet Motor Company turned out its two millionth six cylinder car less than twenty full months after the introduction of this type.

Just as Chevrolet led the world in four cylinder car production during the last two years that the company built that type, so now it assumes leadership in the six cylinder field by having built nearly five times as many sixes in twenty months as any other manufacturer in the history of the industry.

The two millionth six—a coach—rolled off the line here with Chevrolet and General Motors executives in attendance to witness the final assembly of the car, for which no further ceremonies were planned.

The brief time required by Chevrolet to build two million sixes provides an index of the rapid strides made by this organization to the front rank of volume car builders. The company was organized late in 1911, and there were required nearly seventeen years to turn out five million of the old four cylinder cars, while two million sixes have been placed on the streets and highways of the world since January 1, 1929, or in a total time of only nineteen months and one week.

Commenting on the manufacture of the two millionth six, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, stated that the fact of establishing a new record was significant mainly in that it indicated a definite public preference for the performance and luxury which a six affords in the low priced field.

"We abandoned our position as the world's largest builder of four cylinder cars," Mr. Knudsen explained, "be cause the volume we had built up coupled with the tremendous purchasing power of General Motors, enabled us to put two extra cylinders in our cars and yet retain the price and operating economy of the old four cylinder car.

"Today the coach, one of the most popular models in the line, is priced twenty dollars lower than the four cylinder coach was ever sold. The experience of two millions of owners are that gas and other operating and upkeep expenses are as low as any standard four cylinder car. The quick public acceptance of this fact, and the gratifying response to the new type, made possible our new production record."

Total output of the Chevrolet Motor Company to date is approximately 7,200,000 cars.

NEW ADMISSION RATES IN EFFECT AT WADESONIAN

Considering the kind of entertainment the management of the Wadesonian Theatre has been giving Clanton, these prices make the local picture house compare favorably with like institutions in other towns.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

NEW HARMONY—PLEASANT GROVE

Sunday, August 3rd marked the seventy-second mile stone in the life of Eugene Jackson of this community. And in honor of same, several friends and relatives gathered to celebrate, and make him enjoy the day. Some brought ice and lemons, others sugar and extract, others brought cakes and every thing else good to eat, and we had watermelon and cantelope during the day.

Although several were not there that he specially looked for (and they sure did miss something by their absence) it seemed that those present sure enjoyed the occasion.

Those present were Willie Jackson; Roscoe, Etta, John Will, Francis and Junior Rawlinson; Lester, Ollie, (Jackson) Rosalie and Master Raymond Coody; Lloyd, Sarah, Annileah and Raymond Bates; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Jackson.

In the afternoon W. J. Headley, Harmon Culp, Reedy Culp and Rowland Culp.

BETHSALEM SUNDAY SCHOOL

Our Sunday School was called to order last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with a large crowd.

Every one seems to be growing stronger toward coming to Sunday School, and we are glad to see so many present, and you are welcome to come every Sunday.

We had several good talks by the parents last Sunday on "How to keep the Sabbath Holy."

Remember next Saturday and Sunday night is our preaching days. Every one is specially invited to come and be with us.

Our Sunday School will be at nine-thirty o'clock next Sunday morning. Every body come and be with us. We are expecting a good Sunday School.

This Woman In Four Weeks Lost Nineteen Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewiston, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana, paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts.

I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 pounds and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 pounds. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends, in fact, have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at Alred Drug Company, or any drug-store in America.

LEAF WORMS FOUND ON ALABAMA COTTON

Auburn, Ala., Aug 11.—Danger is foreseen by Prof. J. M. Robinson and W. A. Ruffin, entomologists of the College of Agriculture at Auburn, in the appearance of the cotton leaf worm in at least nine counties in Alabama. Marshall and Perry were the first to report an outbreak of this well-known cotton enemy. Other counties reporting are Colbert, Madison, Morgan, Monroe, Talladega, Fayette, and Pickens. They may be found in most counties of the State before the end of August.

Several weeks ago a warning was issued by Auburn that these insects were enroute to Alabama because outbreaks were reported in Texas. Knowing their habits and their rate of travel, Prof. Robinson and Mr. Ruffin made this prediction.

Where these worms appear in large numbers they defoliate cotton. They are gourmands. It is not unusual for them to consume the foliage within two or three days.

"Fortunately," said Prof. Robinson and Mr. Ruffin, "control measures are effective and inexpensive. Where dust guns are used calcium arsenate should be applied at the rate of 8 to 10 pounds per acre. If the 'pole and bag' method is used one pound of calcium arsenate should be mixed with four parts of hydrated lime and the mixture applied at the rate of 12 to 14 pounds per acre. If the first application does not stop them a second should be made. Ordinarily one good application is sufficient."

It is suggested that farmers keep in touch with their county agents who will advise them concerning control measures.

Pottery of Roman Era Discovered in London

Pottery made by the Romans in the Second century has been recently unearthed during some excavations made in London's business district, in the heart of the old city. A layer of ashes was found by the workmen, who, digging deeper, discovered the earthenware articles which had evidently fallen there during a fire.

The pottery, which bears the marks of burning, has in many cases the names of the makers stamped on the various specimens. One has the name "Putrius," whose kilns are known to have been in Gaul during the reigns of the Emperors Trajan and Hadrian. Other potters identified by experts are Albucius, Dagomarus, Avitus, Biragellus, Reginus and Ioenalis. All of them were living and working in the Second century of the Christian era. Many potsherds, some of the First century, have been found in the north of England. Most of the pottery has been acquired for exhibition in the Guildhall museum of the city of London.—New York Times Magazine.

No Dinner Bell Needed to Summon Hungry Bees

Bees don't carry wrist watches and they don't have any alarm clocks in their hives, but they are always on time for meals just the same. Not only that, but they quickly learn of changes in feeding time and adjust their schedules accordingly.

The time sense of bees has been investigated by I. Beling of Berlin-Dahlem, Germany, who has reported his results to the scientific journal Die Naturwissenschaften. He set out saucers of sugar water at a given hour of the day. In a couple of days the bees knew when to expect the "handout," and turned up on time, or even a little before time. They kept it up even when he stopped offering free food.

Then he changed the hour and also increased the number of feedings to two, and in some experiments to three. The bees quickly learned the new schedule and turned up expectantly at the right time.—Kansas City Star's Science Service.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank the good people of our community for their kindness shown to us during the illness of my wife and our mother. We especially thank Dr. Wood and Mr. Samuel Martin for their kindness shown to us in carrying our mother to the Woodlawn Hospital, where she underwent a very serious operation.

By the help of our Lord she is improving nicely. We also want to thank the nurses and Dr. Wallace for their kindness shown to her during the time she was there. May the blessing of God rest upon each and every one of them, is our prayer.—Jasper Turner and children.

Lesson for August 17

SAUL, A MAN OF GREAT POSSIBILITIES WHO FAILED

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 9:15-17, 25-27; 10:1; 19:9-11; 31:1-4.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A King That Disobeyed.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A King Who Failed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Avoid Failure.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Profit from Failure.

The sad failure of Saul should be a warning to every young man. Few men in history had greater advantages.

I. Saul's Advantages.

1. A worthy inheritance (9:1).

His father was "a mighty man of power." One's inheritance is a strong factor in determining his success or failure in life.

2. His natural gifts (9:2).

He was a "choice young man."

(1) He was humble (10:22).

When facing the responsibility of national leadership, he hid himself.

(2) He was considerate of his father (9:5).

Not being successful in the mission committed unto him by his father and thinking that his father would be concerned about him, he proposed to go back.

(3) The grace of God was upon him (10:5-7).

God visited him with his grace to enable him to see the divine choice.

(4) The Holy Spirit came upon him (10:10).

Acceptable service can be rendered only in the energy of the Holy Spirit.

(5) He was zealous for God (11:4-15).

As the leader of his people, he performed service because of his zeal for God.

3. The friendship of Samuel (15:35).

So strong was Samuel's attachment for Saul that he greatly mourned his death.

II. Saul Made King (I Sam. 8-10).

1. The demand of the people (8:1-22).

The reason for this demand was threefold:

(1) Samuel was incapacitated by old age (v. 5).

(2) His sons were unfaithful (v. 5).

Samuel, though a good man, greatly blundered in the appointment of his sons as judges of Israel.

(3) Desire to be like other nations (v. 5).

The surrounding nations had strong leaders as rulers. Therefore, it was but natural that the Israelites should desire such leadership. Samuel protested against their action and took the matter to the Lord in prayer. The Lord directed him to point out to the people the meaning of their action.

2. Saul chosen to be king (9:1-11).

While Saul was on an errand for his father Samuel found him and anointed him. (I Sam. 10:1-16). In due time the divine choice was confirmed by the people at Mizpeh.

3. Saul displays leadership (I Sam. 11).

He displayed his military genius in effecting a great victory at Jabez over the Ammonites.

III. Saul's Failure (ch. 15).

1. The command to Saul (vv. 1-3).

He was commanded utterly to destroy the Amalekites. The reason assigned was their evil treatment of Israel after they came out of Egypt (Ex. 17:8; Deut. 25:17).

2. Saul's disobedience (vv. 4-9).

The command was only partially carried out. Agag, the king, was spared and the best of the goods appropriated.

3. Saul rejected by God (vv. 10-25).

(1) Samuel cried to God (v. 11).

The news of this disgraceful affair greatly disturbed Samuel, moving him to pray to God day and night.

(2) Saul's hypocritical pretense (vv. 15, 16).

This pretense carried a lie upon its face.

(3) Samuel rehearses before Saul God's dealing with him (vv. 17-23).

God is more concerned with having his commands obeyed than he is to have sacrifices offered unto him.

IV. The Divine Judgment Falls (15:26-35).

1. The loss of his kingdom.

For the presumptuous offering of sacrifice the dynasty passed from Saul's house.

2. Under control of the evil spirit (19:9-11).

When allegiance to God is refused Satan takes control.

3. His shameful death (31:1-4).

Samuel forsook him, leaving him alone to suffer in disgrace.

What Mortal Man Can Do

But what can mortal man do to secure his own salvation? Mortal man can do just what God bids him do. He can repent and believe. He can arise and follow Christ as Matthew did.—W. Gladden.

THE "HOT WELL" OF CLANTON

Editor The Birmingham News:

Your "Views and Interviews" column recently carried a paragraph descriptive of a flowing well near Clanton.

This reference brought memories of a "well story" from Clanton which was published in Birmingham papers 48 years ago, when Asa Rountree was correspondent from Hartselle and the writer represented Jasper.

The story told of a hot well at Clanton and attracted much attention. It was rumored that many visitors were attracted to the community by a report that the water was being analyzed in the hope that it contained curative qualities. It developed that a man operating a sawmill extended a pipe from his boiler and concealed it underground and it entered the well.

The hoax was a decided success temporarily, but, like all movements of its kind, its life was of short duration.—J. H. Cranford, Jasper, Ala., Aug. 7.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Don't forget that next Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching times, and we want to see a large crowd out. We want to see a large crowd at Sunday School, and if we are going to have B. Y. P. U., let us all meet next Sunday night. We want to see all the members there.

MARS HILL

There will be an all day singing at Mars Hill the fourth Sunday in this month, August, in the new book. We invite all singers to come and be with us. We will expect the Clanton quartet band and all other singers to come and be with us. We are expecting some good singers from another county to be with us.

UNION GROVE

The United Singing Society met at this place Sunday afternoon and had a very good singing, considering it being the first time the society had met here in three or four months. The society will meet at regular singing places hereafter unless we are notified through the paper.

The singing was opened by the president, Mr. Akins Collins. Directors for the afternoon were: E. L. Glasscock, J. B. Hammonds, N. A. Smith, A. H. Glasscock and Prof. Appleton.

Organists were: Mrs. Belle Dorminey, Prof. J. B. Hammonds and little daughter, also Mrs. Akins Collins and Miss Gwyeulla Collins.

The society meets with Collins Chapel next Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. M. Potts has been seriously ill this week. She suffered a stroke of paralysis last Sunday. She was some better Tuesday afternoon. Her brother, Mr. Reinhart, plans to take her with him to Cullman as soon as she is able to make the trip.

Miss Lorene Pyron of near Deatsville, Ala., spent last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winford Jackson.

Mr. Joe Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Winford Jackson spent last weekend in Birmingham visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Burks.

ANTI-AMERICAN INTRNATIONALISM

Internationalists have educated American public opinion against just American interests until there is a complete lack of comprehension of the lengths to which European nations, especially, go in handicapping American trade, in addition to tariffs which are on the average as high as our own.

One of these systems of discrimination is the quota or contingent system, which has been applied to important American products, cuch as motor cars and moving pictures. For instance, Austria permits only seventy American motor cars to enter that country of nine million people each year.

France and Germany had led in the application of the quota or contingent system as applied to American imports. Two years ago France tried to apply what amounted to an embargo on American motion pictures, preferred in that country because of their greater popular approval. Only when exhibitors and patrons rose in rebellion and the American companies prepared to shut up shop and discharge several thousand employees was this scheme moderated.

Berlin dispatches tell of the plans of the German government to reduce the importation of foreign moving pictures to 120 a year. This is only the culmination of a long period of growing restriction.

Suppose the United States government were to attempt to limit the number of German vessels that could enter our ports in any one year, or put into effect that for every European book or work of art shipped into America an American book or work of art should be purchased by Europe. What caterwaulings would arise from our internationalists!

The rest of the world can go as far as it likes in hamstringing American business and not a protest arises from the United States. But let the United States take a step to protect American industry and what a chorus of protest arises.

The truth is beginning however, to sink in on this country that we have been so very busy looking after the rest of the world that some need has arisen to look after domestic intertsts.

The fellow who believes that there can be no Red menace to America is probably related to the fellow who thought last summer that the stock market couldn't ever crash again.

Wholesale sugar prices are now at the lowest point known in this country for one hundred years. Page the politicians and journalists who were declaring a few weeks ago that the new tariff law would place intolerable burdens on the housewife's market basket.

NEHI BOTTLING COMPANY GETS GRADE "A" RATING

Under the system of supervision of bottling plants which is carried out by the Alabama State Board of Health, the Nehi Bottling plant at Clanton has been thoroughly inspected by a representative of the Board of Health, and has been designated as a grade "A" plant. The inspection of bottling plants is made at intervals of three months, and the purpose of the inspection is that the Board of Health may constantly supervise the sanitary conditions at bottling plants, in order to guarantee to the public a product that is in keeping with the highest standards of sanitation.

The friends of Mr. White throughout this territory are congratulating him on the fact that his plant has been given a grade "A" rating. Mr. White has done much to improve his plant and his business, and the grading that has been give his place by the Board of Health is the best evidence of the success he has attained.

Following is a story that comes to us from the State Board of Health, which is intended to give to the public the correct understanding of the manner in whcih the Health department is seeking to guard the public health in the matter of supervising the great volume of cold drinks which are made and sold in Alabama:

All merchandising experience seems to point to the fact that the American public, other factors being equal, prefers and buys the produce of the higher quality. This holds true of wearing apparel, cars, jewelry, and even food. At the same time, however, most buyers take much for granted, apparently assuming that all advertising slogans are as true and dependable as gospel. Many foods, although advertised to be made in light, airy, and completely sanitary establishments do not entirely measure up to this degree of quality. This is especially true of foods, sold under nationally advertised brands, which are made in local establishments. In this circumstance the individual manufacturer who wishes deliberately to take advantage of the public may slight the fundamentals of sanitation in his establishment, yet sell his goods under the guarantees of quality appearing in the national advertising. Health departments cannot be in attendance at all establishments while foodstuffs are being prepared; as a consequence some foods are sometimes prepared under rather insanitary conditions.

The Alabama Bottlers' Association at its meeting in January, 1929, realized that the foregoing facts were particularly true of bottled beverages, and authorized a committee to meet with representatives of the State Health Departmnt to formulate rules and regulations providing for the grading of bottling plants by an unbiased agency (the State Health Departmen), and the display of grade placards on every truck or other vehicle used for transporting bottled beverages in the State. By this means store operators who sell bottled drinks might know when a truck delivers their order the sanitary grade of the plant in which the drinks were made. The consuming public might also know which plants were making sanitary products, and those which were not.

Such regulations were formulated, and adopted by the State Committee of Public Health in January, 1930, and the intervening period has been spent by the inspectors of the State Health Department, assisted by the county health departments, in improving and grading the 120 bottling plants in this state, and 26 plants in adjacent states which sell and deliver their products in Alabama. All the plants have been graded, and the grade placards must appear on the delivery vehicles on August 1. These grade placards consist of heavily enameled metel, 12 inches by 18 inches, with the legend:

Grade A
Beverages

Alabama State
Health Department

The Grade A placards have a crimson background, with white letters; the Grade B placards have a blue background with white letters; the Grade C placards have orange letters on a green background; and the Grade D Placards have black letters on a yellow background.

The bottlers are enthusiastic about the new system of inspection and grading, for they feel that it places the sanitary merits of every plant before the public. The inspectors have been strict in their grading, and no plant has obtained a Grade A rating until every item of the regulations had been fully complied with.

Following is a list of the plants in Chilton County, and their grades: Nehi Bottling Company, Clanton, Grade A.

A CITY OUT OF DEBT

(Indianapolis News)

Approximately $64,000 in bonded indebtedness, all that is outstanding against the southern Indiana city of Washington, is soon to be paid. As a result, it is announced by Mayor McCarty, the municipal tax rate probably will be reduced from $1.12 to 56 cents on each $100 in property. The program serves to direct notice to the very considerable part interest on debts owed by a community may enter into revenue demands. In this case, obviously, the carrying charge on a comparatively small obligation does not account for all of the difference between the existing tax level and the one that is contemplated. Good civic management in other directions was necessary to bring about the opportunity for so considerable a reduction. Nevertheless, the necessity of putting money into sinking funds to retire bonds as well as to provide a net financial return to their owners, was an item in the situation. Moreover, in the conduct of many municipalities, the piling up of bond issues reaches a point where a considerable share of their annual revenues must be diverted to interest purposes alone. This is not to argue that a pay-as-you-go policy should be relied on exclusively, certainly not in many types of public improvements, when the benefits will extend through many decades. Nevertheless, care always should be exercised not to overburden the future with mortgages. Washington has revealed extraordinary foresight on that point.

SOME AMERICAN OBSERVATIONS

By Jay Taylor

Business in the United States may be a little below par, but it is still much better than anywhere else. The government agencies are cooperating earnestly and intelligently with the business men of the country and the outlook for improved conditions in the near future is favorable.

One hundred men in Connecticut manufacturing cutlery and making about five dollars a day will be able to buy more American farm products than one hundred men doing the same kind of work in Czechoslovakia drawing a dollar and a half a day. Our free traders, however, think we should buy our cutlery in Czechoslovakia and let these hundred men in Connecticut find some other job if they can.

Some of our propagandists are now busy trying to convince the American people that by investing their money in European securities all troubles will come to an end.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

One of the interesting bits of news flashed across the Atlantic from Europe recently, was the information that the British government was dispatching warships to Egypt to protect the lives and property of foreigners in that disturbed country. The British government evidently believed that such a procedure was necessary for the sake of security. The Egyptians of course, denied this, and stated that their government was abundantly able to look after the situation itself.

There is nothing remarkable in this of itself. The noteworthy feature is that up to this time there has been no discernable outcry of criticism from any of the professional "liberals" in America of Europe against this action of the British government. Can you imagine the outburst of oratory which would have occurred in our country, coming from all sorts of anti-national organizations, if Uncle Sam had taken similar action with reference to some revolution-torn country on this side of the Atlantic. You do not have to imagine because you can well remember the outcries which have come with every intervention to save lives and property in Nicaragua, and elsewhere.

Now why this strange silence? It might be answered that the action of the British government is no business of the American internationalists and this may be true. But there must be some other reason because the internationalist does not usually recognize national properties. And it is to be remembered that on the occasion of every American intervention in Latin-America the criticism has come not only from our own internationalists but from the politicians and press of nearly every country in Europe.

What, therefore, is the reason for the strange silence on the Egyptian episode on both sides of the Atlantic? Can it be that an act which is to be regarded as vicious imperialism when practiced by Uncle Sam is only a bit of enlightened diplomacy—an altruistic assumption of the white man's burden—when pulled off by a European power? Here is some food for thought, just as there is food for thought in the fact that internationalists everywhere are decrying our new tariff law at a time when the per capita tariff collections of nearly every European nation, to say nothing of Canada and Australia are higher than our own.

Of course it may be that intervention by a socialist government, of the kind now ruling Great Britain, and the use of warships, it not intervention but altrusion raised to the Nth degree. Perhaps what would be Uncle Sam's sin is only the British government's enlightened duty. The old theory was that the king could do no wrong. Now it seems to be the enlightened socialist who is sin-proof—if you believe the internationalists intelligentuals of the professional type. Some of these days the great body of the American people is going to wake to the fact that we have been befuddled by European propaganda at home and abroad to the point where sound Americanism in many circles has come to be something that ought to be apologized for. When that time comes there is bound to be some reaction.

AMERICANIZING PANAMA

(From the St. Paul Pioneer Press)

It has been going on for a long while and the process is complete now. Americanization has not only invaded but overcome the Republic of Panama. Proof lies ready at hand. According to a recent announcement, the Panamanians in the past fiscal year have consumed three million packages of chewing gum. Multiply the number of five and you have fifteen million sticks of gum, which proves how far a little arithmetic can go. And automobiles go even further. Panama has nineteen motor cars for every mile of its 345 miles of national highway.

Chewing gum and the automobile are not all. Far from it. American is fast becoming the speech of Panama. Even the members of the British colony, with long residence on the Isthmus, have had much of their accent submerged and speak American slang with facility. Things have come to such a pass that young girls now go out unaccompanied by a duenna. As if this were not shocking enough, they play tennis and golf and drive their own motor cars.

Spanish-Americans of a nationalistic turn are shedding bitter tears at these changes. They are pardonable tears, but futile. Still, they may turn for sympathy to the young secretaries of the American legation in Panama who speak the language of Shakespeare with a conscientious, if slightly unsuccesful, English accent.

The bakers of the nation say that if the people will eat as much bread as they did twenty years ago, 100,000,000 more bushel of wheat will be used in America each year and the farm problem will be solved. That's easy. All you have to do is to make fat women stylish again, just as they were in the old burlesque days.

One industry which runs best when it is inflated is the rubber tire industry.

A comprehensive study by the National Industrial Conference Board shows that American wages remained stationary in 1929 as compared with 1928. As compared with 1914 American wages, measured in terms of goods and services they would purchase showed increases in 1929 as follows: In factories, 40 per cent; in electric generating plants, 38 per cent; in gas plants, 33 per cent; in the building trades, 46 per cent; on railroads, 30 per cent. During the same period average wages have actually fallen in most of the rest of the world in terms of purchasing power. There is small consolation for the calamity howler in these figures.

If you haven't time to go camping, put up a tent in the back yard, carry your water from the neighbor's hydrant, cook on a smoky oil stove and drink warm water. The effect will be the same.

IMPORTS OF RECREATION

(From the Wall Street Journal)

American tourists' expenditures in foreign countries in 1929 have been officially estimated at $745,000,000 against $693,000,000 in 1928. Notwithstanding frequent assertion that Americans are in too much of a rush to learn how to play, official statistics prove that their vacation outings bulk heavy in our international exchange.

We are a nation of producers, agricultural and industrial, and after satisfying our own needs have a great surplus to export. Yet with one exception our taste for recreation has more to do with our foreign exchange than any single commodity we export, and more than any one we import. A comparison with a few leading exports would be surprising to anyone who thinks otherwise.

Raw cotton is the premier export commodity. For years it has stood at the head of the list of peace-time trade. In the last year the exports of cotton were valued at $770,830,000. It still retains its leading position, but recreation, an important item, is close upon its heels. The latter has stepped to second position, for outdistancing two other commodities that have been making gains on cotton.

Those two are automobiles and petroleum. Total exports of automobiles including parts and accessories, in 1929 amounted to $539,290,000, while petroleum and its products amounted to $511,981,000. No other item on the commodity list comes near to recreation's total, and as for the list of "invisibles" it is even larger than the "exports of capital" evidenced by public offerings of loans in 1929, which had a net value of $671,000,000.

American tourists are buying rest, amusement and education from foreign countries just as surely as we buy coffee from Brazil. Therefore, the total cost becomes a cash claim against the United States in the balancing of international accounts. After deducting $180,000,000 of foreign tourist expenditures here there is still a balance of $565,000,000 due other countries, which is equal to the war debt payments for about two and a half years.

In the settlement of export and import accounts, such items as these are offsetting matters against our huge exports of goods, and thus help to stabilize the exchanges.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

We left you, on the western tour, last week, at Miami, Ariz., just six miles west of Globe. Rising early, we proceeded through Superior, where the big copper mine is located, across a few more mountains, over Gillespie Dam, another irrigation dam, and soon out on the flat, open country which was to be the worst part of the trip.

Gillespie Dam, although serving the same purpose, in a smaller way, as Coolidge Dam, is altogether of different style of structure. Where Coolidge Dam is semi-circular, with the high bow in the middle far up the gorge above the ends, and showing no spillways, Gillespie Dam is straight, and is nothing but a succession of spillways, mute testimony of the different conditions under which each serves. Just as Coolidge Dam impounds waters from a fairly continuous flow from melting snow and occasional rains in the comparatively low mountains, and thus allowing the irrigated farms to draw off water about on a par with the amount collecting, and so needing no spillways, Gillespie Dam impounds waters from the heavy rainfalls from the higher mountains in its region, its water coming in great rushes—regular walls of water, which, if there was no spillway, might, in case of extra heavy rainfall, rush over the top of the dam, endanger ing it.

On through Phoenix, the capital of Arizona. Pretty hot in Phoenix, but nothing to compare with the lowlands beyond. We passed through several small towns in this section. The extreme heat didn't seem to hurt these people much, but we really suffered here. About 100 miles east of Yuma, Ariz., our 2-year-old baby became sick, the first ailment of any kind on the whole trip, in fact the only sickness of the whole trip, except for some heavy colds. After she became ill, the roadway being pretty good, we really pushed the Ford on into Yuma, where we could get a cold bath for baby, fearing fever.

And here is the next "Believe It Or Not." The faster you run in this section the hotter you get, as it is the wind that burns, instead of the sun. Instead of running the car windows down so that we might benefit by the rushing air as we rushed on with the sick baby, we were compelled to run our side windows up to keep the burning air from "baking" us all. The rear flap of the car being up, the madam had to wrap a heavy sweater to the back of her head to keep the heat off to some extent. The POTTER happened not to have a sweater along, so it was "just too bad."

Reaching Yuma, we stopped long enough to give baby a cool bath, and then took up our run again. The Arizona-California line runs through the western edge of Yuma, and so, at this point we had to unpack all baggage again for inspection by the California state officials. Passed this inspection easy, the same as when we crossed into Arizona, but about a mile further on we were stopped again by California state officers, working together with California State College of Agriculture representatives, for a special inspection of all cotton goods we might be carrying. Not so good, here. We were about to be allowed to pass, when one of the men found a cotton-filled cushion, or pad, and upon examination, found a cotton seed. He ripped open the cushion cover and confiscated the cotton therein. You see, California is supposed to be free from the weevil and pink boll worm, and every precaution is taken to keep them from getting in.

About two miles beyond Yuma we came to the first pure desert, as we had always supposed a desert to be. For approximately 35 miles from this point we passed over a winding, hill-and-dale stretch of asphalt, on either side of which there was nothing but a succession of mounds and vales in the pure grain sand—not a sprig of grass or anything—as far as the eye could see. When we say that nothing was to be seen here, we mean just that—NOTHING—except the sand. Down the sides of the small mountains of sand it appeared that water had run—tiny ruffles in the surface which looked like they had been caused by water flow, but which were caused by the high winds which sweep this region at all times. You have heard the term "shifting sands"—these ARE the shifting sands—never still, no sound, nothing but that if you will just wait around for a while you will see a hole in the expanse of sand where a mound of sand was in evidence just a few minutes before.

And, hot! Boy, from about 100 miles this side of Yuma, Ariz., to some 200 miles beyond, it is really and truly HOT. We were telling you about that a little while ago. That "Believe It Or Not" should contain this statement to make it perfect—the POTTER, time after time, to cool his hands, held them down directly behind the hot motor to cool them rather than hold them out in the wind for that purpose—it was THAT hot. We hope you DON'T believe that, but that you will try it some time. Then you'll know it IS true. In this long, hot region, after you run out of the barren sand wastes back to the regular desert with the little desert grass along the side of the road, every 40 or 50 miles you will come to a little unincorporated town, or rather, a wide place in the road. There will be a garage and filling station, a cafe, a drug store, and a pool hall, all along in a line and joined together. There is nothing more for another such stretch, then another such outfit.

The last lap this side of Los Angeles, was at Indio, Calif., where we put up on the night of July 11. Although the wind attained and held high velocity in the night, and some rain fell, at 4:00 A. M., Saturday morning, when we left Indio the thermometer was registering 106, and it wasn't yet daylight. How would you like that? No, we didn't either. Soon, though, we began the last short mountain climb and found some relief from the heat.

Dropping down to the coastal plain, we took in all the beautiful scenery, including the orange, lemon, and grape-fruit groves, as well as fruit of other kinds, making a short stop at Pomona, Calif., 35 miles from Los Angeles, for a little barber work, and then on into the fifth largest city in the United States, Los Angelese, which has something over 1,600,000 people, according to the 1930 census.

Saw a candidate the other day who was sporting a pair of shoes which showed signs of being badly stayed with. The heels and soles were worn, there was a hole in the side of one, and they were as dusty as the dickens. Possibly he wanted to make an impression with them, and maybe not—the one he left with the POTTER was that he had been doing some extra heavy and strenous campaigning. Those shoes gave every sign of having been in on the fence-hopping contest, and that this old race had led through a section of plowed ground.

Somebody says the radio is causing this excessive heat wave. We don't believe it; we believe the excessive heat of this political race is causing it. Another thing that strengthens that belief is that over Sunday, while there was not quite so much campaigning, everything cooled off considerably, and a good rain fell.

Here's one for your question box: How can we expect harmony in the ranks of the party, if we can't have it among the leaders? Now, how was that we heard about the blind leading the blind? Watch your step!—"Jack."

If we had with us the old fashioned family which consumed a three-foot stack of wheat cakes each morning for breakfast there wouldn't be any surplus wheat platform.

The highway engineers are now busy in all parts of the country eliminating curves. The women of the country did that several years ago.

According to reports from Georgia the popcorn is popping on the stalks out in the fields. It is now time for Kansas to come through with a report of the hens laying hard boiled eggs.

The birth rate in New York city is said to be steadily declining. Maybe they are building the buildings so high now that the stork can't fly over 'em.

Of course the hot weather might burn up the corn and make the price higher, but we believe that if we were a farmer we should prefer to have seventy-five bushels of corn at seventy-five cents a bushel than to have the price of corn two dollars a bushel and none to sell.

Word comes from London that a British heiress who can trace her lineage to William the Conquerer is about to marry the butler. Well, that's one way to solve the servant problem.

These tree-sitting endurance contests that the boys and girls are starting will doubtless be taken up in due time by the candidates who are not sure whether the prevailing sentiment in their districts is wet or dry.

Governor Ritchie of Maryland went into the eastern part of his state the other day to make a political speech and immediately it started raining, breaking the long drouth. Here is a farm relief tip for some of our western governors.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw—and Some He Saw Not.

As I came around the corner Tuesday a voice called to me. Who do you suppose it was? Pat Murphy, now of Providence, in Beat 16. He had a little fun to poke at me, of course, and then got right on the Sunday School subject. Pat has always been very much interested in Sunday School work. For a long time while he lived in Clanton, he was superintendent of the Clanton Baptist Sunday School. He even went so far Tuesday as to say that they have a better Sunday School at Providence than we have in Clanton. I started to object, but had to get away in a hurry to keep him from proving it to me by actual facts and figures.

Well, the county primary elections were over Wednesday morning, and we already have another campaign fairly started. The race for mayor and councilmen of Clanton will occupy our attention until that comes off some time in early September. By that time we will be bogged up in the final campaign for county and state officers, which will take us to ride until November.

The Pages and the Stapps are vacationing in Florida this week. I understand they have a cottage down on the coast somewhere, and expect to stay long enough to get a thorough tanning. Go to it, John, and have your fun. Otto and "Tubby" are looking after the overdrafts with the usual promptness.

Bart Jones, of Arizona, has been greeting his old friends on the streets of Clanton for several days. He will be here the balance of this month. Mr. Jones left here more than 25 years ago, practically in a hopeless state of heaith, a victim of the great white plague. Now he seems to be a very hale and robust looking man. Before he went west he was a school teacher. His last school was at Corinth, which he had to give up on account of sickness.

John I. Varner, of Miami, Floria, was an interesting visitor here during the past few weeks. His wife, daughter, and two sons, make out the family circle, and all of them are very charming. The daughter, Miss Marjorie, is a student of law. Seldom see a lady lawyer, notwithstanding the fact that many outstanding successes at the bar have been women.

I was impressed with the likeness of Mr. Varner to the Gulledges. He looks enough like Stanley Gulledge for a twin brother. He is close kin to the Wyatt boys of Uncle John's family. They were raised together in Coosa.

"We travel every summer for the benefit of the children," said Mr. Varner. This summer we have been all the way up the Atlantic Coast from Miami to New York, stopping and taking plenty of time to see all the historic places of interest. Our trip was finished with a couple of weeks stay with old friends and relatives in Chilton and Coosa Counties. Next year we expect to take in the western part of the United States, and we hope to make this section of Alabama again on our return.

The school bells will be ringing in the next three or four weeks. Are you ready for it? Have you had your vacation with the family? Have you had your child's tonsils removed and teeth fixed? Have you saved enough dough through the dull months to buy books and pay the entrance fee? When a fellow begins to check up on things like that, it makes him wonder what in the dickens he has been doing while he was so busy all the summer.

The parade of Clanton's beautiful and popular girls Tuesday afternoon added a bit of spice at the close of a strenuous day of voting, politicking, prospecting, and strange foreboding on the part of many people who were assembled on the streets of the city anxiously waiting for the time when the returns would begin to roll in. Miss Katie Mae Rogers, winner of the popularity contest, led the parade, in an automobile properly decorated for the queen of Clanton.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

"THE CLEAN LIFE"

Let us study some verses which you and I must think to do as a Christian to lead a Christian life. Unless we are truthful, honest, sincere, straight and walk with God we connot lead a Christian life. In Isaiah 52:11 we find these words, "Be ye clean, that bear the vessels of the Lord." Isaiah was a Jerusalem Jew and as he walked around the temple and dailey saw the priesthood in the temple and watched the Levites who waited on the priests, he had a vision of their lives and writes this sentence, "Be ye clean, that bear the vessels of the Lord." "You men of priesthood, and You men of the Levites who administer unto the priests, be clean in the service of the Lord. When you walk up to the altar and take a bowl of water and soap and sprinkle the people for separation and purification, be ye clean."

God told Isaiah the prophet to say that to the people that served in the temple, the high priests, the Levites, and the Scribes. He also told this great prophet to say that to you and to me. I must be clean to stand in your presence. I must be truthful honest, pure, holy as a servant of my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. David no doubt after sinning and feeling that he had an old black, dirty bird-cage heart of selfishness and disobedience to God's laws wrote these words in Psalm 51:10 "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." Feeling sorry of sin and with a heart broken on account of sin he pleads with God, "O Lord, just give me a new creation. Create in me a clean heart. My spiritual heart is not right. Let it be born again from above."

What a wonderful prayer of penitence and readiness to be cleansed and have a clean life in the sight of God. Yet you and I have each our own prayer to pray for this clean life. The devil would shake us over hell if we depended upon another man's prayer. Truly we cannot copy the prayers of others. It must be a prayer out of our own heart. It may be however, in the same words of another penitent heart, but at the same time it must be a prayer out of our own heart. David also says at this time, "Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: wash me and I shall be whiter than snow." These are like unto the words of John as written on the isle of Patmos "These are they, (the righteous) whose robes have been cleansed in the blood of the lamb and by the word of their testimony; who loved not their lives unto death."

Friends, this cleansing by the blood of the lamb means a cleansing of our heart by removing from them all that is out of harmony with Christ and the things of Christ. If you are sincere as you read these verses you will feel the need of a clean heart, a heart cleansed by the blood of the Lamb which was poured out of Calvary for you and for me and for the whole world. You, too, will have a desire for a clean heart and a right spirit. David, no doubt had experienced having had his sins washed away and had trusted and walked by faith a good way, but like you and I he had sinned. He did not feel that all guilt was now removed far from him. He desird to possess a complete surrender and an entire consecration to the Lord when he cried. "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit in me." "Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be whiter than snow. I want a white life, a helpful life, a devoted life, a faithful life, a royal life to Jesus Christ, a church-loving life."

Men and women, you cannot separate Christ from the church, His blood-bought bride. Also you cannot separate Christ from his Church. Listen as Christ says, "Come ye blesed of my father, an dinherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. That Christ says that he will say to the righteous on that final day. Again hear Him say, "My kingdom is not of this world. It does not take care of the things of the world." Friend, if you are a Christian, you belong to the kingdom which is built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets and Jesus Christ himself is the chief cornerstone. O what a blesed and holy privilege to behold such a kingdom, the kingdom of God.

In the 15th chapter of the Gospel according to John, we read Christ's own word to his disciples and to all who are cleansed by the word of God. These are the words, "Ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you." That is, Christ says, "I have now spoken these words unto you and you have listened, believed, and obeyed them and are thereby made clean through this word." Friend, nothing in this world is clean and pure except the Word of God. We are made clean through the Word. In our sinful nature which makes us prone to wander from God, violate and rebel against His laws we are cleansed through His word. His word is truth and He is the Word, the Truth. We are made free from the law of sin through the Word.

My home, your home however sweet and happy it may be cannot touch and change the sinful heart. To have a changed heart I have no right to read and search anything but this Bible. My pilgrimage in the Holy Land made this Bible a new Book to me. I can see yet where David no doubt prayed this prayer, "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me." Again I look out and see the place where Jesus said, "Ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you."

In the first inspirational letter of Peter which was written from Babylon, we find Peter who writes so much about the "precious Jesus" writing these words, "Ye are born again not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible seed, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." Only by the word can the spirit of modernism, sin in this and other countries be swept out. O, what a wonderful provision for deliverance from sin, cleansing of our hearts is made in God's plan and Word to us. "For God so loved thh world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." The above verse fell into the hands of a Chinaman and converted him to the Christian faith. Nothing can take the place of the Word of God.

It seems that there are a great many so-called believers in the Word of God. They wil say they believe but their actions speak otherwise. No man or woman can believe in Christ and spend the Sabbath as some do. Those who truly believe in the Word are born again of the Holy Spirit. "Now ye are washed clean by the Word of God," Christ is saying to you and to me this morning. In the 1st John 1:7 he says to us, "If we walk in the light, as He is the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanses us from all sin." Spiritually minded men and women have spoken of that blood cleansing our hearts as it is applied like hyssop when we believe in Jesus Christ, the son of God. Yet theer are many believers who do not go to chuch, do not see the need of crying, helpless, men, women and children. They fail to be a friend to the friendless. Friends this will never do because it is false. If we believe we will walk in the light, Jesus Christ, and have fellowship one with another and the blood of Jesus Christ cleanses us all from sin.

A friend will lay down his life for a friend. Christ is our friend when we live in him. He laid down his life for us, and He says, "Love one another, have fellowshrip one with another and thereby be cleansed by the Word, the blood of the Lamb is applied to your heart by the Holy Spirit, the third person in the adorable Trinity. It is easy enough to make promises to live a clean life. But to keep those promises we must have help which is found only in the Bible, the Word of God. This Bible will direct our ways into the paths of a clean life.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

POULTRY Tips By LEONARD L. BROWN

BETTER EGG PRICES

Last month poultry raisers in the United States were getting all the way from 11 to 30 cents a dozen for their eggs.

What is the reason for some eggs bringing more than others?

There are several reasons. Some sections of this country are naturally higher priced markets than others, and some eggs are put on the market in fresher condition than others and some eggs are naturally better than others, also more desirable. Some poultry raisers are wiser in the production of good eggs and some are also wiser in the marketing of eggs than others.

Here are some tips. In the first place, white eggs, the country over, bring higher prices than brown eggs or creamy colored ones, from 4 to 10 cents a dozen. Of course, some buyers don't give this benefit to the farmer who produces the white eggs but that is just because the farmer may not know what he could get for his eggs if he marketed them right.

In the second place, the eggs want to be just as clean as possible. They should be produced by healthy hens, fed on good clean healthy food that does not taint the taste or odor of the eggs.

In the third place, the eggs should be of good standard size in order to bring the better prices. On the New York market, where prices of good eggs is controlled, an "extra" must weigh not less than 22 ounces to the dozen and must average 46 pounds to the case, while a "standard" must weigh not less than 22 ounces to the dozen and average 45 pounds to the case net weight. Small eggs can never bring a very high price.

It would pay any poultry raiser to sell his eggs on grade. When they are not sold on grade, the buyer bases his prices on poor eggs, pockets the extra profit when they are good enough for him to grade up into a high priced grade. The farmer might just as well have this extra profit if he is producing good eggs.

If there is a buyer in your district who is buying on grade, it will pay you to look him up. Especially in the West, many cooperatives buy on grade in order to get the farmer the best price for eggs. Many times a producer of good eggs can make a permanent connection with a hotel or restaurant or high class grocery, for the disposal of his A-No. 1 eggs at a substancial premium. Poultry profits can be doubled by getting the right prices for eggs.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY HAS GREAT PLANT

Thousands of persons who have not had the opportunity to visit the great plants of the Ford Motor Company are being escorted on a tour through the vast Ford industries through the medium of a sound picture being exibited in a series of road shows in various parts of the country. They are being taken into the coal fields where the Ford Motor Company mines its own coal, into the mines where it gets its own ore, and thence to Dearborn on Ford-owned ships.

Every major stage in the process of manfacturing the car is shown while a vivid explanation is given in the sound accompaniment. The foundry, the huge steel mills, the coke ovens, and the machine shops with their machines performing the super-human tasks all contribute to make the movie both entertaining and educational.

In the production of thousands of cars in a single day, it is necessary that every part be made to such fine degrees of accuracy that the parts can be assembled without delay in fitting. The motion pictue shows how many of these parts are made to within a thousandth part of an inch of absolute accuracy.

Throughout the Ford plant materials and parts are transported by carefully timed conveyors. The motion picture depicts many of these conveyors including a huge chain that carries white hot ingots to the soaking pits.

In the course of the picture the audience learns how by-products are utilized in the manufacture of gas, charcoal briquets, fertilizer and chemicals.

The first Ford road show was organized several months ago. It proved so popular that now a series of them are on tour, mainly in the small cities and towns. The show, which includes a number of special exhibits to supplement the motion picture, travels from town to town in a fleet of Ford trucks. It carries its own tent.

HOOVER IS 56

Orange, Va., Aug 9.—Still physically vigorous after 17 months in the White House, President Hoover Sunday observed his fifty-sixth birthday anniversary.

In the coolness of his Virginia mountain lodge, where he is secluded over the week end, a simple observance of the occasion had been planned. A big cake with candles was ready for the dinner table and Mrs. Hoover and the guests, who accompanied them for the excursion, presented the president with their gifts at the table.

Although Capt. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, believes the president is in better physical condition than when he took the oath of office in March, 1929, the months of strain Mr. Hoover has undergone with Congress in session most of the time have not left him unmarked. Friends, who have seen him recently after an absence of months, have commented upon the new lines traced in his face and the white hair above his temples where only gray was visible when he entered the White House.

Two factors, Dr. Boone said, have contributed to the maintenance of the president's health: a simple routine existence outside of the office and regular exercise.

BEEN TAKING IT 28 YEARS

No, we are not talking about a nerve tonic—at least not a liquid; although the subject may be good for the nerves. What we are talking about is The Union-Banner.

Mr. J. P. Rushing of Verbena Route 1 was in our office last Monday and renewed his Union-Banner. He said that he had been taking the paper ever since he moved to this county from Elmore twenty-eight years ago. During this time he has only missed a very few copies of the paper.

GOODGAMES READY FOR GINNING SEASON

Mr. Burns Goodgame, of the Farmers Gin and Warehouse Company, announces that their gin in West End, Clanton, has been thoroughly conditioned and is ready for the opening of the cotton season. The plant will be operated this year with Burns Goodgame at the gins and Bill Goodgame looking after the warehouse.

This will be the only gin operated by the Goodgames this season. It is the old Wade location, but the plant is a new Murray outfit that was installed last year.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

Don't wait until it is too late!

A fact you should not overlook

More red-cells in the blood! Good health and resistance to infection and disease, depend on that! Loss of appetite, underweight, sluggishness, a weakened condition, nervousness, pimples and boils are symptoms, often seen, of a deficiency of red-cells in the blood. If a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA often results. S.S.S. should be your safeguard. A hundred years of experience has proved its usefulness in building red-cells in the blood. Take it before meals. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to restore their red-blood-cells. The appetite picks up, the whole body is invigorated. Get S.S.S.—take it and possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. Ask for the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

POWER COMPANY TAKES CAPACITY OF WILSON DAM

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 6.—But it must operate the steam plants unless it rains before August the 15th. Though it has taken over 99 per cent. of the available power of Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals in July and expects to continue capacity takings, Alabama Power Company must start up its Gorgas steam plant on the Warrior river coal fields by August 15th unless rains fall in the watersheds of the Coosa and Tallapoosa in the meantime, officials stated here today.

Beginning with June 13th the Power Company used 81 per cent. of the available flow of the Tennessee at Wilson Dam for balance of that month and over 99 per cent. in July. In addition it operated its run of river plants to full capacity and drew heavily on Martin Dam's stored waters.

But with the drawing down of the Martin Dam reservoir and the normal dry season still ahead, preparations have been ordered for heavy generation at the Gorgas plant about August the 15th unless rain occeurs before that time.

The turning over of the big 80,000 horsepower units of the Gorgas No. 2 plant, the testing out of boilers and inspection of auxiliaries is going forward and everything will be in readiness by the middle of August for full load generation should it be necessary. The three other units at Gogan in plant No. 1, which total 100,000 horsepower, are also being gotten in readiness and should the the drouth which has gripped the Southeast since early summer continue unabated, the operation of the other steam units of the Power Company may be necessary.

Nealy 150,000 tons of coal is in storage on the yards adjacent to the Gorgas plants. This is sufficient, officials stated, for 166 days operation of plant No. 2 at 900 tons per day, for 100 days operation of Plant No 1 at 1,500 tons per day, and 62 days operation of both plants at 2,400 tons per day.

Nearly four times as much power has been purchased from the government at Muscle Shoals this year as in 1929, Power officials said, takings to August 1st coming to 159,979,000 killowatt hours against 40,657,000 the previous year.

VARNER FAMILY HERE ON VISIT FROM MIAMI

Mr. and Mrs. John I. Varner, and children, John I., Jr., Marjorie, and Isadore, have returned to their home in Miami, Florida, after a visit of several weeks to relatives and friends in Coosa and Chilton Counties.

Mr. Varner is a member of the old Varner family of Coosa County, and is related to the Gulledges and Wyatts. He was born in Coosa County, and lived in the home of his uncle, John Wyatt, until he was 15 years of age.

In 1898 he enlisted in the Spanish-American War, a member of Second Alabama Regiment, Company L. After the close of the war he visited his old home county a few times. For the past 5 years he has lived in Miami, where he is engaged in the wholesale fruit business.

The older son, John I., Jr., is in Miami University studying electrical engineering. The daughter, Miss Marjorie, is studying law in the same university. Isadore is just out of high school, and expects to take up the study and practice of aviation as a professional career.

The Varner family left Miami along in the first days of July. They went up the Atlantic Seaboard, taking in all the places of interest as far as New York. They came back through Virginia and Tennessee, stopping over here for several days.

Upon departing last Saturday Mr. Varner said: "Tell all my old friends in Chilton and Coosa County that we very deeply appreciate the many courtesies shown us on our visit among them. We hope and expect to see all of them again next summer, after we have made a tour of the western part of the United States."

THE DEATH OF OUR DEAR FRIEND, WILLIAM E. PETTY

Mr. W. E. Petty, who was the patrolman for the Alabama Power Company at Upper Tallassee was instantly killed Wednesday night, July 23, while working on a high line at Martin Dam. It was a stormy night, but as he was asked to go up there and do some work he would not refuse to go. He was always ready with willing hands to do any thing he was asked.

He leaves a wife (Lula Belle Bates), 2 small children, and a host of friends to mourn his death.

Dearest Edwin we are lonely since you have left us here, but we hope to meet you with a smile of cheer. We miss you. Oh, we miss you more than tongues can ever tell, but our dear Lord, He knows best, and does all things well. Oh, its hard to give you up. The children need your care, but we will teach them God's words, and He a place will prepare.

HARD SOFT CORNS

Gone In 4 Days Roots and All Callouses Too

Out to stay out—selling like hot cakes in Great Britain and now in America—the pleasant, easy way to get rid of corns—a joyous, refreshing, invigorating foot bath for 3 or 4 nights and then lift out the corn—roots and all.

They all call this miracle worker Radox and since it has been working wonders with the bad feet of the tight little Isles—plasters and acids, cutting and skin destroying liquid belong to the dark ages.

It's the modern way—the sensible way to take out corns—to abolish callouses—to dissolve the hard skin from heels and toes and to put your feet in good vigorous condition so that you can walk and run and jump and dance with ease and pleasure.

Just ask for a box of Radox at Alred Drug Company, or any modern drugstore—you'll be delighted.

When A CLEANSING MEDICINE Is Needed

"I have taken Black-Draught all my life, whenever in need of a medicine for constipation," says Mrs. G. C. Burns, of Buna, Texas. "My mother and father used it in their home for years, and I was raised to think of it as the first thing if I had a headache or was constipated.

"At one time I had indigestion real bad. I was all out of sorts; my skin was sallow, and I had gas pains. After a course of Black-Draught, I got all right. I have given Black-Draught to my children, whenever they needed a medicine of the kind."

Sharing Good Things

Helping yourself you help Alabama

The best customer your state has for the food it produces is A & P. The reason is simple: A & P has to buy a larger supply of this food than anyone else because of the demand for it from hosts of housewives all over the country who trade in A & P stores.

This helps the producer just as A & P methods help you. Producers, to prosper, must have sure, quick, and good markets. You, to be satisfied, must have the best of what you like at the lowest possible cost.

Ask the food industries of Alabama who are their very big customers—for their fresh fruits and vegetables, eggs and other famous products. Last year A & P bought more food in Alabama, at a fair price, than any other buyer, and will buy still more this year.

Why a low price to you and a fair price to producers? Because all the money you pay A & P for food—less only actual expenses and A & P's small service charge—goes to the producers.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

The Each family returned from their vacation Friday evening. They spent a month in West Florida, near their old home, where they had access to sea bathing and fishing, which were greatly enjoyed. Miss Roma Lee Pate who was their guest had a new and delightful experience, and entered heartily into the pleasures and experiences of camp life. Mr. and Mrs. Each and the four girls are all glad they went and also glad to be home again.

The Congregational District Conference will be held at Mountain Springs Church east of Clanton, beginning Thursday evening and lasting until Saturday noon of this week. Representing Thorsby Church will be Rev. and Mrs. Each, Rev. and Mrs. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell and Mrs. Norton and Mrs. Gerald. Of the young people Miss Mary Ella Gerald will be a delegate from the Christian Endeavor society and Miss Lois Primm the Sunday School.

A rather elaborate programme has been prepared, and prominent workers in Alabama and Florida are expected to take part in speaking and discussions.

The Baptist Ladies Aid Society will be held Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. Carey Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams, who live in Sam Goddard's house have a new son.

Miss Katheryn Foss has been quite ill for several days but is reported to be improving.

Mrs. C. M. Williams and little daughter, Charlene, spent the week end at Lay Dam, with their daughter, Mrs. Thompson, whose husband is acting superintendent while the superintendent is on a vacation.

Prof. Williams is expected home from Auburn next Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Adams and daughter, Elizabeth, of Prattville, with Mrs. Adams' mother and Martha Williams, have been motoring for several days. They visited Talladega, Sylacauga and Columbiana. They report crops in Talladega and Calhoun Counties as showing but little effect of dry weather, but nearly all in fine condition. They were also delighted with conditions as they found them at the Comer cotton mills at Sylacauga.

We read of the dedication of a bridge recently built to the memory of Ex-Governor Comer, who died about three years ago. Many of the addresses were eulogistic of him as a man, and employer. It seems that one of his sons, who is now in charge of the great cotton mills at Sylacauga is following in his father's foot steps. Mrs. Adams says his treatment of the mill employees and care for their welfare is such as to endear him to every one of them, and although the mill has been obliged, by market conditions, to reduce work to four days a week, there is no complaint. Mrs. Adams is enthusiastic over the beauty of the homes and grounds about the mills. They seem to be very happy in their surroundings.

Miss Naemi Turnquist, who is employed at the Peoples Savings Bank in Clanton, is having a vacation. Last Sunday, with a party of friends from Clanton, she made a motor trip to Decatur. In contrast with Mrs. Adams' report of crop conditions in the section she visited, Miss Turnquist reports crops as practically destroyed almost all the way from Birmingham to Decatur. Corn all frizzled up and cotton about four inches high and trying to make bolls. Even many of the trees in the groves are dried up.

Mrs. Nels Petersen and children, Marie and Norman, are visiting her parents at West Point, Ga.

The ladies of the Eastern Star will have a picnic dinner at Conrad Carlson's grove, from 12 to 1 o'clock on Thursday, August 21st. This will be for the benefit of the chapter. The ladies of Eastern Star are requested by Mrs. Cora Smith, worthy matron, to bring well filled baskets for the dinner.

Howard Brothers, in spite of the oven like heat working under glass, have succeeded in transferring their young carnation plants from the fields to frames in their greenhouses. They have upwards of 9,000 plants for next seasons crop.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Skinner of Speigner and Mr. and Mrs. G. Skinner of Montgomery, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. King of Selma and Mrs. Anna Parnell of Birmingham, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Wood.

The Baptist Womans Missionary Society has been divided into three sections each of which will have a specified territory to work in a campaign for new members.

The usual monthly prayer meeting will be held on Wednesday night of this week in the Congregational church at 7:30.

Mrs. Matthews and daughter, Elizabeth of Ennis, Texas have been visiting Mrs. Wilder. They left for home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen and family, with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Self of Birmingham went on a picnic trip to Lay Dam Sunday.

Sumner Gerald, who has been visiting friends in Georgia for several days, returned Tuesday.

Thorsby Ice Plant had a break in their machinery with a shut down for several days, which necessitated getting supplies elsewhere until they started up again.

It is reported that the revival services held at Thorsby Baptist church resulted in about twenty additions to their membership on confession and by letter.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sims of Tollulah, La. have come for a weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Sam English.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Stanford have moved into their new apartments, adjoining their filling station and cafe.

Bruce Crosby, of Waycross, Ga., who has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. T. W. Robinson expects to leave Tuesday for a visit in Birmingham.

Miss Mary Sue Robinson is expected to return some time this week from Lannette, Ala., where she has been visiting for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Anna Phalin and son, Thomas, of Tuscaloosa spent the week end visiting the Howards. Lloyd Howard accompanied them home for a weeks stay.

The P.-T. A. ice cream social held Saturday night at Charlie Howard's was a success. A neat little sum was taken in to go on the debt.

Mrs. J. H. Goddard entertained to dinner on Sunday in honor of her husband's 86 birthday. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Howard, Mrs. Burt Higgins, Mrs. Rawlinson, Mrs. Husby, Mrs. Anna Phalen, were guests. Several friends came in the afternoon to offer congratulations.

Mrs. W. C. Jones of near Clanton and Mrs. C. C. Robinson of Birmingham spent Saturday afternoon as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Funker and daughter, Miss Mary Francis, of Birmingham spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Townsend.

Mrs. Evelyn Funker returned home after a pleasant visit to her mother, Mrs. W. H. Townsend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Santry and son, John spent from Wednesday to Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gray. They were from Cesey, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gray spent Sunday in Speigner.

New Turnip Seed and Canning Spices at Thorsby Drug Company.

Miss Mary Alice Gray, sister to Mack Gray, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gray. Miss Gray is from Hackleburg, Alabama.

A party composed of Miss Marguerite Davison, Miss Mary Ella Gerald, Miss Dorothy Butler, Christine Bosworth, Virginia Bice, Dera Rowell, Ella Howard, Lloyd Howard and John Rowell, were guests at a picnic at Lay Dam Friday afternoon and evening. They were met by a group from Clanton. Lois and Lena Thompson, Cecil Martin, Martell Martin, Lonnie Richardson, and Paul Thompson. All enjoyed a picnic supper and boating.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Teel announce the arrival of a baby girl at their home in Clanton.

Miss Sarah Jones of Chicago is spending a few days with relatives and friends in Clanton.

Mell Martin went to Montgomery Tuesday to attend a meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Baker of Tarrant, Ala., were in Clanton for the week end visiting friends. Mr. and Mrs. Baker were residents of this section of Chilton County up until twenty years ago.

PROVIDENCE BEAT 16

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon with a large crowd present and every one filled with the singing spirit.

R. M. Robinson sang the opening song, followed with prayer by S. M. Yates. Directors for the afternoon were: R. Robinson, R. T. Grant, S. M. Yates, O. L. Devaughn, J. Z. Mims, I. D. Huett, E. M. Wilson, T. E. Wyatt, M. Lockhart, S. V. Miller, Lee Grant, E. L. Powell, G. C. Powell, C. H. Robinson. Pianists for the afternoon were: Lee Grant, C. H. Robinson, and Mrs. Gracie Patterson.

We feel that the singing was a great success and enjoyed by all. We were very proud to have all the visitors and invite them to come again.—Sec'y.

To Identify Genuine Aspirin

The increasing use of Bayer Aspirin every year is proof that it has no ill effects. It is the accepted antidote for pain. It always helps; never harms; is safe to use freely as often as it is needed. Quick relief whenever you've a headache, or cold; or are suffering from neuralgia or neuritis. The distressing pains of rheumatism yield, too, if you'll only give these tablets a chance. But be sure to get genuine Aspirin. It has the Bayer Cross on every tablet. Look for the name Bayer on the box, and the word "genuine" printed in red. Proven directions inside.

VOLUME XXXVIII.—TEN PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1930 NUMBER 17

Republican County Convention is Held

Body Was Constituted By Delegates From Every Beat In the County Which Were Chosen on the Day of the Primary Election, August 12th.

The regularly constituted Republican Convention of Chilton County was held last Friday at ten o'clock, a. m., primarily for the purpose of electing delegates to the Alabama Republican Convention which meets in Birmingham to-day (Thursday, August 21) and delegates to the Fourth District Republican Convention which meets in Talladega on September 11th.

After the County Convention had assembled short speeches were made by a number of the Republican leaders of the county. Everybody expressed their satisfaction at the result of the Republican primary, Tuesday, August 12, and indicated that the support of the Republican nominees in November will be unanimous.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Convention:

"Be it resolved that the Chilton County Republican Delegated Convention is session hereby express its endorsement of and confidence in the wisdom of the administration of the affairs of our National Government under the leadership of President Herbert Hoover.

"That we endorse and commend Hon. O. D. Street, Republican National Committeeman for Alabama, for the efficient and loyal service which he has rendered in the interest of the Republican Party in Alabama and the United States.

"That we express our confidence in and endorsement of Dr. J. C. Swan, Chairman of the Alabama State Republican Executive Committee.

"Whereas, we believe that it would be conducive to the best interest of Alabama to have two strong political parties, and whereas, in view of the present disruption in the Democratic party of Alabama, we believe that the Republican party has an opportunity in Alabama.

"Therefore, be it resolved, and this meeting hereby strenuously urges the Republican party of Alabama to nominate candidates for all State offices and to make a strenuous effort to elect said candidates."

The following were chosen as delegates to the State Republican Convention, which meets in Birmingham to-day, Thursday, August 21:

Percy M. Pitts, W. H. Gillespie, W. G. Culp, Akins I. Collins, Jos E. Cobb, J. M. Mims, W. L. Sanders, L. H. Reynolds, M. D. Foshee, Grover Bice, W. H. Conway, and H. A. Harris.

The following delegates were chosen to represent Chilton County in the Fourth District Republican Convention, which meets in Talladega on September 11th:

J. N. Dennis, J. Z. Mims, T. J. Littlejohn, W. J. Billingsley, R. S. Chandler, O. O. Calfee, C. T. Walker, Grady Reynolds, S. M. Pate, W. T. Bean, W. M. Wyatt, and C. C. Conway.

THE DEEP SEA RODEO

Registration for Alabama's second annual deep sea rodeo will soon be closed, and the opportunity to take part in this great sporting event will be a thing of the past. The central committee has placed the final touches to the plans, and Chairman L. G. Adams, of Mobile, announces that all is in readiness for the arrival of the fishermen.

The idea of holding an annual fishing rodeo was conceived last year by Commissioner I. T. Quinn, in an effort to demonstrate to the people of Alabama the wonderful fishing opportunities which our coastal waters offer and to convey to the outside world the information that the waters of Alabama, as a sportsman's paradise, are unsurpassed anywhere.

The first rodeo met with a success which far exceeded the hopes of even the most sanguine of those interested. Nearly every county in the state was represented and contestants entered from eleven other states and the District of Columbia. This year, registrations have already been received from more states than were represented last year, and all indications point to the most successful event of its kind ever held.

TWO NEGROES ARRESTED FOR LIVING IN ADULTERY

During the past week warrants were sworn out for Henry Sawyer and Pearlie Ware, negroes, charging them with living in adultery. Sheriff Collins and Deputy Foshee, went to Haynes, in Autauga County, arrested the two, and brought them back to jail in Clanton. The woman has made bond. The man is still in jail.

OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS WILL CLOSE FRIDAY

All Students of the Schools Will Join in Rally Day at Clanton

Prof. H. A. Harris, conductor of the Opportunity Schools of Chilton County, announces that the schools will come to the end of their six-weeks term on Friday of this week, with a rally day to be held at Clanton. All students who have attended the schools, both white and colored, are urged to come to the closing exercises.

Mr. Harris says the students of the white schools are to assemble at ten o'clock Friday morning at the vacant lot across the square from the Baptist Church. From there they will form a line of march to the courthouse where the closing program will be rendered.

The pupils of the negro schools will assemble at the Union Baptist church in West End at nine o'clock and march through town, going back to the church for their closing exercises.

Not only the pupils of the schools, but also every friend of the opportunity movement, is invited to attend the exercises next Friday.

The following report on attendance for the opportunity schools for the fifth week is given out by Prof. Harris. The first column of figures is enrollment. The second column is average attendance for each day of the fifth week. The third column shows the number of pupils who attended every day during the fifth week:

DR. EZELL'S MOTHER DIED LAST THURSDAY

Rev. S. J. Ezell, pastor of Clanton Baptist Church, was called to Chesnee, South Carolina, last Thursday morning on account of the death of his mother. After an illness of many months she departed this life about two o'clock Thursday morning. At four o'clock Rev. Ezell and his family were on their way to the old family home.

The many friends of Rev. Ezell in Clanton and Chilton County and throughout Alabama extend their heartfelt sympathy to him in the hours of his great sorrow.

THREE CANDIDATES OUT FOR MAYOR OF CLANTON, ALA.

There are three entrants in the race for Mayor of Clanton, in the election which will be held September 15th They are: J. Lee Smith, wholesale merchant; M. C. Broadhead, retail merchant; and J. B. Atkinson, lawyer and publisher of the Chilton County News. Atkinson is a former Mayor of Clanton.

We understand that the following tickets for members of the Town Council are running:

With J. Lee Smith for Mayor, the candidates for councilmen are—H. S. Shaw, Reedie Taylor, W. L. Popwell, H. G. Heflin, J. D. Rockett.

With J. B. Atkinson for Mayor, the candidates for councilmen are—Jim Scroggins, J. A. Maddox, Marvin Carter, Frank James, and Horsley White.

With Mack Boradhead for Mayor, the candidates for councilmen are—H. S. Shaw, Eric Hart, J. W. Franklin, Grady Broadhead and Newt A. Gray.

It should be made clear, however, with reference to the above list of candidates, that votes for Mayor will be cast separate and independent of votes for the councilmen.

Only one Mayor is to be elected, while five members of the council are to be chosen. A vote may be cast for any five candidates for the council, regardless of whom the vote for Mayor is cast.

REV. LOCKHART MOVED TO THORSBY

Rev. M. Lockhart has moved to Thorsby, where he will enter Thorsby Institute when it opens next session in September.

Maple Springs church has given Rev. Lockhart a call as its pastor for the next year. He will be open for other work as pastor or supply. Rev. Jones, the Baptist pastor at Thorsby, who is very much interested in Mr. Lockhart says, "We hope the Baptist churches of Chilton County will keep this young preacher busy."

Rev. Lockhart is one of the promising young ministers of this county. He has set out in his determination to get an education in order that he may be better able to serve in the high calling which has come to him. Many of the churches over the county have helped him during the past year.

MR. LANDE HAS RETURNED HOME FROM CHICAGO, ILL.

Mr. Maurice Lande and family have returned to their home in Clanton after a two-weeks visit to Chicago and other cities of the North and East.

While away on this trip Mr. Lande visited the important buying centers of the country and purchased his stock of goods for The Leader for this fall and winter.

In a statement Tuesday Mr. Lande stated that his new goods are already beginning to arrive, and in a few days The Leader will be fitted out with a brand new stock of high class merchandise for the coming months.

"I am highly pleased with the purchases I have made," said Mr. Lande, "and I feel sure that I shall be able with what I have to go in my store to live up to the motto—The Leader Always Leads in Values."

THE COTTON ASSOCIATION AND THE FARMER

Dear Cotton Farmer:

Through the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association as a member of the American Cotton Cooperative Association farmers of Alabama sell their own cotton throughout the world. They are now receiving an advance of 9 cents per pound.

Spinners in Europe and Asia, as well as in America, have learned that co-op cotton is reliable cotton—graded accurately, weighed correctly and sold honestly.

Cotton in strong hands help to stabilize price. Over 300,000 farmers in twelve other state associations are joined with us in the American Cotton Cooperative Association—one of the largest cotton selling organizations in the world.

When you sign the Marketing Agreement, you add your mite to the might of the united south-wide pools in the interest of orderly selling and market stabilization.

And yet, when you join the Association you may keep the right to name the day when your cotton is to be fixed, and you obtain the price prevailing then.

The grower's relation with the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association will be the same as heretofore. You will deliver your cotton in the same manner. Your drafts will be paid in the same way. All your dealings will be with the State Association. However, each bale pooled with your Association will be sold through a central sales agency, which will give unity of strength and power to do the job.

Your Association is in position to serve its members this year better than ever before.

Cooperate with your neighbor. Pool your cotton. See your County Farm Bureau for service.—Chilton County Farm Bureau.

HOSPITAL GOES TO TUSCALOOSA

Site Is Selected For Veterans' Institution—Cost is $1,100,000

Congratulations were being extended to Tuscaloosa Saturday by communities over the state which competed for the location of the veteran's hospital, following announcement from Washington that Tuscaloosa site for the institution had been definitely decided upon.

The decision was made Friday by the federal hospitalization board and was approved by President Hoover. The site selected lies two and one-half miles east of Tuscaloosa on the Birmingham highway and is on the Southern railway.

The 220 acres will be bought for $70,000, leaving more than $1,000,000 for actual construction. Citizens of Tuscaloosa have agreed to defray expenses of water and natural gas mains, power lines and a sewage system to the river, to serve the hospital, which will be of more than 200 bed capacity at first.

WILL ATTEND BIG FISH RODEO

Fred Howard, Nat Bentley, and Loren Smith Will Leave Sunday For Annual Outing on Mobile Bay

Chilton County will have at least three representatives in the annual big fish rodeo on Mobile Bay which begins next Monday. Fred Howard and Nat Bentley, of Thorsby, and Loren Smith of Clanton have had their names in the pot for some time, and have all arrangements to go to the gulf next Sunday.

Mr. Howard and Mr. Bentley have engaged the "Osprey," a well appointed fishing boat for their accommodation. They will have with them on this boat a Mr. Willard, of Charlotte, N. C., and a gentleman from Columbus, Ga. The party will go aboard their boat Sunday night, where the captain will have all provisions for them to stay until the rodeo is over. They will eat and sleep aboard.

Mr. Smith has not announced his plans in detail, more than to say that he is going to be there, having already registered as an entrant. He expects to fish as hard as he can in the hope of landing some of the big fish and perhaps bringing back one of the prizes.

These three gentlemen were attendants at the rodeo last year. They expect to have even a better time this year than last, because, as Mr. Howard expressed it, they know the ropes this time.

"I am going to carry out my promise to send some fish to my friends this time," said Fred Howard. "My plans went wrong last year but I am going to see that a barrel of fish comes back to my friends in Chilton County this year."

We understand that Glenn Boyd and Sam Powers are thinking of attending the rodeo, although they have not definitely decided on their plans at the time this is written.

WILL GIVE PRIZES FOR CARTOON FEATURE

The cartoon feature page which has been running in The Union-Banner for the past twenty weeks has come to a close.

When this feature started we announced that we will give $10 in cash prizes to the persons who make the most attractive booklets from this series of cartoons, advertisements, and stories.

Instructions were given to cut them out and paste them in a booklet according to the design and taste of the person competing for the prizes. The first prize was announced as $5 in cash; second prize $3 in cash; third prize $2 in cash.

To those who may be interested in competing for these prizes, we wish to say that the limit of time to turn in your booklet to The Union-Banner office will be September the first.

Anyone interested in this contest should have kept all copies of The Union-Banner since the first of April, as it will be difficult now to supply missing numbers. We will not be able to supply the back numbers from the office, as we do not keep any old copies besides our files.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Farley and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Barnhart spent last week at Gulf Beach, near Pensacola, Fla., camping and fishing. They made the trip in automobile, and had a most enjoyable outing.

Locke-Heflin Issue Faces Republicans

Question Of Support For These Two Independent Democrats Will Face Republican Convention To-Day In Birmingham

Will the Republicans of Alabama support Tom Heflin for United States Senator and Hugh Locke for Governor? Or, will the State Republican Convention put out straight Republican candidates for these two offices?

These are questions which will come before the Alabama Republican Convention assembled in Birmingham to-day (Thursday) and about which there is reputed to be a sharp division of sentiment among the leading Republicans of the State.

The Birmingham Age-Herald Tuesday said that Alabama Republicans are faced with a wide open break in their ranks over the question of supporting Heflin and Locke and others of the independent Democratic party in the general election in November.

The Age-Herald goes on to say that when the Republicans meet in Birmingham Thursday in convention two widely divergent factions will be present, both ready for a finish fight—one faction in favor of supporting the independent Democrats, and the other bitterly opposed to such action.

What the action of the Republican convention will be on the question of endorsing Heflin and Locke can not be foretold positively; but a reasonable guess would be that the convention will not give Heflin and Locke an out-and-out endorsement; neither will it put out candidates for Senator and Governor.

In fact, we expect them to leave the matter without any official party suggestion either way. This will, therefore, leave the Republican voters to do as they please about voting for Heflin and Locke in November. Then naturally, the Republicans will be in the same fix as the Democrats. Some will vote for Heflin and Locke and some will not.

LITTLE UNEMPLOYMENT IN ALABAMA

Alabama has less unemployment than any of the twelve states tabulated by the U. S. Census recently. Greene County has but 2 persons out of 19,765 looking for a job. Alabama boasts of eight counties in which unemployment are much less than ten in a thousand persons.

Alabama boasts of eight counties in which the unemployment for each thousand persons can be shown on the fingers of one hand. There are 51 counties in which the per thousand unemployed can be counted on the fingers of both hands. There are but 8 couunties in Alabama in which more than one person in a hundred is unemployed. In Jefferson County, two persons of every 100 were looking for work.

Alabama's state average is four-fifths of one per cent. out of work and looking for a job. This means that on an average 8 persons in every thousand are out of work and looking for a job.

NEGRO CAUGHT WITH WHISKEY

Tom Davis, negro, was caught on the Mitchell Dam road last Saturday afternoon with one and a half pints of whiskey. He was arrested by Sheriff Collins and Deputy Billie Foshee. The negro was brought to jail in Clanton, and was released on bond Tuesday.

DAIRYING

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.
— St. Louis, Mo.—

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-eight years of veterinary work. Eminent authority on diseases and raising of dairy cows other livestock and poultry. Nationally known lecturer, writer and author.

IS DAIRYING A SAFE BUSINESS?

Every few years the country experiences a crash of one kind or another. It may be farm lands, oil. Wall Street stocks or any one of a dozen or more fields of financial adventure. A man has a right to ask: "Is any business safe?" I know of no business that is 100 per cent proof against risks. If there were such a business there would be very little profit in it.

It is perfectly natural for a farmer to want to analyze the dairy business before he enters it. either on a large or small scale. I have attempted to show in this series of articles that fundamentally dairying is sound.

Milk is an important food. The consumption of milk is increasing at a greater rate than population. That means we must do one of two things; increase the number of dairy cattle, or increase their production, or both. In the last ten years the average yearly milk yield per cow in this country has increased nearly 120 gallons. It is entirely possible, at that rate of increase, for us to supply milk for a population of two hundred million people without adding another cow to our herds.

There is no question about the market for milk. Refrigeration makes it possible to ship milk one mile or one thousand miles. The many products that are made from milk is in itself a stabilizing influence. I have shown that the dairy herd is not only an economical plant for production of food, but it pays dividends in helping to maintain the fertility of farm lands.

There are two or three problems in the diary business which the farmer should consider. One of these is the labor situation. A hired hand is needed most during the few months of the grain crop season. With a dairy herd it is possible to keep this man all the year 'round. Except for the actual milking, dairy cattle are far less care in the summer time than in winter, especially in the north. Therefore, dairying duties become heaviest when farm work is lightest.

Right here I would caution farmers about giving due consideration to hired hands in the matter of chores. One reason so many men object to working on a dairy farm is the long hours, and the deadly regularity of the duties. There is no reason why arrangements cannot be made so that milkers can have practically the same hours as field laborers. Also, plan to give hired men regular time off.

Many men do not like to work on a farm where milch cows are kept because of the conditions under which they have to work. It is not alone for the sake of the help that every farmer should have clean, well-lighted, ventilated stables. stables. That goes without saying on a farm where cows are milked. But the fact remains, no matter how small the herd may be, the farmer who sees to the comfort of his cattle and employees will greatly reduce his labor worries.

The investment angle is the first consideration, naturally. The farmer who begins with a few cows and builds gradually, can master that problem with a limited amount of money. Some farmers are complaining that the milk business, once profitable, is now a loss because feed and labor are higher while the price of milk has not advanced proportionately. Those men are going to have to study their records carefully and do everything possible to increase production through better methods of feeding and care and better bred cows.

In dairying, as in other lines of business, we have men who compete for pleasure rather than profit. Others engage in it simply to keep their farm hands busy and are satisfied to break even. Still others keep herds solely to fertilize the soil. But let us not forget that the great bulk of the milk produced in this country come from the farmer where small herds are kept and not from specialized farms.

The second annual Alabama Press Institute will be held at Auburn, Aug. 21-22-23. It will open at two o'clock the afternoon of the 21st. All newspaper people of the state have been invited to attend and a big majority of them are expected, according to news from Auburn.

Grover Harris, Jr., arrived home from New York Monday. He is planning to enter the University of Alabama when the next session starts in September.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

Alabama's PROGRESS

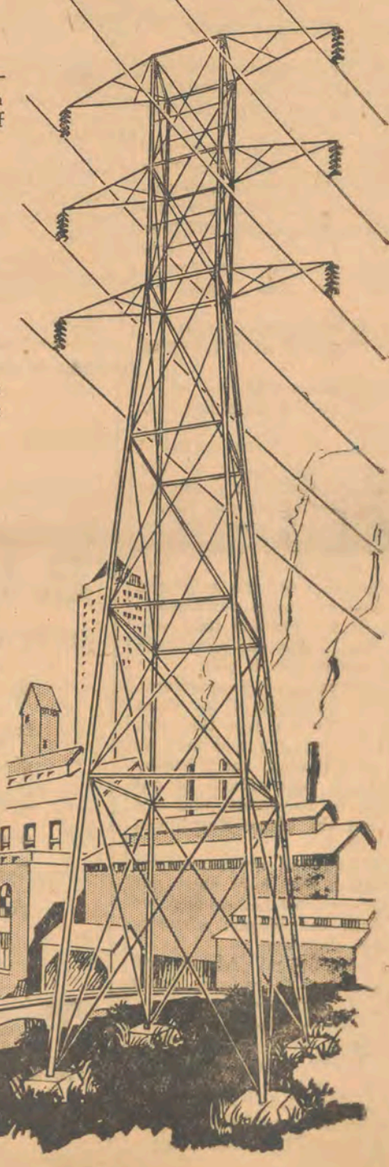
(1913—1930)

THESE seventeen years in Alabama history—from 1913 through 1929 have been an epoch of industrial development equaled in the annals of few states.

—During these seventeen years, the value of Alabama's manufactured products has increased approximately 237% —from $178,797,633 to $602,372,126.

—During these seventeen years, Alabama plant payrolls have increased over 240%—from $33,896,871 to $115,488,817.

—During these seventeen years, the number of Alabama's wage earners has increased about 67%—from 78,717 to 131,207.



In Alabama's astonishing industrial development Alabama Power Company is happy to believe that it has had some share—

—By furnishing to Alabama industries and homes an ample and dependable supply of low cost power.

—By nationally advertising Alabama resources and advantages to the outside world.

—By the work of its New Industries Division in presenting Alabama's opportunities to new enterprises.

Alabama's future development and that of Alabama Power Company follow parallel paths of progress. Hand in hand, both will go forward!

JONATHAN AND DAVID: A NOBLE FRIENDSHIP

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 18:1-4; 20 14-17, 32, 34, 41, 42; II Samuel 1:17-27.

GOLDEN TEXT—A man that hath friends must show himself friendly and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Two True Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC—David and Jonathan, Friends.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding Worthy Friends.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Friend Who Does Not Fail.

The friendship of David and Jonathan has become immortalized in the world's thought. It was unique in that it occurred between two men of rival worldly interests. Jonathan was the crown prince, heir to the throne according to hereditary rights. David was heir by divine choice and arrangement. Jonathan knew this and magnanimously waived his natural personal rights in favor of the one he knew God had chosen.

I. Friendship Established Between David and Jonathan (I Sam. 18:1-4)

1. Love at sight (vv. 1, 2).

Following the interview of Saul and David, after the victory over Goliath, Jonathan's soul was knit with that of David. He loved David as his own soul. While there was mutual love this pleasing trait stands out more prominently in Jonathan than in David.

2. A covenant established (vv. 3, 4)

The bringing of David into Saul's home gave opportunity for expression of love between Jonathan and David. This love resulted in the establishment of a covenant between them. Following this love covenant, Jonathan stripped himself of his coat, robe and his equipment and gave them to David. This act was a virtual abdication of the throne to David.

II. Jonathan Defended David Against Saul's Frenzy (I Sam. 19:1-7).

David went into the battle with Goliath out of zeal for God and true religion, not for personal glory, but it turned out as always, that because he put God first, God honored him. On David's return from victory over the Philistines, according to oriental custom, he was met by a triumphal chorus of women of all the cities of Israel, chanting praises to him for his victory over their enemy. They ascribed more praise and honor to David than to Saul. To hear sung the praises of a shepherd boy as surpassing his own was too much for Saul. It aroused murderous envy which had been slumbering in his heart and moved him to attempt twice to kill David. This is not an imaginary sin. Its counterpart may be found in many of our own hearts. The only cure for this dreadful evil is to put God first—to think more of him and our duty to him than our reputation before men. In Saul's third attempt to kill David, Jonathan defended him before his father, from whom he secured the oath that David should not be slain.

III. Jonathan Revealed to David Saul's Murderous Attempt (I Sam. 20:30-40).

The beginning of the new moon was celebrated by sacrifices and feasting at which all the members of the family were expected to be present (v. 5). David's excuse for being absent was that he might go home to attend the yearly sacrifice of his family. The annual feast was more important than the monthly feast. Matters were now so serious that Jonathan and David renewed the covenant between them. In this renewal the terms were broadened beyond the life of Jonathan (vv. 14, 15). Saul's anger was now so fierce that for Jonathan to be found in David's company was most dangerous, so he cleverly planned a sign by which he could make known to David Saul's attitude and purpose. True friendship is proven in warning those who are exposed to danger.

Concerning friendships, observe:

1. It should be made while both parties are young. This is the time when hearts are capable of being knit together.

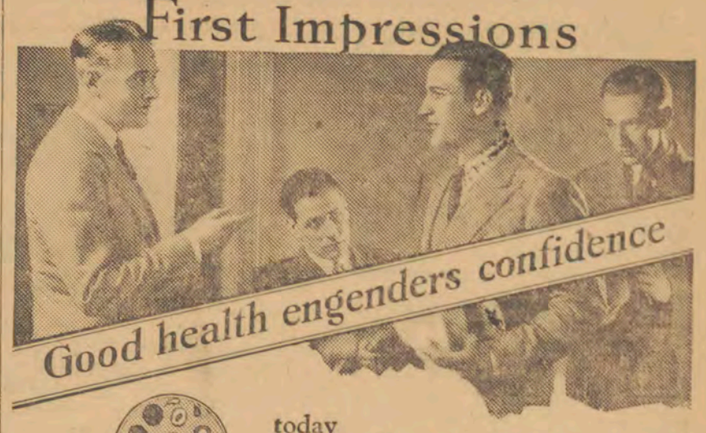
2. Real friends are few. Great care should be exercised in the formation of friendships, for while loving everybody, it is possible to have only a few friends.

3. Both parties must be God-fearing. David and Jonathan both recognized their obligation to the Lord, and that his help was essential to the welfare of both.

IV. David Mourns for Jonathan (II Sam. 1:17-27).

When David learned of Jonathan's death he sincerely mourned, remembering his undying loyalty and his personal worth.

Love Is the Conqueror



Love alone in this world is the conqueror; by love alone can the nations of the world be brought into the paths of peace; to pursue and to attain love is to pursue the one thing needful to attain the only thing in the world.—Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin.

Good health engenders confidence today business demands healthy men and women—and more than ever it is the survival of the fittest . . .

POOR health is a distinct drawback to progress in business or social life. Underweight, lack of appetite, sluggishness, a dull mentality, nervousness and even skin disorders—boils and pimples—show their mark on the body, face and mind when the red-cells are deficient in number. (See enlarged blood picture above.) Moreover a low red-blood-cell condition makes the system an easy prey to disease. When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are NOT yourself—60% is dangerous.

The way to correct this condition is to take S.S.S. the tonic that will help Nature build up and enrich your blood. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to keep themselves "fit." If your vitality is slipping away from you do try S.S.S. Take it before each meal. Get the large size. POULTRY Tips

OFFICIAL EGG RECORDS

One of the best things that has ever been done for the improvement of poultry is the inauguration of the official egg-laying contests.

Some of these contests have been in operation under official supervision for many years. For the past several years there have been 30 or more such contests in the United States, with around 18,000 or 19,000 of the finest layers of the country being entered each year in competition with one another. These contests, being conducted under uniform or nearly uniform rules, give a good comparison of the different breeds and strains of poultry and greatly encourage the development of better egg-production breeding.

Many ambitious poultry raisers and breeders enter their choicest birds at these contests and thus have a chance to check up on just what their birds are worth from an egg-production standpoint. Each contest starts in the fall of the year, at a specified date, and each competing breeder sends in a pen of 5, or sometimes 10, birds, which are then trapnested by the contest for one year's time. The contests are open to any one and rules are sent out by the contest management to any poultry people who are interested. Your favorite poultry journal, for instance the Poultry Item, of Sellersville, Penn., or the Poultry Tribune, of Mount Morris, Illinois, would gladly send you a list of the various contests.

The egg-laying contest is the acid test of egg-production. Many poultry raisers, by basing their estimates on flock averages, or on part season averages, or by making allowances for "hard luck," or trapnesting a pullet for considerably over a year and then taking the most productive 12-months period and calling it the year's egg-lay, can figure for themselves a higher production than their birds would actually attain in official competition. The average of all birds entered at the official contests the past six years has been 175.6 eggs per bird. The highest 5-bird pen average ever made in official competition has been 296.6 eggs per bird, which is the standing world's record for egg-production.

The contests also give an accurate, unbiased report on the size and value of eggs produced. When poultry raisers follow the result of the official egg-laying contests they have the right kind of a check on their own production and on the value of the breeds and strains from which they build their flocks.

MR. BEAN WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to thank my many friends for their support in the primary election, August 12th. Also I want to congratulate Mr. Sanders.

It seems that some of the boys are a little sore, but they will have to get over this and get behind our ticket and elect it 100 per cent in November.

I am satisfied and have no ill feelings against anyone.—L. H. Bean.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT NOTICE

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Probate Court:

This day came J. M. Smith, Administrator of the estate of said deceased, and files his account, vouchers, evidence and statement for final settlement of his said Administratorship.

It is ordered that the 22nd day of August, 1930, be appointed a day on which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest the said settlement if they think proper.

Witness my hand, this 1st day of August, 1930.

WEST CHILTON

Everything over here is about normal after the excitement of the recent primary, in which all got their choice or the choice of some one else.

Revival at Macedonia closed Friday night. Rev. Mr. Beale of Kentucky did the preaching. He is a fine pulpit orator. Several members were received. The baptismal service was held at Pleasant Grove Sunday morning.

A truck load from West Chilton went to Tuscaloosa one day last week to visit the State Christian Harmony singing convention which was in session in that city at that time.

The recent election reveals the fact that a spirit of change had gotten hold of a majority of the voters. The candidates for every elective office for this year being changed except one. And nine hundred voted to make a change in it. So as Prof. Cordrie of the olden time said when the Sunday School picnic was rained out just before dinner, "We got out to make a change and we made it." As to the wisdom of the course, time will tell. We note that every candidate on the ticket has redeeming qualities and the unsuccessful candidates are the real victors at last, as they will help to carry out the people's wishes.

The rains continue and all the crops seem to be doing well.

The low price of cotton is not harmonizing very well with the high cost of living.

The late primary seems to us to demand that each district nominate its own Commissioner. Because the people in the district know better who they want than the people in other parts of the County.

Rev. Mr. Dyer of Randolph was visiting in this community Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. D. A. Gibson of Thorsby was taking in the meeting last week at Macedonia.

"A spirit is now waking that shall never sleep again." Read to us by the State president of the Farmers Alliance in the long ago. How true that prediction. The due time is here for that spirit to move. And it is moving on all lines—commercial, political, agricultural, Educational, Ecclesiastical. The foundations of all those structures are being tried today as never before. The truth is doing a probing work. The battle is on between truth and error, and the truth is sure to win. Hence the unrest indifference and opposition now prevailing. "Truth tho crushed to the earth will rise again."

CLANTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL WILL OPEN SEPTEMBER 8

Preparations are being made by Prof. I. J. Quinn, the principal, for the opening of the Clanton Grammar School on the 8th of September. The building is being made ready with all the necessary fixings so that everything will be in its proper place when the bell rings on the very first day.

The list of teachers for this year will be largely the same as last year. Prof. Quinn is principal, with the following assistants:

Miss Bess Thomas, Miss Avis Grantham, Miss Lucile Sherwood, Mrs. Curry Thomas, Miss Jewel Vessels, Miss Emma Sue Morris, Miss Louise Pack, Miss Lizzie Benagh, Miss Sarah Pollard.

The new board of trustees of the school is J. Mell Martin, chairman; V. J. Elmore and W. M. Wyatt.

At a recent meeting the board of trustees was faced with the proposition of having an eight-month school term, or raising the matriculation fees. The latter course was adopted, as it was felt that the patrons of the school had rather pay $1.50 more matriculation fees than to have the children lose one month of school.

Therefore, the matriculation fee was adopted as $5.00. All students of the school will be required as heretofore, to present a receipt showing that they have paid the matriculation fee. These receipts may be obtained at Alred Drug Company as in former years.

A CARD FROM REV. EZELL

The Union-Banner received a card from Rev. S. J. Ezell Tuesday afternoon, saying that he will leave South Carolina to come home Wednesday or Thursday.

He expects to be here for the regular church services at the Baptist Church next Sunday and Sunday night.

SPECIAL FEATURE AT WADESONIAN NEXT WEEK

In connection with the picture program at the Wadesonian Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jimmie A. Mitchell, Jr., will appear in person. He is the black face boy with his blondes and brunetts. Also Janett, the tap dancing girl. There will be no advance in prices for this special entertainment.

New crop Turnip Seed at Calloway Drug Co. Now is the time to plant while the ground is wet.

PARRISH RE-UNION

On last Sunday, August 17, the Parrish family reunion was held at the home of Rev. M. J. Parrish of Providence Community, Beat 16.

After the crowd arrived and had had the pleasure of shaking hands with each and every one, and enjoyed nice long chats as well as jokes, the baskets were opened and the table was spread with every thing imaginable to eat.

Rev. Parrish delivered a very interesting talk after which he blessed the table.

Those enjoying this affair were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Blalock, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brown and children, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Parrish and son, Hillman, Mrs. R. E. Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Baker and son, John W., Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Robinson and son, Joe Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Deering and daughter, Mary Louise, all of Birmingham. Miss Lorene Parrish of Macon, Ga., Mrs. Mattie Mims, Leora and Winston Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mims and son, Mrs. Joe Mims and son, Charles, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Armstrong and family, Mrs. Herschel Gore and children, Mr. Joe Vanderveer, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Robinson, Mrs. Annie Armstrong and son, Bill, Mrs. S .E. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Walker and son, James Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Powell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parrish and baby, Julia Nelle, Mr. Howard Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker, Mrs. Mattie Williams, all of Clanton. Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Parrish and son of Lock 18, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Parrish and son, Jim Parrish, Mrs. Cary Robinson and son, Calvin, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Robinson and grand-sons, Charles and Durwood, Mr. Jack Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Payton and family, Rev. and Mrs. M. J. Parrish and family.

MISS CALLIE WATTS GONE TO BIRMINGHAM

After a vacation of several weeks spent with relatives and friends in Clanton, Miss Callie Watts has gone to Birmingham where she will open a millinery business in the Five Points District.

For some years past Miss Watts has been in the millinery business in Talladega.

The Homemakers' Sunday School Class of Clanton Baptist Church will hold a cake sale at Hill Grocery Company's Store Saturday, August 23rd. Benefit of Sunday School.

MISS SUSYE MAE TOWNSEND AND GRESHAM LOWERY WED

A marriage of interest to many people over a wide section of the State and especially in this part, was that of Miss Susye Mae Townsend of Marion, Ala., to Mr. Gresham Lowery of Thorsby, which took place at the home of the bride in Marion last Saturday evening, August 16th at seven o'clock.

Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby, father of the groom, performed the ring ceremony. The large living room of the home was beautifully and tastefully decorated for the occasion. An improvised altar, banked with ferns and palms, interspersed with Smilax and Snow-on-the-Mountain, furnished the background. Tall burning tapers sent a soft glow over the scene, making it more impressive.

The bride was given away in marriage by her father, Mr. J. C. Townsend. Mendelsohn's Wedding March was softly played by Miss Rosalind Howell as the bride and groom entered the room. Miss Eleanor Phillips sang "At Dawning" and "To a Wild Rose" was played softly during the ceremony. The bride had as her maid of honor Miss Coy Gallant of Marion. Mr. Howard Garrick of Thorsby acted as best man to the groom.

The bride was beautifully gowned in blue georgette with eggshell accessories, and carried a bouquet of tube roses and gladiolas, and wearing a hat of blue chemille velvet. The maid of honor was tastefully dressed in nile green chiffon with a corsage of pink gladiolae and wearing a hat of black-hair-braid.

The birde and groom left immediately following the ceremony for Thorsby, where they will spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Garrick.

Mrs. Lowery is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Townsend of Marion and a popular member of the younger social set of Selma, Marion and Uniontown. She was also a student at Judson College.

Mr. Lowery is the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby, and has won for himself a wide reputation as a singer and radio announcer, having been announcer over Station KTSL at Shreveport, La., and now appears frequently on the program of Station WBRC as one of the "Melody Pals." He was at one time a member of the Howard College Glee Club and has studied as a singer at a seminary in Fort Worth, Texas.

Out-of-town guests of this wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. F. M. McCouley, Mr. C. M. McCouley and Mrs. Gleason Walters of Selma, Mrs. G. F. Walters, Mrs. J. C. Watters, Miss Annie Ford and Miss Beulah Mae Watters of Felix, Ala., and Mrs. George Lancaster of Cincinnati, O.

MRS. POTTS DIED AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. Emma Potts of this city died shortly before five o'clock last Sunday morning at the Central Alabama Hospital. She was stricken with paralysis on Sunday, August 10th at her home, and was carried to the hospital, where she lingered near death for a week. She had been in failing health for several years.

Mrs. Potts was born in Cleveland, Ohio, and was 69 years of age at the time of her death. She married Mr. J. M. Potts of Clantan 37 years ago. Mr. Potts at the time of their marriage was connected with the L. & N. Railroad Company here. Later he entered the mercantile business, which he operated until his death about ten years ago.

Undertaker J. Mell Martin took charge of the body of Mrs. Potts Sunday and made preparations for burial. The funeral was held Monday at the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. Childs. Burial was at Clanton cemetery beside the grave of her husband.

Mrs. Potts is survived by two stepdaughters, Mrs. Martin Nix of Amarillo, Texas, Mrs. Claude Jones of Louisiana; one step-son, Forest Potts now living in Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Cato of LaGrange, Ga., Mrs. J. C. Rogers of Hartselle, Ala.; one brother, John W. Reinhart, Cullman, Ala.

Those from out of town attending the funeral were: a brother, John Reinhart, and his sons of Cullman; a brother-in-law, Mr. Jim Rogers of Hartselle; a niece, Miss Mae Williams of LaGrange, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Masterson of Decatur, Mr. Cato of LaGrange, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Bates of Atlanta.

UNITED SINGING SOCIETY

The United Singing Society met at Collins Chapel Sunday afternoon, August 17th.

The all-day singings are about over, and we will soon be back to the afternoon singings. Collins Chapel was very fortunate in having the singing last Sunday. The folks of this community have just finished a three weeks singing school (taught by W. M. Devaughn.) This helped the class to be in better shape for singing.

After prayer by Mr. Glasscock the directors were as follows: W. M. Devaughn, E. Traywick, Akins Collins, W. L. Sanders, A. Glasscock, L. Glasscock, and Zac Appleton.

The singing adjourned after two quartets from Mr. Devaughn's pupils.

The pastor of this place urged all to attend the meeting this week.

Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor, reports that the revival meeting at Jemison Baptist Church has closed with the addition of fourteen new members.

UNIVERSITY SUMMER SCHOOL CLOSES ON FRIDAY NIGHT

University, Ala., August 19.—With 172 candidates scheduled for graduation Friday night, the University of Alabama summer school is on the eve of closing what officials proclaim one of the most successful summer sessions ever held at the Capstone.

The enrollment of 2,099 different individuals for both terms records an increase of approximately 12 per cent over last summer's enrollment. These figures, compiled by summer school authorities, include only regularly enrolled students taking college credit courses.

Thirty-seven States and 89 colleges were represented in the enrollment figures, while within the state every county was represented.

There were 446 high school teachers, 396 elementary school teachers, 119 high school principals, 67 elementary school principals and 14 superintendents enrolled.

BETHSALEM NEWS

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days; we had a large crowd and some good sermons.

Our Sunday school was called to order last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock; we had 84 members present and several visitors. We were glad to see so many persent and invite them to come back again.

Next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock is our regular singing evening. Everybody come and bring your 1930 song books, and let's have a good singing.

Remember Sunday school next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Everyone is especially invited to come and be with us.—Reporter.

GEORGE W. GRAY DIED

George W. Gray, age 68, died last Sunday at his home in the Enterprise community. He was buried Monday at Bethany.

Mr. Gray is survived by his second wife, Mrs. Susie Anderson Gray, four sons, Charley, Claud, Cleve and Russel Gray; three daughters, Mrs. Ruby Dykes, Mrs. Maud Jones and Miss Mary Gray; one brother, G. G. Gray of Clanton; two sisters, Mrs. Louise Courtney and Mrs. Evie Logan.

ANOTHER DEFEATED CANDIDATE THANKS SUPPORTERS

Editor Union-Banner:

Just a word to the Republicans of Chilton County:

I wish hereby to express as best I can the deep appreciatian to the Republicans who supported me in my race for Tax Assessor of the county, and also to say that I have not the least ill will for those who saw fit to vote for my opponents. I appreciate the fact that we can go to the polls and cast our votes unmolested, and I take it for granted that each voter did that thing and that each one voted as they saw it best.

All my opponents are fine fellows, men who are deserving of our votes and consideration. I feel that you nominated as fine a young man as there is in the County, and I hereby pledge him my best efforts to get him elected in November and not only him but the entire Republican ticket.

I hereby urge all my supporters to fall in line and help elect our entire ticket, which I believe that we will do, with the biggest majority that we have ever won.

Again thanking my friends and supporters, I beg to remain, Yours very truly, J. E. Easterling.

Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Marcus, Raymond and Louise, returned Monday night from a trip to Los Angeles, California. They left here on July 12. While in Los Angeles they stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Claud Marcus, who now live in that city.

A. F. MIMS EXPRESSES THANKS TO VOTERS OF THIS COUNTY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say to the people who voted for me that I certainly thank them. I will never have the language to express my appreciation for their support. I appreciate it just as though I had got the nomination. And to those who voted for my opponents, I certainly have no ill will toward them for that was their privilege and duty to support the man of their choice.

Now I have gone down in defeat, but I am just as good a Republican as I have always been, which was to support all who got the nomination, and work and do everything that was honest and honorable. Now I would suggest that we all work and do all we can to elect all the nominees by the lagest majority that we ever have, in November. Respectfully yours, A. F. Mims.

THANKS FROM RAINES

Verbena, Ala., August 18, 1930.

The primary is now a mattear of history. As a defeated candidate I have no criticism to offer to anyone. In my campaign I was treated courteously by everyone, for which I feel very grateful.

All you who supported me have my thanks and good wishes. You did what you could. Let's all go to the polls in November and put over our nominees for the various offices. Yours very truly, J. A. Raines.

Nurse Tells How CARDUI Helped Her

Mrs. W. A. Cox, a well-known professional nurse, of Burnside, Ky., writes:

"I was in very bad health, and only weighed 110 pounds. I read in the papers about Cardui, and thought I would give it a try-out. After I had taken one bottle, I could see that I was improving. After I had taken it a month or two, I began to gain, and I weigh at present 168, and have weighed that for some time. I am now 55 years old, and can do as much work as the average middle-aged woman can.

"I would advise any woman, who is weakly and in a run-down condition, to try Cardui, but not to expect one bottle to make her well. I take two or three bottles a year, now, and I feel fine."

Thrifty, Energetic Employes Compose this Big Company

Telephone men and women, wherever they live and serve, are known as public spirited, home loving people. Their loyalty to the service and to the public is a tradition which proves itself a living fact whenever the emergency arises.

Naturally their Company is proud of such a personnel and encourages the industry and energy which enables them to get the most out of life now, and to prepare for their personal and family needs in the future.

These thrifty folks are taking advantage of these opportunities. Last year their aggregate savings were at the annual rate of $2,459,000, made possible by the stock purchase plan, the employes' saving plan and the life insurance plan.

The habits of thrift which they practice in their personal affairs are applied to their administration of the Company's business in their effort to give you the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.

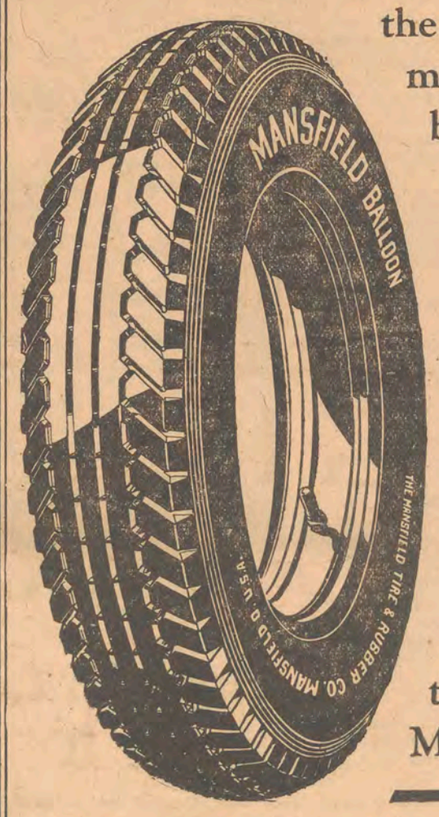
PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

On last Wednesday evening the B. Y. P. U. was delightfully entertained with a chicken fry in Mr. Clements' pasture. The evening was spent in playing games. At a late hour cake, sandwiches and chicken were served to about 30 guests.

On the second Sunday the church met in conference and called Rev. J. B. Miller to pastor the church for the coming year. At the same time Mr. G. W. Spivey was elected superintendent of the Sunday school. Miss Ruby Wright, secretary and Miss Gwendolyn Clements, church clerk.

A great many from here attended the meeting at New Salem and Macedonia last week.



Mr. and Mrs. Howard Douglas and children of West Palm Beach, Fla., visited their sister, Mrs. T. P. Franklin last week, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Franklin went on to Birmingham with them to visit other relatives. Mr. Douglas happened to the misfortune to get his car wrecked near Dothan, having to buy a new one to continue his trip.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley spent the week end in Birmingham.

Marvin Champion has returned from South Alabama. He is planning on moving there this fall.

Rev. J. T. Browder will preach again the fourth Sunday. Everybody is urged to be present, as this will be the last time he can be here before leaving for the North, where he will enter college.

REVIVAL AT NEW SALEM

The revival closed at New Salem on Friday night of last week, with the most encouraging results in a long time. There were forty-six additions to the church. Thirty-six of these were baptized Saturday morning, before a large crowd of witnesses.

The hearts of the Christians were awakened to their sense of duty as Christians as well as the sinful condition of the unsaved by the great preaching of Rev. B. F. Dykes.

The pastor, Zac Y. Appleton, urges a full attendance of all members of New Salem church on Sunday, to extend to all candidates the right-hand of church fellowship. He is depending on you. Let's all come and keep the revival going all the year.

We are in a great meeting this week at Collins Chapel; much interest is being shown since the same preacher is preaching at Collins Chapel who did at New Salem.—Mrs. Zac Appleton.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to experss our thanks to friends in Clanton for the kindness shown to us and our sister, Mrs. Potts. during her recent illness, death and burial.—Mrs. Cato, LaGrange, Ga.; Mrs. J. C. Rogers, Hartselle, Ala.; John W. Reinhart, Cullman, Ala.

SAMARIA NEWS

Mrs. Culver McGraw spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Dee Dennis. They all motored to Stumps Hills Sunday and spent the day with Mr. Russell Dobbs and family.

Mr. Hance Alred is building Mr. Dee Dennis a new barn this week.

A CARD OF THANKS

I wish to extend to all of those who voted for me as State Senator in the recent primary my greatest appreciation and thanks.

During the campaign I never requested a voter in the District to vote for me. The vote I received was a voluntary one. I am rejoicing in defeat over the fact that a majority of the people in my county voted for me, and that in the town of Prattville where my opponent and I reside, I received one hundred and sixty-four votes more than my opponent received; and that in my opponent's voting precinct I reecived 89 more votes than he received. I had rather be defeated with the compliment from my home people than to have received the nomination from the voters in the other two counties.

I rejoice further in the fact that my support came mostly if not entirely from those loyal Democrats who remained loyal to the Democratic ticket in 1928. I think that I have every reason one could wish to rejoice over.—John A. Dickinson.

Prattville, Ala., Aug. 19, 1930.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to expess our thanks for the kindness of the people shown us during the illness of our daughters, Jessie and Lillian. We especially thank Mr. Scott's family and Mr. Will Dobbs. May God reward them is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mims.

TWO PLAYS AT HAYNES-VIDA

There will be two one-act plays given at the Haynes-Vida school on Saturday night, August 23rd. The first play is "Help Yourself," and the last, "Not Quite Such a Goose." The plays are given for the benefit of the Vida M. E. church, and everybody is invited to come and help out. Your presence will be appreciated. There will be enough amusemnt between the two plays to keep everybody laughing.

The first play will begin at 8:00 o'clock and it won't do to be late. Admission, 15c and 25c.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to offer my thanks to my friends who helped me in recent troubles, when my home was burned, and when my arm was broken. I appreciate your help as much as anyone could.—A. C. McMinn, Clanton, Route 5.

EAST VIEW

The road crew is grading the old highway between Coopers and Verbena, which is much needed. We need more of this kind of work on slippery roads.

Don't forget to come to Sunday school regularly; we have 81 on roll with an average attendance of 45.

Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby is conducting a revival at Maple Springs this week. He reports a successful revival closing at his church at Jemison last Sunday with 14 additions.

THORSBY NEWS

Mrs. Frank Nelson will entertain the Lutheran Ladies Aid on Thursday afternoon of this week.

Mrs. J. M. Pate has been quite ill for several days from a spider bite, but is reported improving.

The next Ladies Guild social will be held Thursday night at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Each. This will be in the nature of a lawn party with games, to which men and young folks will be welcome.

LIFT CORNS RIGHT OUT

The English Way

Right from England comes the new, better, joyful way to take out corns—roots and all.

Callouses go also and you can rub off that hard skin on heels and toes with your hand—the magic treatment.

Ask Alred Drug Company, or any leading druggist for a package of Radox—put 2 table-spoonfuls in a gallon of hot water—do this for 3 or 4 nights in succession—then lift out the corns.

This joyful exhilarating foot bath is simply great—you'll enjoy every minute of it and your burning, sore tired, aching feet will feel better than they have for years—ask for Radox and foot comfort will be yours. Alred Drug Company, agents.

LOSE FAT Safely and Quickly

Kruschen Salts—(a perfect combination of the six mineral salts your body must have every day to function properly) purify your blood of harmful acids, and aid the kidneys and bowels to throw off waste material—the continual formation of which is probably the cause of your fat.

In this modern age of living, it's impossible to get these salts from the fancy foods you eat—but don't worry just as long as you have Kruschen salts.

Take a half teaspoon every morning in a glass of hot water—little by little that ugly fat disappears, you'll feel better than ever before—years younger, more energy. You'll soon possess that enviable beauty, clear skin, sparkling eyes, superb figure which only perfect health can impart.

An 85c bottle (lasts 4 weeks) at Alred Drug Company, or any progressive druggist in America. Money back if Kruschen doesn't convince you that it is the safest, quickest, easiest way to lose fat.

The revival meeting at Collins Chapel Baptist Church is in progress this week. The work is in charge of the pastor, Rev. Appleton, and Rev. B. F. Dykes, of Birmingham.

ONE PRESCRIPTION MADE FAMILY DOCTOR FAMOUS

Seldom has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than that of Dr. Caldwell in 1885, when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote the prescription as he found men, women and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, bad breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, no energy, lack of appetite, and similar things.

Demand for this prescription grew so fast, because of the pleasant, quick way it relieved such symptoms of constipation, that by 1888 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is always ready at any drugstore.

2,000,000 Chevrolet Sixes now on the road

Since January, 1929, Chevrolet has produced and sold over 2,000,000 six-cylinder automobiles—nearly five times as many as any other manufacturer has ever built in an equal length of time.

These 2,000,000 buyers have chosen Chevrolet because it offers many desirable qualities not obtainable in any other car so low in price—

—the smoothness, silence and flexibility of a modern six-cylinder engine—the comfort and roadability of a modern, full-length chassis—and the style, safety and distinction of bodies by Fisher.

Yet, despite these fine car advantages, the Chevrolet Six is unusually economical. Its gas, oil, tire and upkeep economy is unsurpassed. And

SIX-CYLINDER SMOOTHNESS AT LOW COST

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

ASSOCIATION ADVANCING 8 AND 9 CENTS ON COTTON

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 18.—Despite the fact that cotton is at present selling on the local market for less than 11 cents per pound, the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association is advancing 9 cents per pound to Alabama farmers placing their cotton in the annual pool and 8 cents per pound to farmers placing their cotton in the special pool and permitting them to hold until later in the season for better prices.

Regarding the difference in the advance of the two pools, Allen Northington, general manager, says: "We are making this difference in the adaance as we have to require margin where members put their cotton in the special pool where they have the right to name time of sale. This is done to protect the association against decline in the market." There will be no call for margin on cotton placed in the annual pool.

Mr. Northington says that the association is in better position to serve cotton farmers and in this way help the business interest of the state than ever before. He says farmers have the opportunity of placing cotton in either of three pools, Customary Annual Pool, Special Pool for immediate sale or Special Pool for sale at a later date.

Cotton placed in the annual pool is sold at such time or times as the Board of Directors think best. A liberal advance is made when the cotton is pooled and other payments made from time to time as proceeds from the sales of cotton and market conditions justify. Final settlement is made after all cotton in the pool is sold.

Cotton placed in the Special pool for immediate sale is closed out immediately upon delivery and settlement is made as soon as possible after the cotton is weighed and classed. Cotton placed in the Special pool for sale at a later date is sold at such time s the member instructs the association to sell the cotton.

"Through the operation of the Cotton Stabilization Corporation the Alabama Association will be able to start this season without any carry-over of old cotton," reports Mr. Northington. He says that this along with the fact that the association has the full cooperation of the Federal Farm Board and of the American Cotton Cooperative Association in handling, grading, financing, insuring, warehousing and invoicing that the cotton association should render maximum service.

FORESTRY SUCCESS CAN BE MEASURED

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 18.—It is easy to determine whether forestryis successful, says Col. Page S. Bunker, State Forester of Alabama. Forestry is the profitable production of timber values on the nonagricultural lands of the state, and careful checking of areas to which forestry measures have been applied will show quite readily whether such steps have resulted in the growth of more timber than otherwise would have accrued, and also determine the cost of the increased growth, states Colonel Bunker.

With no care whatever, a certain degree of second growth will ensue, generally in ragged and bad stands yielding low grade lumber and other products. In the same manner that practical agriculture increases the yield of food plants over and above what might grow wild, the principles of forestry applied to wood-quality. Each tree, young or old, has a life history which is an open book to the forester. It is quite easy by scientific methods to determine the approximate rate of growth and number of trees on any area, not only at the present time but at any previous time during the life of the forest.

It can be determined by these methods what existed on a given tract ten years ago and what the annual growth was at that time. Should the owner of the tract in the meantime have adopted forestral methods of managing his timberlands, it is feasible by scientific means to ascertain just what result such means have attained. Thus, if the area were yielding wood volume at the rate of a quarter of a cord per acre before being put under forestral management and is now yielding a cord and a half per acre as a result o fsuch care, these facts can be made perfectly evident. The cost in labor and money, of course, is readily ascertainable from the landowner's accounts. When compared with the increased yield the question of whether forestry pays or not is quickly answered.

Acquainting the local landowners of the aarious communities with the ways in which to increase profitably the yield from woodlands and to cooperate with and assist them are the functions of State and Federal agencies. In the states having a very large proportion of forest land such as exists in Alabama and in certain other sections of the country state forestry departments have been established manned by trained technical personnel, while the United States Forest Service cooperates with these departments and in a great measure coordinates the promotion of timber production throughout the entire nation. In Alabama millions of acres of land formerly producing little beyond an annual tax bill have as a direct and indirect result of the activities of these official agencies developed a rate of forest growth far in excess of that formerly existinng.

BOY SCOUT WORK WELL ADAPTED TO RURAL BOYS

The Boy Scout movement provides a program diversified enough to meet the needs of all boys. This program has been so deftly built up that it provides for the city boy, the boy in the suburbs, and the boy on the farm and in the small town or village. Under the supervision of the department of rural scouting, thousands of country boys have an opportunity to enjoy a scouting program especially adapted to their everyday needs.

Country boys have difficulty owing to the problems of travel and farm tasks, in meeting at stated intervals with other boys. For them there is a special rural program suitable for an individual or small groups. Thirty-six of the thirty-nine merit badges in the Boy Scout vocational guidance program are on subjects pertaining directly to country boy activities and farming.

The Boy Scout program does not aim to turn a country boy into a city boy, or vice versa, but it does seek to give to each a distinct program and opportunity for advancement and reinforcement in connection with his own home and the business of his family.

Rural boys will mobilize their energies in training to fight forest fires and in the development of rural fire companies or bucket brigades. Every Lone Scout has been asked this year to prepare a cabinet of first aid equipment for farm animals and livestock, and another for emergency use where human injuries are involved. Both of these first aid kits will be at the disposal of the community in which the particular Lone Scout resides. Rural Scouts will also post signs in conspicous places near the entrance to the home so that passers-by may know that it is the residence of a Lone Scout of America, who is ready and willing to offer aid wherever possible. Special attention, too, will be given to clean-up programs around the farm and along the highways and work will be promoted for reforestation of deforested areas. Instruction will be given in the protection of growing shade and nut trees and preservation of song birds an dthe birds of economic value to the farm.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, the Russian cotton planting campaign is now almost completed with the total acreage sown to June reported at 4,183,403 acres, or approximately 63 per cent more than last year. On the basis of average yield per acre for the four years, 1925-28, production on this will amount to 2,029,000 bales of 478 pounds net, or about 58 per cent above last season's crop.

It is reported that the automobile industry will spend $75,000,000 this year through their associations for research work.

AID ASKED FOR ALABAMA DROUTH SUFFERERS

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 18.—Aid has been asked for farmers living in drouth stricken counties of Alabama.

Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, Friday, sent Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., a telegram in which they urged him to use his influence to get aid extended to the southeast as "many counties in large parts of Alabama and adjoining states have no feed for next year." They suggested that "quickest relief would come from heavy planting of winter cover crops such as wheat, oats, rye, and winter legumes which could be planted immediately and would be ready for early fall and winter pasturing." They asked that the aid include winter legume seeds. The telegram in full reads:

"Hon. Arthur M. Hyde,
Secretary of Agriculture,
Washington, D. C.:

Reference fifty per cent freight reduction granted by interstate commerce commission on feed into drouth stricken areas we appeal to you to use your influence to get same concession extended to southeast and to cover winter legume seeds as well. Many counties in large parts of Alabama and adjoining states have no feed for next year. This includes several counties with a fine dairy program who are finding it necessary to dispose of their cattle. We feel quickest relief would come from heavy planting of winter cover crops such as wheat, oats, rye, and winter legumes which latter we buy in Oregon and Michigan and have imported through New York. With current rains these could be planted immediately and would be ready for early fall and winter pasturing and give us the earliest feed we can produce."

PRICE REDUCED ON SPORT MODEL CHEVROLET SIXES

Detroit, Mich., Aug.14.—Price reductions of $40 on all sport models in the Chevrolet Six passenger car line were announced here today by H. J. Klingler, vice-president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Company.

The models affected are the sport roadster, which is now priced at $515; the sport coupe, reduced to $615; the club sedan, now $625, and the special sedan, $685. All models formerly were priced $40 higher.

This latest move of the company brings the price range of the Chevrolet Six to less than the range of the four cylinder Chevrolet at the time of the changeover at the close of 1928. At that time the four was priced from $495 to $715, while the nine different passenger models in the six cylinder line today range from $495 to only $685, following this latest reduction.

NOTICE TO THE BOYS WHO HAVE JERSEY CALVES

All of the 4-H Club Boys who have bred Jersey calves have been asked to meet at the office of County Agent C. E. Stapp at 8:00 o'clock Friday morning, August 22, for special work. Mr. Stapp and the boys will spend the day visiting the boys who have pure bred heifers. They will also visit the owners of pure-bred bulls, and other places of interest.

Any farmers who are interested in making the tour with Mr. Stapp and the boys are invited to meet and join the party at the County Agent's office at eight o'clock Friday morning, August 22.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Between 40,000 and 50,000 bushels of the D. P. L. 4-H variety of cotton seed will be ginned at "gin days" this fall and kept pure for planting next spring, according to J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist at Auburn.

Alabama teachers of vocational agriculture, numbering 115, spent three weeks at Auburn in special training at the summer school of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. These teachers are scattered throughout the state and do their work in connection with different schools and the county boards of education.

A decline of 47 per cent in the volume of residential construction in the United States during the first six months of this year as compared with 1929 was reported at a recent convention of Association General Contractors of America held in Washington.

Rucker Sims, who is with the Alabama State Board of Health, stationed at Tuscumbia, was here Sunday to spend the day with relatives. He expects to be at Tuscumbia for a long time.

Charley Walker of Shoults was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

Mr. Wallace Vickers, of Jacksonville, Florida, was a visitor to friends in Chilton County a few days last week. He is the son of the late Lee Vickers, who was a well known citizen of Chilton County.

One of the children of John E. Robinson of Providence, Beat 16, was operated on for appendicitis at Central Alabama last Saturday. At this writing her condition is reported favorable.

J. M. WILLIS THANKS HIS FRIENDS FOR THEIR SUPPORT

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a little space in your paper to express my many thanks to my friends who heartily supported me in the past primary election.

Now friends I certainly can't think of words big enough to write to make you know how I appreciate what you did for me. And if I live long enough I will make you know some day better than I can tell you just how I appreciate you.

Now a word to those who did not support me. I certainly do not hold any ill will towards anybody. But I do think that there were some things that took place that did not give me a fair show. But I will not say so much about that now. I want to say this much, that I certainly did try to run a clean race and I feel good over it.

So thanking every one of you again for what you did for me, I beg to remain, yours very truly.—J. M. (Tug) Willis.

ROCKETT THANKS VOTERS

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

I would like to express my appreciation to my friends and supporters in my race for Tax Collector, and though I was beat in this race I want you to feel that I appreciate your vote and influence just as much as if I had been nominated. I feel like we made the best fight possible, and it was the will of the people that another man be nominated, and I am ready now to bow to the will of the people and do all that is possible to help elect your nominee in November.

I want to say frankly to all the voters and to Mr. Culp, the nominee, that there is no soreness whatever in the race, and that I am just as strong a Republican as ever, and I hold no ill will against any voter or candidate, and I am not going to wait for you to call upon me for help, but from now until November I am going to work and talk for Mr. Culp and for the other candidates as well, and do all in my power to elect every single nominee, by the biggest majority we have ever had.

I am anxious to see all factions of our party get together regardless of what the past alignments might have been, and present a solid front against the Democratic nominees in November.

I am at your service, both as an official and a Republican, and if I can serve you call upon me.

Yours truly,
J. T. ROCKETT.

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

There will be baptizing services at Hugh Mim's pond next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The ordinance of Baptism will be administered to two candidates. One candidate was baptized at the close of the revival the first of this month.

Rev. A. L. Foshee, the pastor, will preach at 11 o'clock and at 7:30 in the evening.

There will be no singing in the afternoon, but the society will meet again the fourth Sunday in September. All singers get their voices tuned and ready to sing at this time.

Moses L. Mims and family of Homewood, Birmingham, are spending their vacation with relatives and friends in and about Clanton. Mr. Mims is captain of the Homewood fire department.

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

All Europe, Canada and Australia are complaining loudly of depression, and as soon as the Democratic national committee's publicity gets around to it the whole thing will be blamed on the extra-territorial effects of the new tariff law.

A great many of our professional liberals in America seem to think that all prisoners in American jails should be released but you won't hear many of them protesting against the shipping of convict made goods from Russia to America.

We don't know why the census takers are asking about radio sets. There's certainly no unemployment among 'em.—Arkansas Gazette.

The premier of Canada announces that it has been impossible under the countervailing feature of the Canadian tariff law to raise the tariff only on sixteen articles against the United States and of these articles none is imported from this country. This law permits Canada to raise the duty on any given article to the tariff fixed by the United States. Some emparrassment rose when in response to the cry for retaliation against the new American tariff, it was discovered that the Canadian duties were all higher than the new American rates, and that therefore no increase could be made. Which constitutes an interesting commentary on the outcry about the wrongs committed on Canada and other countries by our new "prohibitive tariff."

Maybe where the farm board went wrong in buying wheat was that it took too seriously those predictions about the billions that were going to be added to the cost of living by the free trade orators in Congress.

OTHER NATIONS' TARIFFS

Before too much attention is paid to foreign protests against our protective wall, we think some attention might be given the protective policies of foreign countries. We should like to see an analysis of restrictions in Europe on the sale of such typical American products as wheat, automobiles and movie films before confessing that the American tariff is peculiarly offensive to the spirit of international brotherhood.

The truth of the matter is that Europe has never outgrown the notion that the United States is Europe's colony and owes Europe a living. Any American policy which assumes that America is for Americans is going to annoy Europeans and arouse their protests. Their present protests against our tariff seem to be reinforced by a decline in foreign trade, but as a matter of fact the decline has little relation to the tariff, past or present, and is explained almost entirely upon the ground that business is slow in the United States and the world over.—Chicago Tribune.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Although the agricultural and industrial news of the year, up to this time may not be as encouraging as in the years just passed, there is one bright spot on the horizon, and that one has reference to American shipping. According to reports recently made public by Lloyd's registry of shipping, the United States during the past year has jumped from seventh to second place among the shipbuilding nations of the world. Here is an achievement of which any people might feel proud.

The gain made by the United States in shipbuilding during the past year has been almost one hundred per cent. On July 1 the United States had 238,163 tons of shipping under construction. On July 1, 1929 the total number of tons under construction was 119,028. John Bull still leads Uncle Sam by a big margin in shipbuilding, as the British Empire had 1,392,000 under construction on July 1. But it is encouraging to note that the United States has passed France, Italy, Holland, and especially Germany, which has staged a remarkable comeback in shipbuilding during the past several years.

The figures ought to be decidedly encouraging for those internationally-minded Americans who, a few years ago, said that we were no longer a seafaring nation, and that because of higher costs and higher standards of living for our sailors, we would have to leave the ocean carrying trade to other nation. So encouraging are the figures in fact, that many shipping men now see the time, not so very far away when the United States will have enough ships to handle its own ocean carrying trade. Whether or not this prediction is too optimistic, it remains a fact that Uncle Sam is entitled to his share of the world's shipping business and that now, for the first time in several generations he seems to be in fair way of getting it.

Great credit for the revival of our shipping is given to the Jones-White shipping bill passed some time ago by Congress. Under this act American ships are allowed profitable returns for carrying the mail, and loans are made by the Government to ship builders up to seventy-five per cent of the ship's costs. The interest rate on these loans, of course, is low. The aid rendered by the Jones-White bill has served in part at least to equalize the higher cost of operating American ships. This higher cost is due in the greater part to the better wages and better living conditions of American sailors on American ships. The government has already loaned $93,000,000 to help build thirty-four American ships which will cost around $125,000,000. In the new shipping program there will be constructed two great liners which will be faster even than the German ship "Bremen," which now holds the world's record for the speedy crossing the Atlantic.

While the Jones-White act has provided the necessary stimulus for American shipping it must not be forgotten that the campaign carried on in the press and on the platform by those interested in our merchant marine has helped in creating the sentiment which made the Jones-White act possible. As a nation we have again become shipminded. The day of the Yankee clipper will never come again, but the day of the sleek, speedy American ocean liner is at hand. The revival of American ship building is one of the most encouraging signs of the times. In one phase of their program the internationalists have been balked and the United States will have a merchant marine of which the nation may be proud, a guarantee of progress in time of peace and of national safety in case of war.

NOAH COMMANDED TO BUILD ARK AT WICHITA FALLS

Things that can happen when three radio stations come in on the same wave length is said to be the experience of a man who had just installed a radio and had not learned all the fine points of eliminating cross currents. He tuned in, getting three stations on the same wave length. One was a minister, one was a man telling of the conditions of the roads and the third was a lecture on poultry.

Here is what he heard:

The Old Testament telis us that baby chicks should detour one mile south of Salina and listen to the words of the prophets—be careful in the selection of your eggs, and you will find hard-surfaced roads on to Garden City.

We find in Genesis that the roads are muddy just west of the henhouse and clean straw is essential if you would save your soul.

After passing through Leavenworth turn north of Jericho. Three wise men bought a large size incubator on account of a bad detour. The baby chicks were troubled with the pip and bond issue is talked of in the Holy City.

Keep the feet clean and dry, live a life of righteousness and turn south one mile west of the school house. Much care should be used in commanding the sun to stand still, as there is a bad washouut at the bridge at Poalo, and the road to salvation is under repair, making it necessary for 70 degrees in the brooder house at all times. After you leave Winfield, unless you do these things, the wrath of the Lord will cause the pin feathers to fall out and detour one mile south. Many are called, but few have any luck unless the gravel road between Topeka and Lawrence is mixed with feed. Out of 500 eggs one should get roads from Coffeyville to Tulsa, and the Lord commanded Noah to build the ark, just one mile west of Wichita Falls.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

With so many things happening all at once around in this neck o' the woods, we think it would be a pretty good idea to stay off our western trip for this week, and catch up with the local racket a bit. Too many good chances have already gone by the board just because we were on that trip, and if we don't catch up now we never will be able to do it at all.

One of our good brethren brings us this one: He and his family, with a few visitors, were seated at the table for their noon-day meal the other day, when one of the younger generation pulled a pretty fast joke on the donkey brigade. The talk had drifted to politics, and most everybody was taking a hand. Somebody asked this question: "If a man pretends he's for a certain candidate, while really he's working for somebody else, what is he?" "He's a hypocrite," was the answer. The little fellow, who, possibly, hadn't heard much except talk of politics for some several days, and not understanding exactly what it was all about, got this pert one out of his system: "Hypocrite? Uncle, is there any difference in a hypocrite and a Democrat?"

Well, you couldn't blame the kiddie much, could you? Just shows he's been brought up right, that's all. We're going to watch him—we believe he has the makings of a real Republican. And, too, we've often heard that if you give a child free rein to form his own opinion of things in general just from what he sees and hears, his opinion will be right nearly every pop.

Here's a good one. As the official count was finished last Thursday, someone mentioned that the official final result should be posted on the blackboard in the courthouse, where all might read and ponder. One of the successful candidates, who was present, was asked to place the figures on the board, but he shook his head, saying, "Nope. I'm too nervous." His late defeated opponent saw a good chance to slip a nice joke over his conquerer. He popped up to the board, and said: "Read 'em. I'll write 'em! By gum, I got beat, but I'm not THAT nervous over it." We thought it was pretty rich.

And we're still of the opinion that this heat from the political campaign just closed had something to do with the recent drouth. In fact, our opinion to that effect, as voiced last week, has been only strengthened since last week. Just as soon as the election was over, and the heat cut off from it—oh, boy, how it rained and rained, and rained.

And, speaking of political campaigns brings to mind the recent primary. The Republican voters must have gotten the sesaons all mixed up—seems like they got the idea it was Spring time, and time to do a lot of house-cleaning. And it right here in the middle of the summer, too.

But, after all, that old Republican ticket looks mighty good—just glance over there on the edge of this same page and read 'em. Don't seem a bit strange or out of place, does it. In fact, that list looks mighty good to us. Good enough to be elected, as a whole, in November.

The thing to do now—what every Republican WILL do—is to get behind that list of men and elect every one of them this fall. It should be unnecessary for any of the Republican nominees having to canvass one single day, that is, if our good old Republican party is as sound as it always has been.

Of course every one of the nominees will do all in his power to be elected, but every REAL Republican will be just as anxious to have the whole ticket carried as the nominees themselves. Let none of the rumors and hear-says that are sure to be broadcast have any bearing on the strictness of your Republican spirit. Every time you hear somebody knocking one of our candidates, just bear in mind that that somebody CAN'T be a good old dyed-in-the-wool Republican, or he wouldn't be kicking on any of the party during campaign, when we must present a solid front to the enemy. So pay him no heed—he means no good to you or your party.

And the worst ones of these black sheep are those who are PAINTED—that is, they are supposed to be good party men, but in reality are only tools to tear down and disrupt. Of course our political enemies are not going to send one of their own number, known to be such, to you to try to convince you on the bad features of any of our nominees—if bad features there are—but will employ the wolf in sheep's clothing, a disgruntled candidate, a wisher-washer, or the like, in the hope that you may have confidence in his good Republican party spirit and be led astray. But pay him no heed.

Instead of listening to any such tommy-rot, just make up your mind a little bit stronger to not only cast a straight Republican ballot in November, but to do all you can to see that your Republican brother does the same. Let's make it a regular land-slide. Let's show 'em a rock wall front that can not be broken. Let's start RIGHT NOW to working like old Nick, himself, to pack those ballot boxes full of good old straight Republican votes that will convince anyone interested that right here in Chilton County we have a real Republican Party that can't be cracked up.

Don't think somebody won't try to tell you things. They will! If they don't it will be the first time in history they have failed. And we don't believe the millenium is that close. Any time you get by a Democrat (most Democrats) without him telling you something bad about your party, just mark it down in your little book—there's something wrong—they never miss a chance.

Curious how you can't help noticing things sometimes. One night recently we were a bit late getting away from work, and had stopped on a Clanton street for a confab with a fellow worker, when—now listen! Across the street, a door cracked open and a thin ribbon of light broke through. Two or three fellows slid out on the sidewalk and walked away. Just a minute and two more did likewise. Then from another door in the building another pair eased forth. All together, about fifteen finally passed out of that building and took their several ways home. Do you have any idea what was up? Yep! That's just what we guessed—just another good poker or crap game "busted up."

Night Marshall Stanton can have 'possum 'n' 'taters now if he wants 'em. He heard an old hen squalling the other night. Grabbing his flashlight on the dead run to catch the "chicken thief" he arrived in time to find Mr. 'Possum in the act of dragging an old hen off the roost. He turned the case over to his Chief Deputy, "Bull," a big brindled bull dog, who made quick work of Mr. 'Possum. Another chicken thief gone wrong.

Signing off.—"JACK".

Still the situation is not without some consolation, even for the farmers, if the price of wheat is down, a bushel of it will still buy about as many gallons of gas as in the days before the war.

LIKE HER OLD SELF

All patriotic America rejoices. The historic frigate Constitution, subduer of British warships and Barbary pirates 125 years ago, has just made her first voyage in thirty-three years. She was conveyed from Boston across the harbor to dry-dock for the completion of her second restoration.

Just one hundred years to the day after the order to junk her the trip was made. It was this order which called forth the memorable noble and sarcastic poem of Oliver Wendell Holmes, who cried: "Ay, tear her tattered ensign down."

The grand old frigate bids memories rise of Bainbridge, Decatur and Hull—of Britain's soverign proud ascendency on the sea; of swift, dark corsair ships and white slaves toiling in chains for Moslem masters.

But the noble old frigate again is restored—her masts are in place; she looks like her old self. Three years have been spent in effecting her restoration. The youth of America have had much to do with the accomplishment of this reminiscent rejuvenescence. The fact speaks volumes for the spirit and integrity of love of country and devotion to its ideals; of loyalty to the democratic scheme which has radiated to the ends of the earth, delivering nabondage which held them to belief tions and peoples from the age-old in the divine right and authority of kings.—From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

THEY HAD TROUBLE THREE CENTURIES AGO

In this tercentenary year of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony it is a good thing for people who think they are having a hard time to look back to the record of June 20, 1930.

"This serious situation will face the magistrates in council tomorrow: One thousand people to be fed and the end of the food supply in sight. The same number to be housed and building operations at a standstill."

Each generation has its troubles. Three hundred years ago it was shortage of food supplies. Now the complaint is against surplus. So long as the people of this country have a surplus of nerve the advice of J. P. Morgan, the elder, "Don't sell America short," will hold good.—from the San Francisco Chronicle.

FROM W. H. GILLESPIE

Please allow me space in your paper to express my thanks to the Republicans of Chilton County for their generous support in the primary of August 12th, in which they honored me with the nomination for Sheriff, for which I shall always feel grateful.

I wish to say to my opponents who opposed me in the primary, I have nothing but the kindest feelings for you. I am sure that you both gave me a fair and square deal during the campaign, and I am sure that you have had no cause to believe that I have given you anything but a square deal.

I have nothing but the kindest feelings and friendship for all those who supported either one of my opponents. I admire you for voting your honest convictions, and I believe that in voting for the man of your choice you acted in good faith and with good intentions for what you thought was for the best interest of our county and the Republican party.

In conclusion I wish to say that I expect to put forth my very best efforts from now on to the time that the election closes on November the 4th, to elect the entire Republican ticket by the largest majority possible. Yours for success.—W. H. Gillespie.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

It is sad, but it is true. Clanton has lost out in the fight for the United States Veterans Hospital. It has been located at Tuscaloosa. We congratulate the Druid City.

I really believed the hospital would come to Clanton, and I think they made a mistake by not putting it here. But of course my opinion about the matter does not amount to much. I am satisfied with Tuscaloosa, since it couldn't be Clanton.

Glenn Boyd says he was disappointed by the hospital going to Tuscaloosa; but he was able to bear up under the disappointment better because Judge Miller was nominated for Governor. It is good that everything is not disappointment; and perhaps it is good that everything is not a success.

It is city politics now for the next month, on the corner and everywhere you go in Clanton. Three candidates are in the field for mayor: Lee Smith, Mack Broadhead, and J. B. Atkinson. We may expect some of our town's "soiled linen" to get aired between now and September 15, when the election comes off.

Buck hart is not asking for re-election as Mayor. He has, however, at the earnest solicitation of friends, consented to stay in the city's service if the people want him to, as a member of the Council. He was a member of the Council before he was elected Mayor.

"Wanted—A Young Abraham Lincoln." That is the sense of what is expressed in an advertisement in this week's Union-Banner, by a prominent business man of Clanton. He wants to give some worthy boy a chance to learn a good trade. I thought much in the few minutes this man talked about the boy he wants.

"The chap I want is somewhere in the backwoods of this county," he said. "I had rather have a boy who has never seen a railroad train; who does not know the difference between the steering wheel and the fifth wheel of an automobile; one who has never had his initiation into the modern ideas that are making the majority of boys worthless as business prospects; one who really wants to amount to something in life and realizes that he must pay the price of success with a few years of hard work."

This is the second incident that has impressed me with a very sincere regret. "I simply will not hire a boy who has been reared on the streets of Clanton," seems to be the policy of business men who must have employees upon whom they can depend. That is a terrible verdict against the profligate waste of youthful potentiality. It proves that the boys of to-day are subjected to sinister influences which are destroying them and their usefulness, and that many are unable to escape the tragic consequences.

J. H. Jackson and W. F. Pilcher of Lomax report this week on a trip of 750 miles which they have just completed through north Alabama, northwest Georgia and Tennessee. They vistied Mr. Jackson's brother, R. M. Jackson, at Sylvania, on Sand Mountain, in DeKalb County, and went on up to Chattanooga. Crops where we went are very poor, stated Mr. Jackson. We have better crops right here in Chilton County than anywhere we went. Just across the river in Coosa there are some good crops.

Rev. M. W. Mims of Maplesville, was here Tuesday. He told me about a birthday dinner which was given for Mrs. George W. Mims, Sr., last Sunday, August 17, by sixty of her children, grandchildren, and friends. It was her 79th birthday. The gathering was at her home, and was a great delight to all who were present, and especially the one in whose honor the occasion was planned and carried out.

Maybe the late rains were not entirely too late. This is the hope expressed by Mr. Lum Wells while he was in Clanton Tuesday. He said since the rains began to fall about a week ago, he has noticed signs of new life in his corn that he had almost give up as hopeless. There are lots of late crops that will be saved by the rains.

RIGHT KIND OF PEOPLE MAKES ORDER

Sheriff Collins calls to our attention a situation that proves again how the right kind of people in any business makes for observance of law and order.

"About the time I went into the Sheriff's office," said Mr. Collins, "there was a swimming pool and dance hall established at a well-known place not far from Clanton. For some years during the first periods of operation at this place, practically every Saturday night the Sheriff's office received a call to come to this place and put down some kind of disorder.

"During the present season the place has been owned and operated by people who themselves believe in running a decent place, and in preserving order. They have run their own business in that way, and the Sheriff's office has not received a single call to come to their aid.

"I have always strongly contended that the people of this country need law-abiding citizens much more than they need law-enforcing officers. This instance proves my contention, and shows that where folks themselves have the proper regard for decent behavior, they can have it without having to call the officers."

THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY

The Republican Primary election in Chilton County is past. The nominees for county offices have been selected. All eyes are now turned toward the final campaign which will bring us to the General Election in November.

We have not been able to see or hear of any serious dissatisfaction growing out of the primary campaign. All the defeated candidates have expressed themselves as willing to abide by the results of the primary. This was assured, even before the primary was held.

All of the successful candidates received a vote of confidence that is highly commendable to them. They have come out of the primary with the assurance that they are first of all very popular candidates.

The nominees which have been selected by the Republicans are men who are worthy of the confidence and support of the Republican voters. They will make officials worthy of the great county which they aspire to serve.

We see no reason to urge the Republican voters of the county to stand by the Republican nominees in November. It is evident that such a determination has already been settled in the minds of the people, in the face of which the usual Republican victory in Chilton County next November is already assured.

It is said that most of our prisons are too small and this is probably true. And to the boys inside it would be difficult to build them so big that they wouldn't be too small.

How long is a mile? Asks a western editor. Well it depends on whether it is a concrete or a dirt road.

IN MEMORY OF W. B. JONES

The death angel visited the home of our dear father and grandfather on the morning of August 14 and called him to the great beyond. He was 86 years of age, and had been ill for some five months, but bore his suffering with patience, and fully trusted in the Lord. He said many times he was ready to go when the Lord saw fit to call him home. He always said he would meet grandmother, who preceded him to the grave by seven years and six days.

He leaves a widow, Evelyn Bradley oJnes, three children, Irvin Jones, Mrs. A. L. Robinson, and E. L. Jones, 19 grandchildren, 49 great-grandchildren, three great-great-grandchildren, and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn his death.

We will miss him more than any tongue can tell; it was hard to give him up, but God doeth all things well, and we feel assured that our father and grandfather is at rest in the Lord.

The pallbearers were his grandsons and grandsons-in-law: O. S. Robinson, W. A. Jones, Lawrence Jones, P. D. Ellison, Ed Lewis, Archie Jones, A. M. Jones, F. O. Robinson. He was laid to rest at Corinth, where he had been a member of the Baptist church for 46 years. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. D. Hughes. — His children and grandchildren.

S. M. PATE IN GRATITUDE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your paper to thank the people for what they have done for me in the past, and also thank my many friends who voted for me in the last primary.

I am satisfied with your choice and I am going to do all in my power to elect the entire ticket this fall. If any of the nominees think that I can help them in any way, please call me. I will not be too busy to help you in any way that I can.

If at any time I can help the people of this great county in any way I will be at your service; don't fail to let me know; as I have always tried to help you all while I was in office.

As to those who voted against me, I have no ill feeling toward you. The office belongs to the people, and they saw fit to nominate another man; so I have nothing to say to the contrary.

Now in conclusion, I want to say to my friends, we want to put our shoulder to the wheel and help elect our ticket this fall by the biggest majority that we have ever done. So, don't fail to go to the polls in November and vote the entire ticket. If I can help you I will be glad to do so.—S. M. Pate.

W. G. CULP EXPRESSES THANKS

Editor Union-Banner

Please allow me space in your most valuable paper to say a few words to the Republican voters of Chilton County.

First, I want to thank each and every one for your loyal and faithful support in my behalf in my recent race for the Republican nomination for the office of Tax Collector of your county. All the language I am able to master is far inadquate to fully express my gratitude to you. Therefore, the best I can do is to pledge to you now that if I am elected in November, as I believe I will be, I shall ever keep foremost in my mind you and your interests.

For a long time I have had a desire to serve the people of Chilton County as Tax Collector. With the splendid vote of confidence which I received last Tuesday I would always feel very ungrateful to the people of this county if I should fail to render to them the very best service there is in my power to render.

I hope when I am elected Tax Collector and live to serve my time that I will never feel that I am any more than your servant, for really and truly, that is what I will be.

I want to insist at this time on all my friends getting behind the entire ticket in the November election one hundred per cent and put it over by a large majority. Perhaps we did not get all the nominations just like we wanted them in the primary; but let us forget now that we had a primary and get solidly behind the ticket for a great victory in November.

To those of my friends who saw fit to vote for one of my opponents I want to say a few words. I grant you that privilege without question, and assure you that if I am elected in November, you shall receive the same courtesy and service as if you had voted for me.

Again I want to thank the Republicans for the nomination that was given me, and insist that we present a solid front in the November election, and take every possible step forward for a bigger and better Republican party in Chilton County.

Gratefully yours,
W. G. CULP.

PERRY GORE EXPRESSES THANKS TO THE VOTERS

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

I hereby express my sincere thanks to each and everyone who supported me in my race for Commissioner of the Second District. And to those who voted against me, I have no ill will whatsoever.

The primary was only a means of selecting out of the Republican party our nominees to oppose the Democratic nominees in the general election. And each one had a perfect right to vote just as they pleased, and every Republican should bow to the wishes of a majority.

While I was defeated in the primary, this has not in the least affected my political belief, and I stand ready and willing to line up behind every nominee and do all in my power to help elect each and everyone of them by an overwhelming majority in November.

Yours for the success of the Republican party.—Perry Gore.

ALABAMA CROPS SAVED BY RAIN

Although Alabama farmers early in the season have suffered in places from a general lack of rainfall, recent rains have saved the State, according to reports received by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, at Montgomery. There had been a seaonal defiency of between a third and a half of the annual rainfall up to July. Crops went into a dry soil not well stocked with moisture in the subsoiil; in fact, according to the State soil survey, the soil was the driest in several years at planting time.

In spite of this lack of rainfall, July brought a scattered rainfall which was plenty in favored localities, while streaks still suffered from drouth. August came in with plenty of rain. Pastures looked greener than usual. Corn will probably be as big a crop as in 1928. Early corn in some cases was practically ruined by dry weather. Late corn on the whole looks well, according to reports from W. F. Gist, state and federal statistician. The late hay crop looks vastly improved. Pastures are generally greening up and the outlook for late hay and livestock is greatly improved.

Regarding cotton certain counties report a good crop but are complaining of the prevalent low prices and price prospects. The prospect for this year's crop in Alabama, according to Mr. Gist, is 1,200,000 bales which is a fair average crop for Alabama.

The state average of rain is 3.59 inches for July saved the crop and abundant rains to date in August have brought out all other seasonable crops.

WORD OF THANKS FROM JESSE BAKER

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words to the Republican voters of Chilton County.

I want to say first that I very deeply appreciate the support that was given me in the primary election of Tuesday, August 12, in my race for the office of Tax Assessor. Although I was defeated, I am glad to say that I am satisfied with the verdict of the Republican voters of the county.

Now I appeal to all Republican voters to lay aside all our prefesences which we had between the various candidates before the primary, and everybody center on the main objective of electing the entire Republican ticket in November.

We have a good ticket nominated, men who will make good officers, and it is our duty to elect them in the general election. I want to say in conclusion that I am at the service of the Republican party and its nominees, and shall gladly do anything and everything in my power for its future success.—Jesse Baker.

FROM PERCY M. PITTS

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

Allow me to express to you my appreciation of the honor you bestowed upon me in the recent primary, in nominating me as your candidate for Representative, which is to be elected in the general election in November. By reason of having to attend to considerable amount of business matters, I was able to get around to see only a small portion of the voters prior to the primary; however, I trust that between now and November I will have an opportunity of seeing all of you personally. I am glad to state that I, together with my opponent, Mr. A A. Jackson, conducted our little campaign on a high plane and I am sure that neither of us made any statements during the campaign regarding each other's candidacy, that we will regret in the future.

Now that the smoke of battle is over in the Republican primary, I trust that every Republican in Chilton County will not only support the ticket since the majority has spoken, but that each will do his or her bit in the general election to see our ticket receive the largest majority that it has ever received in Chilton County.

All men nominated will nobly and efficiently fill the positions they seek in the November election and it behooves us all to get behind them this fall.

I, as all other Republicans in my humble judgment, am willing to abide by the verdict of the majority and since the majority has spoken, are willing to put our shoulders to the wheel and elect the entire ticket in November.

The Republican party, at the present, both in the county and state, has a golden opportunity ahead and let's each of us try to take advantage of this opportunity in a legitimate way to build up our party in the county and state.

Again thanking you for your loyal support and influence in the past and assuring you that in the future, as in the past, I will try not to betray the confidence that you have placed in me by honoring me with the nomination.

Yours for the success of our entire ticket in November. Gratefully yours.—Percy M. Pitts.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

WALKING AND TALKING WITH JESUS CHRIST

Yesterday morning Christ had just come into the presence of Cleophas and his wife who were on their way to Emmaus. Christ met them and walked with them. O, for Jesus to meet you and me today and walk with us over the hills and valleys and all along the way. O, for Christ to help you and me to bear the trials, troubles, temptations which await us.

They now approach the little town called Emmaus. Our impression of this location is made upon our minds as we read the Gospel according to Luke. It was a pleasant walk from Emmaus after early tea time for the evening service in Jerusalem on that first Lord's day evening after His resurrection. These two disciples to whom Christ had not yet revealed Himself begged Him to come by and take a cup of tea. Christ made as if He would go by. Many times we ask Christ to stop with us and He makes as if He is going by. He seems to be going away and leaving us.

Now the record is that they said to Christ, "Abide with us," and Christ seemed to be going away. Let us ask this ever present and unchanging Christ to abide with us because it is really sunset. They constrained Christ, begged Christ, entreated Christ to come in and yet they did not know it was Christ. Although their hearts burned within them as he began at Moses and the prophets and expounded all things in the Scriptures concerning Himself, yet they did not know Him. What an afternoon that was to these disciples of Christ.

What an afternoon it is to anyone's life when they meet Christ on the way. O what a glorious time it is when one meets Christ and He walks and talks with them. The reason we fail to walk with Christ is because we do not let Him talk to us through the Holy Spirit. We are not willing to let the Spirit take of the things of Christ and show them unto us. Jesus said, "I will send the Comforter unto you and when He is come He will take of the things of Christ and show them unto you." It is the Spirit's office to take of the things of Christ and show them unto you and unto me. How we do need in our spiritual lives to have the Holy Spirit take of the precious, loving, holy things of Christ and show them unto us. O, Lord, we are striving to possess a life in Thee. Let thy Holy Spirit show us the things which are of Thee. We need to be guided in the things which are of Thee that we may fight temptations, meet discouragements, falsehoods, misunderstandings.

Now we come to one of the sweetest things in the resurrected life of Christ. Christ accepted the courteous insistent invitation to tea with these lovely people. He walked on with these friends into that no doubt humble home on top of that little knoll of Palestine in the little town of Emmaus. There is a little tea room there today where one can stop and buy a cup of tea and be lovingly reminded of this beautiful scene of Christ taking tea with those humble disciples. But the sweetest and most overcoming thought just here is that Christ made Himself known in the breaking of bread.

O, how you and I need Christ to make Himself known to us in the breaking of bread. O, how we do need Him make Himself known as we go about our work each day. I do so much need Him make Himself known as I go about preaching and teaching this Gospel of Jesus. You need Christ make Himself known as you lie suffering on that bed, weak and worn with many months and days of suffering. You need Christ to make Himself known to you. Then, my dear friend, as He knocks at that door have it open for Him to come in and let Him sit down beside you. Then look up into His gentle, kind, patient, loving, gracious face and have a little talk with Him. He will be merciful. He already knows your case far better than you yourself know.

When they asked the blessing, Christ being the spokesman, He brake the bread and gave to them. As He did so, He also opened their eyes and made Himself known to them. Friends, a blessing, a prayer, and worship is nothing unless Christ makes Himself known in it. We are to remember also that Christ in teaching His disciples to pray taught them only one petition to ask for a material blessing and that was this: "Give us this day our daily bread." We are to ask for just simply bread, the "staff of life." Isaiah, in predicting of the Babylonian captivity mentioned the fact that they would take away the "staff of life" from the people. Thus they were captured and led away without even bread.

O, Jesus we do not know what awaits us. It may be sickness, death, poverty. We just ask Thee to come to us this morning and make Thyself known to us. May we know Thee whon to know is life eternal. May we know Thee as did Job as our redeemer who liveth and before whom we shall stand some glad day. May we know Thee as did John "The Word, the Way, the Truth, and the Life." These disciples on the way to Emmaus had known Christ and had experienced the presence of Christ. Have you, my dear sweet friend? Have I ever experienced the presence of Christ?

We ought to practice the presence of Christ. Leet us do that today. Then when evening somes, look up into His face and say, "You have walked with me through the day's journey and now the sun is kissing the eastern hills will you not still abide with me?" O for this real experience in Christ. Ask Him to come and sit down and talk with you. Did you ever have a talk with Jesus? A little talk with Jesus makes it right all right. That means a prayer, a conversation with Christ makes everything all right. Just a conversation with Christ the friend who stirketh closer than a brother. who is the same yesterday, today, and forever.

We read that they rose up the same hour, and went right back to Jerusalem to church after seeing and knowing Christ. It is a good place to go to see Christ. Really the best place for anyone to go to church. If you do not go you will miss somethiny. Thomas was absent and he missed a great deal. When these humble disciples who had recognized Christ just before He vanished out Emmaus entered the upper room where were assembled the eleven, and others with them they could hear them saying, "The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simonwho denied Him, yet He folded Simon to His loving heart and forgave him in such words as these: "Simon. you treated me awful bad but I will forgive you." O to have Christ put His arms around me this morning and say, "You have treated me awful bad but I will forgive you."

No doubt they were very glad to hear Simon bear spokesman to this scene. If I have failed it pays to confess it and try before my friends to do the things which please, honor, and glorify Jesus Christ and thus lifts me up and brings me closer to Christ. Directly Christ appears and says, "Peace be still." Then He turns to show them that He is not a Spirit but indeed the risen Christ and says, "Give me some fish and honey and bread that I may eat." There stood this Christ of Bethlehem, of Nazareth, of the Sea of Galilee, of Capernaum, of Jerusalem, of Calvary, of Emmaus. It was the resurrected Christ who is the same yesterday, today , and forever.

FARMERS TO PLANT WINTER LEGUMES

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 18.—A systematic campaign is now being waged in Alabama for the manufacture of nitrogen on farms. The Experiment Station at Auburn has found that this is much cheaper and better than buying nitrogen in sacks and county agents and other extension workers are urging farmers to get their nitrogen in this way.

To do so either Austrian peas or hairy vetch should be planted. The best time to plant is in September or early October. Early fall planting is advised in order that the seed may germinate and the plant get started before cold weather. A good practical rule is to plant following the first good season in September.

J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist has compiled results as obtained from farmers with these plants. He found that the average increase in yield of corn is 22 bushels per acre and cotton 356 pounds of seed cotton. Those increases were made by the first crop of either of the winter legumes.

They make corresponding increases in other crops, including pecan trees and orchards. They are not expensive to plant.

In addition to producing nitrogen, winter legumes add large quantities of humus which Alabama soil needs. Therefore, legumes have two advantages—one is humus; the other is nitrogen. From now until October county agents and other extension workers in Alabama will make winter legumes a major project, hoping that a new high record will be made in acreage planted this fall.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good people of Mitchell Dam and surrounding community for their kindness and help during the illness and death of our beloved father and grandfather, W. B. Jones. Especially do we thank all for the beautiful floral offerings. We also thank Dr. Strock for his untiring efforts, for we believe he did all in his power, yet, the Lord knows best.—Children and grandchildren.

Dr. Marcus and family are expected to arrive back home some time this week.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

The drouth in the South and Middlewest has reduced the production of feed crops and caused prices to advance. Alabamians who are not producing enough foood for the year will have to pay higher prices for what they buy because of the drouth.

Under the direction of the Farm Board the National Beet Growers Association has been asked to assist in selling beet sugar. The organization is formed on a similar plan to that for assisting in selling cotton. An announcement by the Federal Farm Board says that 800,000 acres of land in the United States are used for producing beets and that hundreds of thousands of people are engaged in either production or processing.

Speaking at the recent commencement at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Dr. Willis A. Sutton said that crime costs the American people ten billion dollars annually and that illness costs seven and one-half billion dollars, making a total of seventeen and one-half billion dollars for the two. He declared that education should make an earnest effort to reduce these huge burdens.

NEWS AROUND EAST VIEW

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson and Mr. J. F. Nelson attended the Central Alabama Association that met with the Mt. Spirngs church last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. They report a good association and everybody enjoyed the meeting.

The services at the church here were almost rained out Saturday night, but there was about 25 or 30 who came through rain to be in the service.

Miss Hazel Maddox of Thorsby and Dr. F. P. Ensminger of Demorest, Ga., each gave a talk to the young people on young people's work, at the church.

Several from here attended the singing at Floyd Sunday afternoon. They report a good singing.

Mrs. Elva Mims has been suffering from rheumatism for several days; we wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Ida Henson has been ill for several days but is able to be up again now.

Several met Tuesday at the school house to tear it down; it will be carried to Enterprise and used in building another room to that school. Our school consolidated with Enterprise about a year ago.

The singing school here will come to a close the last of this week; everybody is well pleased with the success of the school. Prof. J. M. Williams has done a great work here in the three weeks of school.

Prof. Williams is chairman of our singing society that meets every 4th Sunday evening; visitors are always welcome.

Rev. A. C. Nelson returned home Monday from Eclectic, where he has been leading a building program to build a new church at Eclectic Union Church.

This school has just given $4.50 to missionary work; "Let your light so shine." — Matt 5:16.

Race Drivers DEMAND the TIRES WE SELL!

THE Indianapolis 500 Mile Endurance Race is famous as an endurance test and battle of tires for no driver can win this race who has tire trouble. He races over a hot brick track at a speed of 100 or more miles per hour. For eleven consecutive years Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have been on the winning cars.

FOR years the winner of the hazardous race of Pike's Peak climb — where a slip meant death — used Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

1. THESE drivers do not simply choose Firestone Tires. They demand them. They know by experience that this tire never fails. It never fails because it is built not to fail by the special Firestone processes of tire building.
   - (a) Every fibre of cotton thread going into the making of the cord fabric, which is the foundation of the tire, is coated and cushioned in rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process.
   - (b) Under the tread is the Firestone patented Gum-Dipped Double Cord Breaker—which means not only two extra plies where most needed, but also sets the Firestone Tire apart as an all cord tire, while others are woven fabric and cord.
   - (c) Firestone Super High Speed Tires now have 32% more rubber in the tread, giving deeper grooves that will give you over 50% more non-skid wear before the tire is smooth.
2. THESE are not just features. They are basic differences in tire building proved by service on every kind of road and track.
3. YOU may never intend to race. You may never intend even to speed. You may never climb Pike's Peak. But, every day —whether you know it or not—your life depends upon your tires.
4. WE HAVE these Super High Speed Gum-Dipped Balloons for sale today. They are the same tires that the racing drivers demand — the premier tires of the world. Their first cost is low. Their cost per mile of service makes them cheaper today than even cheap tires. They are inexpensive, not only because the price of rubber is low, but because we have joined with Firestone to bring into the sale of tires the same degree of efficiency which goes into their manufacture. The benefit of all this is in the price to you.
5. DRIVE IN TODAY. We will examine your tires and make you an allowance for your unused mileage. We can equip your car with new Firestone Super High Speed Tires at a much lower cost than you ever expected. They will give you unequalled service and satisfaction.

Hubbard Glass Shot By William Helton

Aged Farmer is Jailed on Charge of Killing Landlord Over Rent Dispute; Claims Self Defense.

On Monday afternoon about 3:00 o'clock Hubbard Glass was shot and almost instantly killed by William Helton. The killing occurred at the home of Helton, who was living on the place belonging to Glass.

Reports have it that Glass and Helton became engaged in some kind of dispute over some rent and some corn; it seems that a cow belonging to Helton or some of his folks, on which Glass held a mortgage also figured in the dispute. The gun used was a .41 double barrel derringer. Only one shot was fired and the bullet took effect in the left breast of Glass. Glass walked about thirty steps after the shot was fired, and fell dead.

Glass's home is about a quarter of a mile north of Oak Grove church above Jemison, and Helton lives about a hundred yards above the church up the highway. Helton is 71 years old and Glass is about 55; both men have families. Helton is the father-in-law of Truman Lockhart, who is well known in this part of the country. Glass was the proprietor of the little store on the side of the highway near Oak Grove church.

Officers at Clanton were notified of the shooting and went up to the scene. When they returned Helton had already come to Clanton. He turned his gun over to Chief of Police Bookholdt and had been placed in jail when the officers got here. It is reported that Helton claims to have done the shooting in self defense.

H. S. SHAW GONE TO FISHING RODEO

The Union-Banner received a card from Mr. H. S. Shaw in Mobile Monday saying "We are all set for the rodeo Monday." That means that he is attending the biggest fishing event in Alabama which is in progress Monday Tuesday, and Wednesday.

This is the same thing which Fred Howard and several others are attending. We do not know the names of all who have gone from here, but we will find out when they get back. Each one of them will surely be around with a big fish tale by next week.

Married August 24

A recent societ event of much interest was the marriage Sunday of Mr. Orman R. Edgar to Miss Gladys Elaine Hand, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hand. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, the ring ceremony being used. Duing the ceremony Rev. Ezell stood beneath an arch of flowers; the room was decorated with ferns and blooming flowers.

The bride was wearing a blue georgette dress, hat to match; flowers were American beauty roses. Best man was Mr. D. D. Edgar of Birmingham. Matron of honor was Mrs. D. D. Edgar, wearing a chiffon dress, lace trimmed hat; flowers were gladiolas.

Miss Birtie Grant played the Wedding March and sang "I Love You Truly," as they marched out. Her father gave the bride away.

Miss Ruth Edgar and Mr. Giroir took the bride and groom immediately to Montgomery for the remainder of the afternoon, after which they went to Birmingham to spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Edgar. After this week they will be at home at Powderly, Ala., where Mr. Edgar holds a responsible position with the Gulf Refining Company.

OPPORTUNITY SCHOOL STUDENTS HAVE BIG DAY IN CLANTON LAST SATURDAY

Courthouse is Filled While Old People Present Programs Depicting Old-Time School Days

Last Saturday was a big day for the Opportunity School students of the county, this being the close of the six-weeks school which was taught at several different places in the county. Not only was it a big day for the students, but there were hundreds of other people here who enjoyed it with them.

Those who attended the schools, about 320 in number, met in front of the Clanton Baptist Church at 10:00 o'clock. Lines were formed and they marched to Maddox's Corner, thence to Dief's Service Station, thence east two blocks, thence to the court house. Upon entering the court house refreshments were served, furnished by friends of the school and served by Mrs. Jewel Martin Smith, Mrs. J. Z. Mims, Mrs. Jean Wyatt and Mrs. J. N. Calloway.

All then gathered in the court room and were seated, members of each school being grouped. Speeches were made by Supt. B. Lawrence, members of the County Board of Education, Judge Reynolds, Percy M. Pitts and J. Z. Mims.

Each school had a short period allowed it for the presentation of a program. Many students of the schools made talks commending the work of the opportunity schools and the good they had derived from them. There were many strong and touching words of appreciation by those present.

Most all the communities having schools this year presented petitions for another school next year.

The big court room was crowded to standing capacity, and although the program lasted until 1:45, the attention was almost perfect and nearly all remained until the exercises were all over. The day was greatly enjoyed by all, and will be long remembered by those in attendance.

NEW PLAN GIVES COTTON FARMER 90 PER CENT LOAN

Cooperative Association Move Arranged With Federal Board

Washington, Aug 25.—The American Cotton Cooperative Association moved Monday to aid harassed farmers of the South by arranging through the Federal Farm Board loans to state cooperatives of 90 per cent of the value of their cotton for the benefit of seasonal pool members.

With the explanation this step was taken in view of the "deplorable condition of the cotton farmer in the South because of the present low level of prices," E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the national cooperative, issued a statement through the board setting forth the details of the plan.

Seasonal pool members, who deposit their crop with a state cooperative under an agreement to take the average seasonal price for the grade and staple of their product, will be able to borrow 90 per cent of the current price, less actual operating costs of the loan system.

Optional pool members, whose cotton is handled by the state cooperatives under an arrangement whereby the grower may order the sale of his product at a specified price, may borrow 80 per cent of the value of their cotton. If the price of cotton advances substantially, the percentage of the loans will be scaled down, on the theory that the amount the growers need for cash is lessened by the higher market.

Six Jailed Monday

Sheriff Collins and his deputies placed in jail Monday six people—five white men and one negro.

Marion Chandler, who was released from jail on bond Saturday was arrested and put back in jail Monday together with George Huett, both of whom were caught with whiskey near Pletcher. Both still remain in jail at the time of this writing.

While the officers were in Pletcher they ran upon Joe Adams, who was wanted for operating a car without license tag. He was arrested and put in jail.

Monday at noon the officers went to the home of Mr. Murphy on the Dock Ayers place, and arrested J. P. Traywick, who was wanted in Sylacauga by the city authorities. Traywick was placed in jail and was later turned over to Sylacauga officers.

With a search warrant the officers searched the place of Jim Jannings, colored, near the home of Jim Patterson on the Autauga County line. They found one-half pint of whiskey, and Jannings was there drinking, sleeping and having a drowsy, hilarious time. He was arrested and placed in jail, where he still remains.

SINGERS OF CENTRAL CHILTON CALLED TO MEET SAT. P. M.

A meeting is hereby called of the singers of the central part of the county to meet at the courthouse in Clanton at 2:00 o'clock next Saturday afternoon, August 30th.

The following churches are asked to send as representatives the persons named:

Chestnut Creek—I. D. Huett and L. T. Grant.

Poplar Springs—W. F. Gilliland.

Maple Springs—Emmett Wilson.

Friendship—J. D. Collins, Sr.

Providence—C. H. Robinson and J. W. Clackler.

Refuge—O. R. Robinson and Rev. M. Lockhart.

Concord—Steve L. Baker.

In regard to the above named representatives, we wish to urge each one to be present at the above hour. However, if any should not be able to attend, please send someone else to act in your stead from your church or singing society. Any one living in this section and interested in singing has an invitation to meet with the above named representatives.

The purpose of the above meeting is to organize and perfect as far as possible the Central Singing Society of Chilton County. It is intended that the above named churches or singing societies be permitted to constitute the central society. Notice will be taken that there are eight churches named above. The general purpose will be to draw up an organization with officers chosen from members of these churches interested in the advancement of sacred song, and that the society meet with each of the above churches one afternoon every two months. And on every fifth Sunday the society will either meet with an outside church near by or will hold an all day singing at some convenient place.

Plans for this organization have been considered for the past year by the singers in this part of the county. The need for such an arrangement is felt every time a singing society meets. It is difficult to have a real good singing with only home singers; but with the best material from these eight churches, we feel that a society can be formed that will be surpassed by none anywhere. And it will offer folks a new place to attend every Sunday; and the modern means of travel will make it easy to reach any of the above places within a few minutes.

Let the above named people attend this meeting Saturday afternoon, or send someone in your stead without fail.

HOWARDS WILL BE AWAY ON TRIP FOR THREE WEEKS

Miss Mabel Howard, proprietress of DeMabel's Beauty Shoppe here, together with her mother, Mrs. Fred Howard and sister, Miss Lucile Howard, of Thorsby, will leave next Sunday, August 30th, for a three-weeks visit to Chicago and other points in the north-west. During these three weeks the Beauty Shoppe here will be closed.

MISS CURTYS BEAN MARRIED TO MARVIN MARTIN SATURDAY

An event of much social interest in the northern part of Chilton County was the marriage of Miss Curtys Bean to Mr. Marvin Martin, which was solemnized by Rev. Zac Y. Appleton at the home of the bride, Saturday morning, August 23rd.

The bride is the daughter of Commissioner J. P. Bean of Mineral Springs, and Mr. Martin is the son of P. M. Martin of the Union Grove settlement.

J. WILEY LITTLEJOHN WILL MANAGE MAPLESVILLE STORE

An interesting bit of news is the announcement by Jesse Baker and Obe Deloach that they have employed J. Wiley Littlejohn to manage their store, the Ideal Dry Goods Co., at Maplesville. Mr. Littlejohn will take charge of the business September 1st.

J. Wiley Littlejohn is far from a novice in the mercantile business; and he is not a stranger among the people of Chilton County. He has held high positions of trust both in private business and in the service of the public in this county for the past twenty-five or thirty years,, and his honesty, fairness and sound business methods are unsurpassed anywhere by anybody.

Messrs. Baker and Deloach are certainly fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Littlejohn to manage their store at Maplesville. The people of that section will find in him a man pleasant to trade with, and you need not take time to count your change when he hands it to you.

NIGHT VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS BEING TAUGHT OVER COUNTY

County Agent C. E. Stapp reports that several vocational schools are being opened up over the county for the benefit of the farmers of the various communities.

A school of this kind is being taught by Prof. J. P. Montgomery of Jemison, at Minooka. This school meets Monday night and Thursday night of each week. Subjects being taught are Crops and Soil Building.

A school is now being organized at Mineral Springs by Prof. Montgomery. The subject taught in this school will be Poultry.

At Macedonia west of Jemison Prof. Earl Thomas of the Isabella Agricultural School is teaching a night school. Prof. Thomas is planning on organizing a school at Sardis to begin in the near future.

These night vocational schools consist of twelve meetings during the Fall, and there will be four seasonal meetings held the following spring. At all meetings the latest results of the Experiment Station at Auburn will be brought to the farmers, and farmers are given the opportunity to exchange ideas and experiences among themselves, which makes the meetings very profitable to those who attend.

Mr. Stapp visited the Minooka school Monday night of this week and talked on Soil Building and Soil Building Crops—vetch and Austrian peas. Mr. Stapp says that he expects to visit all the schools in the various communities as frequently as possible.

These vocational night schools afford the farmers an opportunity that they cannot hope to get anywhere else. Wherever possible, farmers should manage to attend one of these schools, and get the valuable ideas on farming that are taught them by these well informed teachers. The names of the members of the different schools will be published in the county papers just as soon as they are available.

DROUTH AID ASKED FOR CHILTON COUNTY FARMERS

Four Alabama leaders, Clyde Hendrix of Decatur, Dr. Bradford Knapp of Auburn, Edward A. O'Neal of Florence, and J. O. Thompson of Roba, are this week in Washington asking aid for drouth sufferers of this county along with those of all other counties of Alabama.

In a state-wide meeting of leaders in Montgomery last Saturday the Washington delegation was instructed to urge:

1. That the entire state of Alabama be included in the drouth relief program, as all counties have been more or less hard hit by dry weather.

2. That reduced freight rates now in effect on cattle and livestock be made to include seeds for winter legumes and cover crops in Alabama.

The Washington committee was named by S. P. Storrs, commissioner of Agriculture and Industries, who was unable to go to Washington because of other engagements. Those in Washington will report by telegram as soon as the conference ends as to how the drouth aid will be provided. If the conference ends in time the delegation will report in person at the meeting of county farm agents in Auburn Thursday and Friday of this week.

In the meantime the Extension Service and Experiment Station officials and Farm Bureau workers are advising farmers that "quickest relief will come from heavy planting of winter cover crops such as wheat, oats, rye, and winter legumes."

They say that farmers south of Birmingham should plant for a hay mixture of oats with hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas. North of Birmingham wheat (Alabama blue stem) should replace oats.

For fall and winter grazing they recommend planting rye. It should be planted immediately if it is to supply grazing during the fall. Oats, wheat and winter legumes may be grazed but grazing is detrimental to the production of hay.

Farmers are advised to advise with their county agents as to how and when to plant winter cover crops. No time should be lost.

CHILTON COUNTY FARM BUREAU NOW LEADING OTHER 21 COUNTIES IN DISTRICT

Over Three Hundred Members Now in Good Standing; Drive for More Members to be Put on Soon.

The Chilton County Farm Bureau was organized in January 1928 with only a few members. There are now more than 330 paid up members in the Chilton County Farm Bureau. The membership year runs from November 1 to October 31 each year.

Miss Zora Guy, the assistant secretary-treasurer, who is paid by the Farm Bureau, advises us that the membership is increasing every month.

In anuary, 1929, the Farm Bureau moved to its present quarters and since that time has furnished the office space for the County Agent, and also paid for his stenographic help.

Since the Farm Bureau was organized here, three membership campaigns have been put on which resulted in more than 400 members, 330 of whom are paid up to date. Another membership campaign will be put on in October and it is expected that this campaign will swell the membership to more than 500.

Following are the counties composing the Second Diserirt: Randolph, Elmore, Shelby, Lee, Maron, Clay, Chambers, Chilton, Tallapoosa, Covington, Coosa, Houston, Barbour, Talladega, Coffee, Dale, Pike, Bullock, Henry, Geneva, Russell, Crenshaw.

Following are the officers of the Chilton County Farm Bureau: W. L. Popwell, president; T. F. Patterson, 1st vice-president; Perry Gore, 2nd vice-president; W. L. Parrish, secretary-treasurer. Directors: J. N. Dennis, W. L. Popwell, T. F. Patterson, H. G. Boyd, Perry Gore, H. R. Oden, W. L. Parrish, L. G. Posey, Ellis Mims, I. M. Deason, E. R. Piper, Judson Strock, J. L. Smith, R. M. Foshee.

Leading farmers over the county say that the Farm Bureau has done much good and should have the support of every good farmer of the county.

A complete list of the members of the Chilton County Farm Bureau will be found elsewhere in this issue of The Union-Banner.

REPUBLICANS WILL NOT HAVE STATE TICKET

At the Alabama State Republican Convention in Birmingham last Thursday, it was definitely settled that the Republican party in Alabama will not nominate candidates for state offices in the general election this year. Neither will there be a Republican candidate for United States Senator.

This action was brought about because of the sentiment among delegates from different parts of the state in favor of giving Republican support to Senator Thomas Heflin and Hugh Locke, independent Democratic candidates for United States Senator and Governor, respectively.

The Republican convention did not officially endorse Heflin and Locke, but the action of the convention in refusing to put out candidates against them is taken to mean that it was the purpose of the Republican leaders to leave the Republican voters of the State free to support Heflin and Locke if they want to in the November election.

The Republican Convention of the Fourth Congressional District will be held in Talladega September 11, for the purpose of taking such action as the district delegates wish with reference to a Republican candidate for Congress.

John W. Patterson

Monday morning, August 25th, at 8 o'clock the spiirt of Mr. John W. Patterson passed over the great divide to that eternal rest prepared for the children of God.

He was 72 years of age and had resided for long years in the Popular Springs community. He and his faithful and loving wife Emma, raised a family of 14 children, 8 boys and 4 girls, who are still living and one son and daughter who are dead and are making a welcome for "Papa" in their new home beyond the skies.

The bereaved wife and the following children survive to mourn and miss this good man: Edgar Patterson, East Tallassee; Henry Patterson, Clanton; Tom Patterson, Clanton; William Patterson, Pa.; Clevland Patterson, Bessmer; U. A. Patterson, Tallassee; Judge Patterson, Clanton; Mrs. Giller Bell Hardy, Goodwater; Mrs. Monroe Wyatt, Clanton; Mrs. G. C. Ray, Cooper.

The deceased was known and loved by a very large number of neighbors and friends who are saddened by his death, a large number of whom were at his funeral at Popular Springs Wednesday morning.

Economist Predicts Business Recovery

Prof. Irving Fisher Believes Unprecedented Prosperity In Country Is Near

Recovery of business from the depression of the last year and a return to unprecedented proseprity is predicted my Prof. Irving Fisher, economist of Yale University, in a review of conditions. He bases his prediction on replies from executive heads of 198 companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The answers to the questionaires sent out by him, he says, did not require corporation executives to sign their names or otherwise indicate who they were, thus, he adds, assuring accurate informations.

Taking the answers as a whole, he says, they show that present values of stocks are not much out of line with real values and that during the height of the speculative market preceding the crash of last October inflation of stocks averaged only about 14 per cent above real values.

Utilities, he says the replies show, were inflated about 30 per cent while railroad executives said the stock values represented by them were about right.

The present level of stock prices is not affected by the depression of the last few months, the chief executives stated in their replies, some of them saying the present prices are too low by from 40 to 50 per cent.

The Yale economist says undoubtedly there was undue speculative inflation of stock prices at the culmination of the long bull market, but now that enough time has elapsed for a careful appraisal of the situation the average estimate of men whose seasoned opinion should be heeded is that the general level of the market at its height was not much too high as commonly believed.

He says the present low level of stock prices seems to be more affected by the business depression and immediate reductions in earnings than by the prospects of business, once it shakes itself free from the effects of panic and depression. In the opinion of the chief executives answering the questionnaire, he says, the stock price level must some fine day recover with a return of the unparalleled commercial prosperity and stability which marked the seven years preceding the crash.

American Legion

The American Legion met in a special meeting at Clanton, Friday night, August 22 for the purpose of setting a meeting night for the ensuing year. It was decided to meet on the first and third Monday nights in each month for a while. We are also planning to have a ball game Thursday afternoon, September 4th, at Clanton, everybody is invited.

Thursday afternoon, September 11 we will have a chicken barbecue at Reynolds swimming pool. Each member is requested to bring two friars to Broadhead's Market not later than Thursday morning, September 11th, dressed so the man who has to do the barbecuing will get them on time. Legionaire Jean Gore was appointed to do the barbecuing with E. W. Klinner assisting. Each Legionaire bring your wife and family and a friend.

Every ex-soldier in the county is especially requested to be present at these meetings above stated.

Committee on entertainment includes J. H. Plier, J. W. Cox, and A. L. Robinson. These Legionaires will have something in store for you that is worth while.—V. C. Mckee, Adjutant Chilton County Post.

LUTHER TEEL JUNIOR

Mr and Mrs. Luther Teel of East Clanton announce the birth of a ten-pound son on August 11th. They have named it Luther Junior.

ITS A BOY

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Wright of Elmore are the proud parents of a nine-pound baby boy, his name is Fulton Jr.

FRANK JAMES CONVINCED THAT IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Lest week Mr. Frank James advertised in The Union-Banner for a country boy to work in his place. He has had enough applications to mobolize a good sized army regiment; they began coming in a few minutes after the papers got in the mails and they haven't stopped yet.

If not before, Mr. James is now thoroughly sold on the effectiveness of advertising through the columns of The Union-Banner.

AMOS, A HERDSMAN CALLED OF GOD TO BE A PROPHET

LESSON TEXT—The Book of Amos.

GOLDEN TEXT—I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I, send me.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Shepherd Who Became Great.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Shepherd Who Became Great.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Answering God's Call.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Work That Serves God.

I. The Call of Amos (1:1).

He was a herdsman and gatherer of sycamore fruit (7:14). As a herdsman his income was not sufficient, therefore, he supplemented it by selling sycamore fruit. He was not a prophet by succession, neither was he trained in the prophetic schools. He sat not at the feet of any great teacher. God called him from a humble life to stand before the king. A prophet is one who forthtells more especially than foretells. His primary work was proclaiming God's message rather than predicting events to come.

II. To Whom Was Amos Sent (1:1)?

God sent him primarily to Israel, the northern nation. Though he was from Judah, his ministry was to be primarily to Israel. It was during the reign of Jeroboam II when the northern kingdom had reached its highest state of prosperity. This prosperity, as is usually the case, was accompanied with a condition of luxury, corruption, and gross wickedness.

III. Amos' Message.

1. Sins denounced (2:6-8; 6:1-6).

(1) Avaricious greed (2:6-8).

a. Sold the righteous for silver (v. 6).

The judge for a bribe of silver declared the innocent to be guilty.

b. Sold the poor for a pair of shoes.

The word "shoes" doubtless means sandals, the price of which was comparatively small.

c. Pants after the dust of the earth (v. 7).

The word "pant" means to eagerly desire. So avaricious had these men become that they even grasped after the earth which the downtrodden poor cast upon their heads in mourning their misery.

d. Turned aside the way of the meek.

These grasping rich men turned aside those who did not stand up for their rights.

e. Licentiousness (v. 7).

It was not merely the case of falling into sensuous sin but indulgence with a definite purpose of insulting God and dishonoring his holy name.

(2) Reckless security (6:1-3).

They were living in a "fool's paradise" and closing their eyes to the approaching storm of judgment predicted by the prophet. They regarded their city as impregnable. The strength of a nation is its righteousness, not its wealth and armaments.

(3) Luxury (vv. 4-6).

Their luxury expressed itself in:

a. Extravagant furniture (v. 4).

b. Laziness (v. 4).

Many stretched themselves on their couches, living lives of indolence.

c. Feasted on delicacies (v. 4).

They bought what they desired regardless of its cost.

d. Adorned their feasts with music (v. 5).

They sang idle songs, even invented musical instruments for this purpose.

e. They drank wine (v. 6).

They drank from bowls, indicating excessive drinking. Though their feasts were adorned with refinement of music, they ended in drunkenness.

(4) They failed to grieve for Joseph (v. 6).

Joseph here stands for Ephraim and Manasseh.

2. The remedy proposed (5:4-9).

The prophet called upon them to return to God. He said, "Seek ye me and ye shall live." The implication is that while as yet the divine judgments are stayed an opportunity is offered for them to turn to God. "Seek" means applying for help. The time to repent is while judgment is stayed. In their turning to God they were to renounce:

(1) Idolatry (vv. 5, 6).

They were to turn away from the places of idolatry—Bethel, Gilgal, and Beersheba. God's judgment was to strike these places.

(2) Cease to pervert judgment (v 7).

Turning judgment to wormwood implies the bitterness of the perversion of judgment to the injured.

(3) Cease to dethrone righteousness.

Leaving off righteousness is thought to mean that unrighteousness was allowed to take its place. He now for the third time urged them to seek the Lord.

Praise the Lord

Good is the Lord—his loving kindness and his tender mercy are beyond all my thought! I will therefore praise him loudly, sweetly, with my whole heart, and with the buoyancy of ecstatic love.—Joseph Parker.

Trifles

"In conduct do not make trifles of trifles. Record the smallest action as being either right or wrong, and make a conscience of little things."—Spurgeon.

ABOUT OUR OIL

Editor Union-Banner:

It seems we are going to let the oil subject go dead. It seems that we have good crops in our country, and I wish I could get enough men interested in the oil that we have in our country to form a company and each one put a share in, and drill a well. We ourselves know that the oil is here. We can give a map of every place where the oil is. I do not feel my life is very long here, and I sure would like to see a hole drilled to show up the oil. I do not think I am a deceiver. I always try to tell the truth on any subject.

The way I locate oil and veins of water is looked at by many good men to be as nothing, but that does not stop us on our faith in the matter. It is curious to see what I have worked up in locating what is hid in the earth. Do you and I think the Lord is always going to let us drill dry holes for water and oil and make mistakes. We can drill in ten feet of a run of water or oil and miss it, and go off and condemn the whole country and stop prosperity.

This country has the oil as well as the rest. We have been out there and tested the oil fields with our oil fields here. So dear friend, if you will not help to open up the oil here, please let some company that has the money take leases and open up our oil.

Selfishness will hold a country down. It has done it time and again. A company well could be drilled with so many shares each. I would drill one myself, but I am not able. Now, may many a good man speak slightly of this letter, not understanding it as I do. We are not boasting, we are not of that kind. I am not ashamed of my phrases, for I believe it is a gift to man for many blessings on the earth.

I want to say again that attraction is one thing that has never been taught in the schools, but we are able to teach it by a long study of its work. We could make a field display of its work and show its foundation, but the idea is, are the people ready to accept it? If not, we will have to wait and stumble on and pay out money for experience.

Now I will ask a question. If Adam had not sinned and brought a curse on his children would there have been any mistakes and dry holes drilled for oil and water. Many people carry water for miles, and probably a fine vein right at them, has not that been proved. Now, if Adam's children lost their power through the fall will it never come back through the restitution that all the prohpets speak of? And what did he lose? Was it an earthly paradise or a heaven way up in some unknown place? Yes look at the oil and all other things that may be found without mistake. Paradise or a heaven could not be a paradise or a heaven with mistakes in it. So knowledge will increase until it brings back lost blessings. So help us to develop the oil in our country.—S. N. Waldrop.

FROM W. L. SANDERS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words to the voters of this county.

I want to say to those who gave me their support and nomination that I sure appreciate it, and to those who supported my opponents, I have no ill will, but am glad to see the people vote their own conviction.

I, if elected in November, will try to serve the people in the way that they will not regret giving me their vote and influence. Yours very truly. —W. L. Sanders.

In 1930 the per capita production per farm worker in the United States is four times what it was 90 years ago.

On August 1st the condition of the Alabama cotton crop was 62 per cent of normal. This condition indicates a yield of 160 pounds of lint per acre compared with 174 pounds harvested last year. On this basis the Alabama crop is estimated at 1,201,000 against 1,342,000 bales in 1929 and 1,109,000 bales in 1928.

WEST CHILTON

The recent cool days and nights were welcome visitors, after such extremely hot weather. Along with the late rains have come some right severe winds in certain localities.

Married last Monday at Jemison, Mr. Pat Lowery of Providence and Miss Bevie Smith, Rev. J. N. Scott officiating. The bride was raised in West Chilton where she has many friends. But for the past few years she has lived in Birmingham. We extend congratulations.

The cotton fields look like old times. Before the advent of the boll weevil. The stalks loaded with fruit. We wonder if the grower will get cost of production? The more cotton we make the cheaper it becomes. That is the way one of our friends sums it up. Supply and demand you know. Another friend says, "The more you produce the less you have." So life is a farce from the cradle to the grave. How much the world needs the dominion of Shiloh. Man cannot remedy the situation adeqately, too much selfishness.

We note that some of our nominees have fine musical talent, viz Culp, Sanders and Collins. That reminds us of 1888 when there was an uprising of the people in Bibb County. So at a joint speaking between G. M. Adams and Judge Smitheman, the latter said Adams was a combination candidate, that is he could make a political speech, an alliance lecture and wind up with a sermon. Some fellow responded "That is all good." So say we for our musical nominees, it is all good.

Messers. Ben and John Glass of Maplesville came up to Macedonia Sunday.

Mrs. Dave Wood Freeman of Cullman is visiting in this community.

In looking over the letters in the late campaign, we note Mr. A. A. Jackson nailed to his masthead the golden rule. Nothing could be higher than that. It is a part of the divine program. It is perfection and is predestined to be the law of the future. Ultimately no one will live on this planet except those in hormony with the Golden Rule. It is not an impossibility. Mr. Rains came out with the same thought clothed in different language. It would make everything just right.

A mixture of either oats and Alabama bluestem wheat and either hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas planted between September 15 and October 15 should make a good crop of hay next spring, according to agricultural workers at Auburn. County agents are recommending that farmers plant these crops, in view of the shortage of feed due to the summer drouth.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

Joyous Foot Bath Then Lift Out CORNS

Root and All Out to Stay

Two tablespoonfuls of that amazingly refreshing and foot invigorating Radox to one gallon of water makes a footbath which after 3 or 4 nights' soaking lifts out aching maddening corns, callouses, too—root and all.

Radox softens the hard outer layers of corn—and oxygen which Radox liberates, enters the pores, each night penetrating further and further, carrying the salts right to root of corn which can be lifted out bodily.

Wonderful to take out pain and burning and refresh tired feet.

Get a package of Radox at Alred Drug Co., any drug store and know the joyous comfort of corn and callous free feet—Radox is the modern, scientific method to remove corn which completely eliminates old fashioned plasters, dangerous cutting, skin destroying acids and obsolete methods.

PLEASANT GROVE

There will be an all day singing at this place on next Sunday, August 31st, in the 1930 song books. It is 7 miles west of Clanton. Everybody is innvited to come and bring a well filled basket.

The C. E. Society met Sunday night with a lage crowd present, we were proud of it. We hope more will be present next Sunday. We elected group leaders for Group No. 1 and 2 and the program will be arranged by each group leader.

Lets every member come out and make our C. E. Society one among the best, especially do we request all members to be present the second Sunday night in September. We want to get the names of all the members.

We will have with us the C. E. Society of Concord the first Sunday night in September.—Virgie Henley.

MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

Our Sunday School is getting along nicely. We organized our young people's class Sunday and hope it will do better work. All the young people seemed to be very well pleased with their places.

There were several of the Mountain Springs people who motored to East View Sunday afternoon and reported a nice time.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Giles are on the sick list; we hope the are well again soon.

Everybody is invited to come to Mountain Springs church; you are welcome to our church at any time. —Maggie Coggins.

Tommie Patterson, wife and little girl, Peggy, of South Clanton, came home Sunday afternoon, from Northern Virginia, where Mr. Patterson has been working with a big construction job.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Plier returned to Clanton Sunday afternoon, from Northenrn Virginia, where Mr. Plier has been working in the carpenter's trade.

Had Practically Abandoned Hope

"I had indigestion and other stomach troubles so long I'd almost lost hope of ever being well again.

MRS. EFFIE HUGHES

I was habitually constipated, my back hurt me and my kidneys were overactive breaking into my sleep. The improvement Sargon brought me is almost unbelievable. Every one of my troubles have disappeared and I sleep like a child.

"Sargon Pills regulated me perfectly without causing me the slightest discomfort."—Mrs. Effie Hughes, 4012 6th Court, N., Birmingham.

Sargon is sold by Alred Drug co., of Clanton, and Thorsby Drug Co., of Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Lancaster of Birmingham spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

WINTER LEGUMES ADD $100,000 TO MARENGO FARMERS INCOME

Linden, Ala., Aug. 25.—In five years winter legumes have added more than $100,000 to the income of Marengo County farmers by increasing their yields, according to R. D. Winch, county agent.

MADISON FARMERS MAKE MORE AFTER USING LEGUMES

Huntsville, Ala., Aug. 25.—Because his corn yeild after vetch was more than four times that not following vetch, C. H. Hunt of New Hope has increased his vetch planting from five acres to forty acres, reports J. B. Mitchell, County agent, Madison County:

County agent Mitchell, also reports that O. C. Hammond of Deposit had five acres in vetch and Austrian winter peas in 1928 and made ten tons of feed following this. In 1929 he doubled his vetch acreage. "Such results as these caused the farmers of the county to plant 11,000 pounds of winter legumes in 1929 compared with 5,500 in 1928," Mr. Mitchell said.

HOGS MAKE MONEY HARVESTING CORN

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 25.—Based upon a study of Alabama production and market prices for 15 years (1915 to 1929) allowing hogs to harvest corn in the field is more profitable than harvesting it and selling it at market prices.

Figures on this were compiled by F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman of Auburn, who found an advantage of 28 cents per bushel, or $4.06 per acre, in favor of hogging off.

In all but three of the 15 years hogging off was more profitable than harvesting and marketing, Mr. Burns said.

He used 6 1-2 bushels of corn and 36 pounds of tankage per 100 pounds of pork production. Experiments in Auburn have shown this to be sufficient under field conditions.

As a final conclusion he said that Alabama farmers would have realized during the last 15 years an average of $1.32 per bushel for corn had they marketed it through hogs. The labor requirement is very low when hogs do the harvesting and the fertility of the soil is improved.

Harveting corn this way also indicates an opportunity in hog production, he said.

DALE FARMERS BELIEVE IN WINTER LEGUMES

Ozark, Ala., Aug. 25.—Six years ago winter legumes were almost unknown in Dale County, reports G. W. Ray, county agent. By many personal calls and much persuasion on the part of the county agent 1,000 pounds of winter legumes were planted in the county in 1923. Seeing the wonderful results of winter legumes in enriching land, farmers in the county in 1929 planted 27,000 pounds of Austrian winter peas and 8,000 pounds of hairy vetch.

AUBURN DOORS TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 8

Auburn, Ala,, Aug 25.—The doors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute will be opened for the fifty-ninth annual session on Monday, September 8, sophomores, juniors, and seniors will begin class work.

Freshmen, who will report at the same time as all upper classmen, will not begin class work until September 12, at which time they will have completed a training course designed by President Bradford Knapp and members of the faculty to acquaint them with college life and how to get the most from their college career. In announcing plans for the opening Dr. Knapp said that new buildings will be ready, and a larger faculty on the job, and new courses will be offered.

The Ross Chemical Laboratory, which has been in use since spring, and the animal husbandry and dairy building, recently occupied, will supply long-felt needs at Auburn. The textile building is under construction and will be finished by early fall. It will be equipped with modern machinery for research and teaching textile engineering.

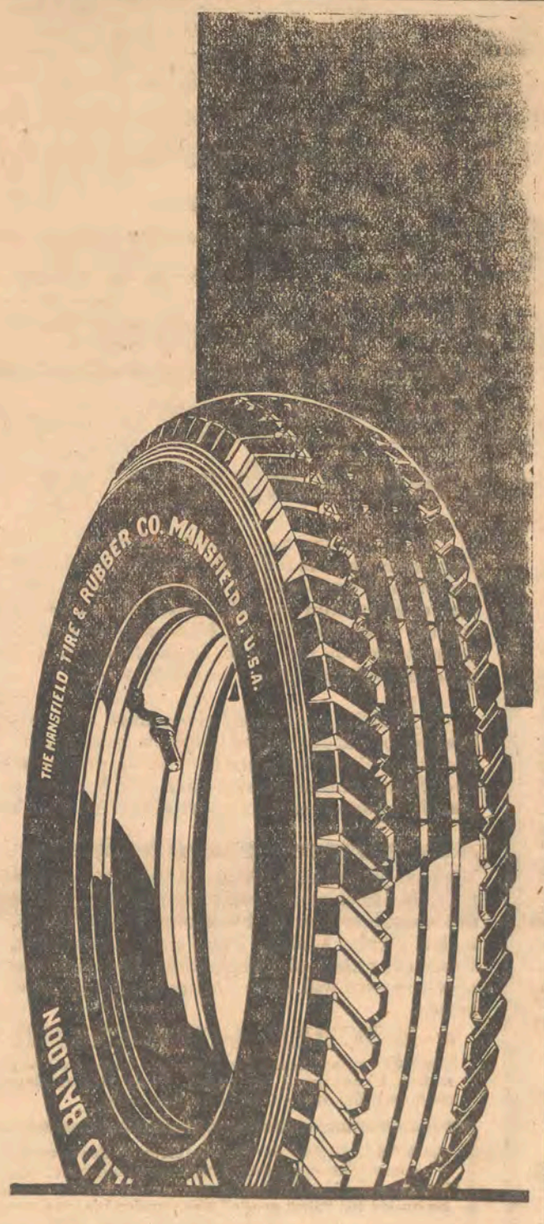
The freshmen will spend two days taking special training to get acquainted with college conditions and requirements. Three addresses will be delivered by President Knapp. Each dean will appear before the new students.

On Friday, September 12, a special convocation will be held at which the speakers will be Governor and Mrs. Graves.

WHO WANTS TO BE A FORESTER

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 25.—The profession of forestry has become increasingly important in the United States during the last thirty-five years, and large numbers of young men are attracted to it for various reasons. Forestry developed in America for the same reason that agriculture came into being—the people and industries of the country need the products of the forests just as they require those of the farms, and the increasing supply of wood and other tree materials renders it necessary to resort to scientific and practical management of the woodlands.

The yields of forestry are derived through certain forms of plant life. The forester must possess a knowledge of botany. He also must be versed in bacteriology and plant pathology. Zoology, particularly entomology, is also essential. General geology and soil science contribute necessary data. Meteorology is very important. However, as a prerequisite to progress in the foregoing the student in forestry must be familiar with general physics and chemistry including the organic compounds.



Since the forester deals with profitable timber production on large and irregular areas, he must be a surveyor, which requires him to know something of astronomy. The computation of yields, present and prospective, and the multitude of facts that must be ascertained and problems determined require a knowledge of mathematics through the calculus and also a facility in the use of statistical methods. For research work it is desirable that the forester extend his knowledge of mathematics to include different equations and vector analysis. Since forestral practice is directed toward the supplying of materials needs, a knowledge of ecenomics is indispensable.

The foregoing indicate only fundamental reguirements. In addition to these the professional branches of silviculture, protection, extraction, utilization, and management must be mastered. These and the fundamental subjects may be most readily pursued at a regular college of forestry granting degrees in forestry after a four or five year course. It is true that the various branches may be mastered in other ways, but the forestral aspirant in such cases must count on spending a great deal more time than if he pursued his studies in college.

Many practical arts must be mastered in addition to the basic academic subjects. At any time in his work the forester may be required to engage in microscopy, photograhy, cartography, drafting and typing. Necessarily he is an expert in woodcraft. He must be qualified to undertake human, animal, steam, motor, water and air transport, and he is frequetly called upon to turn out good jobs of mechanical, electrical and civil engineering.

Sunday afternoon our singing society met. The singing was good and everyone seemed to enjoy it. We were glad to see as many as there was. We had many visitors here whom we were indeed glad to have and we invite them to be back with us next fourth Sunday. Singing was opened by our chairman, W. L. Sanders. Directors were: R. E. Jones, Virgil Robinson, F. J. Little, Tommie Mims, Johnnie Minor, E. C. Traywick, Lillie Mae Weldon, Zula Rutherford and Annie Cleckler. Organist were: Mrs. Annie Robinson, Lillie Mae Weldon, Zula Rutherford and Virgie Giles.

We invite visitors to come and be with us any time. You are always welcome.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

Retail food prices in the United States as reported to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the United States Department of Labor showed a decrease of slightly more than 2 1-2 per cent on July 15, 1930, when compared with June 15, 1930, and a decrease of a little more than 9 per cent since July 15, 1929.

The next regular session of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute will open for registration, Monday, September 8. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors will begin class work on September 10 and freshmen on September 12, after a training period to acquaint them with college life.

Miss Elizabeth Williams of Clanton is spending the week in Birmingham with relatives.

Ross Ellison and mother, Mrs. Victoria Ellison, of Lay Dam, left Friday morning, August 22, for Hot Springs, Ark., where they will spend a week with relatives. Mr. Ellison is employed at Lay Dam by the Alabama Power Company. He is now on his vacation.

TO THE BOYS AND GIRLS OF BETHSALEM CHURCH

Dear little boys and girls: I want to give you all just a few words in the way to live for Jesus. I know I will never meet you face to face, though I can write you all a few words and when old Satan comes to you and tries to get you to do his way, turn your back to him. He will come in a shape of a man and some time in the shape of a woman and will try to get you to do some thing that will not please Jesus. But listen, hold on to Jesus, He is the on to look to for all things.

Oh, how it makes me rejoice,
To see you all take Jesus for your choice.
For it is awful to say,
That so many people are going astray.
Jesus is knocking at your heart,
Wanting you from sin to depart.
He is so good and kind,
He is always in my mind.
And if you all will take Him as your Saviour too,
He will lead you safely through.
Listen dear friends, my race is nearly run,
I am so glad I accepted Him while I was young.
For He is a friend, and a friend indeed,
He will be with you in every need.
Dont ever, ever, forget Him at all,
If you do you will surely fall.
Keep on the right track,
And don't ever turn back.

—Mrs. Elis Keath Askins.

IN MEMORY OF ETHEL DAVIS

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Davis on August 13th and bore away the spirit of their beloved baby, Ethel. She was one year and ten months old. Little Ethel was ill only a few days.

It is hard to give up our loved ones, especially at this young age; but it is sweet to know that God had a place pepared for her in His mansions above—a home far better than we could give her here. By experience alone can we sympathize with the dear bereaved mother and father. We pray that each day they may become more reconciled to the blessed and holy will of God.

They now have treasures in heaven they have never had before; so let us live a more perfect life than even before, and strive to meet the babe that has just departed from us and other dear ones that God has already called from us.

Weep not, dear mother and father, for the babe that has gone on before; for God has prepared her a home on that bight and shining shore. God giveth and He taketh, and He knoweth what is best. From our homes and hands He taketh our loved ones to rest. Some day in the future, we know not where and we knew not when, God will then summon us to leave this world of sin.

If we have obeyed Him, He will claim us for His own; we shall rejoice with our loved ones, around that happy throne.—A Friend to the bereaved, Mae Dennis.

UNDER the non-skid tread of these famous Firestone Tires is a double breaker of two plies of cord fabric anchored in cushion rubber. This special construction absorbs road shocks — protects against punctures and blowouts — provides the foundation for the thick, tough tread with deeper grooves—giving longer non-skid wear.

OTHER makes of tires have only a single breaker of old-fashioned square woven fabric which Firestone discarded when they developed the balloon tire. Some makes do not have any breaker at all. The Firestone Tire is set apart as an "All Cord Tire".

How One Woman Lost Twenty Pounds of Fat

Lost Her Double Chin
Lost Prominent Hips
Lost Her Sluggishness
Gained Physical Vigor
Gained in Vivaciousness
Gained a Shapely Figure

If you're fat—remove the cause! KRUSCHEN SALTS contain the 6 mineral salts your body organs, glands and nerves must have to function properly.

When your vital organs fail to perform their work correctly—your bowels and kidneys can't throw off that waste material—before you realize it—you're growing hideously fat.

Take half a teaspoonful of KRUSCHEN SALTS in a glass of hot water every morning—exercise regularly—do not over eat and—in 3 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—your eyes sparkle with glorious health—you feel younger in body—keener in mind. KRUSCHEN will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get an 85c bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS at Alred Drug Company (lasts 4 weeks). If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic — vigorously alive—your money gladly returned.

RESTING IN GOD

On August 11th, 1930, occured the expected death of Russell Milford, who was living in the home of his aunt, Mrs. Moriah Henley of Pleasant Grove Community. Mrs. Henley had reared the boy from infancy. He was 23 years old, and gave himself to Christ one year prior to his death. He was the son of Mark L. Milford; his mother was a sister to Charles, Willie and Eddie Cooper.

Russell left a very sweet testimonial of the assurance that all was well; yet there is a vacant chair that no one can fill. The voice is stilled; he has ceased to walk in the midst of the living, but remains in the silent plat of the dead.

His body was deposited in Pleasant Grove cemetery, where he shall rest and await the great resurrection when the soul and body shall reunite and be judged.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to the bereaved ones left behind; but death finds its pathway into the lives of all men. May each reader lift up his heart in gratitude to God and prepare himself for this very hour; for we shall all meet it, we know not when—we know not where. Funeral services were conducted by the writer, N. H. Culp, pastor of Verbena Circuit.

Unfounded Popular Belief

That a fire caused by lightning can not be extinguished with water is an old popular belief which still survives in many parts of the country, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. Fire is fire no matter how started, whether by a match, spontaneous combustion or a flash of lightning. A fire produced by lightning has the same physical properties as other fire and can be extinguished in the same manner.

Tippling and Riots Put End to Morris Dancing

The Lancashire morris dancers who played up so well for their county in the folk-dancing festival in London would perform under social conditions vastly different from those of a century ago, for what really led to the decay of Lancashire morris dancing was the injudicious "treating" at each stopping place of the rushcart dancers, the brawls between rival teams and their supporters, and the riotous crowds assembled by the pageant, says a columnist in the Manchester Guardian.

"As drunk as a morris dancer," was a Lancashire saying. Alex Wilson's picture (1821) of a rushcart and morris dancers in Long Millgate, Manchester, in the midst of a riotous and rascally crowd, explains well enough why the custom was put down, the picture being given extra verisimilitude by the local portraits introduced, including the celebrated Rev. Brooks, bewigged and with stick raised characteristically in wrath.

Matter of Spelling

Joe, although in the fourth grade, had not yet mastered the art of spelling. Recently, while visiting his aunt, he made a tour of her extensive library. Joe paused before several books bearing the inscription: "The Sacred Works of John X." He studied them seriously for a few minutes, then asked abruptly, "Aunt Jane, was this man frightened when he wrote these books?"

"Not that I know of. Why?" she asked, puzzled.

"Well," he answered slowly, "these books say 'The Scared Works of John X.'"

Adulterating With Water

Adding unnecessary water to canned goods manufactured for shipment and sale in interstate commerce is in violation of the federal food and drugs act. Inspectors of the food, drug and insecticide administration, United States Department of Agriculture, are constantly on the alert to detect and punish violators. Such adulterated food, if otherwise properly prepared, would not be harmful to the health of the consumer, but to his pocketbook. He would be buying water at food prices.

Old Stuff

Tom had been hearing Kipling's "Just So Stories" for the first time, and his imagination had been stirred and his vocabulary considerably enriched.

A cake of mother's baking had not come up to the usual standard, and had been removed from the table almost untouched after two meals. The next day when ice cream was served for dessert, Tom looked about the table inquiringly. "And what," he asked, "has become of that Neolithic cake?"

50 Years' Use of Black-Draught

"About fifty years ago," says Mr. Lewis G. O'Shields, of Portersville, Ala., "my mother gave me the first dose of Black-Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children.

"I have used Black-Draught for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes close on constipation.

"I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and backache.

"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in the home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time."

CAN WE EXPECT A REVIVAL?

(Editorial from The Globe, Toronto, Canada, Jan. 22, 1930.)

There was once a man who believed a revival was needed. He stood high in the court of the greatest empire of his day, Persia. He was a Hebrew, and had learned that the walls of God's city, Jerusalem, were broken down, the gates burned with fire, and the Jews, who had returned there from the Babylonian capitivity in great affliction and reproach. He believed in God, and he loved his people. The story of what followed is told in the book of Nehemah. Nehemiah, cupbearer to King Artaxerxes, was the man who dared to hope for a revival. Nothing could have seemed less likely just then. But it came, in the face of deadness, discouragements, and attacks of the most determined and desperate sort.

If there was to be a spiritual revival of God's people Israel, there must be a revival of wall-building also, so that Jerusalem might be honorable instead of a public dishonor in the land. Nehemiah was both spiritual and practical—neither of these can really exist without the other. After he had secured the royal authority for his work in Jerusalem, and systematic plans for rebuilding the wall of the Holy City had begun, an enemy made an attack upon the movement. Sanballat, an influential Samaritan, prompted perhaps by political motives, ridiculed Nehemiah and his fellow-workers. "What do these feeble Jews?" He exclaimed. "Will they sacrifice? Will they make an end in a day? Will they revive the stones out of the heaps of the rubbish which are burned?" Another enemy allied with Sanballat predicted with sarcasm: "Even that which they build, if a fox go up, he shall even break down their stone wall."

But Nehemiah's work went straight forward; the walls of Jerusalem were rebuilt; and one of the great revivals of history followed as God's people turned to the reading of His word and the doing of His will.

Here is a lesson in revival that God's people need to take to heart today, when revival is sorely needed again. Revivals usually come to pass in the face of intense opposition, and in times of great darkness and declension. No intelligent observer can doubt that we are in such times today. Determined attacks are being made on the word of God and the Gospel of Jesus Christ and the true Christian faith. Immorality is on every hand. Open atheism flourishes. Materialism grips the hearts of men. All these conditions make a call to revival.

Nehemiah's first move toward revival was significant. When he learned of the dire distress of the people of Jerusalem, he said: "I sat down and wept, and mourned certain days, and fasted, and prayed before the God of Heaven."

His very prayer was the sure pathway to revival. It began with worship of God "that keepeth covenant and mercy for them that love Him and observe His commandments." And at once it went on to confession of sin. Then Nehemiah boldly reminded God of the divine promise to forgive and to restore if confession was made. God heard and honored that prayer.

Revival has never come in any other way; but it has come, over and over again in times of darkness and need, in just that way. There is a passage of Scripture that may well be used in prayer for revival today: "When the enemy shall come in like a flood, the Spirit of the Lord shall lift up a standard against him."

The enemy is coming in like a flood today, not only in Soviet Russia, not only in war-torn China, but also in every favored land where Christianity is a glorious reality—and where also the working of the powers of evil is a dread reality.

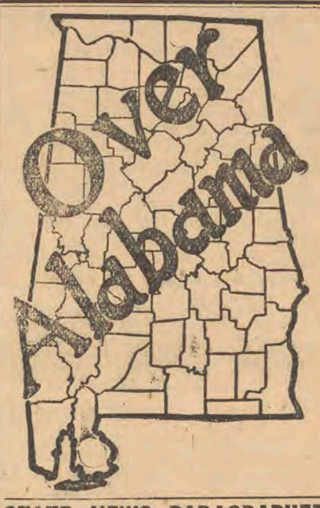
Not only are there plenty of dark signs that revival is needed; there are also many bright signs of its coming. For almost a score of years many individuals and groups of Christian people have been praying persistently for revival. The Great Commission Prayer League of Chicago has been used of God to stir up people to prevailing prayer. At its world-wide call many watch-night meetings of prayer for revival were held as the old year died and the new year was born. Those who are in touch with the prayer life of the church are continually receiving news of intense, persistent prayer in Europe, in Asia, in Canada and the United States, in South America, in Africa, that God's people are pleading for a heaven-born, heaven-sent revival.

In parts of the world where, humanly speaking, there is reason for the greatest discouragement, there are also brightest signs of coming revival. Russia is one of these parts. In spite of—or shall we say because of?—the devilish and official activity against all true religious life, and indeed against God Himself and His only Son, heart-hungry people are turning to God in their tragic need and are finding salvation through Christ as Saviour. Revivals have broken out in various parts of China since—and because of—the political turmoil and tragedy of that land. The Jews everywhere are showing a readiness to consider the Messianic claims of Christ such as they have never manifested since they cried out to pilate, "Crucify Him."

The distribution of the life-giving word of God is going on in a way known to no other literature. China was sown with a million Testaments not long ago, and now the million testament campaign for Latin-American Lands is under way. The various Bible societies in a recent twelve months circulated 36,500,000 copies of the Scriptures, which means an average of about 70 per minute night and day. The Canadian Sunday School Mission, of Winnipeg, is doing a revival work by its campaign for the children, as is the Canadian Christian Crusade in meeting the attacks of atheism.

Yes, we can expect a revival. But our expectation must be from God; only He can send it.

WORD OF APPRECIATION



To Chilton County Board of Education and Mr. H. A. Harris:

The colored people of Clanton City School take this means of trying to express to you the great appreciation we have for the manner you have acted toward us in giving us the help you have given in the past in our school work.

We wish most especially to express our appreciation for your assistance in giving to us our opportunity school. It is felt that much good has been done in the opportunity school. We have done what we could to make the school beneficial to all who were fortunate enough to attend. It is hoped that you will give us the privilege to assist with another school like this.

We are putting forth every effort we can to do the very best possible for the community in which we live, and it is due to your assistance and our white friends in general that we have been able to do what we have done.

We wish to thank everyone most heartily for any assistance given us in the past and ask your good will toward us that we may keep going and doing good in the work in Clanton, Alabama.—E. W. Burt, principal of Clanton City School.

COLORED OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow space in your paper for a notation of the exercises of the Colored Opportunity Schools of Chilton County on Friday, August 22, the closing day of the nine schools of this classification; that have been running for the last six weeks.

Soon after the opening of these Opportunity Schools it was suggested from headquarters that it would be a grand occasion for all the schools to meet at the unit of supervision and put a capstone of appreciation upon such an unexpected blessing conferred upon our people.

Enrolled in these nine schools were about four hundred pupils, with ages running all the way from five to one hundred and eight years. Of this number at least ninety per cent met at the colored Baptist Church to form a line of march through the principal thoroughfares of the city of Clanton. Clanton, one of the most hustling, bustling, and confestive towns to be found any where. There was not a single obstacle of impediment to impede the march of this concourse of our people. Every street through which we were to pass was wide open. Not a car, a truck, a dray, a wagon, a horse, or any thing was allowed to interfere with that glorious march.

It is convincing proof that a black man or black woman who properly behaves themselves is respected in our blessed Southland. Our march covered about 2 miles distance. The County Board of Education was in one of its most important and busy sessions, but suspended its business and bringing up the rear of our line with their presence, came into the church soon after our return. Their business was so impressive that they could not wait and see our exercises, so they were given first opportunity to open our exercises.

Our ears were open to hear their message. Our conductor, Prof. Johnson, of the County Training School, called off all business to have an expression from this honorable Board that conducts the educational affairs of Chilton County, and introduced the Superintendent of Education, Rev. B. Lawrence, who in a most pleasant mood referred to the gift of our race as songsters, and asked that we render some of our best songs. "Swing low Sweet Chariot" was sung to the delight of all, led by Mrs. Sistrunk. Our superintendent convinced us of his deepest concern in our educational progress. He was followed by each member of the board, all of whom tried to exceed each other in expressing their interest in our material moral and literal uplift.

The assertions and advice of this honorable board are accepted at face value, and encourages us to make greater efforts to rise in the scale of improvement along all lines.

Having imparted to us their good will and willingness to help at every opportunity, they left us feeling an increasing confidence in our white friends.

Invocation was conducted by Rev. J. Sistrunk. Rev. E. W. Burt having been called to a funeral, Prof. C. H. Adams was asked to convey the tidings of welcome to the schools and visitors, which he did in an impressive manner and all felt at home. This was followed by vocal music, a rythmic selection upon reading by members of the County Training School. Prof. Johnson gave a general talk on field work and stated that each school would be represented by 2 spokesmen of 3 minutes each. Each speaker expressed their delight in being given an opportunity school and the privilege to improve themselves. Each speaker conferred the master degree on their respective teachers.

This exercise was interspersed with the very best of vocal music. A minister from Indiana was permitted to make a statement and he touched on the progress of the race, with few exceptions. His remarks were well received. Then a spelling bee was arrenged and Prof. Collie was osked to conduct it. Considering the age of the pupils the spelling was very creditable. Prof. Johnson, who is our leader expressed his delight at the response to the summons to prove our gratitude to our county officials, our great state and to Mr. Rosenwall for making possible this great day, and expressed highest praise of all the teachers of the Opportunity Schools of the county. The social feast came next, which was an epoch of joy for all, and our first reunion of Opportunity Schools came to a close with the unanimous opinion that we owe greater allegiance to our white friends. We want the next president of the United States to come from Alabama. Respectfully submitted.—Chilton County Colored Opportunity Schools, C. H. Adams, reporter.

Farmall Price Reduced!

We have just received a big piece of power farming news—the McCormick-Deering FARMALL price has been cut $50, and we are at once passing the information on to our customers. The Harvester Company's announcement says:

"We are glad to be able to make a reduction in the FARMALL tractor price at this time because right now the farmer is seriously in need of anything that will help him to cut down his costs of crop production.
"Due to manufacturing economies and anticipated reductions in material costs, we were able to reduce prices on the McCormick-Deering implement lines, effective for the present season.

"Recntly, by the same process, we lowered the price on the 10-20 McCormick-Deering tractor $40, and cut the 15-30 tractor price $75.
"Now, to complete our program of reductions, we announce a $50 cut in the price of the FARMALL.

"These price reductions, made during recent months, mean a saving to farmers of millions of dollars.

"As the original all-purpose tractor the McCormick-Deering FARMALL has won tremendous popularity. More than 100,000 FARMALLS have been built. Already this tractor has created a real revolution in farming. It is the best investment a farmer can make.

"The new price, $925.00 delivered, is the lowest ever placed on the FARMALL."

You have probably seen the FARMALL Tractor at work. If not, we will demonstrate it at any time, on any job. The FARMALL replaces 6 to 10 horses and 2 to 3 men. It plows 7 to 9 acres a day—double disks 18 to 25 acres—drills up to 45 acres—plants 24 to 46 acres—cultivates 33 to 50 acres and, in later cultivatings, 50 to 65 acres. It handles every farm power job, including row-crop operations. Put the best tractor power to work now—at the new FARMALL price!

If it isn't a McCORMICK-DEERING, it isn't a FARMALL

MAPLESVILLE HIGH SCHOOL TO OPEN SEPTEMBER THE 8TH

We are asked to announce that Maplesville High School will open at 9:00 o'clock, September 8th.

The faculty for the 1930-'31 session is as follows:

Principal, E. E. Owen; assistants, Misses Addie Gilham, Lucile Lock, Sadie Oakes, Annie Lee Gissendanner, Mrs. E. E. Owen, and Mr. M. Etheridge. Mr. Etheridge will serve as athletic coach, also.

A large enrollment is expected this year. All patrons of the school are invited to be present on opening day.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Black and daughters, with Mr. Black's mother, were visitors in Clanton for a short while Sunday afternoon, en route to Birmingham from their home in Cedartown, Ga., where Mr. Black is employed by the company in charge of the laying of the new gas mains in Cedartown.

BETHSALEM NEWS

Our Sunday School was called to order last Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock with a very large crowd. There were 58 members present. Every one seemed to have a good lesson and we especially invite every one to meet with us again next Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

We also hope to see all the Sunday School teachers present next Sunday morning.

The singing Sunday afternoon was called to order by the chairman, Mr. O. C. Billingsley. The directors for the afternoon were O. C. Billingsley, Misses Alta Belle Vinson and Mable Wilkins. Organists were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Billingsley. We had a real large crowd but we hope to have a larger crowd next fourth Sunday afternoon.

FAMILY REUNION

Sunday, August 24th, the family of C. T. Walker met at his home for a family reunion. This is the first time in many years Mr. Walker has had all of his children and grandchildren together at one time. There were 8 children and sixteen grandchildren as follows: Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Snead from Centerville; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hicks from Lawley: Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Seeley form West Palm Beach, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Walker from Maplesville; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shoults, Horton Walker, Allie Walker and Lucy Walker were the children present. The grandchildren were: Lumon, Leydon, Phillip, Grey and Blanche Hicks; Mary Lou, Bert, Seymore and Edna Earl Snead; Charles and Allan Shoults; Herbert and Harvel Walker; Allen Jr, Floyd and Christine Seeley.

Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Head and family from Lawley. Mr. Marvin Holmes from Tuscaloosa. Mr. Holmes was a dear friend and buddy of Bert, who was killed in the World War.

It was a great day and long to be remembered by the Walker family. About 5 o'clock they began to leave for their homes, tired, full and happy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Seeley will leave in another week for their home in Florida. Miss Allie Walker will accompany them, to enter the Good Samaritan Hospital for training.

DAIRYING

SELECTING THE BREED FOR YOUR DAIRY HERD

Any one of Five Known Breeds Will Be Satisfactory, But Certain Conditions May Influence Your Choice.

The cow is not a native American animal. Before the white man came to this continent cattle were unknown here.

Europe is the home of the dairy cow. Several thousand years ago, so it is supposed, the process of taming the wild cattle of Asia began. It is an interesting commentary on the important place the cow holds in modern civilization that scientists have devoted years to a study of historical records in order to be better acquainted with cattle. Some of the oldest ruins, which have been excavated, reveal the skulls of the ancestors of the modern herd.

The selection of a breed, either by the farmer who is just entering the dairy business, or the farmer who desires to improve his herd by introducing a breed, is one that deserves careful consideration. I believe a brief historical background of the five popular breeds in America will be of interest. Importation of these breeds from Europe have been very large, especially in the last fifty years. So let us examine the biographies and pick our favorites.

The Jerseys:—These cattle take their name from Jersey Island where they originated. It is in the English Channel between France and England. They are the smallest in size of any of the popular dairy breeds, and are noted for their beauty and the richness of their milk. The color of the Jerseys varies greatly. The most common color is fawn with black shadings below and on the head, the bulls being darker than the cows. The Jerseys, although small, are wonderful producers of rich milk. A few of them under official tests have given upwards of 10 tons (20,000 pounds) of milk in 365 days, that tested over 1,400 pounds of butter.

The Holstein-Friesians: — This breed originated in Holland. The compound name Holstein-Friesian is the official name of the breed in America, but in common usage now in America the breed is called Holstein. They are the largest of the dairy breeds, and are black and white in color. They rae noted for the quality of milk they give. More than 100 of these cows have given under official tests over 15 tons of milk each in 365 days. This is an average of over 10 gallons of milk each days for 365 days, yielding more than 1,500 pounds of butter. This is more than 8 or 10 of the average dairy cows on many of our farms will produce.

The Guernseys:—The Guernsey breed originated on the Island of Guernsey, which is one of the channel islands not far from Jersey Island. The Guernseys are a little larger than the Jerseys and are coarser boned and more irregular in conformation. The color resembles the Jersey in general, but includes some colors not found in that breed. In the yield of milk and fat the Jersey and Guernseys are not far apart, the Jerseys leading slightly in richness of milk, and the Guernseys in total milk production.

The Ayrshires;—The native home of this breed is the Shrie of Ayr in southern Scotland, hence the name. It is comparatively a new breed, but has made wonderful advancement in a short time. In size the Ayrshire ranks between the Jersey and Holstein breeds, being very much the same as the Guernseys. The common color is spotted red or brown and white in varying proportions. As a breed the Ayrshires are noted for a good, uniform production of milk.

The Brown Swiss:—This breed had its origin in Switzerland. Large numbers of these cattle are kept there for cheese and butter making, which forms one of the largest industries in that country. In milk and butterfat production, this breed shows a very satisfactory yield. The color varies considerably in shade. It is called brown, but more of a mouse color is prevalent.

There is not a great deal of difference in the dairy breeds so far as production is concerned. It is more a matter of choice. For instance, there is no best breed. It is the breeding up of a family or strain to high milk and butterfat production that really counts. It is the blood lines or breeding that makes some cows more valuable than others.

Other conditions which may influence your selection are the breeds most common in your neighborhood, the cost of pure breed foundation stock, and your judgment of the demand for surplus animals from your herd.

It is estimated that only 3 per cent of the dairy cattle in the United States are pure-bred, which means that the major production of milk comes from grade herds.

PEACE BY BATTLESHIPS

That sterling pacifist, J. Ramsay MacDonald, has sent two battleships to "protect foreigners" in Egypt. Riots in Alexandria caused the death of fourteen natives and the wounding of many more. Officials reports state that there was no anti-foreign manifestation. An Italian died of heart failure during the excitement, and another foreigner was hit on the head. This is deemed to be sufficient warrant for dispatching two battleships, each carrying eight 15-inch guns, with which to emphasize Prime Minister MacDonald's desire for peace.

It is supposed that the turmoil in India and the intrigues of Russian communists have stirred up the people of Egypt to bring about a crisis with Great Britain. The basic reason for the disturbances, however, si the wish to throw off British domination and to recover the uninterrupted flow of the Nile and Egypt's possession of the Sudan.

Of course, the Kellogg treaty does not apply to any war that may develop in Egypt. That region is exempted from the operation of the pact renouncing war. Britain's acceptance of the pact was accompanied by a reservation that makes a British war in that region a "defensive" war. For this reason it is unlikely that Secretary Stimson will address an admonition to Great Britain and Egypt, reminding them of their duty to preserve peace as signatories of the Kellogg pact, such as he sent to the Russian Soviet and China.

The two British battleships may be expected to promote peace in Egypt. Besides their 15-inch guns they carry a combined force of 2,000 men, who can land with artillery and machine guns, prepared to impress upon the natives the desire of Great Britain to carry on amicable negotiations looking to the continuance of British supremacy over a state which Britain in 1922 declared to be independent.—From the Washington Post.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

One theory which is being fostered by the stock market crash of last fall and the succeeding slump in business is that effect that our days of big production and high prosperity are over and we are due for a long, lean period of the kind that Europe has been enduring for the past several years. Those of pessimistic mind who advance this theory declare that our business boom only held up as long as it did because of the tremendous demand for automobiles and radios, that when this demand was satisfied the entire business of the nation went into a slump. Many of the economists who have adopted this theory declare that we have entered a period of overproduction and that our only remedy is to seek new markets abroad.

All of which is interesting, if true, and not in the least encouraging. It would seem, however, to the average observer, that the picture drawn is entirely too pessimistic. In the first place the American people are not going to be satisified with the automobiles and radios they now own, if they possess these things, and many do not, but will constantly be looking for newer and better ones. Clothing is going to wear out just as it always does; we are going to require just as much food and just as many comforts and luxuries as we have had in the past. Moreover, new buildings are constantly in demand as cities and towns grow and change their business zones. Cupid is still on the job too and shows no signs of going on a strike. New families require new homes, and more and more people each year will move to the suburbs and build homes of their own.

But this is not all of the bright side of the picture either. Undoubtedly the development of the radio and the automobile have helped our economic and social progress tremendously in the past decade. Other things are coming to make life easier, brighter and more worth living. The ice-making machine for the home has come into its own as has the electrical apparatus for lessening the work of the housewife and the man on the farm. These will be added to and developed rapidly in the next decade. We are now cooling our theatres and public buildings artificially in the summer time. Before another decade rolls around the scientists tell us that we will be making our homes cool and comfortable during the long summer days in the same way. Already we are hearing something about television and in the next decade it will be possible to see as well as to hear radio programs in the home. We are hearing a great deal nowadays about artificial sunlight which we can get through treatments by a physician and nurse. In another decade it is predicted we will have this artificial sunlight through our home electric lighting system. The flying machine will develop too and the automobile and the radio will get finer and more efficient. Many other inventions and improvements are promised during the next decade. The American who has the money to buy will want these, and the fellow who hasn't the money will buy them on the installment plan.

We are not therefore at the end of our manufacturing tether. Business is bound to come back, and when it does, it will be helped most not by the fellow in Siam or in Jugo-Slavia but by the American buyer who has the highest wage and the best living standards on earth. Each new comfort and convenience in the home calls for something else. We are never satisfied and it is a good thing for our progress nationally as well as personally that we cannot be. For from the desire for better things comes national improvement and higher standards of living.

A RECOGNITION OF GOOD WORK

President Green of the American Federation of Labor says that much of the credit for the maintenance of wage standards and working conditions during the recent period of unemployment and depression belongs to Mr. Hoover. This tribute, we believe, is well deserved. Mr. Hoover's handling of the situation immediately after the stock-market panic of last autumn showed him at his best. His courage and decisiveness in summoning the leaders of industry, labor, commerce and finance to Washington and supplying the impetus for the adoption of stabilization programs did much to restore confidence throughout the country and thus to mitigate the effects of the crisis.

Especially important was the conference of last November at which employment promised to make no wage cuts and the leaders of organized labor agreed to refrain from pressing demands for new wage increases during the emergency. The record shows that these arguments have been well kept. That this policy has prevented many hardships which might have come in the wake of the panic seems certain. How far it has succeeded we can never know, because we can never ascertain what might have happened.

That the President's conferences had tangible results appears to be well established by the data on construction activity during the first half of 1930. It will be recalled that great stress was laid upon the launching of building programs, especially by states, municipalities and public works utilities during the first half of 1930 were the largest on record and over 40 per cent more than in the first half of 1929. Meantime, residental building, which obviously could not be stimulated in the same way at the President's conferences, showed a decline in the first half of 1930 of 47 per cent from the record of the corresponding months of 1929.—New York World.

It might seem surprising to read so many kind words about Soviet Russia, a government sworn to destroy ours by voilence, in the metropolitan press and the magazines if we did not know that some of the biggest corporations in America are making a lot of money out of equipping the Moscow masters for the economic and military conquest of the world.

SOME AMERICAN OBSERVATIONS

By Jay Taylor

The direct primary was adopted originally on the theory that the people should select their own representatives, but it hasn't worked out very well. Under this plan the choice must be made too often between two or more undersirable candidates. Some day the evils of the old boss system will be eliminated and the convention plan re-established, which, after all, is strictly in line with our American system of representative government.

Certain American editors that were accusing our government of imperialism when it was doing its best to restore peace in Nicaragua are now strangely silent while the British Empire is using warlike measures to suppress the revolutionary tendencies in Egypt and India. Will someone kindly explain what is the matter with such American editors?

One handicap that faces the financiers, who are hoping eventually to market in the United States most of the German reparation bonds, is the fact that other European countries have already appropriated all the epithets which Germany might wish to use against her American creditors when they hesitate to cancel the obligations.

Perhaps the new tariff will help maintain our present wages and our American standard of living, give a better market for our farm products and increase our foreign trade. Anyway, that is what has always happened before.

All Americans, who are interested in our foreign trade, are pleased with the development of our merchant marine. Only when a fair proportion of our foreign shipments are carried in American vessels will we be on an equal footing with our foreign competitors.

A Vienna newspaper is trying the experiment of having editorials on national and international subjects written by college freshmen and sophomores. There is good reason for believing that quite a lot of American metropolitan newspapers have been doing this for some time.

If you don't believe that a low tariff or no tariff system would boost our foreign trade take note of the fact that with gasoline on the free list we succeeded in increasing our imports of that commodity 140 per cent during the first six months of 1930 as compared with the corresponding period of 1929, while our eyports of gasoline fell off fifty per cent in the same period. This in the greatest oil producing country in the world, with our oil fields and refineries on a reduced production basis to save a collapse in prices. The intelligence of this system of promoting prosperity would be worthy of an armadillo.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Folks, the wherewithal to fill the POT this week is rather "skase." We don't know right now just what we are going to fill it with—all we know is that it must be filled. Maybe by the time we get all the corrections for last week's POT in we'll have enough to fill this week's.

By the way, don't you just hate to have to take back all you've said. You've seen that kind of times, haven't you, when you'd just have to back up in a corner and swallow a lot of stuff? Well, there's only one bright side to our case of that kind this week. We thought they were going to have that list of Republican nominees over on the edge of the page, and the boss says that's all right—that it was supposed to be there—and all that. Any way, that's the best way we can wiggle out of the tight place.

One nice thing about it, it's there THIS week, all right. Look it over. Now, how do you like it? Look OK? Look like good official names? Read 'em over and see how they sound, because you're going to hear 'em lots of times before November, and, we hope, more times for the next four years.

Had a brother ink-slinger from Cullman, Mr. Norwood, with us since we came out last week. He was returning from Auburn, where several of the editors of the state held their annual convention last week end. With Mr. Norwood were his son and a Mr. DeMonia, a senior at Auburn for the coming year.

Caught a bunch of farmers on the street the other day, talking about the low price of cotton. One fellow had one bright side of the situation to look at any way. He "allowed" the cotton had a better chance of going up than it did of going down, because there was more room above the present price than below. Pretty reasonable view, isn't it?

Mr. Stapp lets us in on the fact that farmers DO stick together sometimes. Chilton County farmers led the Second District of Alabama last year. The Second District of Alabama, of which Chilton is a member, is made up of 23 counties, and of all these 23 counties, Chilton, at present, is leading the other 22 in membership. Pretty good "rep" for Chilton farmers. We're proud if it, too.

We think this Farm Bureau racket is a wonderful help to our farmers. At any rate, we can always be sure of a market for our surplus, no matter what it is. Whereas, before we organized the Farm Bureau, all the little surpluses the several farmers found on their hands from time to time had to be allowed to go to waste just because they were too small to "fool with," they can be pooled by the Bureau now, and all together, they make a shipment that is big enough to be worth shipping away for the cash it brings.

Strange how quite everything seems since the primary is over. Rest fast, though, fellows, because "it won't be long, now," before the boys will be out again, telling the "dear voters" just how good they can really be when put to a test. This test, of course, would be to try them out in the offices they are running for.

The next time you hear some wise-acre wise-cracking about "Hoover prosperity" stop and get him to tell you how things ought to be run, and how he would manage affairs if he had them in his hands. It's a curious thing that we NEVER get the best man for the office. To hear some people talk, you'd think our officers were taken from some institution for the feeble-minded.

Yep, it's a great pity that we have to be satisfied with such officers as we always select, when there are SO MANY better ones, to hear the latter tell it. Seems like we WOULD get some of them elected some time. But, as a general rule, (watch it when you please) you'll find these master minds driving trucks, jerking soda, selling gingham, or looking a mule in the rear.

We think it a good point of farmers, though, that you don't hear nearly as large a per centage of them growling about the hard times as you do from fellows in other lines. Generally, the guy you hear squawking is all cocked back in an easy seat with his sun hat pulled 'way down over his eyes to protect his school girl complexion, that is when you can find one of them in the sun.

Don't forget we're going to have an election here pretty soon to elect a new mayor and councilmen. Far be it from the POTTER to try to advise on how to select a mayor and councilmen—we don't feel as if we've had enough experience along lines of that kind—and yet we can't keep from having just a few words to say about this city election. So don't take this to mean that we're trying to advise on how to vote.

As you all well know, an election of this kind brings the matter down to home much more than does even a county election. We all want to see elected a governing body which will give to Clanton a period of success and prosperity, as far as lies in their power. Then consider in this manner: If you were going to hire a man or a bunch of men to run your own business for you, naturally you would try to pick out a man or men who were successful in their own business affairs, modern in their methods, honest and straight-forward in their dealings, and in whom their fellow-men had the utmost confidence.

We MUST have a man or men in whom the people of the town have confidence, else they will not co-operate with him and them, and without the co-operation of the people of the town, no man you select can give the best that is in him, while, if given full support of his people any man can be more succesful.

If the people of the Town of Clanton will elect their new mayor and councilmen along these lines, rather than by personal feeling, we should see the forthcoming year one of the most prosperous Clanton has ever had. Try it one time—put your own personal feelings aside—elect the man for mayor whom you think best fills the bill as above laid out, regardless of relations, etc., and see what happens. And, too, apply the same methods in picking your councilmen, for they are every bit as important as the mayor.

And, now, in closing this week's POT, we would offer a word in regard to this mail order racket that rises every year. NOW, before the cotton crop has begun to be harvested, is the time for our local merchants to begin with their campaign to keep our money at home. Once well started, the practice of ordering from mail order houses will be as hard or harder to curb as it always has been, but let our merchants start fighting it now, and the fight should be much easier. Last year saw the mail order houses reaping the greatest harvest in history. Let's don't let that happen again. Let's start fighting right now, before the monster's teeth are sharpened.

Well, that's that!—"JACK".

HOW IT WORKS

One of the best illustrations of the way in which free trade may be used by international interests to injure prosperity and employment in the United States is had in the effect of the successful fight made by these interests to prevent the imposition of a tariff on crude oil or oil products.

During the first six months of 1930 our imports of gasoline increased over the same period of 1929, 140 per cent, while our exports decreased 40 per cent. During the same period our imports of crude oil and all oil products increased about 50 per cent, while our exports decreased 25 per cent.

This happened in the country which leads the world in potential oil production. While importing vast qualities of crude oil and our own oil fields were operating under limitations of output, encouraged by the national and state governments and by associations of oil producers, in order not to disastrously increase the surplus of crude oil and oil products. A decreasing amount of money came into the country for the purchase of our products, while we greatly increased our purchases of commodities of which we had a surplus that could not find a market.

As a result of this many thousands of oil field workers, refinery employes and others whose employment is affected by the oil industry, were rendered jobless. American farmers lost much money they otherwise would have had from oil royalties. All this worked no benefit to consumers of crude oil or oil products.

Still Senator Swanson of Virginia says that the way to increase the prosperity of the United States is to buy more of the products of foreign cheap labor displacing the similar output of American workers receiving a higher rate of wages.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

The Man on the Corner came very near shooting a blank this week. I got back Tuesday afternoon from a week's vacation in Georgia and the fellows at the office had only a little space about as long as your finger left for me to wedge in a few words.

All the other members of the "staff" have had their fling writing about trips this summer. Jean told us how he saw Florida in five days. The Jack Pot has given us some of the high spots on going to California and back in two weeks. Perhaps next week I shall have something to say about my trip to Georgia.

I did not travel as fast as the other fellows did, nor nearly so far. But you bet I got enough traveling to do me for a year even at that. Traveling is something I do not like in the first place.

My vacation was spent away back in the hills of Georgia near Milledgeville, where the Dixie Construction Company is building the Oconee River Power Plant for the Georgia Power Company. I was accompanied by Mrs. Man on the Corner, and the three little ones. We stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Kin Vinson at their home in the construction camp.

For this week I only have space to say that we had a most delightful time with the Vinsons; met several mighty fine people from Alabama who are on the job over there; got back home all dried and dusted out. After I get things straightened out and back into harness again, I will tell you more about it.

The government of Spain has announced tariff increases, with the explanation that it is not an act of reprisal for the new American tariff, which is probably true because the Spanish tariff was already the highest in the world and nearly twice as high as the American tariff.

FINANCING AMERICAN HOMES

No action of President Hoover since his coming into office has met with more general approval than his calling a conference to study the problem of home ownership, with a view to removing the impediments which are slowing up the growth of the home owning movement in city, town and country.

The conference is to be organized by a planning committee headed by Secretary Lamont and comprised of representatives of leading national organizations interested in the question of home ownership. The President himself is deeply interested in the movement. As Secretary of Commerce he organized the housing division of the Commerce Department and he was president of the Better Homes of America Association while Secretary of Commerce.

The principal drawback during the past several months, to the home building movement has been lack of funds. President Hoover made mention of this in his statement outlining the work of the coming conference, when he said:

"The conference will deal with the whole broad question of home construction and home ownership. It will embrace such questions as finance, design, equipment, city planning, transportation, etc.

"One of the important questions is finance. The present depression has given emphasis to the fact the credit system in home building is not as soundly organized as other branches of credit. Commerce, industry, installment buying, and to a large extent farm mortgages all have more effective financial reservoirs."

It is true that the slump in home building has been due to a great degree to the lack of proper methods and means of financing. If the coming conference can remedy this condition, it will have performed a great work for the future of America. It is hardly necessary to say that the American home is of supreme importance to our national welfare. The more we become a nation of home builders and home owners the better it will be for the future of our country. Surely the American home is a good financial risk, and proper facilities should be afforded for financing it.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

PAUL'S INSPIRED LETTER TO THE PHILLIPIANS

I beg you to pray while we study with you some lessons from Paul's inspired letter to the church at Phillippi, and of course to us. It was late in the evening or at night more likely, when Paul had a vision. It is a great thing to have a vision. In the vision Paul saw a Macedonian soldier in Macedonian uniform standing before him, and he heard a voice saying: "Come over into Macedonia and help us."

I see him take a boat at Troas and sail to Samothrace. Someone has described the boat as making music with the waves as Paul sails on into Macedonia. He is an unknown Jew taking the greatest message ever told to the Macedonians. The first city of mention there was Phillipi, just a Roman military center where soldiers were trained and prepared for great battles.

The record in the 16th chapter of the Acts is that on the Sabbath day Paul inquired if there were people in oraround Philippi who worshiped God. He was directed to a woman named Lydia who lived near the river and worshiped and prayed to God often. Through the liberality and kindness of this woman Paul preached and prayed in her house and souls were converted. I see Paul and Silas as they go to prayer meet a girl whose epileptic fits brought her masters money. People paid to look upon her when she was possessed with a spasm. Paul cast out the evil spirits of the girl. For this Paul and Silas were imprisoned. They prayed and sang praises and were liberated from prison by God's earthquakes.

Years pass on and Paul goes back to Troas. He has been a hero for Christ in Jerusalem, Philippi, Athens, Corinth, and a good many other places. He is now in his rented prison huose in Rome as we read in the list chapter of Acts: "Paul was permitted to dwell two whole years in his own hired house, and received all who came unto him." What a reception these people who were struggling for the cause of Christ must have had there.

He was to have an emanuensis, and yet he was using the means at hand in every minute and hour of his life. Remember too, that Paul knew not what awaited him the next minute. The servants upon the capitaline hill come down to visit with Paul. He reads and tells them about Jesus and then prays with them. As a result of this we read that Caesar and his household were led to Christ. A silent influence for good went out from this rented prison house.

Greetings come down from the church at Philippi. Epaphroditus comes from Philippi and yalks along that same Appian highway which Paul traveled in chains to Rome. He tells Paul of the condition of the church at Philippi. Remember it was the poorest church which Paul established. Also Epaphroditus brings a bundle, a gift from the church at Philippi to Paul. It was an expression of love to comfort, cheer, and encourage Paul.

Paul wrties this letter to the Philippians and sends it back by Epaphroditus. Paul also wrote three other letters during those two years of imprisonment. The others are: Ephsians, Colossians, Philemon. The last two were taken to their destination by Tychicus. In this joy letter to the Philippians Paul says: "I am writing to you in respect of want, for I have learned that in whatsoever state I am therewith to be content. My God will supply all your needs, as He does mine, according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus." Friend, if you have not been able to pay your bills and buy groceries, I beg you to look up to God who will supply all your needs according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus. All we have to do is to trust Him, put our hand in His.

Then notice this joy letter to that poverty-stricken church as he writes, "Rejoice in the Lord." I say this is also the "heart letter" of Paul. O just to have such a heart of friendship and helpfulness. The letter begins, "Paul and Timotheus, servants (slaves) of the Lord Jesus Christ." Timothy was with Paul and the bishops and deacons, the overseers of the flock of God in the town of Philippi. Now for the great heart of this letter. He says: "I thank God upon every remembrance of you." His heart must have gone out in great love for those poor people who had given so freely of the abundance of their poverty. In gratitude and love he sent thanks again. He says: "I have you in my heart." Philippians 1:7. O for a friend to have another friend in his heart. This was Paul's heart.

Also Paul writes: "I pray for you always, making requests with joy." Are we praying thus for our friends? He that so prays can look forward to a changed and sanctified heart by the word of God applied by the Holy Spirit. Then he can carry it on to the ends of the earth. Then he writes: "Unto us it is given in behalf of Christ not only to believe but suffer for Him. Just trust the Lord, believe on the Lord, brother. Have faith in the Lord." I wonder how much faith has God in us? Can God trust you with the Bible and prayer to spread His Gospel? Can God trust you with the Christian life? Can God trust you to teach those precious children His great love and care in your home? Can God trust you as His representative with friends? Are you true, sincere, loyal to them?

Now to suffer for so we read we are to suffer with Christ. Many of us are trying to go through life without it. You might expect to find luscious grapes on your grapevines in the month of December and blushes on the cheeks of the dead as to try to find the pathway of the Christian life without suffering. If we suffer with Him we shall reign with Him. It makes my heart beat mighty fast when I read in the 2nd chapter, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." If we see people in distress and we certainly cannot avoid it, we must try to help them. That is, as we look upon poor people in the hospital without means to pay for medicine and attention, and as we see people without jobs or in whatever distress it may be we must have the mind which was in Christ Jesus for such people.

I hear someone say, "What kind of a mind was in Christ Jesus?" My friend, He had a mind to love His enemies, to do good to them which hated Him, to help the discouraged, poor, needy. He had a mind to pray without ceasing. He had that mind who being in the form of God thought it not robbery to be equal with God, though He was with God before the foundation of the world but did not think to rob God of any glory or crown when He came to Bethlehem to lift up you and me. O, my friend, He had that mind in Him which came to earth and walked the hills and valleys of Palestine with stone-bruised feet and an aching heart all for sinful man.

Perhaps we need more poverty, heartaches, and stonebruised feet in service. He came to earth and was found in the fashion of a man, and became a servant. God hath highly exalted Him, and given Him a name above every other name, that at the mention of His name every knee shall bow. O, my friend, at the mention of the precious, the bloody, the angelical name of Jesus every knee must bow, and every tongue must confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the glory of God the Father.

I am overcome with the words which Paul writes to the humble Christian, "For me to live is Christ." You and I ought to live for Christ until we can go to sleep saying, "For me to live was Christ, and now to go to sleep in Christ is only gain, the gain of eternal life in Him." This must be the standard of the Christian's life. Certainly it was of Paul's life, and must be of yours and of mine. My friend, are you living for yourself, the world, the devil, or are you living for Christ?

Paul also writes saying, "Things that were gain to me I count as loss that I might win Christ." Think of the things which were gain to Him in that Paul was a Hebrew of the Hebrews, of the tribe of Benjamin, born in Tarsus, no mean city, sat in the feet of Gamaliel, the most popular man of Tarsus. He counted these things loss for Christ. Things that are gain to you and to me we must count as loss that we may be found in Christ, be found in righteousness by faith in Jesus Christ.

Then Paul tells us to let our moderation be known in all things of all men. That is, the road is hilly and hard to climb with many precipices into which you might fall if you used not the precautions which are revealed along the way. Look not for them save that of putting your trust in Christ and so work out your own salvation with fear and trembling.

Again I beg you to think of the heart of this letter which was written A. D. 65 at Rome to you and to me, and was sent to Philippi by Epaphroditus. Epaphroditus must have been a man of deep devotion to Christ, a man of great sacrifices unto Christ. He carried a little bundle to Paul and went back with this "heart letter." Epaphroditus, Paul's messenger friend was from Philippi while Epaphras, Tychicus, Onesimus, were from Colossae. Onesimus a lonely runaway slave visited Paul in Rome and Paul introduced him to Jesus Christ. O my friend, just to introduce the runaways and prisoners to Jesus Christ. They have a soul. The household servant has a soul. Do you speak kind to her, read God's word to her and kneel down and pray with her?

In this letter Paul says, "I greet you as a servant of God most high." We read carefully over this joy letter to these Philippian Christians who had been so kind to Paul and we are thrilled with his spirit of gratitude. Gratitude is truly one of the most beautiful traits of a Christian character. Many times we should stop to express gratitude to God and to our loved ones and friends. We find Paul so expressing gratitude to his friends as he speaks of them as his joy and crown. O to love our friends without any thought of self-interest, self-satisfaction, or earthly gain but only for Jesus' name. Paul folded them to his heart in love. Even though Paul had many persecutions and trials God took care of him and there is laid up for him a crown of righteousness.

A Sour Stomach

In the same time it takes a dose of soda to bring a little temporary relief of gas and sour stomach, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has acidity completely checked, and the digestive organs all tranquilized. Once you have tried this form of relief you will cease to worry about your diet and experience a new freedom in eating.

This pleasant preparation is just as good for children, too. Use it whenever coated tongue or fetid breath signals need of a sweetener. Physicians will tell you that every spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Get the genuine, the name Phillips is important. Imitations do not act the same!

POULTRY Tips By LEONARD L. BROWN

POULTRY SPECIALIZATION

Where does the money lie in the poultry business?

This is the age of specialization in poultry business as in every other line of business that is modernizing itself. There are three lines of work in the poultry business that have proved themselves to be economically sound and in line for real money-making.

They are:

Egg-farming. The successful egg-farmer today is running from one or two thousand high egg-production bred leghorn hens, on up to many thousands. He buys hus chicks from the large commercial hatchery and therefore makes his money from the successful specialization in one class of work only, that is, the successful raising of poultry.

Commercial hatchery. This is an industry that scarcely even existed 15 years ago. It has been made possible by the invention of mammoth incubators that hold as many as 50,000 eggs at one time, and which are so successful in hatching large quantities of husky chicks that the commercial hatchery chick can now be had much cheaper than a farmer can afford to hatch his own chicks. The commercial hatchery also makes it possible to get large numbers of chicks of uniform grade and uniform age, at the same time, which in turn makes large scale poultry raising possible.

The national breeding farm. While breeding was a sport or hobby with many poultry raisers years ago, it has now fallen chiefly into hands of half a dozen mammoth breeding farms which have profitable strains of poultry and which for that reason have crowded out the breeders of less profitable strains. About 5,000 small breeders are estimated to have gone out of business in the past six years. Breeding is so vital to poultry success that there is room for only the best. The national breeders supply the local commercial hatcheries with breeding stock, directly or indirectly, and it is to the extent to which such high quality breeding stock is used by the hatcheryman, that largely controls the quality of the chicks the hatcheries produce.

The least investment of all is required in entering commercial egg-farming. Any one with a little ground can start with a good grade of egg-production poultry and gradually build up larger and larger as his venture proves profitable. There is no competition in this line, as the better egg-farmers get a national market, and top prices, for their eggs and whole communities of successful commercial egg-farmers have been established in the past few years in some sections where one or two have tried it, with the right kind of stock and the right kind of management, and have been so successful that others have followed and the whole community has prospered as the result.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to the primary campaign which came to a close August the 12th, 1930.

First I want to thank the editor of The Union-Banner for the fair and square deal he gave me through the editorials of his paper.

Next I want to say for my opponent, Mr. Pitts, who won the nomination over me for Representative, that my feelings towards him are just as they were before either of us announced as a candidate.

I am proud of the Republican party of Chilton County; and hope to see it win in the November election.

Now, my dear voters, you know that all political parties and politicians have their flunkies and tody snobs. I want to say to the snobs of our party who came out against me in the recent primary; and picked up rotten lies, that were written in a letter and addressed to Elbert Taylor, and signed "Your Brother in Christ." Mr. Taylor received the letter immediately after my announcement as a candidate for Representative.

God pity your poor sinful souls; and help you to inquire for the paths of truth and get therein before God calls you to your long home where you will have to spend your eternity with the Devil and his liars.

Just to show you snobs that I want to treat you fair and honest, you make a written statement that the contents of the letter written to Mr. Taylor are true; and have two witnesses to testify to your signature, and give me your statement, and I will make you a present of a $50 bill.

In conclusion I want to say to the lady who made the remark on the streets of Clanton in the presence of a large crowd, on the day of the primary election, that I was one of the meanest men in the country. I would be glad for you to get your preacher and you and he come to my home; or I will meet you at your preacher's home; and show me wherein I am a mean man. I will get your preacher to pray to God that he may forgive me of the meanness that you hold against me, and I will foot the bill of expenses.

If the above proposition is not fair I must say that I do not know what fairness is. Yours truly.—A. A. Jackson.

FROM G. W. MURRAH

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

I would like to express my appreciation to my friends who supported me in my race for Sheriff. Although I was defeated in the race, I want you to feel that I appreciate your vote and influence just as much as if I had been nominated. I feel like I made a clean fight and it was the will of the people that Mr. Gillespie be nominated, and I am ready to do anything in my power to elect the entire ticket in November.

I want to say to all the voters that I have no ill will toward any body, and that I am still a 100 per cent Republican.

Voters, I hope there will be a time when I can show you who supported me my appreciation, more than I can tell you. Now I want to say a word in behalf of Mr. Gillespie. I have done a great deal of work with Mr. Gillespie, and have always found him very reasonable and ready to discharge his duty regardless of who it was or what it took. Folks, we know Mr. Gillespie and know what he will do when it comes to discharging his duty along the liquor line, and that is the kind of man that I want for Sheriff.

I have been in the work long enough to know that if we get a man who will not fight it the whiskey will take our county before you know what has heppened. And if he be elected in November, I want to urge the citizens of the county to give him their cooperation. Without the cooperation of the people he can't do anything.

Now voters I want us to stick together in November so that we may elect our entire ticket. Let's lay down prejudice and forget what has happened in the past, as we are all subject to mistakes. Yours for the Republican party.—G. W. Murrah.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless thay may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

MARSHALL CO. FARMER GETS BIG RETURNS FROM LEGUMES

Guntersville, Ala., Aug. 25.—An example of what winter legumes mean to Marshall County farmers is shown by results obtained by O. L. Mitchell, of Albertville, Route 3. Eric Alsobrook, county agent, reports that Mr. Mitchell planted 8 acres of vetch and 7 acres of Austrain winter peas in the fall of 1928 and planted corn on part of the land and soy beans on the remainder. He gathered 35 bushels of corn per acre and on the land planted with soy beans he harvested two tons per acre.

County Agent Alsobrook reported that corn following winter legumes averaged 29 bushels per acre following winter legumes compared with an average of 24 bushels per acre made by 44 farmers who used 173 pounds nitrate of soda per acre.

150 FRANKLIN FARMERS INCREASED CORN YIELD

Russelville, Ala., Aug. 26.—J. D. Wood county agent, says that reports from 150 farmers of Franklin County covering 900 acres show an increase of 21 bushels of corn per acre. This is a total increase of 18,900 bushels of corn for the county from the use of winter legumes and means that the cover chop has been worth at least $18,900.00 to the county.

HAS THE LAXATIVE IN YOUR HOME A DOCTOR'S APPROVAL?

Some things people do to help the bowels whenever any bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, or a lack of appetite warn of constipation, really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what will cleanse the system without harm. That is why the laxative in your home should have the approval of a family doctor.

The wonderful product, known to millions as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in many years of practice, and proved safe and reliable for men, women and children. It is made from herbs and other pure ingredients, so it is pleasant-tasting, and can form no habit. You can buy this popular laxative from all drugstores.

CHARLES H. ROBER WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to thank those who cast their ballot for those two good gentlemen, W. G. Culp and Akins I. Collins. I am satisfied that the future of these two gentlement will make you feel proud for what you have done for them. I always feel good when I can help some good cause. So on August 8th, I left Whigham, Ga., for Clanton where I could cast one ballot for these two good Christian gentlemen.

And, in November I will be there if God spares my life, and cast another one. Not only for them but for the whole Republican ticket. I am a Republican and stand firmly by the principles of my party. I will get through with my work here shortly, I will then return to dear old Chilton County, Alabama, where I expect to add some more room to the Enterprise School building. I certainly admire the people of that vicinity, especially Mr. C. L. Wilkins and family, Prof. Weldon, and Bro. J. A. Raines.—Chas. H. Rober.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Mrs. Lela Vinson and children of Bay Minnette have returned home after several weeks visit here with friends and relatives.

Cora Belle Maddox, vocational home economics.

Pupils are urged to bring their report cards or certificates of promotion.—J. D. Griffin.

MR. J. P. BEAN THANKS VOTERS FOR SUPPORT

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I take this means of expressing my most sincere thanks for the splendid vote given me in the recent primary. Also I thank you again for honoring me with one term as Commissioner of the First District.

My geratest pleasure and ambition is to serve you, and if at any time I can be of any service to you, before of after my term expires, don't hesitate to call on me.

In the interest of the Republican party, I remain, Very truly—J. P. Bean.

Why A & P prices for good food are low

A & P has millions of customers all over the country, and more customers are coming to A & P stores every day because they find there the good food they want at prices they know to be as low as is possible to a going business.

There is no secret about this. Like everyone else in business, A & P buys goods to sell them at a profit. A & P's unusual success is due to two facts:

(1) A & P buys the best wherever the best can be bought at greatest advantage to A & P customers; (2) A & P sells the best for only a little more than the best costs—plus selling expense. It can do both these things because so many people buy in its stores.

These people know that A & P passes on to them all the saving when prices fall at the sources of supply, retaining, under all conditions, no more than its regular profit—2½ cents in the dollar.

Formal Opening of County High School

Next Monday, September 8th, Is Day Of Opening Of 1930-1931 Session

The Chilton County High School will throw open its doors next Monday morning, September 8, at 9:00 o'clock on its sixteenth anniversary to welcome again the sons and daughters of Clanton and Chilton County.

Nothing succeeds like success. This we all know is made possible by all working together towards a common end. We therefore, cordially invite every parent to be with us at our opening exercises, and show your interest by speaking a favorable word where it will clinch. This is your school. The teachers are your servants or agents. Your presence will always be appreciated at any and all times. A program suitable to the occasion will be carried out. We take this time to again thank every one for their splendid cooperation towards our school in the past, and feel you are standing ready to help us this year.

We think we have one of the best trained faculties ever in the history of Chilton County High School. They stand as follows:

L. C. Warr, B. S. Peabody College, and A. M. Columbia University, principal.

T. H. Walker, A. B. University of Alabama, athletics and manuel arts.

J. B. Varnell, A. B., Howard College, science.

Miss Nell Wells, A. B., Alabama College, English.

Miss Bernice Williams, A. B., Womans College, mathematics.

Miss Margaret Kendrick, A. B., Womans College, English.

Miss Edna Coefield, A. B., Birmingham Southern, social studies.

Miss Josephine Martin, State Teachers College, Troy, and Columbia University, junior high work.

Mrs. W. M. Greene, A. B., University of Alabama, and A. M., Alabama Polytechnic Institute, history.

Miss Margaret Brown, B. S., Alabama Polytechnic Institute, home economics and ligrarian.

We feel that our friends and patrons already know the policy of Chilton County High School. We believe there is no substitute for work, and that work will win. We again invite you on your part that same loyalty of spirit which you have manifested for the past two years. We always need your support. Since we can't live by ourselves, let's live together and love each other more.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE OCTOBER 6 AND 7

The Chilton County Teachers Institute will be held at the Chilton County High School building in Clanton on October 6 and 7. All teachers who are to teach in the county this year are required to attend this institute.

The schools of the county which do not open on September 8th will open on October 8th, the day following the close of the teachers institute.

Miss Madge Scarborough, elementary school supervisor of Chilton County, has returned to her work here, and is busy getting things in shape for the opening of the schools. She will have her office at the County Superintendent's quarters in the courthouse as heretofore.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY

The following schools of Chilton County will open next Monday, September 8th:

Chilton County High School.
Clanton Grammar School.
Verbena High and Elementary School.
Thorsby Public School.
Jemison High School.
Isabella High School.
Stanton High School.
Maplesville High School.

Other schools of the county besides those named above will open on October 8th.

All pupils are requested to bring their report cards for last year on the opening day, as this will facilitate the matter of classification and promotion.

ROEBUCK-LECROY

Mrs Robert N. Roebuck of Maplesville, Alabama, announces the engagement of her daughter, Cleo, to Mr. Clarence R. Lecroy of Savannah, Ga. Mr. Lecroy is a Chilton County boy and a graduate of Auburn this past May. He accepted a position recently with The American Agricultural Chemical Company in Savannah. The wedding is to be an event of early spring.

SMITH GETS PRIZE AT DEEP SEA RODEO

Loren Smith, of the Upchurch Drug Company, was one of the prize winners at the deep sea fishing rodeo last week. He was awarded the honors for catching the largest cavalla which weighed a fraction over thirty-one pounds.

Mr. H. S. Shaw was in the party with Mr. Smith, and enjoyed a fine catch of fish, including a man eating shark in addition to several fine cavalla. Upon his return Wednesday Mr. Shaw brought back a cavalla weighing about thirty pounds to show his friends. Local sportsmen took great pleasure in seeing the fish and hearing Mr. Shaw tell about catching it.

W. E. Robinson Gets A Year For Theft

Birmingham Postal Clerk Is Sentenced To Federal Pen At Atlanta

William E. Robinson, former clerk in the Birmingham postoffice, must serve a year and a day in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, after his conviction on a charge of stealing 35 cents from the mails.

Robinson was convicted earlier in the week by a jury in U. S. court and sentenced was imposed Saturday by Judge W. I. Grubb.

Gets Day of Freedom

Robinson was allowed to make $1,500 bond for his appearance at the county jail Sunday at 11 a. m. He will be taken to Atlanta with other federal prisoners convicted at this term of court.

The case began Tuesday morning and recahed the jury in mid-afternoon.

Robinson admitted signing a document produced by District Attorney C. B. Kennamer as a confession of the theft. He denied knowing it was a confession, although postal inspectors said he read it aloud before signing it.

Faced Heavy Penalty

The ex-postal clerk admitted taking the money, but said it fell from a piece of mail while he was working, and he picked it up to return it.

Inspectors testified Robinson removed the 35 cents from a kodak film box.

Under the postal laws and regulations, Robinson was subject to a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a fine of the amount taken from the mails, with no minimum set by law.

Heflin And Locke Are Nominated

New Party Meets Monday and Launches Campaign For State

Montgomrey, Ala., Sept. 2.—A campaign to "reorganize the Democratic party in Alabama" was under way Tuesday following the convention Monday of the "independent wing" of the party and the formal nomination of its leaders to carry the standard in the general election in November.

Approximately 1,500 delegates that came from all parts of the state assembled in the municipal auditorium at Montgomery to take part in the nominations and to hear denouncements of the "infamous 27" and the "Rascob-Tammany" crowd.

The nominees named were Hugh A. Locke, Birmingham, candidate for governor; Dempsey M. Powell, Greenville, candidate for liutenant governor, and Sen. J. Thomas Heflin, candidate to succeed himself.

J. B. Wadsworth, Gadsden, named permanent chairman of the convention, declared in sounding keynote that the convention was not of the third party, but of the prohibition wing, of the Democratic party.

In his speech of acceptance, Senator Heflin, condemned the rule of the 27, the "battle of the Roman hierarchy to control the people of Alabama," and brought accusations that returns in the recent Democratic primary were padded "from 40,000 to 60,000 votes."

NO MONEY, NO GIRL!

"What did she say?"

CENTRAL SINGING SOCIETY ORGANIZED SATURDAY P. M.

According to anouncement, a meeting was held at the court house in Clanton last Saturday afternoon. The result was the primary organization of eight churches in the vicinity of Clanton into the Central Singing Society of Chilton County.

The eight churches, as named in the call last week, namely—Chestunt Creek, Providence, Refuge, Concord, Friendship, Maple Springs, Walnut Creek and Poplar Springs, each had from one to five representatives in the meeting, and the business before the meeting went off without a single discord.

J. D. Collins, Sr., was elected temporary chairman and T. E. Wyatt, temporary secretary. The roll of the churches was called and the representatives from each place answered. Then the voice of those composing the meeting was taken, and everyone expressed himself as being highly in sympathy with the movement. Of course, no representative took the responsibility to say that the move would meet with the approval of the home society, but all felt reasonably sure that no objection of this nature would present itself. However, if any of the above named socities, after having studied the matter thoroughly, decide that they had rather not participate, there is nothing to bind them to it. But this is not to be expected.

The matter of naming the society was taken up, and it was unanimously decided to call it the Central Singing Society of Chilton County. Then the matter of the meeting dates for each place was taken up, which resulted as follows: Beginning next Sunday, September 7th, meetings will be held each Sunday afternoon at the places named and in the order which they appear—Concord, Maple Springs, Providence, Friendship. October—Chestnut Creek, Walnut Creek, Refuge and Poplar Springs.

The first official meeting will be next Sunday, September 7th, at Concord. Beginning at 1:00 o'clock, or as soon thereafter as possible, a chairman, secretary and treasurer and an executive committee will be elected, to act for the coming year. Also some other business for the society will be attended to. It is hoped that as nearly all of the eight societies as possible will be present at this meeting next Sunday afternoon.

ROBINSON-COLLINS WEDDING

The marriage of Mr. Walter W. Robinson of Lay Dam and Miss Genie Collins, of Thorsby, last Saturday night, was an event which will be of cordial interest to many friends of the contracting parties throughout Chilton County. The couple were married in Wetumpka.

Mr. Robinson has lived at Lay Dam for several years, where he holds a responsible position on the operating force of the Alabama Power Company. Miss Collins is well and favorably known throughout Chilton County. Her home is at Thorsby. She was formerly Treasurer of Chilton County.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will make their home at Lay Dam. Their many friends join in extending hearty good wishes.

GEORGE MURPHY CAUGHT WITH HOME BREW SATURDAY NIGHT

Night policeman, Stanton, arrested a negro by the name of George Murphy last Saturday night, after finding a quantity of home brew in his home. The negro was placed in jail but was released on bond shortly afterwards.

He was tried in Mayor's court Monday morning, and given a fine of $50. This together with the cost of court amounted $86.60. Murphy was put on the streets Monday morning, beginning to work out the fine.

JONES-McSWAIN ENGAGEMENT

The Birmingham News of last Sunday carried the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Mary McSwain and Mr. Horace Jones, both of Clanton.

Miss McSwain is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McSwain, and is one on the most popular young ladies of Clanton. Mr. Jones is a promising young business man, who holds the position of manager of the V. J. Elmore Store here. He is the son of Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby.

MISS CLEO BROADHEAD STILL MANAGER AT MAPLESVILLE

In correction of an article in last week's Union-Banner we wish to state that Miss Cleo Broadhead is still in charge of the Ideal Dry Goods Company at Maplesville, owned by Jesse Baker and Obe Deloach of Clanton. Mr. Wiley Littlejohn will help Miss Broadhead in the store during the fall and winter.

Mr. Harry Margolis of Uniontown was in Clanton Wednesday.

LEAGUERS ENJOY RAINBOW BANQUET

The Senior League of the Clanton M. E. Church gave a Rainbow Banquet under the direction of Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer last Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. The basement of the church was beautifully decorated in the colors of the rainbow. In one side of the room a large rainbow was made from crepe paper.

At 8 o'clock thirty-eight leaguers and friends were seated to a delicious meal. Mrs. Percy Pitts played the selection, "Chasing the Rainbow." Songs and yells were enjoyed through the meal. Stanley Nivens was toastmaster. He called on the following to give toasts on the different colors of the rainbow:

Miss Ruth Prince spoke on the color "red." Helen Diefenderfer on the color "orange." James Tiffin on the color "yellow." Ernestine Childs on the color "green." Jane Roberts on the color "violet." Each color represented something different. These toasts were enjoyed.

Rev Childs and Rev. Ellis were called on to say a few words. After this the crowd sang many songs. About 10 o'clock we repeated the league benediction and adjourned to go to our homes for a good nights sleep after a good time. Every one is invited to attend our league.

STANTON JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL TO OPEN MONDAY, SEPT. 8

Notice is given that the Stanton Junior High School will open for its 1930-31 session on next Monday morning, September 8th. The program will begin at 8:00 o'clock.

All patrons are expected to attend. Children who expect to enroll for school should bring report cards or promotion certificates. Mr. J. Z. Mims and Mr. C. E. Stapp will be speakers for the morning.

The faculty this year consists of: Luther E. Little, principal; Laura Burks, Icie Belle Cobern, Eunice Logan, Mayme Clark Kirby.

CHANGE IN OWNERSHIP OF DIXIE CAFE

Mr. Rudolph Moatts has bought out the interest of L. D. Easterling in The Dixie Cafe, of Clanton. With the change has been announced, the future operation of this popular place will be under control of Mr. Moatts and Mr. Leonard Easterling.

Leonard Easterling has been connected with the Dixie Cafe since its establishment, and is therefore familiar with the business. Mr. Moatts is a well-known business man, having been connected with the grocery store of Moatts Brothers prior to the sale of that business to Culver and Jones.

Repairs Made At County High School

Balance of $384 Still Due, To Be Paid By Incidental Fees

We are glad to announce that the State Department of Education's high school inspector visited our school last week and passed favorably upon all the work that has been done this year. The warrants have been released, and everything has been put in readiness for opening next Monday morning.

If you recall, approximately $1,500 worth of opera chairs we put in the auditorium, about $800 invested in a new roof for the building, and about $500 expended on the interior and exterior of the wood work and walls. In addition the walls have been plastered and calcimined. The financial part of all this has been taken care of with the exception of a note for $384 now held by the First National Bank. As you all know the only way to pay this is through incidental money paid by the pupils. Each pupil pays $5.00 the first semester, and $5.00 the second semester. Won't you please make it a point to have this amount ready the first day so we can take up this note next week?

This $5.00 is due the first day, and no pupil is considered a member of the student body until he has satisfactorily matriculated. Now won't you please help us out by meeting this obligation the day school begins? Here's to you for a good school another year.

Mr. Green Retherford and Harry Roper attended the Heflin-Locke Convention at Montgomery last Monday.

Another Negro Is Shot Gun Victim

Shooting Took Place At Duncan Manning's Farm On Maplesville Road

John Presley, negro, shot and killed Bell Hardaman, negro, about sunrise Tuesday morning, at the Duncan Manning farm on the Maplesville Highway beyond William Walker's. After the shooting Presley came to Clanton and surrendered to the Sheriff and was placed in jail.

Investigation of the case by Sheriff Collins revealed the following story of how the shooting happened:

Presley went to the home of Hardaman where the two engaged in a fuss about an old sadle. Hardaman went at Presley with a knife, and Presley left, returning to his own home. Then Hardaman secured a Winchester rifle and followed Presley to his (Presley's) home. He attempted to shoot Presley through a window. Presley took down a shot gun and shot Hardaman in the bowels. The negro lived only a short while after the shooting.

The preliminary trial will be held Friday.

OWEN—NATWOOD

A recent wedding of interest was that of Miss Ara Owen of near Clanton and Mr. Mernon B. Natwood of Kellyton, Ala.

The bride is the daughter of J. P. Owen and the grand-daughter of the late Rev. W. J. Bone. She was graduated at the Chilton County High School and later received an A. B. Degree at Howard College.

The groom was educated at Polytechnic Institute, and is now a member of the faculty of that institution.

After September 1 Mr. and Mrs. Natwood will be at home in Auburn, Alabama.

Pilot Killed At Air Meet In Chicago

Navy Machine Bursts Into Flames As It Strikes Ground

Mr. Thilo Fiering, a subscriber of The Union-Banner, who lives in the city of Chicago, sends us newspaper clippings from the Chicago papers, telling about the air plane wreck in which Lieut. J. P. DeShazo, of Montevallo lost his life last week.

Mr. Fiering was at the flying field when the accident happened. Following is the article which he sent us from a Chicago paper:

Curtis-Reynolds Airport, Glenview, Ill., Aug 27.—A navy aviator was killed and a spectator at the national air races was seriously injured this afternoon when the navy flyer's plane traveling 150 miles an hour, went into a roll, burst into flame and crashed near the south end of the bleachers.

First reports indicated that a score of persons had been injured, some probably fatally, but later bulletins said definitely that Lieut. J. P. DeShazo of Alabama was the sole fatality.

The spectacular crash threw the spectators into a panic. Order was partly restored when the flying field fire department extinguished blaze, the band struck up and the flying program was resumed.

Loses Life Saving Crowd

Aviators said that DeShazo went to certain death because he maneuvered his plane as to avoid striking the bleachers head-on.

The crash came as seventeen navy planes passed around the last pylon in a fifty-mile race. DeShazo was flying 100 feet from the ground. One report was that he sought to do a particularly spectacular roll, that he apparently became excited and reversed his controls. The airplane burst into flames as it hit the ground.

Another report was the the pilot was caught in the air wash from his companions' propellers as they rounded the home pylon, that the plane was flipped over as it hit the rush of air and so taken from the pilot's control.

Flames Thirty Feet in Air

The flames from the plane burst thirty feet into the air as the ship crashed into the ground in front of a concession stand, grazing the south end of the bleachers.

As the plane hurtled toward the stand the hundreds sitting there leaped to their feet screaming and there was a stampede.

Cousin Tells of Ambition

Lieut. DeShazo realized his boyhood ambition when he enrolled at the naval academy at Annapolis, his cousin, J. L. Cross, 5514 Kenwood, said last night.

Mr. Cross said he grew up with Lieut. DeShazo and his two brothers on their father's farm at Montevallo, Ala. As boys, each of the three DeShazo brothers longed to grow up to be army or navy officers, and each of the three attained the goal, Mr. Cross said. The other two brothers, Thomas and Sidney, were graduated from the United States Military academy, while Jack chose Annapolis.

The boys spent their early life on the farm, "hoeing cotton and eating watermelon," said Cross. Their mother died in their early youth, making it necessary for them to take care of themselves while helping with the farm work. Their father died later. Mr. Cross said the brothers were enroute here to take the body back to Montevallo for burial beside the father.

Native of Alabama

Lieut. Jack DeShazo, killed at Curtiss field, was born in Bridgeton, Ala., in May, 1901, and graduated from the naval academy in 1925. Later he served on the battleship New Mexico and with the east coast destroyer squadrons. After his sea duty Lieut. DeShazo was assigned to the Pensacola flying school, where he studied aviation and combat. He was assigned to the 5th flying squadron, U. S. S. Lexington, aircraft carrier, Dec. 6, 1928, after completing his course at Pensacola.

He joined the Caterpillar club in 1929, when he was forced to descend in a parachute into the Pacific. DeShazo was one of the most famous stunt flyers in the navy, and for the last two years he has been a member of the trio of battle fleet stunt flyers known as the "Unholy Three."

DeShazo's home is at Montevallo, Ala.

Mr. A. M. Jones of Corinth community, Verbena Route 2, was in Clanton Tuesdady of this week. Mr. Jones is looking out for him a farm near Clanton and one that will be handy to school for his children.

Dragging Feet

If your VITALITY is slipping away from you try S.S.S.

JUST one complaint—those dragging feet—yet they tell a big story. Back at the fountain-head the red-blood-cells are not up to standard. When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are NOT yourself—60% is dangerous. You haven't the vitality to fight infection and disease.

S.S.S.—the great blood Tonic—stimulates the blood-building organs to supply the necessary red-cells. Your appetite picks up. Your body is strengthened, invigorated—you feel like yourself again! And DRAGGING FEET become STEPPING FEET.

Take S.S.S. before each meal. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to keep themselves "fit." Its successful record of over 100 years in building red-cells in the blood is a guarantee of satisfaction. Get the large size bottle. At all drug stores.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp. County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

BUREAU LIFTS ADVANCE $5 PER BALE ON COTTON

Allen Northington, general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, Saturday authorized the banks of this county to increase by $5 per bale the advance to members of the Cotton Cooperative pooling their cotton. This brings the advance to "9 cents per pound on cotton placed in the annual pool, and 8 cents on cotton placed in the special pool."

Mr. Northington's letter the the banks read:

"With the cooperation of the American Cotton Cooperative Association and the Federal Farm Board we are able to raise our advance to the members. Effective this date, and until further notice this will be your authority to advance to our members on their drafts on us with original warehouse receipts or order notify bill of lading attached, 9c per pound on cotton placed in our annual pool, and 8c per pound on cotton placed in the special pool.

"We hope this advance will enable you to get a big lot of cotton pooled, as this is very close to what cotton can be sold for at this time. It will be our policy to keep our advance very close to the market value all during the season.

"We feel that the banks should adopt the policy this season of taking advantage of this advance through the cooperatives, and stop the cotton from being forced on the market at the present ruinous prices. This advance will let the farmers pay you practically as much on their accounts as they could by selling, and at the same time have a good chance of a nice equity later on.

"If we adopt the policy of keeping the present crop and force the reduction of acreage to the world's needs we can turn the low price cotton to a real benefit, as this will be a very material help in getting cotton back to a fair price."

WINTER CROPS

Instead of marking time until spring and then begin buying high priced hay to produce low priced cotton, Mr. Stapp, county agent suggests that Chilton County farmers "invest a much smaller amount of money now in seed oats and winter peas, which will give a fine hay crop by April 15th to May 15th. In a letter to each farmer of the county Mr. Stapp writes:

"I wish very frankly to make you a suggestion that should be a wise step in meeting an inevitable shortage of feed during the 1931 crop season.

"Mr. Gist, Federal Statistician for Alabama, reports conditions as of August the 1st, shows a hay shortage in the state of 150,000 tons under 1929, which itself was a short supply. This is further complicated by the fact of a nation-wide shortage approaching a calamity.

"Instead of marking time until spring and then begin buying high priced hay to produce low priced cotton, allow me to suggest that we follow the recommendations of the Experiment Station at Auburn and invest a much smaller amount of money now in seed oats and winter peas, which will give a fine hay crop by April the 15th to May 15th.

Money invested in peas and oats will yield more than 100 per cent gross return upon investment. This statement comes from the fact that $4.45 of peas, oats, basic slag and inoculation average over a four year period 3215 pounds of hay. Valued at $25 per ton this ih worth $40.19.

"In order to carry on next year, we know farmers will have to buy hay and corn; why is it not the wise thing to plant this combination of peas or vetch and oats or wheat. It is the quickest and cheapest relief."

"MORE POWER FROM THE ALABAMA PECAN"

More power from Pecan production, is the stirring war cry coined by Alabama organized growers who are gathering for their army, for a state wide drive of better organization, beginning September 1st.

J. Lloyd Abbot, widely known horticulturist of Spring Hill, Alabama, is marshalling his forces for a statewide "pecan drive" through which the growers of pecans are to be made acquainted with great work sponsored by Federal Farm Board, in marketing pecans. The vast moneyed resourses of the Farm Board are behind the state and national organizations, and modern market methods which have proved of such marked profit in other great industries of the United States will be installed.

Regarding the broad details, Mr. Abbot said, "We will cooperate with all farmers in handling their pecan crop. We work in harmony with every organized body in Alabama, including the State Forces of Extension and Experiment Station and Department of Agriculture, and Marketing Association of the Farm Bureau."

"We expect to have this year, two central concentration points in Alabama, called 'locals', at which pecans will be assembled. Here they will be graded, classified and fitted for market. It is only in this way that pecan growers can hope to compete with big business and find a profitable sale for their pecans."

"The south is now producing many pecans and the tonnage increases very irregularly. When a big crop comes in, the present dis-organized method of distributing breaks down, with the resulting drop in prices. We will get our first Federal Crop Estimate on pecans, as of September 1st beginning this year."

As vice-President of the new marketing Association, with power and money to handle a 20 million pound crop of pecans. Mr. Abbott fully sensed the possible disaster facing the Southern growers, when he said, "Alabama already has 2.6 persons for each pecan tree living in our State. This shows that we already produce vastly more than we can use at home, and besides the pecans are a seasonable crop largely."

"New orchards are being planted; many new tree are coming into bearing. We already have four trees coming into bearinng for every three now bearing. This shows what a mountain of a crop will be facing Alabama growers inside a few years."

"The South has gone into the pecan busines with a rush. It looked like a gold mine to many growers. Unless we put over this big drive for organization, and secure all possible benefits from it, it is easy to see that pecan growers will soon be facing ten cent pecans, which is worse than ten cent cotton. If growers do not realize and develop new markets and sell through cooperatives and reap the benefit of every dollars worth of pecans grown."

Mr. Abbot is a member of the Alabama Board of Agriculture and has a record of many years in productions of pecans, satsumas and other horticultural products in the Gulf Coastal Regions.

The 1930 hay crorp of Alabama is estimated by the State and Federal authorities as 317,000 tons against 467,000 tons in 1929 and 473,000 in 1928. Planting of winter legumes for grazing and for hay, as well as soil building, is being urged by county agents and the College of Agriculture at Auburn.

Well, it's going to be a hard year on the corn borer, too.—Louisville Courier Journal.

MORE GREEN CROPS SHOULD BE PLANTED

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 1.—Turnips, spinach, Chinese cabbage, rape, kale, collards and mustard planted in September will furnish greens and other fresh products for the table during the fall, winter and spring. In view of the damage done to gardens, truck crops and other food crops by drouth, planting of more than usual of these crops is being recommended by county agents and also by Dr. C. L. Isbell, head of the Department of Horticulture of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Aubuurn.

If turnips are planted for greens during fall and winter, Dr. Isbell recommends a Japanese type. For both greens and turnips during the fall and winter he recommends the purple top globe; for winter and early spring he recommends the seven top.

In north Alabama turnips should be planted in late August or early September. In south Alabama plant in September from the 10th to 2th he said.

Siberian kale is good and will stand Alabama winters while other kales may or may not stand them. Rape is good for the table as well as for livestock, he said. Collards and spinach are well known greens. Chinese cabbage makes a big growth and is good for the table as well as chickens.

Onions, carrots and other vegetables should be planted in season and are recommended by the county agents, Dr. Isbell, said.

Each requires fertile land to make a big growth. They respond to fertilizer. Prepare land thoroughly, he added.

FARM NEWS NOTES

F. W. Gist, statistician with the State Department of Agriculture, Montgomery, estimates that the Alabama peanut crop this year will be 5,263,000 bushels compared to 5,720,000 in 1929.

FARMERS MUST MEET SHORTAGE OF FEED

Mr. Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, through the bankers of Alabame, is urging the farmers of the state to take steps this winter to meet the shortage of feed stuff that will prevail in 1931.

It is estimated by statisticians that the hay crop in Alabama will be 150,000 tons under the 1929 crop, which itself was a short supply. This is further complicated by the fact that a nation-wide shortage approaches a calamity.

Instead of marking time until next spring and then begin to buy high priced feed to produce low priced cotton, Mr. O'Neal suggests that farmers follow the suggestions of the Experiment Station at Auburn and invest a small amount of money in seed oats and winter peas, which will give a fine crop by April 15 to May 15 next year.

Figures compiled from records of the Experiment Station show that the money cost of peas and oats per acre is approximately $4.45, while the return from hay produced is $40.19.

"We know that in order to carry on next year," says Mr. O'Neal, "that farmers will have to buy hay and corn. Why is it not the wise thing to plant this combination of peas or vetch and oats or wheat? It is the quickest and cheapest relief."

On 75 acres of rented land, J. C. Poole of Green County, planted winter legumes in the fall of 1928 at a cost of $245. He turned the legumes under in the spring of 1929 and planted cotton seed. He harvested 900 pounds of seed cotton per acre against a county average of 525 pounds. He estimated that his winter legume investment of $245 returned to him in the form of a larger yield of cotton $2,334.37.

REDUCTIONS MADE IN ELECTRIC RATES OF RURAL CONSUMER

The public Service Commission has approved a revised rural service classification for Alabama Power Company effective September 1, by which it was estimated a saving of $27,000 would be effected for rural customers.

Development of rural service under the rate established in 1927, the Commission's order said, has resulted in constructed of 406 rural lines up to January 1, 1930, serving directly 8,276 customers.

The new lines built within this period brought the total number of rural power circuits constructed and authorized to January 1 to 450, the mileage of lines to 1,675 and the customers served to 9,140. In addition, 13,120 additional customers were being served on that date in 143 rural communities, making a total of 22,260 customers or over 100,000 people served from rural power lines.

The revised rate is more liberal in its application to domestic service and allows the use of an electric range up to eight kilowatts, water heating and miscellaneous appliances up to a total of one and one-half kilowatts without extra charge.

The new rate allows one-fifth of a kilowatt of outside lighting without extra charge. This, it was explained, makes it possible for rural customers to reduce their monthly electric bills in varying amounts up to $4.05.

Electricty will be available, under the new rate, for lighting, heating, cooking, refrigeration or power service or any combination of these, up to a demand of 50 kilowatts.

Over 15 and less than 20 customers per mile $1.50 a month; over 10 and not more than 15 customers per mile, $2 per month; over five and not more than 10 customers per mile, $2.50; five customers or less $3.50.

Where a town is served from a rural line, a special rating is made and customers served from combination line will pay a service charge of $2 a month.

In addition to the capacity charge each month, the energy charge is as follows: Five cents per killowatt hour for the first 50 kilowatts consumed per month; plus three cents per kilowatt hour for the next 950 kilowatt hours consumed per month; plus two cents per kilowatt hour for all over 1,000 kilowatt hours consumed per month.

ASIATIC PINE IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala. Sept. 4.—A good specimen of the Himalayan Pine is found in the city of Talladega, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester, who recently noted the tree while passing through the city. The Himalayan Pine is also known as Bhotan Pine and is native to the region of the Himalayan Mountains in southern Asia where it furnishes resin and wood of considerable value.

This species is used as an ornamental tree to a considerable extent in Europe and America. The leaves are from four to seven inches long and grow in clusters of five. The foliage is drooping and of a gray-green color. The Talladega specimen is about sixteen inches in diameter and approximately sixty feet in height.

The Himalayan Pine belong to the group commonly called white pines in the section of the genus usually designated as soft pines. Most southern pines, however, belong to the other section of the genus known as hard pines. The Himalayan pine found in Talladega is growing on the lawn of Mr. E. G. Stringer at 201 North Street and presents a beautiful appearance. A cone from the tree was taken to the office of the Commission of Forestry Montgomery.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

ONWARD WITH PAUL IN THE GREAT MISSIONARY JOURNEY

We see Paul leaving Berea. We remember that Paul preached in the synagogue there and the Bereans were more noble than the Thessalonians in that they received the word of God with all readiness of mind and searched the scriptures daily to verify Paul's teachings. There were Jews from Thesslonia, who came to Berea to hound and drive them away from the believers and worshippers which the apostles had converted into Christianity.

It is erroneous to say the Gospel did not bear fruit in Berea. Paul in his first letter to the Corinthians writes with Sosthenes whom he speaks of as being faithful. It was Sosthenes who had borne great persecution because of his adherence to the faith which Paul taught as mentioned in the Acts 18:17. Paul left Silas and Timotheus and went to Athens, the capitol of Greek culture and civilization. It was the mother and center of classical history, classical philosophy, classicai gods and idols. It appeals to one now as the capitol of Greece not only at that time but at the present time. It seems to me now that it is a great center for the spread of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the great truth of what we call orthodox Christianity.

Paul went there alone and yet not alone. He was not alone because Christ was with him. No man is alone when he has Christ in his heart and life. No doubt he went there with a heartful of gratitude because he was permitted to visit Athens, a great city full of false gods and idols. The Hebrews there are very evangelistic and missionary. All around there one finds Jewish colonies. They are endeavoring to give the Gospel to those without it, now. Paul spoke it upon entering the city but they did not understand it. He spoke of the one Jesus and of His death and ressurection from the garden tomb on the third day. We just pause here and think of the great fact that our Bible is the only book which teaches that the body after being placed in the grave, the sepulchre, will rise again. To the Athenians this was very strange. They said, "The Epicurians and the Stoics, our most learned men have never taught that the body will rise again after death. Indeed this is a strang doctrine which you are teaching."

But Paul bravely spoke about the resurrection of Christ being a proof of our resurrection. This news, the devil would not accept with any allowance of peace whatsoever. He burned with envy, hatred, malice from the top of his head to the soles of his feet as he saw some of the Athenians moved to accept and worship this one true and living God. Paul's life was certainly a consecrated one among those heathen worshipping people. It is written that he spoke about God in the market place daily. It was a good place to reach multitudes of people.

So we find Paul in Athens not ashamed of the Gospel of Jesus Christ which he gladly preached and expounded unto them. He writes, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, which is a saving grace to all who believe it." Paul was taken to the Agora, called the Areopagus and they said, "What is this new doctrine which thou art teaching about the sleeping body rising again in the resurrection at the last day? Nobody ever spoke on this to us before, not even Themistocles, Pericles, and Demosthenes ever spoke words line these. This is indeed a strange doctrine which thou art speaking."

Paul had a large audience to speak to there at the Areopagus on Mar's Hill. To his right stood the Acropolis which today is looped upon as in great ruins. There Paul began his great and noble address in defense of Christ and His Gospel in such words as these, "As I passed by and beheld your worship and devotions, ye men of Athens, I found an altra with this inscription: 'To the unknown God.' whom ye ignorantly worship, Him (the unknown God) declared I unto you. I would have you know this unknown God who made the earth and all therein, seeing that he is the Lord of heaven and earth and dwelleth not in temples made with hands."

I can not forget when I first stood on Mar's Hill and looked out upon the ruins of the old Greek temple and theatre of Dionysius. I thought of the apostle and hero of Christ and the new faith standing there and declaring the God of heaven and earth to people whom he was not known. O, is he an unknown God to you and to me this morning? Are we ignorantly worshipping an unknown God? As I passed along that road I was overcome with a strange feeling as my mind turned to that great captain and hero of the new faith in Christ Jesus to the Athenians of the unknown God. O, if we have a monument erected to the unknown God, let us tear it down and build one to the true, living and known God.

No doubt Paul reminded them of the many gods which they worshipped telling them they had a god for everything, an intellectual god, a god of poetry, a god of education. But Paul told them of the unknown God whom they ignorantly worshipped in that He was abundantly able to help them in many things. O, just to know God and like Paul tell about Him to those who live and ignorantly worship an unknown God. O. just to tell about this unknown god to those without Him. Then Paul says, "In this God whom I declare unto you, we live, move, and have our being."

Now Paul was a wonderfully educated man and knew the oratory and culture of the Athenians. He certainly displayed his tact and skill in his great address to the Athenians. No one but a highly cultured and educated man could have hade the effective salutation and approach as did Paul to the Athenians in his wonderful address on Mar's Hill. Paul tells them that they are the offspring of God, and as such we are not to think of the Godhead as silver or gold, or stone engraven by art and mans device. He is a true and living God who giveth seedtime and harvest, spring time, winter, autum, and summer. He makes the oats, barley, peaches bananas and oranges. He supplies everything, all your needs and all my needs. "He hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth."

That we have a soul is evident, in the fact that we can think about God and the world to come. Men who are sincere and true do think about God and the world to come and must think about it. Paul next uses the sentence. "God commandeth all men every where to repent." Notice that he said "All men every where" to repent. That is, He did not mean just one certain man or one certain nationality of men but, All men every where. Now what did He command them to do? He commanded them to repent. He did not mean by repentance, just quitting sin. He meant to be sorry for sin and with a heart broken on account of sin to seek Christ in pardon and forgiveness of sin and turn away from them hating and forsaking sin. It is turning from sin in penitence acceptig Christ into your heart and endeavoring to live in Christ and for Christ.

If I had the power of Apollos and the influence to impress this wonderfull message upon your heart and brain that Christ commands all men every where to repent. We must cling to the existance of the one true God and we must cling to and hug this great command in obedience; "Repent." O. how we should cherish the great truth of the existance of the one and true God, Jesus Christ and His resurrection from the dead, the outstanding fact in which He proved that he could triumph over death, the grave, hell, that Jesus Christ was the conqueror over the grave, death and hell.

I ask you to read the Acts if you would get spiritual help in this study. After visiting Athens I must say in great tenderness and love that they are looking up. America's love for the far east has established a university for the education of many heathens in Christianity. During great persecutions and intrusions the people took refuge in Athens.

FROM W. T. BEAN

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

I had intended to write a short letter to the voters last week but was very busy and just let the time slip. However, I am now taking this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to the many who expressed their friendship for me by voting for me in the recent Republican primary. I wish that it were possible for me to know who every individual is who supported me so that I could express my appreciation in person. But I must say to those who did not see fit to support me that I appreciate your expressing your honest conviction for who you thought was the right one. That is what I did and that is the right of every voter, and now every one ought to be satisfied.

I have had occasions to say many times that it is only by letting the majority rule that we are able to have any form of government, and I willingly and cheerfully accept the decisions of the voters now. I made a clean, honest race and lost, and now I have nothing to regret. I can conscientiously say that I shall support the entire ticket in November whole heartedly. Had I been the successful man, I would have expected the rest of the people who voted in the primary to have supported me in the general election, and I owe the nominees the same support that I would have expected had I been nominated.

I have always served the county and the party in every way that I could that was right and honorable, and my defeat will in no wise lessen my interest in my county and in my party. I ever stand ready to help any one that may call upon me in any way that I can, and I here pledge my humble and feeble services to help elect the entire ticket in November just as I have always done heretofore. Very sincerely.—W. T. Bean.

Lesson for September 7

JOSIAH, A ROYAL REFORMER

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 22:1-8; 23:1-25.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Josiah Finds God's Book.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Josiah's Rare Find.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Getting Help from the Bible.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The World's Debt to Reformers.

I. Josiah a Godly Young King (22:1, 2).

He did that which was right in the sight of the Lord and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left. About one hundred years elapsed between the reformation under Hezekiah and that of Josiah. Sometime during this period the book of God's law had been lost. Two wicked kings had reigned in the interval. The Lord had given to Hezekiah much wealth. His son, Manasseh, coming into possession of his father's property and being ungodly would naturally neglect the Bible, if not purposely try to put it from sight. Those who do not obey the word of God are usually interested in putting it out of sight.

II. Finding the Book of the Law (22:3-10).

1. The occasion (vv. 3-8).

It was while restoring the temple during Josiah's reformation that the law was discovered. In clearing out the dark corners to make repairs and to find a place to store the subscriptions made by the people, many things which had been lost were found, among which was the law.

2. The Book read before the king (vv. 9, 10).

Upon making a report of the work to the king Shaphan informed him of the finding of the book of the law of the Lord, and the book was read by Shaphan before the king.

III. The Effect of the Reading of the Law (vv. 11-20).

1. The king rent his clothes (v. 11).

As the law was read before him he was led to realize the awful extent of the nation's departure from God. He knew that sin merited punishment. The rending of the royal robes indicated the king's penitence and sorrow.

2. The king sent a deputation to make inquiry of the Lord (vv. 12-20).

He included himself in the guilt before God (v. 13). His sense of sin was so keen that he sent to inquire of the Lord as to whether there was any means of diverting the divine judgments. Instinctively the human heart turns from God's threatening judgments to a means of escape.

3. The message of Huldah, the prophetess (vv. 15-20).

(1) Confirmation of what the law said (vv. 15-17).

She said that all the curses written in the law must follow, for the sins had been so flagrant that God's wrath could not be restrained. It was not too late, however, upon repentence to obtain mercy from God, but the outward consequences of sin must be realized.

(2) Acceptance of Josiah's repentance (vv. 18-20).

Because of his tenderness of heart and deep penitence, the Lord said he should be gathered to his grave in peace and should not see all the evil brought on Jerusalem and its people. What Huldah said was true though Josiah died in battle (II Chron. 35:22-25).

IV. Reforms Instituted (23:1-25).

1. The king read the law (vv. 1, 2).

He gathered together the inhabitants of Jerusalem, including the priests, Levites, and elders, and read unto them the law.

2. The king made a covenant before the Lord (v. 3).

In this covenant he pledged himself.

(1) "To walk before the Lord."

This meant that he would get personally right with God.

(2) To "keep God's commandments and his testimonies and his statutes."

This obedience was of the heart.

(3) "To perform the words of the covenant which were written in this book."

The king not only entered into this sincerely, but caused all that were present to "stand to" it.

3. The king took away the abominations (vv. 4-20).

He not only broke down the places of idolatrous worship, but slew the priests who officiated at the altar.

4. Passover kept (vv. 21-23).

So fully and heartily did they enter into this reformation that this Passover was unlike any that had been held since the days of the Judges.

5. Workers of the occult driven out (vv. 24, 25).

All the days of the king they departed not from following after the Lord.

Must Follow in His Steps

Sincere we must be, some sacrifices we must make, and for the rest we must follow in the steps of the Lord till we grow into his likeness. It is a splendid endeavor, and in its very difficulties and elevation lie its greatness and its success.—John Watson.

Prayer

Prayer is the pulse of the renewed soul; and the constancy of its beat is the test and measure of the spiritual life.—Octavius Winslow.

Mr. Ollie Mims, of Birmingham spent the past week-end in Clanton.

J. P. F. THANKS ALL WHO RESPONDED TO ADVETISEMENT

In response to the advertisement of J. P. F., in The Union-Banner a few weeks ago, about one hundred applications were received from boys and young men seeking the position that was offered.

J. P. F. has asked The Union-Banner to express to them his appreciation of the interest and sincerity of every boy who answered the advertisement. One boy was hired for the job, as it required only one to fill the bill. "I am sorry I can not do something for every one of the boys who answered my advertisement," said the business man. "I was very much impressed by the tone of the letters which I received. I want every boy who wrote to me to know that I appreciate it, and if the occasion ever comes when I can do so, I will remember every one of you."

CITY ELECTION WILL BE HELD SEPTEMBER 15

The election for Mayor and Councilmen of Clanton will be held on the 15th day of September.

There are three candidates for Mayor: J. B. Atkinson, M. C. Broadhead, and J. Lee Smith.

The list of men running for a place on the Council is as follows: Grady D. Broadhead, O. M. Carter, J. W. Franklin, Newt A. Gray, J. R. Hardy, Eric Hart, Grady Heflin, Frank P. James, J. A. Maddox, W. L. Popwell, J .D. Rockett, H. S. Shaw, J. L. Scroggins, A. R. Taylor, Horsley White.

There are five Councilmen to be elected out of the above list of candates.

The production of condensed skimmed milk in 1928 was 54,000,000 pounds against 148,000,000 pounds in 1926. Skimmed milk is used principally in baking, ice cream and confectionery. During the same production of condensed buttermilk, used principally in feeding livestock, increased from 12,000,000 to 86,000,000.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

EZELL BEGINS NINTH YEAR AS PASTOR

Next Sunday will mark the beginning of the ninth year of the pastorate of Rev. S. J. Ezell at Clanton Baptist church. Rev. Ezell is planning to bring to his congregation at the morning service next Sunday a special anniversary message, which he wishes every member of the church to hear.

Concerning his past eight years of service in Clanton, Rev. Ezell made the following interesting comments in the Church Bulletin of last Sunday, August 31:

Eight Years Together

Today closes eight years of service with you. Perhaps it is a long time, but it seems short to us. Oh shuttle of time, how swift are thy movements! Truly our years are spent as a tale that is told. Eight years are gone but we trust they are not in vain. They have been years of sweet fellowship filled with much labor and service. How good the Lord has been to us and to our church! We have not done what we could or what we should as a church, but we have done much.

It is worth noting that we have had in these eight years five hundred and twenty additions. For this we should give God thanks. We have seen our Sunday School grow from less than one hundred to nearly an average of three hundred. There is nothing to be discouraged of here. Our school now ranks near the top in the State. Our good women have grown in numbers from a handful to one hundred and fifty. They have perhaps made more progress than any department in our church.

In finances we have made a remarkable record. I do not have the figures at hand, but we have paid about $20,000.00 on our church building. We have our Sunday School Annex and new heating plant all paid for except $5,000.00. We have bought and paid for four pianos and much more equipment. We have raised for all purposes perhaps not less than $65,000.00 or $75,000.00.

Our most remarkable achievement is, perhaps, our growth in spirit. Our unity has been remarkable. We have also learned how to work together. We have discovered we can do great things when we try. Let us thank God for His goodness. and remember He will lead us on if we will yield ourselves to Him.

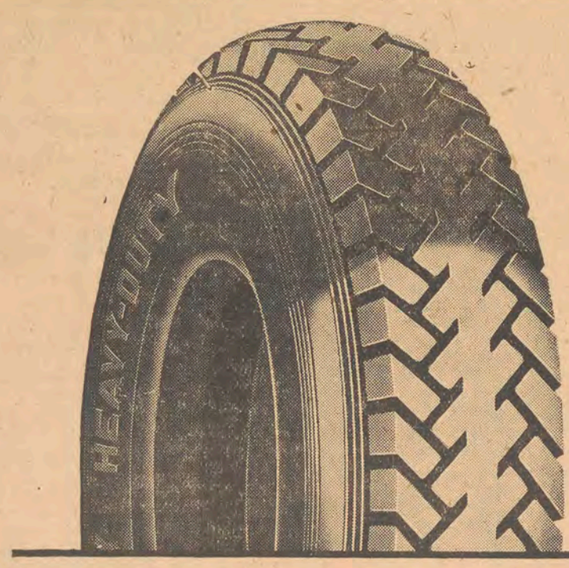
The pastor begins his ninth year next Sunday. We want to bring you a special message Sunday morning looking to our future plans. Will you please ask every member of our church to be present? We want the balcony filled next Sunday morning. Tell our folks.

I Always Will Thank Sargon

"Five years ago my health began to fail. I was subject to indigestion, biliousness and headaches and so nervous I slept miserably. Sargon not only ended all my troubles, but it reconditioned my whole system. I'm strong and well now, sleep good and am full of new life and energy.

MRS. NIDA MOSS

"Sargon Pills rid me of biliousness and headaches and I'm certainly thankful that I started this wonderful treatment."—Mrs. Nida Moss, 319 Ave., H., Ensley, Ala.



NEGRO IS RELEASED AFTER PRELIMINARY

The preliminary trial of Mose Wallace, negro, charged with killing Leonard Shelton, another negro, was held in the Justice Court of H. M. Simpson at Clanton Tuesday. Wallace was set free.

The shooting of Shelton occured at Mitchell Dam, August 7th, when Wallace found him at his (Wallace's) home with his wife. Wallace also shot his wife, but the injury to her was not fatal.

EXPRESS THANKS

We wish to express our deepest gratitude to the many friends for their words of sympathy, for their kindness and thoughtfulness to us in our extreme loss of a husband and father. — Mrs. Hubbard Glass and Family.

HEAVY DUTY

Built for High Speed and Heavy Loads

Internal friction generates heat which causes many tires to fail prematurely when subjected to high speeds and heavy loads. Kelly-Springfield Heavy-Duty tires are protected against this trouble because every strand of cord used is impregnated with rubber and the cotton used is the finest long fiber cotton available for the purpose. That is only one way in which Kelly Heavy-Duty tires are protected against premature wear. Every opertaing factor was taken into consideration when this tire was designed—that is why Kelly Heavy-Duties really do cut operating costs to the bone.

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE OF ALABAMA FARMERS

That Alabama farmers who do not produce enough feed for their livestock are traveling in a vicious circle is revealed by the cartoon above. As he makes cotton his mule eats feed from distant states and his cotton money must go there to pay for his feed.

And making cotton in Alabama on feed produced in Iowa and shipped to the State leaves most farmers broke at the end of the year. It would be much better if the neck of the mule actually extended from Alabama to Iowa for it would save the cost of shipping, and also a lot of profits for middlemen en route.

The Alabama farmer who wishes to do so can get out of the vicious circle. The way to do it is to plant seed of either Austrian peas or hairy vetch in the fall. It can be done at a low cost—much below what it would cost to buy after it is shipped from far away.

And either of these winter legumes will do another thing. Each enriches land, making it unnecessary to buy nitrogen, the most expensive fertilizer element which farmers buy. In addition, either one adds much humus which Alabama soils need, but which cannot be bought in sacks. Therefore, the way to get out of the vicious circle—and also save a lot of money on fertilizer is to plant either hairy vetch or Austrian winter pea seed late in September or early in October. County Agent C. E. Stapp is urging farmers to do this and giving instructions as to how to do it.

WEST CHILTON

Like The Jack Pot, news comes up "scace" this week. However, the first thing is to correct a mistype. "Life is a race from the cradle to the grave," is the way it should have read last week.

Mr. Pratt Crumpton made a business trip to Tuscaloosa last week.

Monroe Nix has moved from his old home. Do not know yet where he will locate permanently.

Mrs. Vera Burks of Birmingham came down last week to visit her mother, Mrs. Tubb.

Floyd Nix got married last week to Miss Flora Ratliff, late of Birmingham. They will live on the J. M. Nix place.

Just now farmers are getting a deluge of free advice. But to follow the advice calls for money. How is he to get the money without marketing something that will bring the money? His raw material will not bring much. So, when the finished product comes back on the home market, the farmer must pay the old time price. How long can he keep up the present mode of living at that rate? To go back to primitive times looks impossible. Some advise him to drop cotton and raise more cereals. In just a little while he would have the market supplied again. So there he is. Something is wrong somewhere; and seems to be growing worse. Apparently man cannot solve the problem.

Mr. Rufus Smith and wife of the Southern Railroad visited relatives here Sunday.

We have so many worthy candidates who were unsuccessful in the late primary, we see no way to catch up and honor them all but to hold each official to one term only. Life is too short otherwise.

GORE AND MILLER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Odis Miller and Miss Hazel Gore of Birmingham, motored to Fort Payne with Miss Alean Gore and Mr. Horace Miller, where they were united in holy matrimony by Rev. Zac Y. Appleton. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. Jack Appleton, father of Rev. Appleton. The home was beautifully decorated with ferns and cut flowers.

Mr. J. B. Appleton sang two solos, "I Love You Truly," and "Promise Me." He was accompanied at the piano by his sister, Mrs. Garrison. She later played the wedding march as the bride and groom entered the room. The ring ceremony was used.

The bride was attired in a dark blue georgette dress with egg shell accessories to match. She carried as her bouquet an arm full of roses. The groom wore a blue suit.

After the wedding the guest motored to Mentone Springs Hotel, where refreshments were served. Visiting the surroundings of the hotel and Mentone Falls, we motored back to Fort Payne. Mr. and Mrs. Odis Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Miller and Miss Hazel Gore returned to Clanton about 12:00, where they will spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Odis Miller. Later Mr. and Mrs. Horace Miller will make their home at Lay Dam, where Mr. Miller is employed with the Alabama Power Co.

New Kitchen Magic

Modern housewife quickly turns simple cream into many dessert treats

EVERY successful cook uses one ingredient which has never been included in any cook book recipe. It is "a dash of imagination." Luckily this precious ingredient is available to every home maker, whether she has an unlimited food allowance or whether she must count every penny.

For instance, "a dash of imagination" will turn plain tapioca cream into a dozen new, delicious and economical desserts which the family will hail as a special treat.

And what a time saver. Make up enough tapioca cream for two days' dinners. Serve it plain one day and dressed up for the next day.

First of all, here is the basic recipe:

Tapioca Cream

⅓ cup quick cooking tapioca	1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar	1 teasp. flavoring
¼ teaspoon salt	1 egg white, stiffly beaten
1 qt. milk, scalded

Add tapioca, sugar and salt to milk. Cook in double boiler 15 minutes or until tapioca is clear, stirring often. Pour small amount of tapioca mixture over egg yolk, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler. Cook until thickened. Remove from fire. Add flavoring. Fold in egg white. Chill. Serve in sherbet glasses. Garnish with whipped cream and a few berries or pieces of fruit. Serves 8.

Turn This Tapioca Cream Into These Surprise Desserts:

1. Serve with chocolate, or caramel sauce or maple syrup. These may be folded into pudding or poured over each serving and garnished with nut meats.
2. Serve with a Fig Sauce made of stewed dried figs, chopped.
3. Fold whipped cream into pudding. Garnish with orange or grapefruit sections, with jam or jelly, or with a fruit sauce or canned fruit syrup.
4. Fold in whipped cream. Garnish with fluffy chocolate sauce. (Whipped cream and chocolate sauce folded together.)

In addition to these suggestions every woman will be able to add some of her own, such as shredded coconut, candied fruits, canned fruits.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. H. Wallis was a patient here last week.

Mr. T. C. Simms was admitted to the hospital August 26th.

Mr. M. M. Gotlis, Myrtle Williams and Mable Brown were given first aid treatment following an automobile accident August 30.

Mrs. T. F. Limbrick was admitted to the hospital August 30.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Knowles were admitted here following an automobile wreck. Mrs. Limbrick suffered a broken leg and collar bone.

Little Mildred Rotun was admitted Sunday from an autombile accident.

Clifford Crane of Pletcher was admitted to the hospital Sunday following an automobile accident, and died Monday.

Walter Hubbard is still in the hospital.

Little Lois Cotton is still in the hospital.

Hattie Latham, colored, died at the hospital Friday night, a few hours after an automobile accident near Maplesville.

Nix Solomon, colored, was given first aid treatment Saturday morning following an automobile accident.

Little Blanche Timmerman underwent a minor operation Tuesday.

PHONE MEETING TO BE HELD NEXT SATURDAY

We understand that Mr. Reed Mullins, president of Peoples Telephone Company, has requested all phone holders to meet at the courthouse next Saturday afternoon, 2 o'clock. It is stated that so few have paid central fees that it seems impossible to operate the business unless something is done to get more people to pay.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

"DAUGHTERS OF RUTH"

The Intermediate Girls Sunday School class (Daughters of Ruth), of Chestnut Creek church, went on a picnic to Prattville Deer Park, August 31, 1930. We spread our lunch under some large trees; we had just plenty of good things to eat. We also took some pictures of the class and teacher. After lunch we motored to Montgomery, Wetumpka, Elmore and Speigner.

We had a very nice time; everyone seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. Mmbers of the class are: Lillie Mae Dupree, Eunice and Margie Grant, Leanoh Glenn, Leatris Moore, Margaret Robinson, Sarah Wise, Ethel Cooper, Louise Smith, Alma Huett, Annabell Ballew, Cora Thornton, Virgia Robinson and Bera Cox. Outside the class were: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jones, Ernest Warren, Dewel Jones, Lane Allen, Louise Moore, Ennis Dupree, Grace Penson, and our teacher, Mrs. Luke Calloway, and little son, Luke Calloway, Jr.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE SEPTEMBER 12TH

A conference of interest to all Baptist churches and Sunday Schools in Chilton County will be held at the Clanton Baptist Church on Friday, September 12th. .There will be two sessions, one at 3:30 p. m., and the other at 7:30 p. m.

This conference is arranged under supervision of the Baptist Sunday School Board, and will bring to us Miss Mary Alice Biby and Mrs. Davis Cooper, Jr., two of the best trained Intermediate workers in the Southern Baptist Sunday School work.

The conference will be devoted to discussion of subjects of particular application to Intermediate Department work.

The meeting has been placed at Clanton because of its central location and accessibility to other places. Every Baptist church and Sunday School in the Unity and Chilton Associations is urged to send a delegation to attend the meeting. Especially is it desired that all pastors, superintendents, Sunday School officers and teachers be present.

Remember the date is Friday, September 12. First session at 3:30 p. m., and the other at 7:30 p. m., at Clanton Baptist Church. Every person interested in Sunday School, and particularly Intermediate work, is invited and urged to come.

BETHSALEM NEWS

Our Sunday School was called to order last Sunday mroning at 10 o'clock by Mr. R. N. Wilkins.

We had a very large crowd. There were 55 members present and several visitors. We were glad to have so many present and hope to have more next Sunday.

To all the tecahers of Bethsalem Sunday School we especially invite them to meet next Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock at Bethsalem Church to attend to the Sunday School teachers' meeting.

Remember Sunday School will begin at 10 o'clock, every one has a special invitation to come and take a part.

NOTICE

The Commissioners Court will meet at the court house August the 13th, at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of discussing Mr. Stapp, the Farm Demonstrator's work. Mr. Stapp will make a full report of his work at this meeting.

We urge every person in this county to be present that if either for or against the farm demonstration work. We especially urge those who are opposed to this work to come to this meeting and let the people hear your objections.

The Court, is anxious to do what the people of the county want them to do.

This the 3rd day of September, 1930.

L. H. REYNOLDS, Judge of Probate. J. P. Bean, T. A. Maddox, J. L. Burnett, A. P. Vinson, Commissioners. 9-4-2t-ch.

Philosophy of Error

A responsible public board was charged with making errors in judgment by critics. It was charged that this board had over a period of years made a number of mistakes.

To this, one of the men thus attacked, answered. "There are only three types of persons who never make mistakes: The liar, because he never admits them; the fool, because he doesn't know when he makes them; and, thirdly, the oyster, because he never does anything.

"We do not think we are either fools, liars or oysters. No one engaging in a large enterprise can foresee everything. Sometimes hindsight is better than foresight."—Boston Globe.

Henry Hudson

Henry Hudson made four notable voyages to America from 1607 in search of a northeastern passage to China and latterly a northwestern one. He explored the coasts of Spitzbergen and Nova Zembla, the Hudson river and Hudson strait and bay. He wintered in the bay, in 1610-11, at the foot of James bay, and on his return voyage was set adrift with eight companions in a small boat and never again heard of. "Of all the dark mysteries of the merciless ocean, no mystery lies wrapped in deeper shadow than that which hangs over the fate of Hudson."

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Fred Howard and Nat Bentley returned Thursday morning from the state fishing rodeo in the bay and gulf, which lasted three days and was a true sporting event of great interest to fishermen from a wide area of the United States and Canada.

They brought with them a barrel of fish which included some varieties new in this section, which were generously distributed among their friends. The writer received a good sized chunk of Cavalla, which looked and tasted very much like "prime roast beef," and was evidently cut from a large fish, as there were no bones in it.

Mr. Norton, who has been confined to his home by illness for several days, is improving and hopes to be out again in a few days

The Ladies Guild lawn social at the home of the Each family was a most enjoyable affair, attended by some 75 of Thorsby good folks. The lawn was beautifully lighted with electric lights, strung by Cecil Each. Tables were scattered about for enjoyment of games for old and young people. Seats were provided for all. The night was perfect and everybody seemed in good spirits. Mrs. Each was "Generalissimo" of the occasion and had a galaxy of young assistants, who unobstrusively aided to see that there were no "wall flowers." Even Daddy Paxson was noticed comfortably seated, leaning on his stick and apparently enjoying the lively scenes, folks and colors that moved like images in a kalidoscope before him. Every one seemed to consider the social a pronounced success.

There will be morning and evening services at Congregational church next Sunday.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Social will be held Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. Burton Higgins.

Miss Lois Each, matron of Thorsby Institute, returned Monday from her home in Minneapolis. She with her asistants will prepare the dormitory for the reception of students for the school opening Wednesday, September 10, at ten o'clock.

Mrs. Butler and Miss Fairbank returned from Chattanooga Saturday night. On the way home they visited in the home of Rev. Davenport, former Congregational pastor at Thorsby, now located at Daisy, Tenn.

William Each made a visit home from Montgomery for Sunday and Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. Each entertained Rev. Butler and family for Sunday dinner.

Hollis Pate and wife and Lester, and a Mr. and Mrs. Turner, all from Wetumpka, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Pate Sunday.

We hear that Miss Genie Collins of Thorsby was married last Friday evening to a Mr. Robinson of Lay Dam.

Elizabeth Butler of Montgomery, who has been the guest of Miss Dorothy Butler the past week returned to her home on Sunday.

Miss Lois Primm has returned to her school at Lay Dam.

Mr. Rasco Maddox, who has spent the summer at the University at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, is home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gresham Lowery had as their guest last week Miss Coy Gallores of Marion, Ala.

Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Lowery visited friends at Liberty Hill last Sunday.

The Senior B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist Church enjoyed a moonlight picnic at Lover's Lane last Tuesday night.

On Thursday evening the Junior B. Y. P. U. had a social at the church.

Next Monday afternoon the ladies of the Baptist Church are to meet at the church for the purpose of dividing the W. M. U. into three circles.

Mrs. Grace Martin of Cullman is visiting her sister, Mrs. McDonald Pierson.

Mr. McDonald Pierson left Sunday for Atlanta and other points of interest, on vacation.

Mrs. H. L. Walker, Mrs. Lee Pate and Mrs. Grover Bice and children spent Friday in Montgomery.

Mrs. Mixon and baby, Grace Swanson, are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Mixon's mother, Mrs. Swanson at Union Springs.

Mrs. G. F. Harper, who has been away for several weeks in Florida and South Alabama will return on Thursday from Brewton.

Miss Ruth Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith, Mr. Herbert Adams and Mr. Hogan, from Collinsville, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Billingsley and Mrs. Roberta Childress of Thorsby dined with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davenport last Sunday.

Mrs. Marvin Davenport will fill the place of Mrs. S. J. Davenport at G. F. Harper's store, as bookkeeper and clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Davenport will move to Phil Campbell, Ala., on Monday of next week, September 8th.

Mr. Marvin Davenport is night watchman at the gin this fall.

Miss Hattie Davenport of Birmingham spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davenport.

Mrs. Burton Higgins entertained at dinner last Thursday in honor of her husband's birthday, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Higgins and daughters, Louise and Joyce.

Gordon Sorrel, a former resident of Thorsby also a former T. I. student was visiting in Thorsby Sunday and Monday.

Mr. Sorrel has been a student at Howard College for the past two years. He is studying for the ministry.

Rev. Gerald Harris of Birmingham, a Presbyterian minister, who was in Thorsby as a member of the State Executive Committee of Chirstian Endeavor, which held their annual meeting at Helen Jenkins Hall on Saturday and Sunday, preached at the Congregational church on Sunday morning, a fine sermon.

Mrs. Raybon has been visiting in Birmingham for several weeks.

Miss Naemi Turnquist, Miss Dorothy Peterson, from Birmingham, and Katheryn and Edith Foss motored to Montgomery to spend the day Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Peterson and children of Fairview spent Sunday and Labor Day with relatives in Thorsby.

Pale and Weak

"I THINK Cardui is a wonderful medicine, for I improved greatly after taking it," says Mrs. A. W. English, of R. F. D. 4, Roanoke, Va. "When I was just a girl of 13, my mother gave this medicine to me, and it did me a great deal of good. I was weak and run-down. After I had taken Cardui awhile, I felt much better.

"In 1924, my health was poor. I felt miserable, and hadn't enough strength to do my housework. It took all my willpower to keep up. I was pale and weak.

"I got Cardui again and took it. My improvement was wonderful. I can recommend Cardui to others, for my health was so much better after I had taken a course of the Cardui Home Treatment."

WINTER FEED CROPS APPROVED BY AUBURN

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 1.—In view of the shortage in the feed crops in Alabama caused by the summer drouth, the Extension Service and Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, are offering suggestions concerning fall planting of crops for feed ad pasture.

For farmers living south of Birmingham, Prof. D. G. Sturkie and J. C. Lowery recommend planting, between September 15 and October 15, a mixture of one bushel of oats (either Fulghum or red rust proof) and twenty pounds of either hairy vetch or Austrian peas.

Farmers living north of Birmingham should plant one bushel of Alabama bluestem wheat instead of oats because of the danger of winter-killing of oats in that section.

As a fertilizer for either of these mixtures they recommend 600 pounds of basic slag when planting. One hundred to 200 pounds per acre of either nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime should be applied as a top-dressing the first week in March.

Either of these mixtures should make a good crop of hay. It should be moved when the oats or wheat are in the milk stage.

If pastures are wanted during the fall and winter, rye is recommended. It should be planted early in the fall. Oats, wheat and winter legumes will produce pastures but they should not be grazed close if the yare to make hay i nthe spring.

SOME AMERICAN OBSERVATION
By Jay Taylor

Various ways are being suggested of dealing with tax problems. Generally, it is proposed to shift the burden from one class of citizens to another. One city, however, has tried the unque experiment of reducing the cost of the government. This worked so successfully that new and additional taxes were found unnecessary. Some day our state and local governments may handle their expenses with the same care as a thrifty manager of a household. Wherever this plan is followed the tax problem will solve itself.

Certain American friters who specialize in favoring European interests against American, are now busy informing the public that our naval quota according to the new treaty, will cost the United States more than a billion dollars. This indirect attack on our national defense program is an interesting example of the methods used by those propagandists who have only a secondary interest in the welfare of this country.

A Berlin correspondent has reported to his newspaper that the United States may soon recognize the Russian Soviet government. His information, it is said, was based on proposals made at the Williamstown Institute of Politics. Many Americans are thankful that the important policies of our government are not determined by the speakers at Williamstown.

When we consider the fact that in our Galactic system there are upwards of thirty thousand million stars about the sizs of our moon, and that the astronomers have found at least two million additional systems, perhaps we will view less seriously some of our political problems.

The President's fact finding commissions do not appeal to those super statesmen who believe in settling all problems at once and without any regard for the facts.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

Retail food prices in the United States as reported to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor showed a decrease of slightly 28 and one-half per cent, on July 15, 1930, when compared with June 15, 1930, and a decrease of a little more than 9 per cent. since July 15, 1929.

A mixture of either oats and Alabama bluestem wheat and either hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas planted between September 15 and October 15 should make a good crop of hay next spring, according to agricultural workers at Auburn. County agents are recommending that farmers plant these crops, in view of the shortage of feed due to the summer drouth.

The next regular session of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute will open for registration, Monday, September 8. Sophmores, Juniors and Seniors will begin class work on September 10 and Freshmen on September 12, after a training period to acquaint them with college life.

On August 1st the condition of the Alabam cotton crop was 62 per cent. of normal. This condition indicates a yield of 160 pounds of lint per acre, compared with 174 pounds harvested last year. On this basis, the Alabama crop is estimated at 1,201,000 against 1,342,000 bales in 1929 and 1,109,000 bales in 1928.

COUNTY CO-OP IMPROVES

Greensboro, Ala., Sept. 1.—The Hale County Farm Bureau is buying additional office equipment for efficiency of operation and for improving the service to members of the organization. Farmers are being listed on a basis of their major operations so that the organization may be in close touch with each one at all times.

NEW COUNTY BUREAU

Birmingham, Ala.. Sept. 1.—Jefferson County has organided a Farm Bureau with a membership of 167 farmers. Truck growers, poultrymen, fruit growers, and other farmers are members of the organization.

The drouth in July and August was a severe blow to the corn crop of Alabama. The official estimate is that the State's corn crop this year will be 30,061,000 bushels compared with 37,400,000 bushels harvested in 1929. However, it is practically the same as harvested in 1928.

FROM A. A. JACKSON

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to say a few words in regard to the system by which our paupers are cared for.

There has been a wonderful progress made in most every thing in the past fifty years. Most every thing has been modernized except the system by which our paupers are cared for.

I remember well fifty years ago; a Mr. J. H. Wells was the lowest bidder and got the care of the paupers of old Chambers County. He showed me once a large roll of money he had in caring for the paupers. We have the same old system today. The lowest bidder gets the care of them.

I think it is a bad system for the paupers of our county to be cared for by the lowest bidder. That means to them scant clothes and scant food. I want to commend our 1927 legislature for passing a law giving our county commissioners full control of the management and care of our paupers. The first section of the act is as follows:

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama. Section 1. That the court of county commissioners, or board of revenue, or other governing body of each county, shall have jurisdiction and power necessary and proper for the relief and support of the poor of its county. And it shall have the control of the houses for the poor. And may employ a suitable person to take charge of same. It shall see that the poor are properly treated; and it may provide physicians, nurses and such other attendants or attaches as it may deem proper. And purchase medicine, surgical supplies and any and all things necessary for the proper care of the inmates and conduct of the institution, and payment, therefore, may be ordered out of the proper fund by warrant on the county treasury.

There are forty six sections to the above act pointing out how our county commissioners may care for the poor.

If the old and disabled inmates of our alms home are neglected in any way, our county commissioners are responsible. I think our commissioners should do away with the old system of putting the care of our poor in the hands of the lowest bidder which has been done for more than fifty years.

Why not place the care of our alms house inmates in the hands of salaried employes; and let the county furnish all supplies and systemize it in a way that instead of it being a place of horror, make it a home of comfort so that its inmates may spend their last days in comfort instead of horror.

Commissioners, remember the rich man and Lazarus. You have plenty, the inmates of the poor house are lying at your door. It is all in your hands. Our county treasury is open and unlimited to you. What are you going to do, just drag along with the same old system, and by and by die and lift up your eyes in hell in torment? And see Abraham afar off, and the inmates of the poor house in his bosom?

Yours for a change.—A. A. Jackson.

IN MEMORY OF AUNT FRONIE HUCKABEE

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stanton in Clanton on the 12th day of May and took from them Mrs. Stanton's mother. She was 75 years old. She was a member of the Baptist church from young girlhood. She is gone but never to be forgotten.

She will be greatly missed by all who knew her. There is no one who can ever take her place in the home of her daughter. There is none who can ever take her vacant chair as her darling mother could. She had quite a number of old friends here and there scattered all about over the country, and she will be greatly missed by all her friends.

She lived in and around Clanton for a good number of years. She was always kind and tender hearted and always had a smile nad a kind word for every body, but as she had finished her work here on this earth, the Lord saw fit to call her to a higher place, where there is peace and rest forever more. Where there are no troubles, no pain, no sorrow, and no tears to dim the eyes. But sweet peace and rest forever more abide. Ah, such a sweet and comfortable thought is left with her sad and grieved daughter and relatives, and her host of friends.

The sweet and loving and tender hearted darling mother of Mrs. Stanton was laid to rest at Maple Springs cemetery at 10 o'clock on the 14 day of May, 1930. The many friends mourn with Mr. and Mrs. Stanton. Mother has gone to rest to reign with God forever more. Her tongue will always praise a Saviour's love and redeeming grace. She now enjoys a heavenly home, and joins the shouting and singing, and makes the heavenly music ring.

Could we but hear her so sweetly sing the heavenly song. Could we but see her smiling face, delighted with the happy place. We cannot wish her back again, but say, dear mother with God remain. We'll try to join you in that peaceful place where those who meet shall part no more. Now let us strive that to gain. Let us come to Christ, and with Him remain, then we shall share in Jesus's love and meet the mother gone on before.

HARRY GORDON BUYING COTTON IN CLANTON

Mr. Harry Gordon, well known cotton man from Columbiana, is stationed in Clanton to buy cotton from the farmers of Chilton County this season. His office is at Calloway Drug Company.

Mr. Gordon is well and favorably known throughout Chilton County, having been engaged in the cotton business for several years in this section of Alabama. He invites the farmers to come to see him when they have cotton to sell. He is interested in buying any quantity of cotton from one bale on up.

DR. WILLIAMS WILL LECTURE ON THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Dr. J. B. Williams of Clanton will lecture on "The Signs of the Times" at Walnut Creek church, two miles east of Clanton, on Friday night, September 12th, at 8 o'clock. Come and hear him, but read the Seventh chapter of Daniel before you leave home.

JOHN PATTERSON BURIED AT POPLAR SPRINGS WED.

John W. Patterson died at his home near Clanton last Monday, August 25th, after an illness of more than a week. Mr. Patterson was 72 years of age. He gained the friendship of everyone he knew.

The remains were laid to rest at Poplar Springs cemetery on August 27th, J. Mell Martin in charge. The pall bearers were his six grand sons: John William Hardy, Stanley Hardy, Morris Patterson, Eugene Ray, Milton Patterson. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

It greatly grieved us to hear of the passing of our dear brother. He was so devoted in all his loving ways and thoughts; his good works here will continue to grow and be a living monument to his virtues and beauty. His work on earth has been finished well, and he was called into that better world by the Great Almighty Power which giveth and taketh away.

He is survived by his widow and twelve children: Edgar Patterson, Tallassee; Henry Patterson, Clanton; Cleveland Patterson, Bessemer; William Patterson, Pennsylvania; Tommie Patterson of Virginia; Ulysis Patterson and Dewey Patterson of Pennsylvania; Dee Patterson of Clanton; Mrs. Lilla Hardy of Goodwater; Mrs. Monroe Wyatt of Clanton; Mrs. J. A. DuBose of Birmingham; Mrs. G. C. Ray of Cooper. There are 32 grand children, and 4 great grand children.

May the one who comforteth and sustaineth all be ever with them all through this vale of tears.

The spirit of Mr. Patterson, we are sure, still watches over you and loves you as tenderly; so do not grieve, but be ready to go on as he would have you go, until the happy day when you shall meet again.

Mr. Wallace Jones, traveling salesman for Moore & Handley Hardware Company of Birmingham, spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Willie Jones, and grandmother, Mrs. G. L. Phillips.

DR. KNAPP SUGGESTS DROUTH RELIEF PLAN

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 4.—As the first step in drouth relief—and also better farming—Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, says that fall gardens should be planted to furnish food for the family and that winter legumes and small grain should be planted for grazing animals during the fall and winter and for hay next spring.

A plan of duogth relief that begins at home and operates by farmers with the cooperation of farmers, county agents, bankers, and business men was recommended by Dr. Knapp after attending conferennces in Washington.

He said that local organizations of farmers, bankers, and business men should be formed to promote the work of making food and feed, marketing cotton, and producing more crops for market. He pointed out that Alabama farmers should try to make oats for sale next spring before oats from other sections are ready for market. With a short corn crop he called attention to the fact that farmers of this state can make early corn and sell it before corn from other sections arrives at the market.

Pooling of all cotton with the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association and drawing the advance of nine cents per pound offered by the Federal Farm Board was earnestly endorsed. This will relieve the demand upon local banks and enable them to finance other things.

The plan proposed by Dr. Knapp has permanent as well as temporary advantages, it was explained.

NEWS FROM JONES TOWN

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a space in your good old paper to say a few words from this part of the county. Lots of cotton picking is going on now; but cotton is not so good.

I notice in last week's Banner from The Jack Pot something in regard to people ordering goods from these mail order houses. Now, I love to read The Jack Pot, and that is the first part I look for. But I want to ask the Potter one question: "Which one carries the most money away from our homes, the mail order house or the automobile?"

With best wishes to The Union-Banner and its many readers.—J. T. Askew.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our many heartfelt thanks to our many friends and relatives who so willingly assisted us in the recent sickness and death of our loving husband and father; and also for the beautiful floral offerings.—Mrs. J. W. Patterson and Children.

THIRTY-NINE ADDITIONS TO COLLINS CHAPEL CHURCH

Rev. Zac Y. Appleton was assisted in a great revival at Collins Chapel by Rev. B. F. Dykes of Louisville, Ky. There were thirty-nine additions to the church; twenty-three of these were baptized; the other sixteen came by letter.

The revival closed with great spirit; everyone seems to be working toward the advancement of the Kingdom.

TAKING THE GUESS OUT OF BUSINESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

BANKERS and business men err in not adopting more universally the tactics of the scientist. When the scientist wishes to fathom the mysteries of the universe or resolve things into their component parts he calls to his assistance the magnifying power of the microscope. There before him, like an open book, lie the secrets of nature which unaided eyes cannot observe.

John G. Lonsdale

The uncanny power of the microscope's all-seeing eye has revealed countless secrets for the material and intellectual progress of humanity. It has enabled us to study the processes of growing cells in plant and animal life, trace the causes of disease and successfully combat the ills of mankind; it has aided the engineer in his search for stronger and more serviceable materials, giving us taller, lighter and more sanitary structures, and better highways; it has disclosed the defects in steel rails and brought us an era of safer railway travel; it has added to the food supply of the nation; in fact, it has affected favorably nearly every activity of the human race, whether it apply to production, distribution or consumption, in time of peace or in time of war.

In the business and banking world, economic research and analysis serve as the microscope through which we are enabled to see basic factors more clearly and thus determine the causes of success and failure. Only recently have we begun to realize the full value of research and analysis and apply them in such a way as to eliminate the guesswork that was characteristic of industry a few years ago. "Eliminate the guess and reach success," might well be a motto for all of us.

Banking Conducting Continual Research

The American Bankers Association is daily submitting every phase and every department of banking to searching scrutiny and study, says John G. Lonsdale, president of this the world's greatest financial association. The findings of these investigations are made available to the 20,000 members of the organization for their guidance.

"It is a fine tribute to the spirit of cooperation among bankers that it is able to carry on this work," he says. "Bankers from one end of the country to the other are constantly giving freely and unselfishly of their skill and experience so that the association may produce the truly great results that are being accomplished."

Statistical information on national and state banks, savings institutions, trust companies and trust departments, clearing house groups and general banking is prepared after exhaustive inquiry and distributed for the use of all bankers. The organization's investigations have resulted in the passage of beneficial legislation, revision of banking practices and innumerable changes for a stronger and more efficient banking structure. It has set up an educational system through its affiliated American Institute of Banking, where 45,000 ambitious young bank men and women are now availing themselves of the opportunity to advance in the banking field.

"It has been well said that the American Bankers Association, exclusive of the Federal Reserve System, has been the greatest single nation-wide source of stability and improved conditions for banking in the United States," Mr. Lonsdale says.

Banking Grows More Complicated

DENVER, Colo.—The increase in the technicalities of the banking business in the past dozen years was shown by a speaker before the American Institute of Banking which held its annual convention here recently when he pointed out that in 1918, when the institute last met in this city, it gave only three courses, while today it gives 10, with more subjects in preparation. At the earlier date, he said, the curriculum of the institute consisted of elementary banking, commercial and banking law, and money and banking, whereas today it consists of banking fundamentals, commercial law, negotiable instruments, standard economics, standard banking, credits, investments, trust functions, analyzing financial statements, and public speaking, while the two new subjects of bank operation and organization, and bank management are to be added.

The New Pace of Business Change

Business evolution used to move slowly—it measured off its gradual changes almost invisibly, like the hour hand on the clock. But today its tempo is that of the second hand. The movement of evolution that is quickening business with rapid changes is alarmingly visible and makes it difficult to keep up with them.—R. S. Hecht.

Dr. V. J. Gragg was a visitor to Montgomery Monday.

MRS. JNO. BURTON HIGGINS WILL TEACH EXPRESSION

Mrs. Burton Higgins will teach classes in expression at the Chilton County High School and Clanton Grammar school this session, which begins next Monday morning.

Mrs. Higgins has had special training for this kind of work, and it is considered fortunate for pupils of our schools that they will have a chance to take training of this kind. Heretofore there has been no teacher of expression offering a regular course in connection with the school work.

Two days a week will be devoted to this work in each school. We understand that the charge for expression will be $4.00 a month.

JOHN CLIFTON CRANE DIED

Mr. John Clifton Crane, age 39, died Monday afternoon at the Central Alabama Hospital. He was injured in an automobile accident Sunday and brought to the hospital for treatment.

Mr. Crane was a farmer who lived near Pletcher. He was a son of J. Bartley Crane. He is survived by his parents and his wife, Mrs. Daisy Crane, and three small children.

It is said that Mr. Crane fell out of a car which was driven by Jadie Lenoir, and that the wheels passed over his body, injuring him internally.

He was buried Tuesday at noon at Antioch cemetery.

FRED HOWARD BROUGHT BACK FISH

Mr. Fred Howard, of Thorsby, upon his return from the deep sea rodeo last week, distributed a large quantity of fish among his neighbors. He brought back enough to furnish a "mess" to about thirty families.

The editor of The Union-Banner is glad that Mr. Howard remembered him among the ones who received some of his catch. Before he got back we received a card from Mr. Howard telling us to have our knife good and sharp. This we did, but all for no use. When Fred made good his promise, it was even more than he promised. The fish was already cooked and ready to eat.

And say, kind friends, you don't know what's good until you stick your bill into a pot of pickeled fish like that Mr. Howard brought to us last Friday night.

GET TICKETS BEFORE ENTERING SCHOOL

Patrons of the Clanton Grammar School are reminded that they should secure tickets for matriculation fees of their children by the time school opens Monday morning. The fee this year will be $5.00 per pupil, and the payment of this fee is a necessary part of the enrollment of students in the school.

As in years past, tickets may be secured at Alred Drug Company. Dr. Neighbors already has the ticket books and is ready to begin writing out the receipts.

Prof. I. J. Quinn reports this week that everything is ready for opening of school next Monday. Some necessary repairs have been made at the school building to guarantee the comfort of the children..

The school will be a nine months term, which will be made possible by the increase of the matriculation fees from $3.50 to $5.00 per pupil. The publis school funds will provide only an eight-months term, and the trustees felt that the increase of $1.50 in matriculation fees was the best way in which to provide for the ninth month.

FROM JOS. E. COBB

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in your paper to express to the voters my appreciation of the honor bestowed upon me in the primary, by nominating me as your choice as Commissioner from the First District, which is to be elected in November.

Perhaps we did not all get all we voted for in the primary, but let's all lay that aside, and all go to work and roll up the biggest majority that we have ever had in the county.

Thanking you all again for your influence and vote in the primary. Hoping every one will turn out in November, and the Republican party have the largest majority that we have ever had. Yours for a landslide.—Jos. E. Cobb.

Mr. T. J. Crawford of Tuscaloosa is in Clanton to buy cotton this season. His headquarters will be at the C. E. Hornsby place. Mr. Crawford will also have connections at Thorsby and Jemison.

According to one scientist the married man is more intelligent than the bachelor neighbor. If that is true, why did he get married?

The Kurds and Turks over in Asia Minor are about to fight each other over oil. In this country we have gasoline wars. It's more refining.

FROM AKINS I. COLLINS

As it is almost impossible for me to see every voter in the county, please accept these few words through the Banner as personal thanks to all. I appreciate every vote cast for me, and if elected in November I will try to serve you in a way that you will not regret your vote.

I know that I had some friends to vote for my opponents. That was their privilege, and if I am elected I will endeavor to serve everyone alike, whether you helped nominate me or not.

In conclusion I want to thank the Republican party as a whole for the nomination, and insist that you be loyal to our party and support the entire Republican ticket in the final election. Gratefully yours.—Akins I. Collins.

YOU HAVE A DOCTOR'S WORD FOR THIS LAXATIVE

In 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he saw the harm in harsh purgatives for constipation and began to search for something harmless to the sensitive bowels.

Out of his experience was born a famous prescription. He wrote it thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. As people saw how marvelously the most sluggish bowels are started and bad breath, headaches, feverishness, nausea, gas, poor appetite, and such disorders, are relieved by the prescription, it became necessary to put it up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original effective and harmless formula. All drugstores have it.

CHILTON COUNTY BOY IS EDITOR IN KY.

Some months ago The Union-Banner, in the cuorse of our newspaper connections, ran across the trail of a former Chilton County boy who is now the editor and proprietor of The Cumberland Courier, at Pineville, Kentucky. The man whom we refer to is Donald E. Thomas, one of the youngest sons of Mr. George W. Thomas, who used to be a resident of the Providence community, in Beat 16.

Donald E. Thomas is now 23 years old. The editor of The Union-Banner first knew him as a small boy. When I taught school at Providence in 1911, Donald Thomas was one of the pupils. It was the first school he attended.

Some years ago Mr. George Thomas moved away from Chilton County. He went down in the Columbus, Georgia neighborhood. Young Donald, in a letter to The Union-Banner, says he finished high school in Georgia, went to Cumberland University in Tennessee, and engaged in newspaper work off and on for a while.

Recently he decided to get his feet good and wet in the newspaper game, and bought out the Cumberland Courier. The paper comes to our desk every week, and we enjoy looking over it. Not that we can connect up with the drift of things very well; Kentucky is pretty far away from Chilton County. But the paper is interesting, nevertheless, if for no other reason than the fact that its editor and publisher is a product of Chilton County. We hope he has every success possible.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Hamilton Holt, formerly editor of the Independent, and now president of Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida, and one of the most persistent internationalists, returning from a visit at Geneva, on his arrival in the United States criticised, according to newspapers, what he termed the "childish hesitancy" of the United States in its attitude toward the League of Nations. Mr. Holt predicted that Uncle Sam would eventually join the League but indicated that it would not be until "super-nationally minded statesmen who were educated before the Spanish-American War," pass out of the picture. Since Mr. Holt was around twenty-six years of age when the Spanish-American War broke out it is to be presumed that he got a great deal of his own education before that period. Nobody, no matter how enthusiastic, however, would characterize Mr. Holt as "super-nationally minded" nor a statesman.

Mr. Holt, however, is mistaken in believing that the super-nationally minded statesmen secured their education before the Spanish-American War. Some of them may have achieved a part of their education before that date. But the very fact that they are nationalists is evidence that they did not cease acquiring real knowledge til after the year 1900. More nationalists were made out the events which followed the World War than were ever created by reading Washington's Farewell Address in Spanish-American war days. The League of Nation's fight, the efforts of European nationalists and American internationalists to see that Uncle Sam got the worst of everything, and that Europe got the best of it, whether in debt settlements, or what not, was as complete a nationalist education as anything an American could acquire. It is the internationalists who quit learning things around 1900. If they had acquired any wisdom out of the post-World War period, it would have brought them the realization that the best thing Uncle Sam could do, in view of the universal efforts on every side to give him a trimming, would be to acquire all the safe and sane nationalism he could get into his system.

Mr. Holt is quoted in his interview with the gentlemen of the press as stating furtner: "Yet America's hesitancy in this matter has doubtless been a good thing for developing closer unity among the European nations. It is natural for the nations of Europe to feel themselves closer to each other than the United States can feel to them."

With this latter remark we are bound to agree. There can be no question that European nations feel closer to one another than to the United States. But this is not due to our hesitancy about the League. It comes from entirely different ideals. In America we believe that a high standard of living and good wages for the workers brings increased national buying power and prosperity to a greater number of people. In Europe they believe that wages should be kept as low as possible and the goods produced sold in the United States, rather than to the people at home. In America we pass tariff laws to equalize the cost of production at home and abroad, to protect our workers in their jobs. In Europe they pass tariffs principally for political or retalitory reasons. And of course the nations of Europe are now drawn closer in their united effort to see to it that in some way or other Uncle Sam shall be made to pay the entire cost of the World War.

It is the fact that European nations feel closer to each other than to the United States, when questions of the Old World against the New are under consideration, which has kept the United States out of the League. One of the most powerful arguments against our joining the organization was that in any question of American policy against that of Europe, we would not be one of a number of independent nations, but would find ourselves with solid European opposition. European nations are gradually coming to realize the reasonableness of our postion on the League. Indeed, there is a rapidly growing belief in Great Britain that we acted wisely in staying out, coupled with a wish that John Bull had done likewise.

U. S. FARMERS TO HAVE NEW FOREIGN SERVICE

Still another service for the American farmer is to be instituted by Uncle Sam through the United States Department of Agriculture. After the service is perfected the American farmer will have listening posts abroad, to keep him in touch with world marketing and crop conditions. In writing of the new agricultural service abroad, Oliver McKee, Jr., says in the September number of the National Republic:

"The service will be comparable to that built up by President Hoover and Julius Klein, as part of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and if the new organization at the outset is not as large as that which the Department of Commerce maintains, every effort will be made to see that it does its job as efficiently.

"Soon after its organization, the Federal Farm Board appointed a committee of three to make a study of the foreign needs of the Department of Agriculture. On this committee sat Dean Edwin S. Gay, formerly of Harvard; Dr. Alonzo Taylor, and Asher Hobson. After surveying the problems of the department, the committee found that one of its greatest needs was permanent foreign reporting stations, and commodity and marketing estimators. Said these three men specially: 'If the Department of Agriculture is to report in anything like a satisfactory manner the world situation on important commodities, it will require no less than ten foreign posts to cover the importation,, producing and consuming areas. Each of these posts should be in charge of one with respect and attention of foreign gova sufficient rank to command the ernments. When in charge of an iffice located in a foreign capital, he should have a designation of agricultural attache, and be attached to the embassy or the legation of the United States.' The committee suggested ten foreign posts: London, Berlin, Marseilles, Copenhagen, Bucharest, Buenos Aires, Melbourne, Johannesburg and Shanghai.

"For a number of years the establishment of such a service has been urged by leaders in the fight of the American farmer, who in this day and generation, cannot live as a hermit away from farmers in other countries in the world. Nineteen of these leaders, representing millions of farmers, have gone on record in the following statement.

" 'The Department of Agriculture cannot render an adequate service to the agricultural producers of the United States without extending its activities into foreign fields. Foreign competition and demand directly affect about ninety per cent of American agricultural products entering into market channels. A few concrete examples will clearly indicate the need of a unified world service for American agriculture. The size of the foreign wheat crop is a very important factor in determining the price that the Kansas producer receives for his wheat not only in Liverpool, but in Kansas City. The foreign market demand for wheat is also an important factor. In planning the production and marketing of the crop, therefore, the wheat producer must have information as to prospects for production in Canada, Argentina, and all other important wheat producing countries, and the demand for wheat in foreign markets. This must be added to similar information as to prospects for production and consumption of wheat in the United States, in order to give a more complete picture of the situation involved in the production and the marketing of the crop. The Department of Agriculture collects the necessary information concerning the United States and must have similar information concerning foreign countries in order to render an adequate service to American producers.'

" 'The quality of the crop may be as important, or more important, than its volume in determining the market. The different classes of wheat produced in the United States, for example, have different markets on account of their difference in quality. A large part of our durum wheat has to be marketed in foreign countries, while most of our soft winter wheat is consumed in the United States. While the market for durum may be effected to some extent by the world's total wheat crop, it is much more influenced by the production of similar wheats in a very few countries. A large share of our hard red winter wheat also is marketed abroad in competition with foreign wheats. To understand the competition to be met from foreign wheats, it is necessary to have information concerning the character of wheats produced and the uses of wheat or wheat flour in foreign countries.' "

It is said that every woman's prison in Great Britain has each cell equipped with a mirror. Fine. No woman can be kept in solitary confinement so long as there is a mirror in her cell.

Governor Lowden says that the time seems to be approaching when the United States will be ruled by a dictator. Well the married won't mind as they are used to it.

A lot of gardens are being converted into miniature golf courses and the golf course has some advantages It flourishes even better in a drought than it does in rainy weather.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Hello—friends of the POT and POTTER. Your POTTER almost missed out again this week. We took a little trip over to Sylacauga last week end to visit our relatives and friends in that neck of the woods, and, as usual, had our day in a sick bed, or nearly a day, at least. We lived over there for some time a few years ago, and liked it, but it seems we can't even VISIT the place any more without being sick a day or two while there. But we did make it to get back on the job in time to come to you as usual.

The trend of the public opinion in that part of the state is that we are about to have better times than we have had for the last few months. As most of you know Sylacauga, Talladega, and several surrounding towns are textile manufacturing centers, and as they have been promised more regular employment, and are even now more regularly employed than in the immediate past, they can see better times in the near future.

It seems, too, that our own people are feeling better than a short time ago, as cotton, our money crop, seems to have taken a slow but steady trend to climb in price. We are glad to see this, especially as it comes right on the heel of a period which has taught the masses a great lesson as to just what a dollar is really worth. Now, if we can have even a brief period of anything near prosperity we will all be able to appreciate it more.

You know, people are funny like that. Even though we all DO like to see a prosperous year every year, a little set-back now and then keeps us from becoming open-handed spendthrifts. If we had easy sailing all the way it would be only human for us to forget that sooner or later these lean periods are bound to come, and then when they DID come we would be less prepared for them than if we had a little taste of hard times ever so often to help us to lay by a little for a rainy day.

Speaking of the cotton market, we are glad to see signs that Clanton will have a better market than usual. Where we have been having only one or two buyers for the staple in our town, signs at present are that we will have several of the boys out to bid on our cotton regularly, and, too, around the edges of town there are several who have taken up buying a little cotton on the side. It all points toward a better market, which, if it works out as it seems it should, will make for a healthier marketing situation than has ever been the case in Clanton.

We would like to speak a word for our local merchants right here. It seems to us that our merchants have been pretty lenient during these tight and near-tight times. We would like to see the farmers and others of our immediate community show them that they appreciate that accommodation by at least giving them a chance to fill our people's needs before ordering from elsewhere. Of course, if people can make any material saving by ordering, they will be quick to realize it and take advantage of it. But—right smart of a BUT, too—we believe the local merchant has every right to expect our buying public to at least give them a chance to show what they can and will do.

Price for price—value for value—goods for goods—considering at all times that we must work together in our community if we prosper, we don't really believe that MUCH can be saved by buying outside our own circle. Not that we would adivse buying here even at higher prices as a regular rule, but it stands to reason that the goods you buy are worth just so much, no matter if you buy them from a local merchant or a mail order house.

One instance has been brought to our notice. A man recently ordered a piece of cloth from a mail order house in Atlanta, the pattern of which was an exact duplicate of cloth sold at a local store—the man saved one cent on each yard. The man sent money he received from the sales of different kinds of produce to this local store in payment for the goods he ordered. At that very time he had an account on the books of that local merchant, some of which had been running four or five months.

Folks, that isn't fair! No matter if he did save a mite, we still contend that the local man had a RIGHT to that cash trade. What about it? When talking about the occasion, the local man didn't seem bitter about it at all—but he DID feel that he had been double-crossed. He just laughed it off, and said: "Well, he'll pay his bill, all right, when he sells his cotton, but I sure would have appreciated seeing him return the accommodation."

To golf or not to golf—that is the question right now. It seems everybody is taking up the sport on the Tom Thumb courses. Where a while back we were all deciding that all the vacant lots would be occupied by filling stations, we have now changed our minds in favor of miniature golf. It seems to have developed into a contest everywhere. Inasmuch as the golf courses don't cost as much as the filling stations to build, maybe they have the inside track.

Walk down the street any time—you'll see a group of fellows hudled up in a manner to lead you to believe something had happened. Coming closer, however, you'll more than apt hear a heated discussion of which hole is the hardest to make, and you'll hear terms such as "putts," "tee," "hole-in-one," etc.

Well, the old town election is heating up right along, now. The POT has been accused of trying to help certain candidates. Well! Well!! WELL!!! And only a few short weeks ago somebody said nobody ever took the POT seriously, and even if they did it wouldn't have enough readers to make any difference. Some of the fellows are not so sure of that now-a-days.

As for us—we don't know whether people read it or not, or, if they do, whether they pay any attention to it. All we've got to say is: If we've helped anybody's cause, we're glad of it—if we've hindered anyone, we didn't intend it that way. We're out to help anyone we can without hindering anyone.

Before long, now, our comments will turn in favor of the Republican candidates for election in the fall, not that we haven't been for 'em all the time. What we mean is that we'll start helping all we can to put 'em over the top. And what a boost we hope to be able to give them! So long.—"JACK."

FARM RELIEF PLAN

President Hoover approaches the drought situation relief problem after the fashion characteristic of modern military scientific genius. He is moving to marshal the essential forces with mathematical perception and precision. There will be no haphazard guesses as to methods; no involvement of agencies contributive to the purpose sought—imminent, immediate relief for drought-stricken areas and their rehabiliation.

The details of the proposed measures will be worked out this week. Organization and cooperation constitute the essence of the plan, competent team work between federal and state authorities and those to be assisted to rise above the crushing weight of a vast and untoward calamity.

Red tape is to be cut away. Emergency provisions are to be promptly employed.

One of the most commendable features of the President's program is that which gives quiet but sufficient warning that food profiteering will be sternly "scanned." This means that the cormorants who proverbially take opportunity to feed upon public calamity in peace as they do in times of war will be halted and dealt with at the outset if they make effort to follow their usual routine.

A cheering feature also in this consideration is the volutary proffer on the part of the great railway companies to make drastic freight rate cuts and the creation of a transportation board to direct the transportation of feed, food and water where they so desperately at present are needed.

In the work of rehabilitation and present service the federal government, the states' governments, the Red Cross and the great transportation companies will be joined in scientific effort and cooperation.

The President recognizes in the extended drouth calamity to the nation, not a "blessing in disguise," not an "affliction by God's will," or a visitation engineered by "the powers of evil," but a cyclical emergency which must be met by the ablest human effort and intelligence.

No calamity is a blessing. To say so is to approve the optimism of silliness. If they serve to benefit a group of people they do so at a cost of other people's disasters. The entire world is poorer by reason of the American drouth.—Cincinnatti Enquirer.

WHO DESERVES SYMPATHY—BOOTLEGGER OR LAW OFFICER

Many of the big newspapers give a distorted picture of the prohibition situation. They devote columns of space to express their grief and horror when a rum runner is killed by a government officer,though in most cases the government officer is acting strictly in line of duty, and often kills instead of getting killed, simple because he is a little quicker on the trigger. The same newspaper will only give an inch or so to the killing of an officer by a bootlegger.

This plain distortion of news gives the public an erroneous impression of the whole situation. Ruum runners and bootleggers are desperate and lawless men. They are not interested in "personal liberty." They are interested only in money, and stop at nothing to get it. Murder is an everyday business with them. They smuggle in narcotics and aliens as well as liquor. The bootleggers do not limit their activities to liquor, either, but deal in bombing, murder, extortion and white slavery along with it.

The liquor traffic has always been a lawless business. Long before prohibition the saloon interest violated whatever laws there were and were the center of orrganized crime. The public revolted against these conditions long ago and before the days of the 18th amendment the greater part of the country was legally dry. The result of more than a generation of restriction of liquor traffic is seen in happier homes and greater prosperity than can be found anywhere else in the world. Why should we abandon that in the interest of the outlaws who seek to make profits from the misery of others?—Prairie Farmer, Chicago.

Reports from New York city are to the effect that 7,000 dressmakers are planning to go on a strike. Judging from the amount of clothing the girls are already wearing we thought they were already on a strike.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

As I was going to say last week, when my space "gave out," I had a vacation of a week at Milledgeville, Georgia. My wife and children were with me, and we put up at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kin Vinson. I can now bear witness that a week of rest, with a change of feed makes a mighty lot of difference in a fellow's feelings.

The Vinsons live in the construction camp a few miles out of Milledgeville, where the Allied Engineers (Dixie Construction Co.) are building a hydro-electric power plant for the Georgia Power Company. The project is on the Oconee River, a stream much smaller than the Coosa. The scenes around this place, if not altogether familiar, are nevertheless somewhat common to a Chilton County citizen. It is in general appearance so much like what we have enacted at Lay Dam and Mitchell Dam in our own county, and at Jordan Dam, Martin and Tallassee in our next-door neighbor counties. Just another instance where a great industrial organization is transforming and harmonizing the resources of nature to make them serve the new and modern purposes of mankind.

There are many Alabama people here. In fact, I have about concluded that the whole job is a colony of folks who have been taken out of Alabama and transplanted in the hills of Georgia. From Clanton and Chilton County there are here now Kin Vinson, Oscar and Arthur Giles, John White, Robert Holley and Odis Jones; Irby Calloway from Marbury, Vardaman Robinson from Thorsby; Whitley McDonald from Wetumpka; Carter Robbins from Wetumpka; Preston Winslett from Dadeville and Mr. Gamble from Dadeville. I remember these as the ones we saw while there. Perhaps there are many others from around here whom I did not see.

Clanton baseball fans, I am sure, will remember Hoyt Winslett, who was on our team a few years ago, when Jack Hayes, Goober Starling, Tommie Sewell and Pat Moulton were here. Preston Winslett is a brother of Hoyt. You remember how Hoyt looked. He was made up like a Chinaman. His funny appearance caused the boys at the University of Alabama to nickname him "Wu." I think "Wu" was on Wallace Wade's football team that went to California and wrested the pigskin honors of the world from the very portals of the Golden Gate. In fact, I believe it was "Wu" that made the winning touchdown. Or was it Johnny Mack Brown?

There is something about camp life of this kind that fascinates me. The people are all jolly and seemingly cordial and happy. They live in nice little homes, even if they are mostly temporary structures. They have every modern convenience. It is much diffrent from the way things were on the first jobs of this kind in the South.

Allied Engineers is a combination of about three different construction companies, one of which was the Dixie Construction Company. Mitchell Dam and Jordan Dam were built by Dixie, and hundreds of people in Chilton County worked on those jobs. Southern headquarters of Allied Engineers is in Birmingham, from which direct supervision is made of the Oconee River project.

A bunch of us got together Saturday afternoon and introduced some of our Georgia acquaintances to a "regular" Alabama chicken barbecue. I think it "took" pretty well.

The city of Milledgeville is a delightful place. Like so many of the towns in Georgia, it is a city of beautiful homes and lovely trees and grounds. As I noticed the wide streets with little parkways down the middle, I reflected how the people here ought to thank the pioneers for being so liberal with the land when the town was laid off.

At Milledgeville are located the Georgia Military Academy for boys, and the Georgia State College for Girls. These are large schools with enrollment of students up in the thousands. The girls college here is to Georgia what Montevallo is to Alabama. I suppose our Marion Military Institute is about the same type school as the boys college here.

The Georgia State Hospital and Home for the Feeble-Minded is at Milledgeville. It is a very large institution caring for about five thousand inmates. The buildings and grounds are beautiful. I was told that the place is overcrowded, having now more people to care for than can be comfortably done. This is the same story as comes from our own Bryce Hospital at Tuscaloosa. The proper care of feeble-minded people is a great problem to our states. Its increase is alarming.

Naturally, I looked up the newspapers in the city. The copy of The Union-Recorder which was given me, dated August 21 of last week, was number one of volume 101. This is one of the oldest newspapers in the South. The Southern Recorder was established in 1819, the year Alabama was admitted to the Union of American States. The Federal Union was established in 1829. The two were consolidated in 1872. R. B. Moore, an elderly gentleman, is editor of The Union-Recorder; his son, Jere W. Moore, is business manager.

The other paper is The Milledgeville Times. It is about six years old. Eddie Walls is editor, and C. T. Ewing is business manager. Messrs. Walls and Ewing also own and publish The Eatonton Messenger, which is the official paper for the adjoining county of Putnam.

My impression of the community of Milledgeville was formed largely from a careful study of the newspapers. I do not hesitate to say that from what I saw reflected in these two 'mirrors," it is a good, clean, wholesome, progressive, modern community that has been built upon traditions that reach far back into the earliest days of the old South.

COOSA RIVER NAVIGATION

Unexpected impetus will be added to the Coosa River navigation project by the city of Atlanta, Georgia, becoming interested in this channel as an outlet and inlet to ocean commerce.

Atlanta wants a port nearer than the Atlantic seaboard. She can have it at Rome, a distance of only 65 miles, when the Coosa-Alabama system is developed for commercial navigation.

A meeting will be held at Rome September 22 for the purpose of organizing a movement looking to Congressional aid for development of this project.

We may see in a very few years our own Coosa River carrying a vast load of the world's commerce. Clanton can then have a port within ten miles of our city.

STATE CAPITOL News

Alabama's highway program today faces an acute problem, that of matching $6,200,000 of Federal aid road money now available. In order to get this money it must be matched, dollar for dollar, by the state, which if done would make immediately $12,400,000 for road-building. The expenditure of this huge sum would go a long way toward completing the paving of main trunk highways, and would reduce unemployment brought about by the general economic depression. This problem is one which is being given close attention, not only by officials, but by leaders over the state generally, though no definite solution has yet been advanced. The State will be unable to to cover Federal aid allotted to it from existing road funds.

The $25,000,000 bond issue voted in the sping of 1927 has been spent or contracted for and some other means must be found to match the Federal money.

The unusual large Federal aid money now available is due to two factors. The Secretary of Agriculture recently released, effective September 1st, as an emergency measure to combat the unemployment problem, the Federal aid appropriation for the fiscal year 1931-32, which otherwise would not have become available until July 1st 1931. Alabama's quota of this is $2,600,000. There is approximately $2,600,000 more Federal money unmatched from the appropriations for 1929-30 and 1930-31; and a similiar balance of $1,000,000 from the special flood relief appropriation. This makes a total of $6,200,000, which is waiting only for the State to put up dollar for dollar.

Of a total of 5,800 miles of road on the State Highway system, 5,300 miles have been completed or are under construction. Of this amount however, 850 miles are hard surfaced, including pavement and surface treatment. Completing of paving of trunk highways is an urgent need.

Figures compiled by the State Highway Department show that road construction by the State since January, 1927, compares favorably with what was accomplished altogether up to that time. Since January, 1927 the cement concrete paving mileage built or contracted for is more than three times the mileage of this type prior to that date; and the mileage of roads graded and drained is nearly as great. Of approximately 60 miles of bridges in the state, 42 miles have been built or contracted since January 1927.

The following figures show the various types of roads for which contracts were awarded from the beginning of the Federal aid in 1916 to January 1927:

Graded and drained	2,852
Sand clay and top soil	619
Gravel and chert	1,508
Bituminous surfacing	242
Cement concrete	113
Bridges over 20 foot span, lineal feet	91,056

The following figures are the mileage for which contracts were awarded from January 17, 1927 to June 1, 1930.

Graded and drained	2,453
Sand clay and topsoil	344
Gravel and chert	1,008
Bituminous surfacing	136
Cement concrete	380
Bridges over 20 foot span, lineal feet	192,960
15 State toll bridges	22.5

The total in each case would be less than total figures given, due to the fact that a certain amount of mileage listed as graded and drained or graveled, for example, was later improved with a higher type of surfacing and again listed in that type. In addition to the mileage contracted for from January 17, 1927 to June 1st 1930, contracts for approximately 160 miles additional of various types will be awarded in September.

It is generally conceeded that Alabama has made a fine showing in road-building , both under the present administration and in preceding regimes, since the first $25,000,000 bond was voted. A lot of work remains to be done, however, before the State can boast of a completed system of high class highways. A large part of this remaining work is paving, which is naturally the most expensive phase. How to match the money available from Uncle Sam and thereby turn loose $12,400,000 toward completing the job, is a problem which is to be solved in the near future. This need is emphasized by the fact that the regular annual Federal aid appropriations must be matched in two years from the date they become available, otherwise it will be forfeited by the State and reappropriated among the other states, as provided by law.

When the State Highway system is ultimately completed, highway authorities say that the State should have 2,000 miles of surfaced treatment. Critics who have compared the progress of this State in road-building unfavorably with that of North Carolina have been reminded of the fact that North Carolina has spent $115,000,000 of State bond money, in addition to Federal aid and county funds, over a less period of time than Alabama has used $50,000,000 of bond money.

POULTRY Tips

By LEONARD L. BROWN

OPPORTUNITY IN POULTRY

There are few businesses that have the wonderful opportunity for profit that a good, well-conducted poultry business has.

Most eggs are still produced on a very small scale and it is hard to maintain the freshness and quality of eggs that the country is coming to that even while there may be at times demand more and more. This means a surplus of ordinary farm eggs on ways a shortage of good eggs that the local market, still there is almeet certain requirements and are suitable for shipment in large quantities into the big population centers where the high prices are paid.

Egg production will vary in different flocks, from 50 eggs per bird per year, to 200 and even 240 eggs a year, depending upon the egg-production breeding and the skill with which the birds are raised and cared for. This great variation of course gives the poultry raiser with flocks of high egg-production breeding a tremendous advantage over the farmers of the country as a whole, because it means that the better flock can produce eggs so much more cheaply than the flock with a lower rate of production. Also, the clever poultryman will see to it that he gets a better price for his eggs, so he has a wonderful advantage both coming and going. It is no wonder that while some folks raise poultry just for their own personal needs, more and more folks are making a real business of their poultry and are doing wonderfully well at it.

Nearly any climate in the United States is suitable for poultry raising. In sections of Washington, Michigan, New Jersey, and elsewhere already most farmers have turned to poultry raising for their entire livelihood. In Washington this work has proved so profitable that there is one farm alone which is being completed to house 200,000 laying hens, just as one immense commercial "egg-factory." The budget of this farm will interest any one interested in poultry as a business. This budget is as follows:

Costs and profits per 1,000 hens (Monticello Poultry Farm.)
Feed	$2,350
Labor	500
Annual cost of chicks or pullets to maintain flock	500
Administrative and incidental	215
Total expenses	$3,565
Gross annual income from 1,000 hens, on actual figures, 180 eggs a year average, total 15,000 dozen, at 10 years average of 34.7 cents actual net price per dozen	$5,165
Less total expenses	3,565
Net profit per 1,000 hens	$1,600

DAIRYING

SELECTING ANCESTORS REAL JOB IN DAIRYING

A favorite source of puns for our vaudeville humorists is the fact that mankind has no voice in the selection of its ancestors. A family tree must be accepted whether good branches or bad cling to it.

In dairying ancestry is a most important factor. And what's more, it is under the absolute control of the herd owner.

Having determined the breed of cattle you desire for your herd you next proceed to that very interesting task of selecting the foundation stock. Let us consider first the job of picking cows for the herd. We might as well make clear at the outset that there is no sure way of knowing how good an animal is from the standpoint of producing heirs. Two cows sired by the same bull may have four calves in four years. One mother will have four sons and result would be most disappointing the other might possibly have four daughters. In the first instance the and, in the other case, exceedingly fortunate.

The most satisfactory test you can make in choosing cows for dairy purposes is to study the records and breeding of their ancestors and their individual records of production. You might know, for instance, what amount of milk or butterfat your cows should produce at a given age. It should be remembered that developers of dairy breeds have spent hundreds of years in careful selection for the purpose of increasing milk production. No matter what breed you have it is possible to secure judging cards which will assist you in buying your stock or in deciding what animals to keep in your herd.

You may be familiar with cattle in general, but once you become a dairy enthusiast you will quickly notice these points in the cow which is in the full flow of the milk. First a vigorous physical condition brought about by careful feeding. Second, an unusual development of the udder and milk veins. Third, the proper development of the barrel in proportion to the size of the cow.

The barrel is that part of the animal's body between the fore and rear legs which houses the large digestive organs of the cow. The animal that produces a large amount of milk must necessarily have large capacity for feed.

An active blood circulation is important because the digested food must be distributed. A large girth where the heart and lungs are located usually indicates large organs. A soft, pliable skin is a pretty sure sign of good circulation. Clear, bright, prominent, staring eyes, another.

Look also at the milk veins leading from the udder, under the skin, back toward an opening in the frame work which leads into the cavity of the body. They should be large, especially when the cow is at the height of her milking period.

The udder should be carefully examined. The size may fool you. A large udder does not necessarily produce a lot of milk. If it is practically the same size after milking as before, look out. It means an abundance of fatty tissue instead of secreting cells which contain the milk. A good udder has a long attachment to the body, in front and behind. After milking it shows plenty of loose flesh.

Remember a first-class dairy cow may not have much flesh in the milking season. The most of her food goes to the producing of milk. She may appear thin, but she will be vigorous, with soft, healthy hair and bright eyes. The cow that is thin in flesh because of the lack of food, has exactly the opposite appearance. We should keep in mind that dairy cows will naturally take on fat toward the end of the milking period and when dry. This fat is needed for the first few weeks which follows calving.

One rule that should be followed invariably in selecting a dairy cow is to do the choosing when the cow is in milk and preferably near the best stage of her milking period. That is when her characteristics are easiest to judge.

Long experience has shown what physical characteristics in breeds usually indicate high production. For instance, the body of the dairy cow should be wedge shaped as viewed from the front, side or top of the withers. The body should be deeper from the hip points to the bottom of the udder than it is at the fore quarters. All of this means that width at the hips, width at the chest and depth of the body are evidences of capacity. Unless these characteristics are present it is practically certain that the animal will not be a big producer of milk.

State Fair At Montgomery Begins Oct. 20, Ends Oct. 26

Come on! Get fair minded! All Alabama is anticipating the State Fair of Alabama that will open at Montgomery October 20. And its going to be the best ever, a real proof of progress, typifying the true strides in development made by our great state. This is the message that Simon Roswald, secretary manager is broadcasting throughout the state.

The 1930 premium book, brimful with interesting items on agriculture, livestock, poultry, boys' and girls' club work, and features of particular appeal to women has been mailed to practically every county in Alabama. And such attractive premiums have never before been offered.

The agricultural exhibits this year will be planned on an entirely new basis, that will be of real benefit to the farmer. Each exhibit will demonstrate scientific methods of progressive farming. The Extension Department at Auburn will cooperate in putting this idea over effectively.

The State Fair will finance accepted exhibits up to $100 planned by county and home demonstration agents or farm bureaus cooperating with county organizations or county wide committees and in addition will offer premiums ranging from $150 to $75. Agricultural high schools may also exhibit.

Manager Roswald has set aside Saturday of State Fair week as "Farmers' Day." To the agents of the county bringing the largest number of Farm Bureau members to the State Fair on this day will be awarded a handsome, silver trophy.

The entertainment program this year boasts of a wide variety of breath taking and amusing attractions. There will be dog races by trained whippet dogs, Johnny J. Jones Exposition on the midway, and Strout's military hussar band.

The country has been searched for the talent that will appear to make State Fair visitors forget the seamy side of life; "The Marvelous Honey Troupe" is made up of see-saw, teeter-board acrobats and sensational tight wire performers; "The Three Jansleys" feature the only 75-foot high illuminated loop-the-loop act in the world; "The Flying Millers" accomplish a brilliant routine of aerial feats; "Shorty Flemm," the pint size comedian keeps his audience roaring with laughter; "The McDonald Trio" is composed of two girls and a man, who appear in a thrilling bicycle act—and many, many more.

Don't forget—Tuesday, October 21st is Childrens' Day at the State Fair of Alabama—and 10 cents admits any child.

J. O. JONES ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGES

J. O. Jones was arrested last Friday afternoon at his home in South Clanton on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah went to the home of Jones and found 42 pints of whiskey concealed in a clever trap in the wall. The device was so cleverly constructed that it was hard to find. It was fixed so as to require the use of a nail or an ice pick to operate the spring lock on the inside which let the door open.

Jones was placed under bond to answer charges of violating the prohibition law in the courts of this county. His liquor was destroyed.

HOWARD ODEN CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

According to the Chilton County News of August 21, Mr. Howard Oden of Isabella community, is the Democratic nominee for Representative of Chilton County in the Legislature of Alabama. The News says:

"Althought he is not a candidate for the office, his friends in his progressive community, that of Isabella near here, wrote his name on the ticket giving him a good vote.

"Others whose names were written for Representative and received good votes were, J. R. Mullins, C. Fenn Jones and Dr. J. E. Gowan, all of Clanton."

Percy M. Pitts, present representative, is the Republican nominee, who will oppose Mr. Oden in the general election of November.

Joy Bath Takes Out

CORNS

New English Way

Now you can dance to your heart's content, run and walk and have good feet free from corns, callouses and hard skin.

The soreness, aching and burning quits with one exhilarating Radox Bath—3 or 4 baths, as many nights in succession and you lift out corns roots and all.

No more foot agony—instead strong, vigorous feet that will never go back on you. Alred Drug Company sells Radox, so do all leading druggists.

Far-Famed Songsters of Opera Stage Scorn Bird-Like Eating, Extol Curves

Bori, Galli-Curci and Talley Applaud Passing of the Reducing Fad.

By MABLE LOVE

"I LOVE to eat," declares Lucrezia Bori, star of the Metropolitan. Madame Galli-Curci and Marian Talley, equally famous stars, each in her own fashion, echoes Madame Bori's appreciation of good food. All three are emphatic in their condemnation of the passing craze for the boyish figure, and welcome the return to fashion of normal feminine curves.

"I am never ill, never fatigued, and never nervous," Madame Bori says. "There is a reason for that, too, let me tell you. It is because I am strong and healthy, because I keep my body properly nourished. In the morning, before I eat my breakfast, I go through my setting up exercises—without musical accompaniment. I get enough music in opera and like a little change. No matter how the exercises are taken, however, they are good for one. They stir up the body and work up an appetite; something I desire, for I love to eat.

"Reducing is utterly silly, especially for the young girl. Why should she break down her health to no good end? Certainly, if she succeeds in losing flesh she is also losing beauty. A thin woman is an abomination in the eyes of beauty lovers."

Tireless Galli-Curci

Even after an unusually strenuous operatic role Madame Galli-Curci never experiences a sense of deep fatigue. This she believes is due to two factors—the exultation that comes from the joy of self expression, and systematic care of the health. "When the slightest sense of fatigue occurs," she says, "I immediately offset it by a light lunch of milk and sweet crackers. Both contain sugar which is a valuable energizer. I have no fear of becoming over-weight and I eat everything on the menu."

The singer stamps with her heartiest disapproval the 18-day diet so popular for a while. "I deem it utterly absurd," she says, "to eliminate any food element necessary to strength, especially in the case of the young girl who requires every ounce of her energy for the business of being a healthy woman. I have seen some of these hollow-eyed victims after their enforced starvation periods, and they look far from beautiful. The emaciated form is never beautiful. I think a few extra pounds are desirable not alone from the health, but from an aesthetic point of view."

A Culinary Artist, Too

Marian Talley is not only an advocate of good food, but an expert in the preparation of it. Her cakes, according to her sister, are marvels of lightness, so that an invitation to dine at the Talley home is something to angle for, especially since Marian's mother is an even better cook than is the opera star herself.

"I feel sorry for girls who think they must be thin to be attractive," says Marian. "Especially do I feel sorry for those girls who in their mistaken judgment starve their bodies in order to lose weight." Marion has never dreamed of dieting. She follows no food fads of any kind. She is a great believer in sunshine and exercise, and keeps herself fit by walking from three to five miles every day.

MRS. W. S. BILBREY DIES FROM HEART DISEASE MONDAY A. M.

Mother Of Mrs. Horsley White Buried At LaGrange, Ga., Tuesday Morning

LaGrange, Ga., Sept. 1, 1930.—After an illness with heart disease for several months, Mrs. W. S. Bilbrey, prominent LaGrange club woman and church worker, died at her home on Hill Street early this morning. She was 59 years of age, and a native of Creswell, Alabama, having been born Miss Frances Caroline Bates.

Funeral services were held from the residence at 203 Hill Street Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, with Dr. Walter Pope Binns officiating. Mrs. Bilbrey was a member of the First Baptist church during her entire residence of 17 years in LaGrange. She was also a member of the Eastern Star and the LaGrange Woman's club.

Hammett & Groover were in charge of funeral arrangements, burial followed in Shadowlawn cemetery. Pallbearers were R. O. Pharr, J. D. Hudson, J. Forest Johnson, John Stodghill, E. L. Stallings, W. L. Cleveland, Sr., Ely Callaway, and W. A. Reeves.

Surviving her are her husband, William Singleton Bilbrey; six daughters, Mrs. H. K. Bailey, of Opelika, Ala.; Mrs. Haines Bolin, of Cordele, Ga.; Mrs. Horsley White, of Clanton, Ala.; Mrs. Lyne Crenshaw, of Charleston, S. C.; Mrs. Ben Roberts and Mrs. Walter Stinson, both of LaGrange; and two brothers, Frank Bates, of Vincent, Ala.; and Tom Bates, of Taladega, Ala., and a number of grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. White returned to Clanton Wednesday morning, after attending the funeral of Mrs. White's mother Tuesday.

THE LITTLE FRUIT STORE

Mr. John H. Gore is preparing this week to open "The Little Fruit Store" in the building formerly occupied by Posey Marcus with "The Little Paint Store." It is just around the corner from Marion Gore's feed store.

Mr. Gore will carry a full line of staple fruits, candies, etc., and extends an invitation to the people of Chilton County to trade with him. He will be open for business next Saturday.

Teachers Conference Here Saturday, Sept. 6

The teachers of all schools of the county which are to open next Monday, are summoned to meet in conference with Miss Scarborough, elementary supervisor, at the County High School building in Clanton on next Saturday morning at nine o'clock.

This conference will include teachers of the following schools. Chilton County High, Clanton Grammar, Verbena, Thorsby, Jemison, Isabella, Maplesville, Stanton, Lay Dam, Mitchell Dam.

URGES FARMERS TO POOL COTTON FAST

To the cotton growers of Chilton County:

Let me urge that you pool your cotton as fast as ginned. The American Cotton Cooperative Association will give you full grade and staple and will advance you practically the market price of your cotton to enable you to hold for higher prices. This association is in position to store and insure your cotton at the lowest possible rate and to sell direct to all the cotton markets of the world.

The American Cotton Association is made up of members from all the cotton growing states and your cotton, whether one bale or a thousand will be handled and sold to the very best advantage to you.

The Alabam Farm Bureau Cotton Association, which is a member of the American Cotton Cooperative Association is the agency through which you pool your cotton in Alabama. I understand your county farm bureau or your local banks are in position to assist you and give you full information as to how to pool your cotton.—J. F. Creekmore, general manager.

CENTRAL SINGING MET AT CONCORD

Officers Elected for Coming Year; Good Singing Held

The first meeting of the Central Singing Society of Chilton County convened at Concord church last Sunday afternoon. A good representation from all the member churches of the society was present. The election of offiers was entered into, which resulted as follows: Chairman, W. M. Devaughn; 1st vice chair O. L. Devaughn; 2nd vice chairman, L. T. Grant; secretary, T. E. Wyatt; standing committee, Jesse Baker, C. H. Robinson, A. O. Boswell; chaplin, R. M. Robinson.

The Stamps-Baxter book was adopted by the convention, and it was decided to purchase 100 books to begin with. A collection was taken and over one-fourth of the cost of the books was realized.

After the officers were elected, singing was entered into, the following directing: Willie Mims, L. T. Grant, J. W. Clackler, W. M. Devaughn, R. E. Powell, T. E. Wyatt, O. R. Robinson, O. L. Devaughn, Dr. J. B. Williams, G. C. Powell, I. D. Huett, J. E. Miner.

The singing was good, and the large audience seemed to enjoy it immensely. The house was filled to capacity.

The society meets next Sunday afternoon with Maple Springs. The singers are all expected and visitors have a cordial invitation to join in with the society and help. The society has started off with fine prospects, and the continued success depends on the attendance and help of all the singers of the various societies. There were plenty of singers present Sunday afternoon to do excellent singing, and with a little practice together, this class cannot be surpassed anywhere. Let every singer in this section of Chilton County make an effort to attend these singings every Sunday, and let's make it the very best possible.

MAN IN JAIL WRITES ABOUT CONDITIONS

Editor, Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to express my regards to the many friends and acquaintances I have in Chilton County, especially our Sheriff. He is kind, courteous to all prisoners, white or colored as well as visiting friends of the prisoners. He feeds well and gives every comfort possible. My greatest surprise is that therehasn't been a minister of the Gospel or a church worker in site of the jail, let alone in it during my confinement. All prisoners are not animals—he that is without sin cast the first stone.—W. H. Helton.

Not Guilty Is Plea Of Three Accused

Henderson Slaying Trial At Columbiana Set For Sept. 15

Columbiana, Ala., Sept 2.—Pleas of not guilty and demands for a jury trial were made here Monday in Criminal Court by three men indicted a year ago on charges of murder in connection with the slaying in November, 1928, of J. H. "Boss" Henderson, former overseer of the estate of the late Dr. A. W. Bell, Birmingham banker.

The three men, Cecil Bell, nephew of Dr. Bell, and Jim and Clarence Turner, entered the pleas when arraigned on the charges here. They will be defended by State Senator L. H. Ellis.

The case was set for trial on Sept. 15.

Thomas E. Knight, Jr., former assistant attorney general, has been retained by Gov. Graves to act as special prosecutor in the case, and will be assisted by Circuit Solicitor, A. L. Hardigree.

State witnesses testified at the preliminary hearing that Henderson was slain from behind while walking in "Lover's Lane" near Vincent, Alabama.

Investigation of the case was made by J. W. McClung, state law enforcement officer, who aided the probe of the special Grand Jury last fall, which returned indictments against the trio.

"Are you a doctor?" She asked the young man at the soda fountain.

"No, madam," he replied. "I'm a fizzician."

TOM PARRISH NOW WITH A & P STORE

Mr. Tom Parrish, prominent business man of Clanton for several years, is now conected with the store of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company in Clanton.

Up until about a year ago, Mr. Parrish operated a gents furnishings business here under the name of "Parrish's." This was one of the most popular stores in Clanton for a long time. Since discontinuing his store Mr. Parrish has been connected with Polk Brothers Motor Company.

Mr. Parrish is widely known throughout Chilton County. He extends an invitation to all his friends and former customers to come to see him at the A & P Store.

With the addition of Mr. Parrish, the personnel of the A & P Store is now constituted as follows: G. C. Armstrong, manager; Tom Parrish and Joe Vanderveer, assistants.

County Training School Opens 29th

Corps of Competent Teachers Selected for This Year's Work

Prof. Lawrence C. Johnson wishes to announce that the Chilton County Training School will open Monday, September 29th, for the beginning of its seventh session.

Prof. Johnson has spent much of his time this summer in trying to get new students, and preparing himself to be of greater service to his people. In so much that by his visits throughout the county he encouraged the people to ask for more thansportation for students to enter school. By the generosity of our County Superintendent, Mr. B. Lawrence, and the County Board of Education, we have been given a new bus line to the school, bringing students from Maplesville, Stanton and other sections of the county.

We, as teachers and patrons, wish to express our appreciation for same. We have taken great care in selecting teachers to fill positions in our school. Teachers who are able to do the type of work that we hope will improve our school.

The faculty is as follows: Lawrence C. Johnson, principal and teacher of vocational agriculture, Tuskegee Institute; Wm. D. Pettus, science and mathematics, Morehouse College; Gussie L. Hardy, English, Alabama State Teachers College; Blanche W. Mitchell, social studies and history, State Teachers College; Elizabeth E. Charles, elementary grades, State Teachers College; Mattie L. Webb, intermediaite grades, State Teachers College; Helen I. Andrews, primary grades, Spelman College; Rose V. Lee, home economics, Tuskegee Institute. All teachers are Junior and Senior College graduates.

REFUSED TO ACCEPT THE RESIGNATION OF EZELL

At the close of the sermon last Sunday morning at the Clanton Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. S. J. Ezell, ofered his resignation to the church, stepped down from his pulpit and walked out of the building.

He had barely cleared the portal in his departure when a motion was made and seconded to refuse his resignation, and every person in the house rose to their feet in unanimous support of the motion.

Brother Ezell has served the church here as pastor continously for eight years under an indefinite call. He stated that he did not want to serve longer unless it was the pleasure of the church to assert its approval of his tenure.

The enthusiastic and unanimous action of his church in refusing to consider his resignation indicates that he had just as well settle himself down for at least another eight years in Clanton, unless he takes a notion to pull up stakes and leave here over the protest of his congregation.

GRAND JURY WILL MEET NEXT MONDAY

By order of Circuit Court Judge, George F. Smoot, the grand jury of Chilton County will meet next Monday morning. The list of jurymen has been drawn and placed in the hands of Sheriff Collins for summons.

While it is not stated that this call for the grand jury is for any special purpose, it is known that there are several cases of importance awaiting investigation.

For several weeks the jail has been crowded. As there is now no criminal court in Chilton County, most all cases have to wait for action of the grand jury.

Why We Are Where We Are

A Vital Message On a Subject of Vital Interest To The Farmers of Chilton County

Last Thursday night a meeting of representative farmers, bankers, and business men of Chilton County, was held at the office of County Agent, C. E. Stapp, in Clanton. Those in attendance were W. C. Robinson, J. N. Dennis, Irby Deramus, Will Gulledge, Glenn Boyd, C. E. Stapp, Jasper Robinson, Louie Smith, W. L. Popwell, W. L. Parrish, J. P. Montgomery, J. R. Mullins, John C. Page.

While the assemblage engaged in a study and discussion of the general farm situation in Chilton County, the center of their attention was the subjects of feed and fertilizer. Characterized as the two main debt makers for farmers of Chilton County, FEED and FERTILIZER were made the subject of a message which the men in this meeting prepared and adopted. They regard the importance of these two things as paramount. In compliance with their request, we gladly give space to their message below, and we hope that every farmer who reads it will seriously contemplate the profound truth of what is said herein.

For a good many generations orators have declared alarm over the farm shortage situation which, in the long run, has continued upward year after year until most farms in this county are plastered with mortgages. Why this is true in every county and state we do not know but we are acquainted with two of the main farm debt makers in Chilton County. They are FEED and FERTILIZER.

Study the records of farms, ask bankers and merchants, or get the official records from either Montgomery or Washington and you will find this to be true.

Why we let these expenditures mount higher and higher while our county agents and our College of Agriculture at Auburn continue to remind us that such is unwise, unsound, and unnecessary is difficult to understand. Habit and carelessness seem to be the main reasons.

Our county agent and our College of Agriculture at Auburn insist that we are making a serious mistake.

They tell us that we can and should produce all the feed we need and that we can and should produce all our nitrogen which is the most expensive fertilizer element we buy. In addition we can produce humus which is not feasible to buy.

"And it is neither difficult nor expensive to produce food for our animals and nitrogen and humus to fertilize our soils." Here is how:

Plant seed of winter legumes (either hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas) in the fall. The plants will grow during fall, winter, and spring. They will be ready to plow under in time to plant corn or another feed crop. The nitrogen and humus added by the winter legume will enrich the soil so that it will make big yields of the feed crop that follows.

In this way two birds are killed with one stone. They are, first, nitrogen and humus for fertilizer, second, feed for animals.

If every farmer would grow winter legumes on every acre there would be very little need to buy nitrogen fertilizer. Of course phosphate and potash would have to be bought but they are less expensive.

Fall of the year is here. September is the time to plant seed of winter legumes. We believe that every farmer should plant these seed on as many acres as possible. County Agent C. E. Stapp will be glad to give you information about getting seed, fertilizer, and inoculation; and also how and when to plant.

Until we do this we are certain to remain as we are and where we are except to sink deeper into debt.

But we must pull out. We can and we must. We have been stuck entirely too long. The road out is before us. If we can assist you to travel it, please call on us.

PEOPLES SAVINGS BANK, Clanton.
FIRST NATIONAL BANK, Clanton.
BANK OF VERBENA, Verbena.
BANK OF THORSBY, Thorsby.
BANK OF MAPLESVILLE, Maplesville.
THE PEOPLES BANK, Jemison.

We would like to impress upon the farmers who read the above message the fact that this address to you on the subject of feed and fertilizer, comes to you from your banker, as well as the other men who joined in the meeting from which this address comes. Each and every bank in Chilton County has subscribed their endorsement to what is said in this message.

We ask you Mr. Farmer: What does the name of your bank signed to a message like this mean to you? Do you think your banker is interested in your welfare? If the man who helps you with your financial business is not interested in your success and prosperity, who in the world do you think is interested in you?

The farmers of Chilton County must come to a plan whereby they will produce their own nitrogen and humus for fertilizer, and feed for their stock. This plan has been proven profitable and practical. The farmer who does not do it will continue to bear the burden of debts and mortgages. It is high time that more of our farmers wake up and heed the advice of our county agents, our banker, and agricultural specialists in this matter.

FRANCHISE GRANTED TO GAS COMPANY HERE

An ordinance has been passed and approved by the Council of the Town of Clanton, granting a franchise to the Alabama Natural Gas Corporation to lay and maintain in or under the streets, avenues, alleys, or other public places in the Town of Clanton, a main or mains for the transmission, distribution, and sale of gas for domestic and other purposes.

The ordinance sets out that the same shall be of no effect unless the gas company shall be ready to begin to serve customers in Clanton on or before the 31st day of December, 1931.

It is contemplated under this ordinance that Clanton shall be connected on to the southwide system of distribution of natural gas that is being established by the Southern Natural Gas Corporation, which is bringing natural gas from the oil fields of Louisiana.

Chilton Represented At Alabama College

Six Chilton County Girls Attending School At Montevallo

Montevallo, Ala., Sept. 9.—According to an announcement by President O. C. Carmichael, students from every county in Alabama will participate in the four-day opening program at Alabama College which begun with the reception of freshmen students Monday, and was followed by a series of activities designed to give them a bird's eye view of college life before settling down to classes Friday.

High spots in the program included informal greetings and welcome extended by faculty and student committees to new students as they arrived at railway and by auto Monday and Tuesday; classification routine; special instruction in the use of the library and other campus facilities; introduction to representatives of the churches of Montevallo; general tests; physical examinations; and special instruction by officers of student organizations with regard to general campus deportment.

At a special program in Palmer Hall Tuesday, "The Great Adventure of College Life," with its attendant opportunities and responsibilities, was pointed out by President Carmical. Dean T. H. Napier also presented greetings and inspirational thought.

Final registration for the session numbered approximately 850 at noon Saturday, President Carmichael stated, after refund of more than 100 application fees on account of unavoidable withdrawals.

A large number of applications had to be returned unconsidered, it was stated, on account of inadequate dormitory space.

Arrangements have been made to care for a part of the overflow, however, by the utilization of the infirmary building temporarily, until further normal withdrawals aid in adjustment to capacity.

Chilton County is represented by the following students: Misses Nellie Sumner and Mary Lou Tiffin, of Clanton; Misses Nolan Meroney, Flora Mae Robinson, and Virginia Scott, of Verbena; and Miss Dody Wells, of Jemison, a total of 6.

OSCAR CLECKLER KILLED IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

Oscar Cleckler, age 15 years, son of J. P. Cleckler, of Clanton, was the victim of a highway accident which happened last Wednesday afternoon fourteen miles north of Montgomery.

The boy was riding on the truck which was carrying a big load of cotton seed to Montgomery. When a wheel on the trailer came off, the truck with its heavy load went into a bank by the side of the highwey. Young Cleckler was caught in the jam and fatally crushed.

He was pulled out of the wreck and carried to St. Margaret's Hospital in Montgomery, but did not live but a short while.

There were some other boys on the truck when the accident happened, but none of them were seriously hurt.

Undertaker Mell martin of Clanton went to Montgomery and brought the boy's body back here to prepare it for burial. The funeral was conducted Thursday by Rev. S. J. Ezell, at Union Grove.

J. P. Cleckler, father of the dead boy, lives in the Gowan Addition of Clanton.

Miss Birteen Deloach of the East View community, was carried to Bryce Hospital in Tuscaloosa last Saturday by Sheriff Collins. She was also accompanied by her brother, Gattis, and her sister, Mrs. Iroma Powell.

STAPP ELECTED LIEUT. GOVERNOR

Clanton Man Honored At Kiwanis Convention In Huntsville

Among the many interesting things that are reported from the meeting of the Alabama Kiwanis District Convention in Huntsville, the outstanding item of interest to Clanton citizens and especially Clanton Kiwanians is the election of C. E. Stapp as Lieutenant Governor of the Fourth Division of the Alabama Kiwanis District. The clubs composing this division are Mobile, Selma, Demopolis, Montgomery, and Clanton. As Lieutenant Governor of the division for the next year, Mr. Stapp will have the responsibility of guiding the work and activities of Kiwanis Clubs in those cities named.

Clanton's delegation to the convention at Huntsville was composed of H. G. Boyd, Sam Powers, Raymond Smith, C. E. Stapp, and John Hollis.

Convention Notes

The Clanton delegation came back with enthusiasm for Kiwanis literally boiling over. They declare that the meeting was one of the finest things they ever attended. Here are some of the impressions which were gathered in a hasty interview with some of them Wednesday mornnig.

John Hollis said he was coming back home and resign from the club; and if they would take him back, he would join over again, and try to be a real Kiwanian from now on.

The Mobile Club won the cup for being the most efficient club in Alabama during the past year. Talladega won the Howard Yielding cup for the most outstanding work in Agriculture. Clanton and Dothan clubs received favorable mention.

Leroy Holt of Birmingham was elected Governor of the Alabama Kiwanis District for the coming year.

Among the outstanding speakers at the convention are mentioned Immediate Past International President, Horace McDavid, of Decatur, Ill., Prof. McCauley, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Congressman W. B. Oliver, of Tuscaloosa.

Dave Edington, of Mobile, Governor of the Alabama Kiwanis District, presided at the sessions of the convention.

According to Glenn Boyd, the barbecue on top of Monte Sano was among the most delightful things on the program of entertainment. Stapp and powers declare that the dance was the best thing on the program.

There were about 300 Kiwanians from all over Alabama in attendance. In the summary report for the State, it was shown that Kiwanis membership has had a net decrease of only eight members in the past year.

Man Faces Trial For Killing Of Dr. Roper

Murder Case Will Be Heard In Columbiana Sept. 15

Columbiana, Ala., Sept. 2.—C. C. White, Sr., will face trial in Criminal Court here Sept. 15 on charges of murder in connection with the slaying of Dr. G. C. Roper, of Boothton, Ala.

Dr. Roper was shot to death in White's home in September, 1929, after being called there by telephone, according to the testimony of witnesses at a preliminary hearing.

White entered a plea of not guitly and asked for a jury trial when arraigned here Monday.

Roderick Beddow, Birmingham attorney, will act as special prosecutor in the case and will be assisted by A. L. Hardigree, circuit solicitor.

White was a commissary agent at the Boothton Mines and Dr. Roper was the company physician.

SPECIAL FLOUR SALE AT A. & P. STORE

Mr. G. C. Armstrong, local manager for the Great A & P Store, calls attention to the special flour sale which will be conducted at the A & P Store in Clanton from September 12 to 20. Prices of flour in this sale are especially attractive. They will be found in the regular A & P advertisement in this paper.

Mr. Armstrong invites his friends to take note of this special sale and supply their flour needs while the sale is on.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE JAMES THOMAS

A precious one from us is gone,
His voice we love is still;
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

We miss him, O, we miss him,
Each hour of the day;
Oh, how our heart does ache,
Since Jesus took his soul away.

God loved little James, so he called him home;
To be a little angel around the great white throne.

We miss him here,
We miss him there;
We miss him about the place,
We miss him everywhere.

Mrs. Filey Funderburk, of Texas, has been in Clanton for several days, visiting her father, Uncle John Calloway, who has been severely sick. He is much better at this writing.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincerest appreciation to the people of Collins Chapel community for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our loving son and grandson, James Smith. Especially do we thank Doctor Wood. May God bless each and every onne, is our prayer.—J. L. Thomas and family.

Mr. W. J. Billingsley of Thorsby has moved to Clanton, and will live in his house on the highway, next to the home of T. C. McSwain. This is the place where Mr. Earle Parrish has lived for some years.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness and courtesy shown during the death of our Son and Brother, Oscar Cleckler and we wish to especially thank Mr. and Mrs. Goodgame, Mr. and Mrs. Gore Mrs. Sims and family, also Dr. Ezell of the Baptist church and Mr. M. Martin for their kindness shown us. May God's richest blessings rest upon each and every one of you for your kindness.—Mrs. Lula Cleckler, Mrs. W. P. Logan, Mrs. Ora Martin.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

FORESTRAL PRIZES FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 8.—Prizes for the best essays written by pupils of Alabama High Schools, or of schools of similar grade, will be offered by the State Commission of Forestry, pursuant to action taken at its semiannual meeting held September 2. The work of the Commission of Forestry is carried on in close cooperation with the educational and agricultural authorities, and it is felt that the proposed essay contest will be of exceptional value in coordinating many important features of the State's economic and cultural development.

The prizes will be of worth while character and designed to of substantial benefit to the winners. The first prize has been tentatively fixed as a year's scholarship at one of the collegiate institutions of the state, the amount of the scholarship being sufficient to cover all costs and expenses necessary to a full year's work. A trip to California and return has been suggested for second prize. For the third prize a round trip to Washington, D. C., is being considered. It is possible that there may be a fourth and a fifth prize, but this has not been fully determined.

The funds for the timber will be derived mainly from contributions by private timber growers, the greater portion having already been offered the Commission, and partly from the Federal Government. It thus will not be necessary to use any of the state funds for this purpose.

High School principals will be communicated with by the Commission of Forestry and given ful details as to the contest and the awarding of the prizes. It is expected that the latter will be awarded during the winter or spring so that the first prize will be available for the academic year 1931-32 and the other prizes for the summer season of 1931.

PLEASANT HILL

Last Sunday I went over to the home of Kermit Lowery near Pleasant Hill. His dog treed something about thirty yards from the house. We went down there to see what it was. We cut in a tree, and it must have been a 'possum tree. We began to pull out 'possums one by one, and the first thing we knew we had eleven pulled out of the one tree.

I think the country around Pleasant Hill will be a good place to go 'possum hunting this fall.—Frank Peters.

There was preaching at the home of Uncle Ben Martin last Sunday night by Brother Wiley Davis. It was a fine sermon and a large crowd was there to hear and enjoy it.

Mr. Martin is in bed in a serious condition. We realize that his time is short. He says he is ready to answer the call any day. The Lord has spared him 76 years, and he lives on the same section of land where he was born. He has been the same man all these years. He is a good man and a good neighbor. We pray that his last days may be his brightest and happiest.

Mr. and Mrs. Kin Vinson and children left Monday morning for their home in Milledgeville, Georgia, after spending a week with relatives and friends in Chilton County.

HOW TO CHOOSE A PROFITABLE DAIRY COW

Dairying is the largest revenue producing department of the livestock industry in the United States. The products made from milk of our dairy cows which include butter, cheese, ice cream, condensed milk, powdered milk, etc., amount to more than 4 billion dollars annually, which is our greatest industry.

There are approximately 22 millions of dairy cows, including heifers two years old or over, on farms in the United States. Of this number, about one third of these cows are loafers or boarders and are kept on our farms at a loss. About one-third break even, that is, they make no money; and one third are good profit producers. If only one-third of the cows on our farms are making money to the owners, it is very essential to know how to select a good dairy cow.

"Buy the best and breed them better" is the slogan of the leading Jersey breeder. This slogan, in my estimation is the best one I have ever seen or heard. Those seven words mean more to the upbuilding of our dairy herds than any words that I have ever seen grouped together. Cheap cattle are seldom a bargain. Deep bodied cows with good type and plenty of capacity are the most profitable to the owners. Cattle of this quality may cost more, but the profits from the sale of milk and surplus stock are much better. It pays to "Buy the best and breed them better."

What is a dairy cow worth? This is a question that I am often asked and there is but one answer, and that is that she is valuable in proportion to her production in the milk pail. One cow may not be worth her keep and another may be worth $500 or more. There are two ways of deciding a cow's value. One is to buy her and see if she pays her way and interest on the investment and the other is to see her record as made in a cow-testing association or on official test by the breed association. A cow-testing association record is more likely to be found and may be considered reliable.

The cow is the hardest worked animal on the farm. She must have a strong constitution to produce largely, persistently and profitably. Constitution is indicated by large open, well distended nostrils, by well-sprung fore ribs, and deep heart girth, signifying room for a large heart and lungs. Also by largeness of winpipe and breadth of chest.

A cow never produces a pound of milk from anything other than feed and water. Other things being equal the more feed a cow eats, the greater will be her yield in milk. Therefore, it is essential that a cow have capacity, which is indicated by a large mouth, strong jaws, and a large abdomen, "denoting a good feeder." She must have a body that is deep and long, with well sprung ribs far apart and a wedge shaped conformation.

A good dairy cow must have what is known as "dairy temperament" which determines whether she is a worker or loafer. This is indicated by a broad well dished face and a large, bright, prominent, staring eye. A dairy cow should not put on too much fat along her back and she must have wide prominent hips. She must have good blood circulation for carrying food nutrients from the digestive system to the udder, where these nutrients are converted into butter, milk and fat. A good circulation is indicated by prominent veins on the udder and large crooked and elastic milk veins.

A good dairy cow should have ability, which gives her the power of manufacturing milk and butterfat efficiently. This is indicated by an udder of good quality texture that is long and broad, between thin, well arched thighs. The udder also should hang high behind, and should be carried well forward.

I recommend bull circles or bull association as the cheapest way and a good way to build up the quality of dairy cows in any community. The very best bulls available should be used for breeding.

I most heartily endorse the work of cow-testing associations, for in these cow testing associations complete record of the milk produced, and the feed consumed are kept, thus enabling the farmer to market his unprofitable cow at the end of the cow testing association.

ARMAMENT AND WAR

The International League of Peace and Freedom has issued from its Washington Headquarters an appeal for immediate world risarmament. In so doing they declare that governments which maintain military and naval establishments are thus preparing their people for destruction. All of the signers know that disarmament in China and Russia, for obvious reasons is no more probable than that the moon will don a kimona They also know that the complete disarament would leave all countries the prey of Revolutionary forces incited from the headquarters of world insurrection in Moscow. The most prominent European signer is Dr. Albert Einstein, the socialist who is advocating the repudiation of debt to the United States by European Nations. The most destructive of all wars are civil wars, which the disarmament of governments would promote not prevent. Internationalists seek to break down the national military and economic defense and the spirit of resistence, national disintergration. The amount of propaganda they have been putting out in the United States during the past dozen years represents a tremendous outlay of money and energy. Whatever the purpose, the effect is to advance the purposes of the international socialists and capitolists, and sacrifice the welfare of the American people in behalf of alleged world welfare. The present depression in the United States is due to a failure of the American government, under pressure of anti-nationalism, to look out for the American interests and economic well being as against the pressure of European and international political and financial interests.

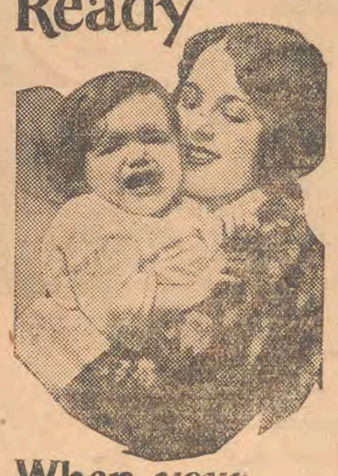
SAVE ALL THE GRASS AND FORAGE POSSIBLE

Farmers of Chilton County should "Save all grass and forage" advises C. E. Stapp county agent.



While the cotton crop of the south apparently will be slightly less than that of 1929, there is little promise of much improvement in prices, while on the other hand the drouth has so shortened the corn, hay and other crops of the nation that the prices are already mounting and are likely to go higher, said Mr. Stapp, when quoting from a special editorial from the Progressive Farmer.

"It behoves the Southern farmer then to avoid as much as possible spending low-priced cotton money for high-priced hay and grain," he continued. How can it be done? For one thing he can cut and save for hay every patch of crab-grass, swamp grass, Johnson grass, or other grass on the farm. Maybe the dry weather made it impossible to plant the stubble fields and there is a grass crop there worth saving. Sweet potato vines if properly cured have been found to make fair hay.

"Plans can be made now to get in rye and oats at the first opportunity which will provide some grazing by late fall and through the winter and then make an early feed crop next spring. Right now is the time to place orders for seeds.

"Any who think it not worth while to save every bit of the roughage possible should remember that a bale of 13 cent cotton doesn't go very far when it must be spent for $30, $40 and $45 a ton for hay or equally as much for corn and other concentrates."

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. JULIA GILES

On Friday night, Sept. 5, 1930, just as the old clock tolled the hour of ten, it pleased God to send a convoy of Angels to take out of our midst, our beloved sister, Mrs. Julia Giles. She was sick about one month. All was done for her that willing hands could do, but she had stayed here 68 years and had finished her work and God needed her and called her home, where she will have no more pain or woe but all will be joy with her. She was willing to die and ready at any time.

She joined the Baptist church at Cane Creek, in her early days and was always true to the vow that she took when she first joined. She leaves one son, Dalton Giles of Cane Creek and one daughter, Mrs. Ollie Burnett of Elmore, 18 grand children 5 great grand children, one brother, Mr. Jack Gentry and one sister, Mrs. Ellen Cleckler, and a large host of friends to mourn her loss.

In her passing our church has lost one of its most faithful members, a high type of Christian womanhood, one who was faithful to her church a loving and faithful mother in her home. She did her very best to raise her children and grand children right. She always gave everybody good advice and had a turn to always speak a good word of comfort to those in trouble and ease their aching heart, and make everyone love her. She always worked for peace in the community, and had her share of trouble but passed it on and tried to find the sunny side of every dark cloud. She wore a smile for everyone. She was glad to meet everybody and didn't seem to have any hard feeling toward anyone but loved everyone she knew.

We are all going to miss her so bad at home and at church, the place where she always sat at church is vacant which no one can fill. It looks so lonesome without her and she has left us here her smile which we shall see no more. Our hearts are filled with sadnes which no one can heal the sore. I often think of you Mrs. Giles when I am alone, for memory is the only thing life can call its own. She was laid to rest in Cane Creek Cemetery in the place she prepared for hersif beside her husband, who died several years ago. Rev. Will Cox conducted the funeral services. Her grave was banked with many beautiful flowers which showed the love and esteem in which she was held by her many friends, for they were many.—Lillie Mae Weldon.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give us space to thank the doctors and nurses at the Central Alabama Hospital for all they did trying to save our dear husband and father. They spent many hours with us making the last sad hours much easier for us to bear.

We want to thank Mr. Martin for his kindness and every one for every kind word spoken us in this sad hour. We want to especially thank Bro. Limbric for his message of comfort at the funeral. It was only through the deeds done and the kind words spoken, and the trust we have in God that we could bear this great trouble. Our prayer is that God will reward each one of you.—Mrs. C. C. Crane and children.

BETHSALEM NEWS

Our Sunday School was called to order last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock by Mr. C. S. Wilkins.

There were several members present, but we hope to have more next Sunday.

On account of some of the teachers not being present last Sunday the teachers meeting was put off until next Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock and we hope all the teachers will be present.

Remember Sunday School will be at 10 o'clock next Sunday morning. Every one is specially invited to come and take a part with us.

CEDAR GROVE SINGING CONVENTION

The old book singers gathered in the annual convention at Cedar Grove Saturday and Sunday. It was a great session. People came from Jemison, Clanton, Randolph, Wilsonville, Montevallo, Siyacauga, and the whole countryside. It was a most enjoyable occasion. Beautiful singing, beautiful quartets and a beautiful spirit of good will abounded.

Such directors as M. V. Lawley, T. C. Jackson, D. B. Ingram, W. L. Sanders, Miss Dorthy Ingram, The Shirley sisters, A. T. Davis and many others were there too numerous to mention. The large audience gave marked attention. So it was a great season of sacred song.

HOUSTON WILLIS DIED

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Now that the naval treaty has been ratified by the United States the excitement over this important document has died down, so to speak. It will be aroused again, however, in the next session of Congress when the appropriations necessary to put the terms of the treaty into effect come up for consideration. The country may then expect another outburst of pacifist piffle, a shouting of the little navy forces to the effect that now that we have achieved naval limitation, and in effect, parity with Great Britain, we do not want such parity. They will assert that the "moral victory" achieved by the treaty is sufficient. The average common-sense American, however, is unable to see where moral platitudes will do us a great deal of good if we are confronted by an enemy who is determined to cripple or destroy our country.

Most thinking Americans will agree with Admiral Hepburn, who declared recently that the treaty would be worse than nothing if we failed to build up to the parity which is a fundamental part of our program and of our national defense. The geat danger is not in the treaty but in the chance that we will fail to live up to the treaty by building the number of warships which the treaty allows us. As the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, always a sound, vigorous American newspaper said recently:

"It has long been apparent that some of the alleged 'peace organizations' which implored the Senate to ratify the treaty would, at the earliest possible opportunity, bombard Congress with petitions to prevent the attainment of the parity which the treaty undertook to guarantee. The old argument that because the powers have made renunciation of war, there is no reason why the United States should take advantage of the treaty's terms is certain to be a strong feature of the new propaganda against naval construction by the United States; and with this, of course, there will be tied up the altogether specious plea that such construction will constitute an awful waste of money. But the fact remains that unless we make such construction, we shall have most every advantage which our government has sought to gain in the way of a general reduction of armaments. Parity with Great Britain remains the only present effective means which the United States can have in working for a further reduction of armaments in the future."

The assault against the terms of the treaty by the pacifists will come when the plans of our naval officers for replacement and new construction are presented to Congress for consideration. These plans call for the expenditure of approximately $200,000,000 a year for the next five years on our navy. This looks like a sizeable sum, but it is to be remembered that half of it is for replacements which would have had to be made whether there had been any naval treaty or not so that the sum for new construction is only about $100,000,000 a year. This is considerably less than a dollar apiece for all Americans and naval security is certainly worth that much to each and every one of us. Besides, the expenditure of this money will bring employment to many thousands of Americans at a time when an increase in our employment is badly needed.

To those however who profess to be appalled at the figures it may be answered that so much construction is due to the fact that after the Washington naval limitations treaty we permitted our naval construction to languish because we had faith in the sincerity of our naval competitors that they wanted to cut down naval construction. As a result, during nine years when we were spending about $48,000,000 a year on Uncle Sam's navy we had laid down or appropriated for only eleven naval craft. During the same years Japan laid down or appropriated for 125; France, 119; Italy, 82; Great Britain, 74. So much for the good and pacific intentions of our naval rivals.

Surely these figures, and the results of the Washington conference of nine years ago are sufficient proof that we ought to build up to the treaty requirements this time. But there are difficulties in the way. The pacifist pifflists who supported the treaty will now want to scuttle it by failing to live up to its provisions. It will be up to the real Americans of the nation to see that such a shattering of our naval defense is not permitted.

AMERICANS EXPLORED FAR SOUTH NINETY YEARS AGO

In view of the recent illustrious exploits of Adfiral Byrd it is interesting to recall that ninety years ago an Anarctic expedition under the Stars and Stripes, commanded by an American naval officer, did valuable exploratory work in the far South. In an illustrated article in the September issue of the National Republic, just off the press, Mr. R. K. T. Lawson tells the interesting story of these early explorations and what they accomplished. In part, Mr. Lawson says:

"Ninety years have passed since the first marine expedition for scientific research under the flag of the United States of America outlined the continental margin of Anarctica for a distance of 1,800 miles.

It was a century ago, lacking a decade, that Charles Wilkes, American naval officer in command of the venture, sponsored by the U. S. Navy, piloted his ill-equipped fleet into the ice-churned, storm-tossed waters that lap the land at the "Bottom of the world."

The last nine decades have seen the world, in science at least, advance at a rate overshadowing all the sand that had heretofore flowed through the glass of eternal time. Yet, the Antarctic remains a seemingly endless frozen hell. Out of it has come another American, Rear Adm. Richard Evelyn Byrd, and all America is giving him honor, for honor is due the intrepid Virginian whose expedition in search of scientific fact concerning the Antarctic undoubtedly will prove more valuable than any heretofore. With how Byrd and his men flew over the South pole and vast areas of frozen land where only man's imagination had flown before, America and the world are familiar. The adventures of Wilkes' expedition are not so well known today. The story seems to have been more or less neglected.

The ventures of both Wilkes and Byrd are akin. The commanders of both expeditions were navy men, though Byrd's enterprise was financed privately.

Further comparisons show that both expeditions set sail, on leaving the United States, from the port of Hampton Roads, through whose wide sea gates have passed many a ship of brave adventure, of war, of commerce and of science.

The ships of Wilkes left Virginia waters during the summer of 1838 and those of Byrd during the summer of 1928, just ninety years apart.

New York was the first American city to greet Wilkes upon his return and New York was the first again to officially welcome Byrd back.

Wilkes claimed to have been the first explorer to set eyes on the great continent of Antarctic and explore it for an distance, though a peak was seen by Bransfield as early as 1820. The following year Palmer, a youthful American sealer, saw the peaks of Palmer which the English call Graham Land. Palmer was the first to set foot on landing in the early twenties. There is the difference that Wilkes operated in the Australian Quadrant and Bransfield and Palmer in the American Quadrant. Wilkes' claims have been challenged by some explorers, while others, including Shackleton and his contemporaries, D'Urville and Mawson, have borne out his statements. Byrd was the first man to fly over the South Pole.

"Both expeditions were primarily for scientific discovery, and for their accomplishments they stand among the very highest ever conducted."

"It is almost impossible psychologically for men to sin deliberately, but it is the incessant, omnipresent pull of impersonal, machine, secular and materialistic ice forces today that brings about sin," says Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches. Well, you can't exactly blame what Cain did to Abel on the machine age.

Denmark has scrapped its entire navy which amounted to two cruisers. Well, if two cruisers formed all the navy Uncle Sam possessed we would think it might as well be scrapped, too.

The mob which lynched two prisoners in the Marion, Ind., jail recently, was incited to a voilence by a few hot headed leaders. THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Every once in a while sees a new society or club or something on that order come into being. The latest thing on that order that we have heard of is the Panic Club. We've had several members here with us all the summer, but of late they seem to have taken on new life, and it isn't hard to get new members. No matter how well or how prosperous a guy may be feeling, just let a member of the Panic Club (possibly better known as the Belly-Achers Society or Hard Times Union) get to talk to him a few minutes, and nine times out of ten he'll be feeling so bad he'll join of his own free will and accord.

All you have to do to become a charter member is to let somebody convince you that we're all in an awful fix—and getting worse every day—that everything in the future looks dark, and that the world and all in it is going to the dogs, and always was. Some people believe like that, you know. We can't see it that way, but maybe that's the way it is. One thing we DO know—couldn't help noticing—when you see a guy who isn't a member, it's generally a man who is too busy waiting on his customers or scrambling for new business to be bothered with such things. And watch him—as long as he keeps that up he never will ecome a member of this or any other Panic Club. They don't fit in with such clubs.

We heard one of Clanton's ministers preach one of the greatest sermons anyone EVER preached, on last Saturday morning, the only bad thing about it being that he only had three listeners. Maybe he didn't call it a sermon, inasmuch as it was delivered to only three people in a store building instead of a church—but we did. We don't believe any sounder doctrine ever fell from the lips of a man than that set forth on this occasion. We will not try to tell it here, but will endeavor to get him to give the same message in his church at an early date—if we can secure his consent, we will announce it, giving occasion wide publicity so that we may give you ALL a chance to hear it. Watch for it!

Uncle John Gore takes the cake for figuring costs. When he opened up his "Little Fruit Store" he did it in the building formerly occupied by the "Little Paint Store." You will note that the two words, "Fruit" and "Paint," are exactly the same length, so all Uncle John had to do toward having his sign fixed up was to have "Paint" erased and "Fruit" painted in, instead. Pretty smart, Uncle John!

Lots of societies and clubs spend lots of their time worrying over the subject of "birth control." It seems to us like things mught be bettered if part of the energy devoted to this were turned toward control of those already born.

Heard a fellow bemoaning the hard times one day last week. Somebody asked him as to what he thought was the cause of such hard times. "Automobiles are one cause," he answered, right quick, "and until people run them under the shed we'll have hard times to some degree. There are too many of them being run. Until people quit using so many of them so regularly things will stay like they are." A few of the boys who were listening in tried to make an agreement with him to run them in under a shed if he would do likewise. "But I need mine every day in my business," he said. "And so do we," was the answer he got, along with the horse-laugh and the well-known "razberry."

That brings to mind the comment Mr. Askew had in last week's paper about the automobiles taking the money away from the community. Nope. We don't agree with him, cars aren't taking so much money away—there isn't any to take away. However, we couldn't say just how fast the gas bills are stacking up.

As this the last time the POT will be out before the city election, guess we'll have a parting word to say about that, too. As stated in the past, one must remember that this election is right here at home, and will have more bearing on your every-day life, if you are a resident of Clanton, than any election you will be called upon to take part in.

Therefore, instead of considering the city election lightly, the town's people should be more serious about it than any other. The officers to be selected next Monday are those who will have a more direct bearing on your close home life than any other, hence are more important, in a way, than any other.

Items of vital interest to your home life—your local taxes, your local licenses, water supply, fire protection, the schools your children attend—all of these enter into your selection of city officers. This makes it more important that they be more "hand-picked" than county, state, and national officers.

Therefore, from the array of good men in the race, your selection should not be made so much along personal or party lines as along lines which would best serve your "home" life. These men, the candidates, as a whole are all good men, so it really brings the question right down to YOU—to whom YOU had rather trust your local city government and its several departments which have such a direct bearing on your home life.

Clanton's baseball players are beginning to arrive home now. Broadus Connatser, of the Terre Haute, Ind., team is at home, and Jack Hayes, of the Washington Senators is expected in the next few days. Clanton is and should be proud of the records its sons are making in the sporting world.

Pretty soon, now, we'll all be knee deep in the World Series, that is, quite a few of us will. With everything pointing toward the Chicago "Cubs" and the Philadelphia "Athletics" for the second year in succession, the rivalry between these two great baseball teams and their respective fans is even greater than last year. A bunch of records were made and broken last year, and this year's big series promises to be of even greater interest than last.

And, right on the heels of baseball comes the real man's game—football. We haven't had time to get out and see any of the local high school team's workouts, but have heard that the Chilton "Tigers" have some likely talent for Coach Walker to work with. More power to 'em. We'd like to see Chilton well represented on the gridiron this fall.

Did you have any youngsters to start to school this time? Yeah! Well, don't gripe, you'll get over it. But, now, confidentially, don't you go and try to answer all the questions the little ones will be shooting at you. That's just one more little thing that looks easy, but isn't. In fact it can't be done.—"JACK."

We should think that 156-year-old Turk's one greatest reason for thankfulness would be that he never did anything in his youth for which they could have sent him up for life.—Ohio State Journal.

WHO ARE THE PROVINCIALS?

The summer institutes of government at Williamstown, Mass., and Charlottesville, Va., it will be noted, have been chiefly devoted to lusty knocking of everybody and everything American, and the praise of internationalism as contrasted with attachment to American interests.

C. Delisle Burns, professor of citizensship at the University of Glasgow and former British Minister of Construction, in an address at the University of Virginia summer institute of politics, lectured the American people on the desirability of studying history from an international rather than a national standpoint. History was being taught, he said, from the assumption that civilization was a local product. America he said, was one of the chief offenders in this respect.

Recetly an Oregon student who had received a scholarship for study abroad returned from a year's stay in England, where he was enrolled as a student in Bristol University. He went to England, he stated upon his return, for the purpose ofmajoring in American history. To his surprise he found, upon investigation, that the British university did not seem to know there was such a thing as American history. He was unable to find an institution in the United Kingdom where special courses in this subject were available.

On the other hand, English history is a subject in which courses are offered in nearly every American university, and even in many high schools. Yet a university pundit from Great Britan admonishes us that we are too nationalistic in our history teaching. We have within the borders of the United States more people of British descent, and more English speaking people, than Great Britain. Yet our history is not deemed of sufficient importance in the United States to justify more than casual attention to it in the land from whose soil so many of our people, so much of our civilization, sprang.

Millions of Americans, of course, have a national inferiority complex which causes them to swallow this sort of stuff cheerfully. If we were to export a covey of college professors to tell the British what a provincial, narrow lot they are, we would justly be accused of national arrogance and bad manners.

SOME AMERICAN OBSERVATION

Dr. Spinden, an American archaeologist, reminds us that the Maya Indians of Yucatan and Guatamala were well advanced in astronomy and architecture as far back as 500 B. C. Some day our tourists will be more interested in the ruins of these early Americans than in the monuments of ancient Egypt and Babylonia.

It has just been discovered that a certain Harvard professor who, for a long time has been eagerly and persistently urging the United States to join the League of Nations, etc., is on the payroll of the League at the modest salary of $600 a month.

Now that the agricultural situation has become acute, let us hope that the professional friends of the farmer will be willing to step aside temporarily, and allow the problem to be dealt with in a business way.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

I hear that a stove concern which manufactures and sells its products direct to the user, on small down payment and liberal terms, has this week unloaded their third carload of stoves in Clanton. Not so bad business for these hard times. Folks doubtless figure that they will continue to get something to eat right along. And they will need a stove to cook it on. And along comes an agent with a good stove and an attractive sales proposition, and the trade is made. But where is the local hardware merchant coming in on a deal of that kind?

There may be a Clanton Club at the University of Alabama this year. There will certainly be enough of our young men and women there to have one of they want it. I have been given the following as the list of those who went to the University from here this week: Lamar Calloway, Raymond Mims, Buster Foshee, Harris Hardy, Reese Mullins, Wm. Arthur Willis, Grover Harris, Jr., Archie Harris, Jr., Misses Myra and Elizabeth Johnson.

Broadus Connatser has returned to his home in Clanton after a most successful baseball season with the Terre Haute (Indiana) Club, of the Three Eye League. While holding down first base for Terre Haute, Connatser managed to make his mark right up at the top of the league in batting average. Some weeks ago he sustained an injured finger which put him out for the rest of the season. The management paid him off for the balance of the playing schedule and told him he could take the rest of it in a vacation. During the winter he will be with his uncle, Mr. W. W. Fox, in the hardware store. Next spring he will again report to his own club, New Orleans, in the Southern League.

J. Bart Jones, of Globe, Arizona, expects to return to his home in the next few weeks. He has been visiting relatives and friends in Chilton County for the past month or more. This summer is the first trip Mr. Jones has made back to Chilton County since he left here for the west more than twenty-five years ago.

Saw Harvey Foshee on the corner one day this week. He is now an officer at Kilby Prison in Montgomery. He was inquiring if we had an election or a primary or something in Chilton County recently. Wonder what he thought the big noise was about the 12th of last month. I am sure it could have been heard as far as Montgomery. Maybe they heard it but thought it was a distant earthquake, blasting, or something of that sort.

I hear some folks complaining because the matriculation fees of the Grammar School have been raised to $5.00. The trustees of course did not want to raise the fees, but it was regarded as the best way opn to provide a nine months school. The question is: Would you prefer to pay $3.50 and have eight months school; or to pay $5.00 and have nine months school? Then too, how can we have a school unless we pay for it?

"Where, oh where is my little dog gone?
Where, oh where can he be?
With his tail cut short and his ears cut long;
Where, oh where can he be?

Sausage is good, bologna of course;
Where, oh where can he be?
Some make it mit horse, some make it mit dog;
I guess they make it mit he."

In this song of other days, the Dutchman bemoaned the loss of his dog. This issue of The Union-Banner carries an ad for the lost dog of Mr. Culver. She is one of the poodle variety, and is pure white; her black eyes are expressive of delight or disappointment; name is Fluff. Four white pups with eyes barely opened miss the little mother that was stolen away from them. Mr. Grier Culver, who lives in the home directly in front of the Methodist Church, is the owner of Fluff. He offers a reward for return of the dog, or information that will to her recovery.

Clanton Kiwanis Club was well represented at the Alabama District Kiwanis Convention in Huntsville Monday and Tuesday. The following members of the local Club were at the Convention: John Hollis, Sam Powers, C. E. Stapp, H. G. Boyd, Raymond Smith.

WHAT ABOUT THE COUNTY FARM AGENT?

The Commissioner's Court of Chilton County will have an open meeting at the courthouse next Saturday afternoon, at which time they will hear any and all discussions that may come up on the subject of the county farm demonstration agent's work in Chilton County.

An invitation has been published by the Commissioners asking that all citizens of the county come to the meeting. It is further requested that all who come express themselves for or against the county agent work, according to the way they believe and feel about it.

Now, this meeting is, therefore, going to bring before the people of Chilton County, a question of the greatest importance; a question that must be carefully weighed and considered, lest, in disposing of the same, a great injury be unwittingly committed upon those citizens of our county who have found profit for themselves and their business through the county farm demonstration work.

We suppose there are some people in the county who will attempt to argue against the farm agent's work. Just how and where they expect to establish a reasonable basis for such argument, we are unable to foretell.

There are doubtless some people who can truthfully say that the farm agent work is not doing them any good. The reason it is not doing them any good is because they are not taking advantage of the opportunities that are offered them through this work.

Perhaps there are some farmers who do not need the help of a county agent. They are very few. Usually the fellow who needs it most and who would get the most benefits from it is the fellow who will have none of it, and who is ready to say that our county ought to discontinue it.

Is the farm situation in Chilton County as good as it ought to be or as good as it could be? Are our farmers doing the best they can with their business? Do they need helpful, sound, correct advice about their business and their farm operations?

It is the opinion of The Union-Banner that the farmers of Chilton County can not afford to be without the service, the help, the advice, that comes to them through the county agent.

To stop the county agent work would mean the greatest loss that has ever befallen our county. To stop it would be placing Chilton County more than a decade backward in the line of progress.

We can not believe there is any serious notion among the thinking, progressive people of our county in favor of discontinuing the work of the county agent.

But regardless of what a man thinks or believes about it, every one should have a right to express his opinions. Therefore we await the mass meeting next Saturday with the hope that the right action will be taken and that the best thing for our county will be done.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

TRIUMPHS OF THE GOSPEL IN THE EARLY CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Paul leaves Corinth for a time. He passes by Cenchrea on the way to Ephesus. The inspired record is that he had his hair shorn in Cenchrea. We wonder why. His great object in this was to show and to teach us today and those people at that time that there isn't any outward act or manner that makes the Christian life and causes one to be separated entirely to the services of the Lord. Paul, like a good many others of his time, was a Nazarite. That is, he took a solemn vow to be separated to God's service and as an evidence of this his hair was shorn and never worn long. He reaches Cenchrea and has his hair so cut.

This act was very simple and yet of great importance because it no doubt was done in obedience to the supernatural agency the third person of the adorable Trinity called the Holy Spirit. Really the Acts in which we find this record is the Acts not of the apostles but the Acts of the Holy Spirit. In all the missionary journeys of the apostles Paul even from the time of his conversion near Damascus until his head was severed from his body out there on the Appian Highway we find that his great purpose was to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ and make Jesus Christ known to a lost world without Him. We find him in implicit obedience to the Holy Spirit going into heathen cities because the morning light was to penetrate the great darkness and burst forth in splendor and its influence to go out calmly and quietly and prayerfully.

You find Paul in Antioch in Syria which is rightly called the capital of the Gentile church. It was from this place Paul and Barnabas were sent forth to preach to the Gentile world about Jesus of Jerusalem, Jesus of Calvary, Jesus of Olivet. They go out and then come back there to again tell about Jesus in all His love and watchful care over His own. Another great scene was either at Antioch in Pisidia or Iconium or Lystra, the last named is where Paul met Timothy of whom he writes in one of his letters that he can trust. What a great tribute to Timothy that Paul could trust him along with Luke, Silas, Barnabas and others. O to be trusted with this great privilege to tell others about Jesus Christ. O to be trusted in spreading the Gospel of the kingdom of Christ as Timothy was.

You ind him at Ephesus where he enters the synagogue and reasons with the Jews. Many desired and no doubt insisted that he tarry longer there but Paul would go farther. He was really on his way to Jerusaem to the feast. He goes to Athens in his missionary exploits. Athens was a great center of fine arts, culture, education. By the way, in passing I must teli you that after visiting there it seems very clear that Athens is to be the center of the spread of the Christianity in the far East, the center from which the light of Jesus Christ is to go out to souls benighted by ignorance, sin.

Paul then goes on into Ephesus, where as we have already seen him, fearless and brave in preaching the Gospel to the church. There with an audience of Jews one can imagine hearing Paul reason out of the Bible on the great subject of the kingdom of God which is Christ Jesus Himself, the Lord of lords and King of kings. This morning, dear friends, I ask you with all the seriousness of a dying man to a dying man, "Is this blessed Christ in your heart to rule it and to change it from a heart of stone to one of gentle and kind compassion? This time Paul remained in Ephesus for a period of three months, as we read, 'disputing and persuading the things concerning the kingdom of God.'"

After this great and long discourse about God's kingdom by Paul we find him as given in the 19th chapter of the Acts, in the school of Tyrannus disputing on this same subject of Jesus Christ. This Paul did for two years giving the word of God in a complete circuit throughout all Asia to both Jews and Greeks. This made a great impress upon Ephesus the great center of idolatry, worldiness, graft, superstition. It was there the goddess Diana was erected and worshipped by the Ephesians and no doubt many from the surrounding country of Ephesus. Now Paul went forth through Macedonia and Achaia on his way to Jerusalem. He sent Timotheus and Erastus into Macedonia first however while he tarried a little longer in Asia. While preaching there a man appeared on the scene. His name was Demetrius and he was the silversmith of Ephesus making toy images of the goddess Diana and selling them to the people as ornaments for this mantels or some other conspicuous place in their homes. That certainly displayed their spirit of worship for their idol goddess Diana.

Demetrius felt that he was ruined now in his business of making and selling images of Diana. He called together all workmen of that craft and adressed them in such words as these, "This man Paul hath impressed Ephesus that there is only one God, and there be no gods made with hands," meaning to say that they could no longer be able to sell their images, "So that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at naught, but also that the temple of the great goddess, Diana, will be destroyed and despised and this is just too much because she has long been worshipped by all Asia and the world."

That is, the Gospel of Jesus Christ had touched the selfishness and pockets of those men. You notice this is invarably true that when the Gospel of Jesus Christ touches the selfishness and pockets of a man's life he at once begins to complain. Demetrius' own selfish life and his pocket had been sorely touched, and he cried out, "He speaks saying that there is only one God." O, my friend, just one God. Holy, holy, holy is the Lord. O magnify the Lord with me. Let us exalt His name together. Let us be fearful in praises for the Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad Let us exalt this one God who created the heavens and the earth and who holds winds in his fists. He is the one who holds the sun and moon and stars in place and gives us their great light. He cloths the grass of the fields which today is and tomorrow is cast into the oven. He it is who paints the lilies and the roses and numbers even each hair of our heads.

Even though Ephesus was a great place in the worship of the heathen goddess, Diana, we find that it must also have been a great place, a wonderful place in the spread of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Certainly it had a wonderful result in that place. It was a pace where John the beloved disciple was pastor of the church for a number of years. It was there he wrote 1st, 2nd, and 3rd ohn and the Gospel according to John. It was no doubt the place from whence he went to heaven after a goodly service to Jesus Christ whom he loved so well. It was one of the seven churches to which our Lord sent messages by this John in obedience to the vision of God on the Aegean seashore. Remember that in the missionary efforts of both John and Paul there was the power of great prayer lives. It takes a prayer life at the back of the Gospel to make it effective. If we have this prayer life we too can look up and thank our gracious heavenly father that "if God be for us, who can be against us?"

IN MEMORY

A very sad occurence happened on September 1, when little James Smith, the 9-months old son of Miss Birdie Thomas was called to that beautiful home above.

Little James had been sick only a few days with pneumonia. We feel that all attention and medical aid that loving hands could render was administered unto him but to no avail. He was laid to rest at Chestnutt Creek cemetery Sephtember 2, Brother Ezell in charge.

Left to mourn his loss are his mother, grandfather, grandmother, and a host of friends and close relatives. We know that the power of God is the source of all happiness and all sorrow, and through Him only can you comfort.

Weep not dear mother, for little Jomes has gone to that beautiful home whese there is no sorrow nor tears. We loved him, yes we loved him, but Jesus loved him more, and He sweetly called him to yonder shining shore.

MINERAL SPRINGS NEWS

We had a fine sermon at the home of Mr. J. L. Peters last Saturday night, by Brother Wiley Davis. His text was, "Though ye be dead, yet shall ye live." Everybody enjoyed the meeting fine.

All of Mr. Peter's children were at home that day, and it was sad that they were to part for a while. Two of them were from Texas, Mrs. Ethel Bolton and Mr. Dick Peters. They left Monday morning for Charlotte, Texas to visit their grandfather and relations. They said if times were good they would stay; if not they would return to Chilton County again.

Mrs. Sophie Peters received the sad news from Texas last Saturday of the death of her nephew, Edgar Favor. He committed suicide by shooting himself with a .22 through the head. He left a note saying he was tired of living. He was the son of Doshie Jones and a grandson of Mrs. Sallie Favor. He was 19 years old.

Dr. Jas. A. Edwards and family visited his parents Labor Day. The doctor and his son visited the Coosa River and brought back a few fish.

September 2 B. C. Veazey killed a large snake. It had 16 rattles.

The farmers are busy gathering their crops.

The low price of cotton will save many bills from being marked paid.

Lately I have received 2 letters from Rube Latham. He left this county in 1898 and went to Texas. He has a nice level farm, 160 acres, and says it made 70 bales of cotton in 1926, 62 in 1927, 45 in 1928 and last year he only made 8 bales, and this year his cotton is only 6 or 8 inches high and no good. And a lot of cotton had not come up yet, and that many peope were near starvation. He says he would cut his corn down and try to save feed, if he could get something to eat. People are moving anywhere to get work to do. It seems that it is pretty tough times around Hamilton, Texas as well as other parts of the world.

Questions are, are we nearing the great time of trouble?—Daniel. What about 5 chapters of James? Should all people be glad to see the fulfillment of prophecy? We surely could not be glad to see the people in distress. What can man or nations do to hinder prophecy from being fulfilled?—J. C. Edwards.

Hard-Soft Large-Small CORNS

Out To Stay Out--Roots and All
Magic Oxygen Salts Bath Never Fails
No More Burning Aching Feet

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a delightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox footbath for 3 or 4 nights—then lift corns and callouses right out—roots and all and they won't come back either unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging is required because Radox liberates oxygen that softens hard outer layers of corns, each night penetrating the pores further and further, carrying the salts right to the root of corns which are so loosened they can be lifted out bodily.

Your feet are made strong—healthy—vigorous — hard skin on heels and toes goes also.

Alred Drug Company and all good drug stores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't insist upon them ordering if you want to experience great foot-joy and comfort.

CHEVROLET SALES INCREASE

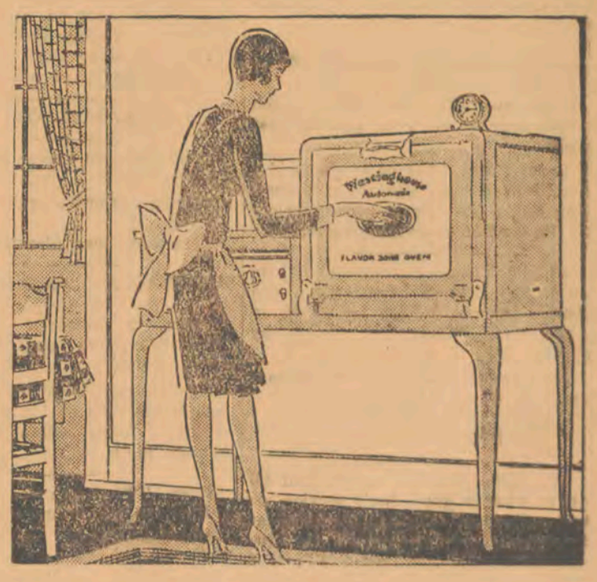
Detroit, Mich., Sept. 8.—Definite signs of immediate improvement in the low priced automotive field were noted by J. C. Chick, assistant general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, during a recent field survey which brought him into contact with every major marketing area east of the Missisippi.

Sales are picking up. Stocks are in satisfactory shape. And the relation of new to used car stocks is in decidedly better proportion than in 1929.

"Perhaps the most noteworthy sign, however, is the confident attitude voiced by business leaders I spoke with during the trip," Mr Chick said. "Merchants, bankers, professional men everywhere seem to feel sure of an improved fall and winter, and such opinions are a reflection of the attitude of that part of the public which those men deal with. If, as has been said repeatedly, the recession this year was mainly psychological, then we may expect an early return of new record months, for the public is looking to the future with confidence, where a few months ago it looked with a certain amount of hesitancy.

"The best proof of this attitude is provided by the sales chart. In the Carolines and extreme Southeast, which I visited just before the middle of the month, our sales for the first days of August were above the same period in July.

"Throughout my territory, sales today as against the same period last year are comparatively better than they have been at any time in 1930.



"Our recent announcement of a wider variety of colors, the $40 reduction on all sport models, and wire wheels furnished without additional cost are factors which will tend to aid sales in the late summer and fall But the major factor is that changed public attitude—the replacing of hesitancy by confidence."

Sam Edwards, candidate for County Commissiones on the Democratic ticket, was a visitor to Clanton Monday. Mr. Edwards is opposed by Uncle Jim Mims, nominee of the Republiian party.

We are back in our old location in the Johnson Building next to Alred Drug Co.

MAKING IT HOT

Tillie—"But, Mother, I can't marry him. He's an atheist, and doesn't believe there is a hell."

Mother—"Go ahead and marry him, dear, and between us we'll convince him he's wrong."

THAT'S ONE ON MR. BANDIT

Lazarus—"Did you lose much when your store was robbed last night?"

Levy—"Ha! Not as much as if I had been robbed the night before. You see, I just marked down prices 20 per cent on everything yesterday."

A Scotch traveling salesman, held up in the Orkney Islands by a bad storm, telegraphed to his firm in Aberdeen: "Marooned here by storm. Wire instructions."

The reply came: "Start summer vacation as from yesterday."

PILGRIM'S REST

Will drop in a line to tell you all about what a good day's service we had yesterday. We had baptizing at 9 o'clock; Sunday School at 10; preaching at 11; and singing from 2 until 4; and B. Y. P. U. at 6:30.

Therefore, we had a full day of service, and best of all a splendid spirit seemed to prevail throughout the day. We want to publicly express our thanks to the good singers from Liberty Church for being with us, and the splendid songs rendered by the quartette band. Also the two beautiful duets rendered by the Misses Chambers. Prof. Lowery also directed three songs and several home directors sang two songs each.

The organists were Mrs. Earl Williams, from Liberty, and Mrs. W. H. Ousley from Bethel Church.

Every body seemed to enjoy the day and we hope to have another day like it some time in the near future.

SHRUNK IN HER ESTIMATION

Mr. Pewee—"Why did you get me such big shirts? These are four sizes too large for me."

His Wife—"They cost just the same as your size, and I wasn't going to let a strange clerk know I married such a little shrimp as you."

LOOK PEDDLERS

THORSBY PUBLIC SCHOOL

In order to relieve the congested condition at Thorsby Public School, Prof. Bean announces that arrangements have been made for the ninth grade students to take their work at Thorsby Institute, which will allow him to arrange the work at the Public School so that each teacher will have charge of one grade.

LABOR LOST

"Why did you leave your last position?"

"There was no future in it."

"Why?"

"The boss was already married."

SHE WAS A TOOTHSOME GIRL

Clara (a dentist's daughter)—"Well, dear have you asked dad for my hand yet?"

Henry (very bushful)—"No. Every time I step in his office I lose courage. Today I allowed him to pul another tooth.

Boss—"What are you two doing, walking so slowly up those stairs?"

Midnite—"We's workin', boss. We's carryin' dis desk up stairs."

Boss—"I don't see any desk."

Midnite—"Fo' d' Lord's sake, Carbon, we dun forgit de desk!"

THAT'S EASY

Little Jean, who was driving thru the country with her uncle, clamored to be taken back to the city, claiming that there was nothing to see in the country.

"Why," said her uncle when trying to attract her attention, "see all the pretty cows over in the pasture, and they can't hurt you because there is the fence around them."

Jean was silent a moment and then expressed her skepticism. "Huh," she said. "A cow jumped over the moon once, so I don't see why it couldn' jump over a fence!"

DAD MISSED THE POINT

"John—It's positively shameful the way Junior talks. I just heard him say, "I ain't never went nowhere'."

"Shameful? Why, he has traveled twice as much as most boys of his age!"

"I hear zoologists have found a lamb in South America that can run 40 miles an hour."

"That's the only kind of lamb that could keep up with Mary nowadays."

RADICAL CHANGES TRANSFORM BANKING

National Commission Sees Changing Opinion on Branch Banking Issue—Studies Group and Chain Banks.

NEW YORK.—Modification of the attitude of bankers on the long disputed branch banking question is forecast in a review and report covering rapid changes going on in banking issued here by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. The report, however, after referring to recent proposals that national banks be given branch banking powers within the business territory surrounding their location, declares that "we do not believe that so-called 'trade-area' branch banking is likely to gain the support of any large percentage of the banking fraternity."

The commission says that the "most important development that has affected American banking in recent years involves the rapid growth of multiple banking organizations in the form of group, chain and branch banking systems," and adds that "we present this report as an unprejudiced economic study and have no theories or policies to urge at this time." The statement says that the commission's information indicates there are now 269 group or chain bank systems, which control 1922 banks and $15,285,000,000 in aggregate resources, and that there are only six states and the District of Columbia where it does not find any group organizations.

The Commission's Investigation

"We have been in touch with the managers of many important bank groups," the report says. "Aside from the obvious economies of centralized operation and control a number of these organization heads very frankly tell us that they do not feel that the system has been in operation and tested long enough to justify them in making positive or sweeping statements as to its advantages or disadvantages compared to unit banking.

"The Banking and Currency Committee of the House, which is conducting an investigation into banking developments, has called a number of operating heads of some of the great group systems. These men declared that they found, under certain conditions, definite operating and economic advantage in both group and branch banking over independent unit banking. Some thought group banking was only a transitional stage, that branch banking was preferable and if it were permitted on an extensive enough scale they would change their groups over to branch systems. Others held that group banking was preferable.

"Some held that the ideal plan was a combination of the two with group bank units for localities strong enough to support complete banking institutions and with branch offices extending further into the smaller places requiring banking services but not large enough to support complete banks. Several of these who advocated multiple banking declared that nevertheless they believed there would always be room for vigorous independent unit bank competitors.

Government Officials Express Views

"The Comptroller of the Currency recommended that national banks be given branch banking powers within 'trade-areas.' The Governor of the Federal Reserve Board appeared to be in general agreement with the Comptroller. He said there were 24,645 banks and 3,547 branches, a total of 28,192 banking offices; that in this total, 6,353 offices were either branches or bank members of groups, or both, leaving 21,839 banking institutions that might be definitely termed independent unit banks, having no branches and in no way connected with group affiliations. He said all the banks had total loans and investments of $58,500,000,000, of which the group and branch systems held $30,000,000,000, or more than half.

"He opposed nation-wide branch banking at present but said that ultimately if bankers became trained and experienced in the larger technique of 'trade-area' banking he thought it would in time evolve nation-wide branch banking under control of relatively few banks, but he did not believe this would mean monopoly or lack of competition. He favored branch over group banking which, however, he said represented an economic development along 'trade-area' lines and would spread unless something else were substituted and thought 'trade-area' branch banking would serve this purpose.

"It is the intention of the Commission to develop its own studies in these questions, watch carefully every move that is made and every bit of information that may develop in this connection and keep itself prepared to give an unbiased and accurate statement of the facts of the case whenever that is desired," the report concludes.

Federal Reserve Pays Government

In the fifteen years since its establishment in 1914, aggregate net earnings of the Federal Reserve System's twelve regional banks have amounted to $515,216,000, of which $90,672,000 has been paid to the member banks as dividends, representing 6 per cent annually on their contributions of capital to the reserve banks, while $277,434,000 has been added to the surplus of the reserve banks and $147,110,000 has been paid over to the Federal Government as a franchise tax.

Mrs. Mat Mims returned last week from a visit to friends and relatives in Birmingham.

Electrical Treatment of Soil of Little Value

There is a great difference of opinion among agricultural scientists as to the value of electricity in the cultivation of various food crops. Many English authorities claim that grain and some garden produce is quite materially speeded up so far as growth is concerned and the quality improved, by a current of electricity passing between the ground and a network of wires suspended above the growing crops. A Finland farmer reports an increase of 50 per cent in the amount of produce and grain grown in this manner. The United States Agricultural department has been experimenting with the subject for years and the final conclusion is that no benefit or at least very little has resulted from the electrical treatment of the soil. In fact it was noticed that a slightly prolonged exposure resulted in killing the seed placed in the ground. This conclusion is agreed in by some other authorities so that the preponderance of opinion is that the electrical treatment of soil is without result.—Exchange.

Foreman of New Mexico Jury Was Magnanimous

The defendant was charged with murder in the first degree. He had been tried and convicted by a jury of 12 men.

As provided under the laws of the state of New Mexico, the jury was polled. Of the dozen citizens composing that august body only one had a knowledge of the English language. He had been elected foreman.

To the question, "Is this your individual verdict?" the foreman's reply was an emphatic "Yes, sir." The eleven others, upon being asked the same question, answered "Si, senor." Immediately after the last "Si, senor" had been recorded the foreman arose and addressed the judge. "In the interests of harmony," said the foreman, "and to make this verdict unanimous, I desire to change my vote from 'Yes, sir' to 'Si, senor.'"

Woman's Long Fast

When Madame Hanaux a short time ago completed her hunger strike of 28 days in a French prison, Scotland came forward with the assertion that the feat was by no means a record, and that it had been exceeded several times in Scotland. It cited a case in 1772 which became known as "Pennant's Fasting Woman of Ross-shire," from the fact that Pennant described it in his "Tour of Scotland." Katharine McLeod, aged thirty-five, was attacked with a fever, which occasioned partial blindness, and almost total inability to take food. Her parents sometimes put a little into her mouth, but for a year and three-quarters they had no evidence that either food or drink passed her lips. By forcibly opening her mouth and depressing her tongue, they tried to compel the passage of food, but a suffocating constriction led them to desist.

When Mind Works Best

Have you ever tried to terminate at what time of day your mind works best? A scientific test with office workers indicates it is the second hour of the morning. Many nervous persons find to their dismay that their brain is most active when they are trying to go to sleep. Probably only a few have the experience of Sir Walter Scott, the novelist, whose observations on the subject are republished in the Golden Book.

"The half hour between waking and rising has all my life proved propitious to any task which was exercising my invention," Scott wrote. "When I get over any knotty difficulty in a story, or have had to fill up a passage in a poem, it was always when I first opened my eyes that the desired ideas thronged to me."

His Remuneration

The well-known Mr. Williams, author and cartoonist, would have been delighted with a view of juvenile ambition, and to some extent of capitalistic oppression on State street recently.

Cleaning the sidewalk outside a candy store on the corner of State and Hancock streets, a youngster, hardly out of the stage of natural bowed legs, was sweeping with a broom, so large in comparison with him, that he scarcely reached above the brush.

"How much are you getting?" said a passerby.

"An ice cream cone," lisped the sweeper.—Springfield Union.

Salt Tax Is Old One

Modern Europe, it is commonly believed, inherited the salt tax from the Orient, or possibly from the Venetians who became noted makers and vendors of the sea-born commodity. France had vast natural stores of it, and was among the first nations of the western world to tax it. That resented impost, the gabelle du sel, or tribute of salt, was one of the causes of the French revolution, so heavily did the peasant have to pay the kings for a little seasoning in his pot.

Too Careless

Mary Emma noticed that her older sister was thinking profoundly, and asked what was the matter.

"Oh, I can't remember where the Appalachians are," her sister replied.

"Well," said Mary Emma with great dignity, "that's just what you get for misplacing things."

Daisel Mims of Birmingham spent a few days of this week here.

MRS. SIMS WILL TEACH KINDERGARTEN TO BEGIN MONDAY

Mrs. Mary Nell Simms will begin a kindergarten next Monday morning, September 15th, at the home of L. D. Easterling in front of the Clanton Baptist Church. All students bring a chair. School will open at 9:00 o'clock.

There are 234,000 people idle in New York City according to census returns. With nearly all theatres closed, the greater number of the 234,000 are probably chorus girls.

His Alibi

Billy, age seven, had acquired the habit of biting his little playmates as a means of self-defense, and offense. His mother had related the last violation of social etiquette to his father and had asked that he talk with Billy and do something about it.

So father said: "Billy, don't you know that you must not bite people? We have talked about this before. You simply must learn that you can not bite people."

"Yes, I know that," said Billy. "I know that I should not bite Harry. But, you see, when I get mad, I get so absent-minded that I cannot remember what I am supposed not to do. I only think about what I want to do."

All but Twelve

Harry was very ill. The doctor who had been called was interested in finding the cause of the illness.

"What have you been eating?" he asked.

"Oh, a few apples; they don't hurt anybody," said the boy.

"Were they green?" asked the doctor.

"Some of them."

"How many green apples can a boy eight years old eat?"

"They weren't all green—exactly green. Only two of them were green; the other twelve were rather ripe. Two green apples wouldn't hurt anybody," he insisted.

FOOTBALL INTEREST SHOWN AT CHILTON HIGH SCHOOL

Chilton County High gridders reported for football about 30 strong Monday. The spirit and enthusiasm ran high with the outlook of a strong aggregation under the direction of Coach T. H. Walker. The gridders are looking forward to an enjoyable and succesful year.

Facing the problem of replacement of strong experienced players the outlook would seem dark, but filling the gaps will be under way soon and the problem of who is best suited will be around the corner in the near future.

The Town of Clanton is beginning to respond with an interest so necassary to a clean and wholesome past time, and it is hoped every one will fall in line and boost their team and school as never before.

CLANTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL

The enrollment Monday a. m., was 260, and regular school work began Tuesday.

All children who are six years of age on or begore October 1st, must enroll during the first two weeks of school. Parents, with children in first grade will please note this fact and all parents see that the incidental fees are paid this week at Alred Drug Company.

Public school music and art appreciatoin have been added to the curriculem this year with Miss Morris as teacher.

The P.-T. A. meets Friday p. m., at 2:30. All parents are urged to be present.

Miss Cleo Broadhead underwent an operation at St. Vincent's Hospital in Birmingham Tuesday.

It is said that Mr. Rascob may take charge of Warner Brothers. Does this mean that he is through with Al Smith.

RAPID GROWTH IN RAISING TURKEYS

Fowls Utilize Areas of Otherwise Profitless Land.

The turkey industry has made a rapid growth in Idaho in recent years, says Pren Moore, extension poultry specialist with the University of Idaho college of agriculture. It has grown since 1922, when turkeys were rather insignificant in volume, until now it has become an important industry in point of volume. The bulk of the original stock was small and of poor quality. There was very little native stock at that time which was suitable for breeding purposes. There were a few breeders in the state who had been importing good breeding stock, but the general average was of inferior quality.

The increased volume soon attracted the large produce dealers, who began bidding for the business. Grades, conforming to those in general use throughout the country, were applied. Not until then did the growers realize the value of breeding to improve the quality of the stock. The few good local breeders were unable to supply the demand for better breeding stock. Breeding stock was imported on a large scale. Some of it was of high quality while much was inferior, but most of it was an improvement over the average of the native stock. Improvement was rapid, which developed a rapidly growing interest in turkey breeding as an enterprise.

Demand for better breeding stock led to a system of accreditation similar to that attaining such success in the poultry business. The popularity of this accreditation work in turkey raising, says Mr. Moore, is apparent from the growing demand for the service.

Investigate Cod Liver Oil for Laying Fowls

The summary of experiments in England with cod liver oil for laying hens, says:

(1) Fowls not confined in open-fronted houses do not require cod liver oil to prevent adult rickets.

(2) Fowls confined behind ordinary glass require some adequate source of vitamine D.

(3) The cod liver oil mixed to the extent of 2 per cent of the grain feed supplied the vitamine D requirements of the fowls under experiment.

(4) One per cent of medical cod liver old in the scratch feed may not be sufficient to meet the requirements of layers confined behind window glass. The source of oil used may be a factor.

(5) It is not possible to state if cod liver oil is beneficial to fowls not confined or in open-fronted pens getting a normal ration that includes green food.

Best Plan to Separate Cockerels and Pullets

It will pay to separate young cockerels from the pullets when eight to ten weeks of age. This will give the pullets a chance for better development and enable the poultryman to force the cockerels for market. Time and labor will be saved by hopper-feeding the grain to the growing chicks after five weeks of age. Put the grain and mash hoppers out on the range and induce a maximum of exercise. This keeps the chicks out in the sunshine for vigor and vitality in the young stock.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING HERE FRIDAY

A county-wide Sunday School conference will be held at the Clanton Baptist church Friday afternoon and evening of this week, at 3:30 and 7:30 o'clock.

This is for all Sunday School workers, and especially for the Intermediate workers. Miss Alice Biby of Nashville, and Mrs. Davis Cooper, Jr., of Montgomery will be present to direct the conference. We are also expecting Mr. Davis Cooper, our present. We hope all our Sunday State Educational Director, to be School folks will be present.

Two of a Kind

Thomas Hardy was once dining with Gen. Sir Redvers Buller of Boer war memory, when the subject arose of social blunders. Buller described what he called a "double-barreled" one of his own, says Mrs. Florence Emily Hardy in "The Later Years of Thomas Hardy." He inquired of a lady next him at dinner who a certain gentleman was, "like a hippopotamus," sitting opposite them. He was the lady's husband.

Buller was so depressed by the disaster that had befallen him that he could not get it off his mind. Hence at a dinner the next evening he sought the condolences of an elderly lady, to whom he related his misfortune. And remembered when he had told the story that his listener was the gentleman's mother!

Pretty Roofs in Norway

Perhaps the roof over one's head has something to do with the happiness and love in the home beneath it. The American shingles were appropriate for the pioneer, the English slates practical, the tiles of Latin countries cool and picturesque, but even better is the old straw thatch laid on sometimes to a depth of two feet. However, of homes in country places Norway has the loveliest roofs of all. Sod is used for a thatch there, and after a season or two the entire housetop is a meadow of grass and wild flowers, on which young goats may often be seen feeding, and where butterflies and honey-bees always hover.

Gob Forbidden to Whistle

A gob can sing his head off if he cares to, but he must keep his whistle in his pocket. Whistling has never been permitted in the navy. This prohibition is not designed to repress one of nature's elementary means of expressing joy, or boosting one's courage, but is forbidden because it might be confused with the bo's'n's pipe at a distance or below decks. In former days at sea sails were handled and much work accomplished by means of calls with the bo's'n's pipe, the boatswain's badge of office.

Elementary

"My boy," said the business man to his son, "there are two things that are vitally necessary if you are to succeed in business."

"What are they, dad?"

"Honesty and sagacity."

"What is honesty?"

"Always—no matter what happens, nor how adversely it may affect you—always keep your word once you have given it."

"And sagacity?"

"Never give it."

DELOS CULP COMPLETES RADIO COURSE

Mr. Delos Culp, R. F. D. No. 7, Clanton, Ala., has completed his course in practical and theoretical radio and has been awarded a diploma by the National Radio Institute of Washington, D. C. He finished the prescribed course of technical studies with creditable grades, and is to be congratulated upon his achievement. His training covered all branches of radio including, receivers, transmitters, public address systems, the latest developments in A. C. circuits and screen grid tubes, television and talking movies. Special emphasis was given to the design, construction, installation and service of radio receiving sets.

PRELIMINARY REPORT ON MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE FOR ALABAMA, YEAR 1929

Washington, D. C., Sept 9.—The Department of Commerce announces that, according to the returns received, there were 29,430 marriages performed in Alabama during the year 1929, as compared with 28,853 in 1928, representing an increase of 577 or 0..2 per cent. In 1916, there were 25,453 marriages performed.

During the year 1929 there were 3,589 divorces granted in the state, as compared with 3,817 in 1928, representing a decrease of 228 or 6.0 per cent. In 1916 there were 2,265 divorces granted. There were ten marriages annuled in 1929 as compared with 11 in 1928.

The estimated population of the State of Alabama on July 1, 1929, was 2,537,000 and on July 1, 1928 2,573,000. On the basis of these estimates, the number of marriages per 1,000 of the population was 11.3 1929, as against 11.2 in 1928; and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 1.38 in 1929, as against 1.48 in 1928.

The number of marriages performed and the number of divorces granted were furnished by the State Board of Health. The figures for 1929 are preliminary and subject to correction. Following is how Chilton County stands:

Chilton: Marriages in 1929, 283; in 1928, 288. Divorces in 1929, 19; in 1928, 29. Annulments in 1929, 1; in 1928, 0.

Popular Medicines on Sale in Mexico City

Although clinics are opening everywhere throughout Mexico City every market still has its stalls where popular medicines are sold. There are flowers called "the Hands of God" which are put in alcohol, and the alcohol is then rubbed on the chest for heart trouble. They are the size of a small child's hands, a bright red, ghastly in their actual resemblance to a long, thin, human hand, even to the four fingers and short thumb, all of which have little tips like finger nails. On the back of the hand, which is bent and clutching in shape, there is a bony outline which bears the pollen. The flower comes out of five thick green leaves shaped like a tulip. It is beautiful, but very sinister.

Another mild medicine which is very popular is tea brewed from the leaves of the orange tree. It is said to be good for the nerves.

The counters of the medicine stalls are piled with dried bones of all kinds, strings of vertebrae, antlers of deer, the shells of turtles, dried starfish and anemones, pits and seeds of fruits, and herbs and dried flowers of every description. The flowers are spread out on the roofs to dry, much as our grandmothers spread out sweet clover to make pillows for the linen chests. —New York Times.

Writer's Closing Hours Soothed by Scriptures

Sir Walter Scott died September 21, 1834, at Abbotsford on the Tweed. The health of the poet and novelist had been on the decline for several months before his death. Several weeks before he breathed his last he seemed to be getting better. One morning, says John Gibson Lockhard, who was Scott's biographer and son-in-law, "after again enjoying the bath chair for perhaps a couple of hours out of doors, he desired to be drawn into the library, and placed by the central window, that he might look down upon the Tweed. Here he expressed a wish that I should read to him, and when I asked from what book, he said—'Need you ask? There is but one.' I chose the 14th chapter of St. John's gospel; he listened with mild devotion, and said when I had done—'Well, this is a great comfort. I have followed you distinctly, and I feel as if I were yet to be myself again.'" The first two verses of the chaper read to Sir Walter are as follows: "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

IN MEMORY OF CLIFTON CRANE

On Monday about one o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. J. C. Crane and took away from them their beloved husband and father, to his happy home in the great beyond. He suffered only a short while from an automobile accident which happened last Sunday, August 31. He died at the Central Alabama Hospital. All was done that human hands could do for him but God knew best and took his soul home to sweet rest, where there will be no more sorrow or pain.

Weep not dear father and mother for the son that has gone on before for God has prepared him a home on that bright and shining shore. God giveth and God taketh and he knoweth what is best from our homes and our hands. He taketh our loved ones home to rest. Some day in the future, we know not where and we know not when, God will summon us to leave this world of sin, if we have obeyed him. He will claim us for his own, we shall rejoice with our loved ones around the throne. You don't know what a father's love really means until you have seen him put away. It is first a vision so it seems, but my dear friends he has gone to stay. Not until then will you appreciate that dear old soul, but then it will be too late, for he will be safe within the fold. We miss him, oh! we miss him but God has called him away, but we are praying to meet him in the better land some day. His chair is vacant, his voice is still a heart is broken that can never be filled. To know him was to love him, but he has gone forever to a better land, where there is no suffering nor sorrow, he is now with the angel band. In that land of the beautiful tomorrow, he has gone to the land of the blest, to dwell with the angels forevermore. He is safe in the haven of rest. With God on that beatuful shore weep not dear friends and loved ones of the lost one, for he is standing at the golden gate with an outstreched hand, bidding us to come and live with him in the promised land. His body was laid to rest in the Antioch cemetery, with Rev. J. H. Lembrick in charge. He left us, he left us, yes forevermore but we hope to meet our loved one on that bright and happy shore.—Lola Smith.

Mrs. Sam Powers went to Birmingham Sunday night to spend a few days with relatives and friends.

THE FAMILY NEXT DOOR

STATEMENT FROM LOCAL FOURSQUARE CHURCH

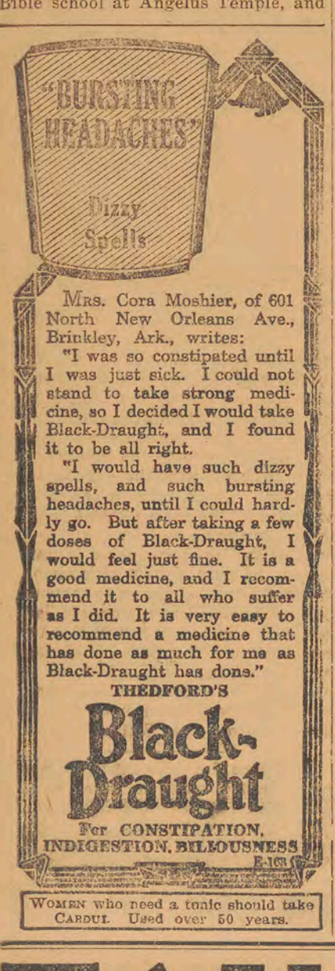
To whom it may concern:

The pastor and members of the local Foursquare Church have been literally swamped with inquiries regarding the true status of affairs at Angelus Temple, the mother church of this church, at Los Angeles, inasmuch as so much has been said and published regarding the matter. The local church has asked that the following be published, which, we hope, will clear up the situation in the minds of all. Meanwhile, the local church, in its entirety, wishes it known that it gives to Aimee Semple McPherson, founder and president of Angelus Temple, its wholehearted support in regard to the matter in question.—Foursquare Church of Clanton.

Dean Makes Statement

Harriet A. Jordan, Dean of the Bible school at Angelus Temple, and first hand helper to Mrs. McPherson, makes the following statement:

Last spring, before Sister went to the Holy Land, those who knew her best were very troubled as to her physical condition; she was even then going beyond her strength. We had hoped that the trip to the Holy Land would rest her, but it too, required great responsibility in that she had the responsibility of the party and also the worry of Roberta's illness, besides writing many articles and making many plans.



Upon her return she again entered into the work. She spoke twenty-two times the first week she was home. She had written some chapters on a book on the Holy Spirit and wanted to finish the others before school commenced. With this in view she made arrangements, together with the Foursquare Council, for Dr. Holzer to carry on while she took a short vacation. It was after she went away and had written several days on her book that this great collapse came, while she was seated at her typewriter.

Sister has lost weight, is unable to talk with her usual strength, has collapsed time and again into delirum and has been in a very serious condition. We are giving her the best of care, but do not expect that she will be able to take up her heavy work for several months. The Lord has wonderfully delivered her from the intense suffering, has returned unto her her eyesight, but we believe that her returning strength will be dependent upon her rest and having her protected from any further nervous shocks.

Sister's heart has been crushed in the events of the last few weeks until she did not even wish to live. She is asking over and over again, "Do the people believe I struck my Mother?" For this reason I give my testimony that I was present about ten minutes after this was supposed to have happened and I saw no evidence of it, nor did I see any evidence of it during the two weeks that followed.

The hearts of the members and friends of Angelus Temple have been touched more than ever before and the Elders and the Foursquare Council have seen our leader suffering untold agony of body, soul and spirit during the past week. Every man and woman believes in her more than ever and have only one thought and that is to do everything to uphold the standard of the Cross and to assist our beloved leader to regain her health.

May the Lord bless each one of our readers and give you spiritual confidence at this time.—Harriet A. Jordan, Dean.

MRS. Cora Moshier, of 601 North New Orleans Ave., Brinkley, Ark., writes:

"I was so constipated until I was just sick. I could not stand to take strong medicine, so I decided I would take Black-Draught, and I found it to be all right.

"I would have such dizzy spells, and such bursting headaches, until I could hardly go. But after taking a few doses of Black-Draught, I would feel just fine. It is a good medicine, and I recommend it to all who suffer as I did. It is very easy to recommend a medicine that has done as much for me as Black-Draught has done."

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING A FRANCHISE TO ALABAMA NATURAL GAS CORP.

To lay and maintain in or under the Streets, Avenues, Alleys, and other Public Places in the Town of Clanton, Alabama a Main or Mains for the Transmission, Distribution, and sale of Gas for Domestic and other Purposes.

Be it Ordained by the Town Council of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, as follows:

SECTION ONE—That, subject to the conditions hereinafter set forth, the right, privilege and franchise be and the same is hereby granted to Alabama Natural Gas Corporation, its successors and assigns, to construct, operate, maintain, repair, replace, relocate and enlarge from time to time a pipe line system and appurtenances thereto for the transmission, distribution and sale of gas for domestic, industrial and other purposes in or under any or all of the streets, avenues, sidewalks, alleys and other public places within the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, as now constituted or hereafter extended, together with the right to make, or install, maintain, repair, and replace all such turnouts, meters, regulators, service pipes, connections and other usual equipment as may be reasonably necessary or desirable in the operation of said lines or system.

SECTION TWO—This franchise is granted subject to the following express conditions and limitations:

(a) After the laying or placing of any part of said pipe line system or extensions or other equipment and after the repair, replacement, relocation or enlargement of any such system or connections or equipment, the grantee, its successors or assigns, will forthwith at its own expense restore the streets, avenues, sidewalks, alleys and other public places disturbed by said work so that said streets, avenues, sidewalks, alleys and other public places will be in substantially the same condition as before the commencement of such work.

(b) The said grantee, its successors or assigns, will hold harmless and indemnify the said municipality from and against all liability of any and every kind and character arising out of any default, negligence or wrongful act of the grantee, or its servants or agents in the line of theif employment, in, and about the construction, operation, maintenance, repair, replacement, relocation or enlargement of any and all such pipe line system and connections or equipment.

(c) Grantee will construct and maintain said pipe line system, extensions and connections thereof, in such locations and at such depths below the grades of said streets, avenues, sidewalks, alleys or other public places as may be validly required by the grantor, and will at all times comply with all reasonable requirements, regulations, laws or ordinances now in force or which may hereafter be adopted by said grantor and be applicable to the construction or maintenance of said system.

(d) This grant shall be void and of no effect unless on or before the 31st day of December, 1931, grantee, its successors or assigns, shall be ready to begin service to consumers within the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton, Alabama.

SECTION THREE—The Mayor of said municipality is hereby authorized to enter into a contract with said grantee, its successors or assigns, for the acceptance of this grant in consideration of One Dollar ($1.00) to be paid by grantee, its successors or assigns; but acceptance may at any time become final without formal contract by notice in writing from grantee, its successors or assigns or by the beginning of work of constructing a gas line within or approaching said municipality by or for the account of grantee, its successors or assigns, relative to the supply of gas to be sold or distributed in whole or in part in said municipality.

Approved this 2nd day of September, 1930.

ERIC HART, Mayor.

PUBLIC PROTECTION AT GRADE CROSSINGS

One of the uses of the railroad locomotive whistle is to warn people at grade crossings of approaching trains. Such whistling is for safety and in compliance with state laws, but, as added protection, in many places other signal devices supplement the locomotive's warning.

Despite all such precautions, however, the unnecessary toll of automobile accidents at grade crossings continues, and recent statistics show as one feature that about 40 per cent of grade crossing collisions on the L. & N. system are caused, not by locomotives striking automobiles, but by automobiles actually crashing into the sides of the L. & N. trains.

Recently, in a further effort to warn the motorist against his own carelessness, the L. & N. revised its crossing signal whistle, with the following results for the first four months of its adoption in 1930, as compared with those months in 1929 under the old method of whistling:

	1930	1929	Decrease
Accidents at grade crossings	100	189	47%
Killed at grade crossings	2	22	91%
Injured at grade crossings	43	107	60%

THE RECORD SPEAKS FOR ITSELF—20 LIVES SAVED IN FOUR MONTHS AND 64 INJURIES PREVENTED.

The Railroads Must Earn To Spend

The record shows that the exercise of plain, common sense—simply the observance of the universal rule to "Stop, Look and Listen"—will save human life and untold property damage.

ANGELUS TEMPLE BOARD ISSUES STATEMENT

"Since the regrettable illness of our sister, the usual flood of speculative publicity which has surrounded her has been rife. Almost every conceivable charge which could be generatel by fertile brains has portrayed her in every field from that of making preparations to enter a beauty contest to that of trying to be a pugilist.

"As in days of yore, some of the most poignant thrusts have come from those near enough to partake of meat with us.

Our leader is now, we feel, upon the first steps which lead to recovery.

Cause of Illness

"Mililons have asked the question:

1. "What is the matter with Sister McPherson?

2. "What is the cause of her illness?

"And each one has tried to answer according to his own theorizing.

"The world, we believe, is worthy of an answer.

"And who should be more able to give this answer than the members of her own united board and her closest colaborers.

"To this end this statement is given with her consent.

"First it is not the thought of Angelus Temple to enter into any recriminations.

"For he that taketh the sword shall perish by the sword.

"But these are the simple true facts:

"Sister McPherson had planned to take a vacation for the purpose of completing her textbook on "The Holy Spirit.

"Accompanied by her two assistants, she was working on the closing chapters when this much-publicized illness overtook her.

"Why it came is clear to any comprehending mind, when it is considered what her work is and has been.

1. "More than twenty years spent in gospel work.

2. "A million and a half dollar religious institution builded through her efforts.

Great Shock

"The pressure of the attendant worries of so large an international organization, with its theological seminary, its publications, commissary at home and its hundreds of branch churches and mission stations abroad; making it necessary for her to deliver an average of fifteen addresses weekly.

"Sister's illness has been a great shock to us because we were so accustomed to having her carry the burden of her work for us that we never thought of her becoming ill.'

"But we have learned from this that every human body needs some rest—even the master rested.

"However now that she will be resting for a few weeks before returning to her pulpit, we of the board and Foursquare Council intend to take upon our shoulders the burden of the detailed business of the institution, and carry on until Sister McPherson returns.—L. C. Caldwell, secretary Foursquare Council.

CREAMS BRING CASH

Bay Minette, Ala., Sept. 8.—More than 300 farmers of Baldwin County are selling cream as a side line to general farming, is reported by county agent, E. E. Hale. He says that dairymen who take good care of their cows and grow more feed find dairying a source of ready cash that it is hard to do without.

NOTICE

The Commissioners Court will meet at the court house September the 13th, at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of discussing Mr. Stapp, the Farm Demonstrator's work. Mr. Stapp will make a full report of his work at this meeting.

We urge every person in this county to be present that if either for or against the farm demonstration work. We especially urge those who are opposed to this work to come to this meeting and let the people hear your objections.

The Court is anxious to do what the people of the county want them to do.

This the 3rd day of September, 1930.

English Musical Comedy Actress Gives Recipes for Coffee Desserts

(Courtesy Philadelphia Daily News)

Miss Lillian Bond, petite English star of "Follow Thru," some of whose favorite coffee recipes are given below.

COFFEE is not only America's favorite drink, but—surprisingly enough—it is also the favorite recipe flavoring of an English actress. The actress is Miss Lillian Bond, star of the musical success "Follow Thru," who is herself an excellent cook and has collected more than one hundred recipes for delicious desserts and drinks in which coffee is a principal ingredient.

Miss Bond has found hot coffee of enormous benefit to her in the exacting life of the theatre. Often she must act a role when she is tired and feeling quite unlike the gay, lively person who must appear behind the footlights—then a cup of fragrant coffee gives her the proper physical and mental stimulation to play her part.

When she makes her own coffee, this petite young Englishwoman is careful always to get the proper proportions—a heaping tablespoonful of coffee to a cup of water. She believes that the time of infusion should be as short as possible so that there will be no bitterness and that, to be at its best, the coffee should be served hot and freshly-made.

But Miss Bond has many delightful uses for coffee beside the customary beverage. Here are a few of her prize recipes:

WALNUT MOCHA CAKE—

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
½ cup coffee (cold)
1¾ cup flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
Whites of 3 eggs
¾ cup broken walnut meats

Cream the butter, then gradually add sugar, coffee, flour mixed and sifted with baking powder, nuts and egg whites beaten stiff. Bake 40 minutes.

COFFEE FUDGE ICING—

4 ounces chocolate
⅛ pound butter
½ cup coffee (cold)

Add enough sugar to make it the right consistency to spread.

COFFEE JELLY—

1 envelope sparkling gelatine
½ cup cold water
3 cups clear strong coffee
¾ cup sugar
Juice of 1 lemon

Soak gelatine in the cold water 5 minutes and dissolve in the hot coffee. Add lemon juice and sugar, stir until dissolved. Turn into a mold, first dipped in cold water, and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

COFFEE CREAM PUNCH—

To 2 quarts boiling coffee add ½ cup granulated sugar and 4 teaspoons maple extract. Allow to cool, then add ½ cup cream. Stir well, pour over crushed ice and top with whipped cream.

WHAT A WOMAN OF 50 and OVER SHOULD WEIGH

Keep the Fat Away

This is interesting—the figures given below are correct according to the leading authorities—women over 50 should beware of fat—if your weight and height match the table below you are in luck—and should be thankful—weigh yourself today.

Ages 50 and Over

4 ft., 11 in.	131 pounds
5 ft., 0 in.	133 pounds
5 ft., 1 in.	135 pounds
5 ft., 2 in.	138 pounds
5 ft., 3 in,	141 pounds
5 ft., 5 in.	148 pounds
5 ft., 4 in.	144 pounds
5 ft., 6 in.	152 pounds
5 ft., 7 in.	157 pounds
5 ft. 8 in.	162 pounds
5 ft., 9 in.	166 pounds
5 ft., 10 in.	170 pounds

Weights given include ordinary indoor clothing.

If you are overweight cut out pies, pastries, cakes and candies for 4 weeks—then weigh yourself — go light on potatoes, rice, butter, cream and suger—eat lean meat, chicken, fish, salad, green vegetables and fruit

Take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—this is the easy, safe and sensible way to take off fat—an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts lasts 4 weeks—get it at Upchurch Drug Co., or any good drug store in the world—you'll be gloriously alive—vigorous and vivacious in 4 weeks.

DELIGHTFUL VISIT TO MR. HOWARD'S

The editor of The Union-Banner, accompanied by members of his family, and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Harton, of Montgomery, were visitors at the home of Mr. Fred Howard, in Thorsby last Sunday. To say that it was a delightful event for us is only half expressing it.

We found Mr. Howard "batching," as his wife and other members of his family are away on a vacation trip to Green Bay, Wisconsin. But Mr. Howard himself is a master entertainer.

The Howard place is a regular manufacturing plant from the appearance of things on every hand. He showed us a vast amount of canned fruit which is being stored for winter use of the family. A large orchard and vineyard provides everything that can be desired in the way of edibles, and everything is taken care of and prepared for profitable and pleasant use.

When we left Mr. Howard loaded us down with a batch of nice apples, pears, and persimmons.

Acccording to D. O. Manning, it means more than the mere loss of a farm hand when a negro gets killed on a place. He declares that it will impossible forever to get another family of negroes to live at the place where the killing happened. As a result of the killing which happened on his farm last week, Mr. Manning says he will have to tear down the house where the negroes lived and move it, together with the barns, to an entirely different location in order to be able to get a family of negroes to live there and cultivate his land.

R. D. Woodson is back on the job at Lay Dam after several weeks in a Veterans Hospital at Memphis. His friends are delighted to note the improvement in his physical condition.

Chester Wingard will leave next Monday, September 15th, for Atlanta, Ga., where he will enter Georgia Institute of Technology.

ONLY A DOCTOR KNOWS WHAT A LAXATIVE SHOULD BE

Danger lies in careless selection of laxatives! By taking the first thing that comes to mind when bad breath, headaches, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, gas on stomach and bowels, lack of appetite or energy warns of constipation, you risk forming the laxative habit.

Depend on a doctor's judgment in choosing your laxative. Here's one made from the prescription of a specialist in bowel and stomach disorders. Its originator tried it in thousands of cases; found it safe for women, children and old folks; thoroughly effective for the most robust man. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It is composed of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients. You can get it, in generous bottles and ready for use, at any drugstore.

PROVIDENCE BEAT 13

To all whom it may concern:

We do hereby respectfully request that all persons interested will meet with us on Thursday, September18th for the pupose of cleaning off the cemetery at this place. Everybody come and bring sufficient tools to do the job and lets clean off the new part as well as the old. And too, remember that 2nd Sunday eve is our regular singing day, and we cordially invite all lovers of music to come and be with us. Lets make the singing a success. With much success to the Union-Banner and its many readers.—W. F. Thompson.

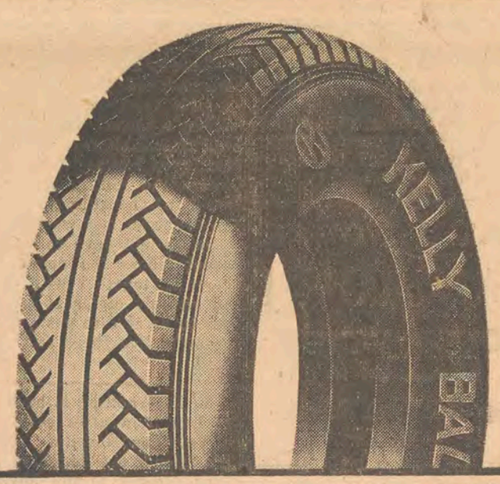
J. N. SCOTT AND PARTY MAKE TRIP TO SOUTHERN ALABAMA

Editor Union-Banner:

I notice that several from Chilton County have been off on a vacation for the past few weeks, and report having a good time catching fish, etc. So I will make my report.

My son, R. R. Scott, and his daughter and one of my sisters, a sister in law, and myself, left Tuesday of last week and drove to Robertsdale, Baldwin County, Ala., 271 miles. On Wednesday we went fishing down on Bon Secoura River. At noon we stopped and had an old time fish fry on a little wood fire, and after the coffee was made and every thing was ready, you ought to have been there and have seen how 14 of us did eat fish. Everybody ate plenty and we had plenty left.



After noon we returned to our fishing, carrying all of the women folks in the boats with us. Some of them were scared out in the water, but everything went to fishing and everybody got to catching fish. We landed them into the boat from the size of a large tadpole to a 1-pound speckled trout. The real fun started when Mrs. Dealia Scott caught a crab; it being the first one she had ever seen, she gave a loud scream and left him in the river. Another fright came when she landed an eel into the boat. When it began to flop around she hollered for someone to take it off her hook. I took the eel off and she went back to fishing.

Some of the crowd got seasick on tobacco and some on snuff, and not a doctor in 30 miles. But after they had fed the fish they got all right and in a few minutes went back to fishing. The next thing to amuse me was my grand daughter, Deller Mae Scott. This was the first time she had ever been fishing, and she was sitting there just pulling in those trout, and her dad sitting there ready to take them off for her and re-bait her hook. She caught 24 that afternoon. It was a sight to see our catch for the day.

Thursday we all went to the Gulf and part of us went in bathing. Of course the Gulf of Mexico was a big sight to all who had never seen it.

After leaving there we came back to the place where we fished the day before. We caught some more fish to bring home with us. We caught about thirty, and left Friday morning for home, bringing fifteen of them home with us. We estimated that we caught about 200 pounds during the two days spent there.

Crops are fairly good in Baldwin County, but not so good this side of there. We returned by the way of Selma, Alabama.—J. N. SCOTT.

KELLY SPRINGFIELD

—a name that means satisfaction to the tire user—

Ever since the days of the rubber-tired buggy, the name "Kelly-Springfield" on a tire has been a sure indication to the purchaser that he might buy with confidence.

Kelly always has built good tires. Kelly is building better tires now than ever before. Hundreds of thousands of car-owners can testify to the truth of this statement.

If you are looking for the utmost in comfort and long mileage, try Kellys. Their price is no higher than that of many other tires of less reputation.

Lesson for September 14

JEREMIAH, THE PROPHET OF INDIVIDUAL RELIGION

LESSON TEXT—Jer. 1:1-10; 14:7-22; 31:27-34.

GOLDEN TEXT—So then each one of us shall give account of himself to God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jeremiah, A Man Who Would Not Give Up.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jeremiah, A Man Who Would Not Give Up.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Being Obedient to God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Responsibility of the Individual.

I. Jeremiah's Call (Jer. 1:1-10).

1. It was prenatal (vv. 4, 5).

Before Jeremiah was born God ordained him a prophet unto the nation.

2. His diffidence (v. 6).

This seems to have grown out of his youth and inexperience.

3. His hesitancy overcome (vv. 7, 8).

God graciously appeared to him and made clear that he should:

a. Go where sent.

b. Speak as commanded.

c. Be not afraid of their faces.

The servant of God is called upon to face strong enemies. Only the conviction of his divine commission will enable him to face the foe.

d. The divine presence assured.

It matters little as to the strength of the foe if the messenger is blest with the presence of God.

4. The divine message given (v. 9).

Not merely the thoughts, but the proper words to express the thoughts are put into the prophet's mouth.

5. The nature of his ministry (v. 10).

It was to be wider than that of prophesying. Six words are given as descriptive thereof. The first four are destructive in their implication—"root out," "pull down," "destroy," and "throw down"; two constructive—"build" and "plant."

II. Dialogue Between Jeremiah and God (Jer. 14:7-22).

The occasion was a most severe famine which had come upon the land, (vv. 1-6) as a result of which many were dying.

1. The prophet confesses the people's sins (vv 7-9).

He made no evasion of sin, but plead with God not to abandon his people. Abandonment would be interpreted by the heathen enemies as God's inability to help them. No merit could be pleaded for the people, so he plead for the sake of God's name that God would not leave them.

2. Too late for mercy (vv. 10-12).

(1) Jeremiah's prayer declared useless (vv. 10, 11).

Because of the gross wickedness of the people, God informs Jeremiah that punishment is inevitable.

(2) Religious services of no avail (v. 12).

The disloyal people of Israel hoped to turn aside God's wrath by engaging in the services of Jehovah. Such services are an abomination.

3. The doom of false prophets (vv 13-16).

Even though false prophets lulled the people to sleep, God held them responsible. God gives sufficient discernment to enable people to know their leaders. No one can plead ignorance in such cases.

4. Waiting upon God (vv. 17-22).

(1) Jeremiah wailing the sufferings of his people (vv. 17, 18).

(2) Jeremiah pleading for his people (vv. 19, 20).

(3) Pleading for forgiveness (v. 21).

He based his plea on covenant relation, not upon personal merit.

(4) Hope only in God (v. 22).

He acknowledges that the nation's only hope was in the living God.

III. The New Covenant (Jer. 31:27-34).

1. Promise to build and to plant instead of to break down and pluck up (vv. 27, 28).

2. Freedom from the power of heredity (vv. 29, 30).

No longer shall the children suffer for the sins of their parents. Those who are joined to Jesus Christ are under a new law of life superior to the law of heredity.

3. The law written within (vv. 31-33).

Through regeneration the heart has not only the desire but the power in the Holy Spirit to rise above and to be free from carnal impulses.

4. Teachers no longer needed (v. 34).

God shall speak directly to all from the least unto the greatest so that no longer shall the knowledge of God be dependent upon the human teacher.

5. Sins no more remembered (v. 34).

When God forgives, offenses are remembered no more.

Rest in the Lord

The Holy Spirit cannot operate on a restless spirit.—Selected.

ACCIDENTS DUE TO TIRE FAILURE—UNNECESSARY

"Automobile accidents which occur as the result of tire failure, are unnecessary," stated Reuben Lowe here today. Mr. Lowe is widely known as a tire expert as well as the proprietor of Lowe's Service Station, South Clanton, authorized distributor of Kelly-Springfield tires.

"Annually, four hundred and seven thousand persons are killed or injured due to accidents caused by tire failure. In some cases, the tires were good originally, but had become dangerously old and worn. It is remarkable how many people are unfamiliar with the hazards of worn tires.

"Another cause of tire failure is that the tire itself may not have been a good tire when it was new. There are tires which are apparently first class products, but their looks are deceiving, for many times they lack the stamina, proper materials, careful workmanship, and safety design to insure you against accidents.

"However, it is unnecessary in this day and age to drive poor tires or ones that are worn. The Kelly Lotta Miles are priced lower than chain store brands, making it actually uneconomical for you to buy 'cheap' tires. Kelly tires—registered, balloon or Lotta Miles—Will always hold, due to their scientifically engineered 'safety grip' treads. Furthermore, Kellys are so well built that you need never fear tire failure. In fact, it is not exaggerating to say that Kellys are the world's safest tires as well as the world's finest."

LAWLEY NEWS

So many of the people at Lawley or near Lawley are subscribers of The Union-Banner, we feel that a little bit of news from here will be of some interest to the people.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Rehoboth church has been reorganized with same officers as before: Mrs. W. P. Hicks president; Mrs. J. W. Wright, treasurer; Mrs. Albert Wilson, secretary. The society met last Saturday afternoon with seven members present. On account of sickness several could not attend.

There are many indications of a larger attendance, and a great spirit of cooperation was made manifest by each member.

As we contemplate the work which Christ laid upon his people, we are anxious to take up with us the cross, and help to bring the light of the message unto all the world.

The B. Y. P. U. here is progressing wonderfully with Mr. Edwin Lovelady as president.

Rehoboth church is indeed fortunate in having such a noble, devoted, Christian man to have charge of the young peoples' work. He understands and loves young people, is capable of leading them.

Rev. J. S. Dunlap preached an inspiring sermon Sunday at Rehoboth His sermon was based upon practical religion. We are sorry every one could not have heard it. We do so much need to practice our religion.

The members of Rehoboth church met Sunday and called a pastor. The church has been without a pastor for almost a year. Rev. John W. Dean of Columbiana was unanimously called. We feel that he is the man that God has directed the people to call, because there was no opposition.

A special program will be given at the church next 3rd Sunday, the 21st, and a special offering for State Missions. If we are true genuine Christians, we shall all be there with an offering. The program will be arranged by Mrs. W. P. Hicks, president of the W. M. S., and Mrs. Jesse Burns, chairman of program committee. The W. M. S. has been asked to observe State Mission Day of Prayer, on September 25th. But on account of the people of this community having so much work, it was agreeable by all to have State Mission Day of Prayer on Sunday before the 25th. We hope every one in this community will be here that day with an offering.

The many friends of Mr. H. F. Head will be sorry to learn that he is now taking medical treatment from the doctor. We hope he will soon recover.

Mr. Horton Walker, who has been away on a visit to his sister in Florida and other places this summer, was here one day last week visiting his sister, Mrs. W. P. Hicks. He will take up his work as teacher in Chilton County High School at Clanton this week. He has charge of all athletics and manual arts. Horton is indeed an ideal young man, and has many friends here who are always glad to see him.

Mr. Collins Latham and wife of Marvel were here last week end visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Latham. They attended church services Sunday. We extend to them a hearty welcome, because we do appreciate our home boys and girls coming back to visit. Collins was for a long time choir leader here in our church, also Sunday School treasurer.

Miss Mary Mount of Birmingham was here last week visiting home folks. Mary has such a loving personality and is such a wonderful help in the young peoples' work, we are sorry that she can not be with us more.

Mrs. Paul Jones of Birmingham has been spending a few days here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mount. Mrs. Jones will be very pleasantly remembered by her many friends as Miss Virginia Mount.

Mr. and Mrs. Crit McGee are the proud parents of a fine baby girl, whom they have named Margie Christine.

Quite a number of our boys and girls are leaving for school and to teach. Those who are leaving are Misses Olivia Latham, Ruby Bell Barnes, Della Barnes, Mr. Perk Mount and probably others. We shall miss them but wish them success.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Seeley have returned to their home in West Palm Beach, Fla., after visiting Mrs. Seeley's sister, Mrs. W. P. Hicks and also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Walker.

The gin here is now running full time. Also the saw mill which is operated by Mr. Lum Hicks.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

TIME TO PLANT WINTER LEGUMES

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 8.—Alabama farmers have purchased a large amount of winter legume seed. This is revealed in the reports o fcounty agents which indicate that a larger acreage of hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas will be planted in Alabama this year than ever before. The interest of farmers in these legumes show that they are concerned about their soil which is considered the basis of profitable agriculture..

It is almost time to plant. Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Experiment Station and J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, say that vetch and Austrian peas should be planted the last half of September or the first half of October. They recommend the drilling of not less than 20 pounds of hairy vetch seed and not less than 30 pounds of Austrian winter pea seed per acre.

"For best results hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas should have a liberal application of phosphate at planting time," they continued. "Apply superphosphate at the rate of 400 pounds per acre or the equivalent in basic slag. Basic slag has the advantage that it can be mixed with the seed and inoculation dirt and put through a fertilizer distributor without injury to the inoculation. Superphosphate should not be used in this manner because of the injury to inoculation."

Though other methods of planting seed are used, they pointed out that experimental work and field experience show that drilling is the safest and surest method and is also a rapid method.

"Two methods of inoculation may be used." they continued; "namely, the commercial culture and inoculated soil. Main dependence should be placed on the soil inoculation. Both the commercial culture and inoculated soil should be used to insure inoculation."

CLARKE POOLS COTTON

Whatley, Ala., Sept. 8.—O. C. Helms, Clarke County agriculture agent, recently reported that 215 bales or 66 per cent of the cotton ginned at Whatley was shipped to the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association for sale. He says that Clarke County farmers are supporting the cooperative idea and that near the same percentage of cotton ginned elsewhere in the county is to be sold through the cotton Association.

According to statistics the number of New England farms has dropped twenty-one per cent in the past five years. Well, New England farms ought to make good golf courses. Most of them are full of hazards.

The Union-Banner is $1.50 a year

ALABAMIANS ATTEND LEADERSHRIP SCHOOL

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 8.—Jesse Mae Carroll and Roy Lovvorn, senior students at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute will represent Alabama at the International 4-H Leadership Training School, Springfield Mass., Sept. 7 to 20. Announcement of this is made by T. A. Sims and Bess Fleming, specialists in 4-H club work, who say the representatives were selected because of the high achievement and qualities o fleadership. The trip is awarded each year to one girl and one boy from Alabama.

Miss Carroll, who lives at Clayton, is a senior student in home economics. Before coming here she made a fine record in 4-H club work. In 1924 she was declared the best all-round club girl in Barbour County and won a trip to the State short course at Auburn.

Mr. Lovvorn lives near Wedowee and is a candidate for the bachelor's degree in agriculture at Auburn. Before entering college he made an excellent record in 4-H club work, having been president of his club and at Auburn is rated as one of the outstanding students and campus leaders having been elected to a large number of honor societies during his junior year.

The training school at Springfield is financed by Horace A. Moses, philanthropist, who became interested in the training of leaders in 4-H club work through meetings held annually at Springfield by club members and leaders of the eastern states. The school started with 10 eastern states and each year the invitation list has been increased so that in 1930 there will be two delegates from each of 38 states and six provinces of Canada.

The Baltimore Sun says that the rates on industrial products are higher in the new tariff law and have been "boosted to the highest point in history." To go back only forty years the rates on industrial products in the new tariff law are lower than they were during the McKinley and Dingley laws. But what use has an anti-protection tariff writer for the mere facts?

COW SETS RECORD

Wellington, Ala., Sept. 8.—A Jersey cow owned by a 4-H club girl near here has established a new high production record in the class for senior three-year-old Alabama Jerseys tested for 365 days. The cow, Majesty's Queen's Lucy, won a silver medal by producing 631.48 lbs. of butterfat and 13,642 pounds of milk in 365 days. She superseded Prayton's Miss Oxford, tested by Prayton and Jemison Trussville, Ala. The owner of the new record holder is Kathleen E. Prickett.

It is stated that the Latin-American resentment against the new American tariff is due to burst out, at Pan-American agricultural conference at Washington in September and that the Argentinian Republic will lead the attack. In view of the fact that the Argentina Republic collects $11.68 per capita in tariffs as against $5.17 by the United States, and that the Argentine's collections in tariffs are 16.13 per cent of her total imports as against 15.43 per cent under the new American tariff law, perhaps the Argentinians will be able to restrain their wrath upon a due consideration of the facts.

NEW SALEM

The United Singing Society met at this place Sunday afternoon, and delivered an excellent program. The new books were used. We invite the society back to our church every chance they get. The society will go to Union Grove next Sunday afternoon, and we invite everyone who can to go and help out in the singing.

Our Sunday School at this place is growing every Sunday, and every one is doing all they can to make it a success. We invite every one to come to Sunday School in the morning at 9:30; and B. Y. P. U. at 6 p. m.

Don't forget that Sunday is our regular preaching day. Every one is invited to come for we are sure our pastor, Rev. Zac Appleton will deliver a fine message.

ALABAMA PECAN GROWERS FARM COOPERATIVES

Pecan growers and farm offiiials representing thirty-two Central Alabama pecan prodcing countries met in Montgomery Friday and organized "The Central Alabama Growers' Associative Association," a local association of tne National Pecan Marketing Association through which the Federal Farm Board is extending its aid to pecan growers.

C. Kirkpatrick, Selma, was named president and A. C. Rogers, Epeigner, vice-president. Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, was named as a public director. Eight other directors coming from sections which have 50,000 pecan trees were named as follows:

J. F. Flowers, Brundige; J. A. Kernodle, Camp Hill; Wiley Alford, Columbia; Harry Houghton, Montgomery; I. T. Lampley, Eufaula, Judge J. R. Martin, Union Springs; C. Kirkpatrick, Selma; and A. C. Rogers, Speigner.

J. Lloyd Abbot, and S. H. Gibbons, of the National Pecan Marketing Association were in charge of the meeting. Headquarters for the local association was left to the board of directors, however, it was the concensus of opinion that either Montgomery or Selma will be selected as headquarters.

The association organized here yesterday makes the second local association that has been organized in Alabama with the past two days. Pecan growers of Southwest Alabama met at Mobile yesterday and organized the "Gulf Coast Pecan Growers' Cooperative Association." It is planned that these two associations will accomodate the pecan growers of Alabama.

RUSSELL PLANTS LEGUMES

Seale, Ala., Sept. 8.—Farmers in Russell County will plant a large acreage of winter legumes this fall, L. G. Pearson, county agent, who has been advising them to use hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas for soil improvement, reports that they have already purchased more than 40,000 pounds of seed through the County Farm Bureau and that he expects them to plant more than 75,000 pounds.

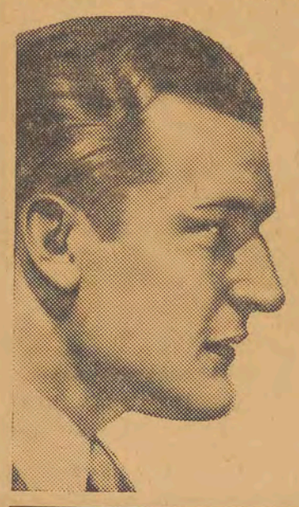
LEE GRAY THANKS FRIENDS

Editor Union-Banner:

I want to express my thanks to my friends and neighbors for helping me in giving to my needs, and for their warm-heartedness. Mr. John Popwell gave me two bushels of corn, and others gave other things. We are taught to love one another and make friends. We never had to steal or beg. We have the great promises of God, and I pray His blessings upon all. The Lord is good to me and to you, and I hope some day that those things will bring a greater joy. Sincerely, Lee Gray.

IN MEMORY OF GEORGE GRAY

The death angel visited the home of Mrs. Susie Gray on August 17 and bore away the spirit of her beloved husband, Mr. G. W. Gray.



Mr. Gray was 68 years old. He had been in bad health for about ten months. It is hard to give him up. 'Tis sweet to know that God had a place prepared for him in His mansion above. A home far better than we could give him here.

Though dear Mr. Gray will yet be missed by all, especially by the bereaved mother and children. He is gone but not forgotten. We pray that each day they may become more reconciled to the blessed and holy will of God, and we also feel he is at rest.. They now have treasures in heaven they have never had before, so let us live a more perfect life than ever before, and strive to meet the loved ones gone on before, that God has called from us.

Mr. Gray died August 17 and was laid to rest in Bethany cemeteery. Weep not dear mother and children, for dear father is out of his suffering, for God has prepared him a home on that bright and shining shore. God giveth and he taketh away. And he knoweth what is best from our home and hands. He taketh our loved ones to rest.

Mr. Gray leaves to mourn his loss a wife and eight children.

SELF-CONFIDENCE

Bright eyes—a clear mind—belief in oneself and the power to do characterizes the red-blooded man!

IMPORTANT in this picture are the red-blood-cells! You cannot count your own red-blood-cells—that is technical! But you should know that they are the "ships" that sail in the blood and carry nourishment to all parts of the body. They fight infection and disease!

Helpful Hint

"Here! now!" yelled Constable Slackputer of Petunia. "What in torment d' ye mean fiddling and philandering all over the streets with that automobile the way you've been a-doing today?"

"This is my first car," answered the offender, "and I haven't more than half learned how to drive it yet. I want to turn around, but there doesn't seem to be room enough in any of the streets here."

"Well, you just drive over to Torpidville, six miles away, circumnavigate the public square there, come back here and you'll be turned around."—Kansas City Star.

Canons of Painting

The celebrated "Six Canons of Paintings," which have been the basis of art criticism in the Far East throughout subsequent centuries, are, translated freely: (1) Life motion engendered by spiritual harmony; (2) use of the brush in rendering bone structure; (3) delineation of forms in conformity with objects; (4) application of colors appropriate to the kinds; (5) spacing based on proper planning; (6) copying of classic pictures, thereby preserving tradition.

Action Must Follow Vision

A vision of what should be done never becomes a reality unless it is backed by the mental or physical equipment to do it, and the determination to get it done. He who sees clearly and acts energetically, to him is the world.—Grit.

Fine Statues of Buddha in Japanese Shrines

Four gigantic statues of Buddha have been erected in Japan. The largest one is located in the city of Kyoto, and dates from 1801. It is a wooden figure, consisting of only a head and shoulders; but even so it reaches to the ceiling of the lofty hall in which it is enshrined, and is 58 feet in height.

The next largest is 53½ feet in height, erected in the city of Nara. It is made of plates of bronze soldered together.

The third in size of these images, but which perhaps gives the most majestic impression of the four, is located at Kamakura, erected in the Thirteenth century. It is 49 feet 7 inches in height, and is formed of sheets of bronze cast separately, brazed together, and finished off on the outside with the chisel.

The hollow interior of the image contains a small shrine, and the visitor may ascend into the head.

The next, and smallest of the four, was built in 1891 at Hyogo, in the precincts of the temple of Nofukuji. It is 48 feet high. It was largely through the efforts of a paper manufacturer of Hyogo, named Nanjo Shobei, that this statue was built. But it by no means equals the ancient statue at Kamakura.

Why Heavy Timbers in Colonial Frame Houses

Every American feels his interest kindled when he espies a historical frame dwelling whose construction date may go back 150 to 200 years to some early Colonial period. Comments upon the soundness of the construction methods of those early days are made frequently without the speaker knowing in what ways they differ from today.

The braced timber frame was invariably used along the North Atlantic coast. The early colonists did not set out to invent this frame. They brought with them a tradition of heavy half-timber construction from the mother country. There was a great abundance of standing timber, cutting by hand was laborious, and timbers were used which were much stronger than required for strength. Posts and girts were eight and ten-inch square-hewn timbers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Excavation in Germany

Digging in Germany might prove a profitable pastime. Within one week a householder of Marionburg dug up a keg of 697 silver coins of 1625 and 1626, which were probably buried during the Thirty Years' war; a tourist discovered the skeleton of a bear in a cave near Karlsruhe, where none have been seen for 300 years; graves of ancient Celts have been found with bones 5,000 years old; at Konigsburg the oldest find was a stone ax dropped there before the glaciers came down over Europe 8,000 years ago; under the altar of Speyer cathedral the stone sarcophagus of an early Christian saint was brought to light; near Frankfort-on-Main a Roman military camp has been excavated and found to be steam-heated throughout its 16 rooms.

Named Cape Horn

Hoorn is a very famous place in Holland, for the old port sent out some of the most adventurous rovers that the world has ever seen. William Schouten was one of these restless folk who took the Dutch flag all over the globe. He was the first mariner to round the tip of South America, instead of getting into the Pacific by way of the straits of Magellan.

He made this adventurous journey in 1616 and he christened the southernmost projection of land Cape Hoorn, in honor of his birthplace. It has since been contracted to Cape Horn, but it was not named from its fancied resemblance to a horn, but from the Dutch town from which its discoverer sailed.—Detroit News.

REV. JOHN R. BEAN PREACHED AT FRIENDSHIP LAST SUNDAY

Rev. John Robert Bean of Bessemer preached at Friendship church last Sunday and Sunday night. Large crowds were present at both services, and his sermons were very enthusiastically received. At the close of the morning service a short conference was held, Rev. T. J. Deason acting as moderator.

MRS. A. L. NICHOLS HAD A SERIOUS OPERATION

Editor, Union-Banner:

Just a word or two to my friends in Chilton County. On August 23 my wife was operated on for gall stones and appendicitis. One stone was removed from her gall bladder almost the size of a normal gall bladder. Her appendix was also in bad condition. It was just on the verge of rupturing. For thirty-six hours she was at the point of death. No one seemed to think that she would live, but at this time she is much better and seems to be out of danger.

Please remember that we need your prayers.—A. L. Nichols. .

WILL ELECT PASTOR AT FRIENDSHIP THIRD SUNDAY NIGHT

The members of Friendship Baptist Church will meet at the church on Sunday night, September 21st, at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of electing a pastor and other officers to serve the church for the coming year. All members are urgently requested to be present and take part in the election of the officers.—Board of Deacons.

ANNUAL SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT THORSBY

The annual Sunday School convention of the Unity and Chilton Associations will meet with Thorsby Baptist Church the fourth Sunday in this month. All schools in the two associations are urgently requested to send delegates to this convention.—H. A. Harris.

Mr. Binks was busily engaged with a spade in the mud beside his car when a stranger hailed him.

"Stuck in the mud?" he asked.

"Oh, no!" replied Mr. Binks cheerily. "My engine died here and I'm digging a grave for it."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS PICNIC

Last Saturday afternoon was quite an enjoyable event for the Junior and Card classes of Collins Chapel church. At one o'clock both classes met at my house with boxes of sandwiches and eggs to be boiled, and we set out to visit the gypsy camp, which was a small wigwam, and an old gypsy and man. As this was near a large spring of water, you may be sure we had some good cold water melons. As we reached the camp each boy and girl went to the door of the wigwam and gave the gypsys their lunch. Then games were played which was enjoyed by all. And a Bible story told them. After this we cut our melons and you bet they were enjoyed. In the meantime the gypsys were boiling eggs and spreading the lunch. About four o'clock lunch was served, and a souvenir given to each of my Junior class for remembrance o fthe picnic. The Card Class teacher is Mrs. L. R. Willis, but it was impossible for her to attend. Our visitors were Mrs. Virgie Littleton and Mrs. Lera Shanenfelt. There were 17 in all, 11 Juniors and 6 from the Card Class.—Mrs. Ocie Willis.

Bargains for Banquets

Where popular demand reduces prices

"One policy of your company which gives me the greatest satisfaction," writes an A&P customer, "is that you do not take advantage of a special demand for a product to profiteer.

"For example, on the third of last July my A&P store sold good quality watermelons from 25c to 55c below other stores in town. A&P, realizing that many people enjoy a nice melon for Fourth of July picnics, put them within reach of everyone."

A&P believes in making it as easy as possible for people to get what they want when they want it most. That is why A&P provides special bargains in fruits and vegetables at the height of their season, in turkeys at Thanksgiving and Christmas, in delicacies during the Holidays, and in eggs at Easter.

The usual custom is to charge a little more when people for one reason or another are pretty sure to buy anyhow. A&P thinks these are just the times to make the cost of high living as low as possible.

Republicans Name George W. Weaver

Former Shelby County Judge Will Make Race For State Senate

At a convention of Republican delegates from Autauga, Chilton, and Shelby Counties, held in Clanton Monday, Hon. George W. Weaver, former Probate Judge of Shelby County, was nominated as the Republican candidate for State Senator to represent those counties in the next session of the Alabama General Assembly.

The Republican delegates in the convention Monday decided to nominate their own candidate after carefully considering a suggestion that had come from some political leaders concerning a fusion of the Republican and the Heflin-Locke forces in support of a candidate of that faction of the Democratic party.

It has been intimated that the Heflin-Locke forces will not put out a candidate for Senator in this district since they were unable to reach an agreement with the Republicans.

If no other candidate is nominated, the race will be made between Judge Weaver, of Shelby, the Republican candidate, and George Duncan, of Autauga, the nominee of the regular Democratic primary of August 12.

Marvin Lowery of Columbia, S. C., was here to see his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zack Lowery, the first of this week. Marvin is working with H. L. Foshee in a school supply business.

3,921 FARMS IN CHILTON COUNTY THIS YEAR

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—The Director of the Census announced today the number of farms in Alabama.

A farm, for census purposes, includes all the land which is directly farmed by one person, either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household, or hired employees. When a landowner has one or more tenants, renters, croppers, or managers, the land operated by each is considered a "farm." Any tract of land of less than 3 acres used for agricultural purposes, which produced products to the value of $250 in the preceding calendar year, is classed a "farm."

The figures for 1930 are preliminary and subject to correction.

State total, 1930 257,328; 1925, 237,631; 1920, 256,099; increase, 1925-1930, 19,697, 8.3 per cent; increase, 1920-1930, 1,229, .5 per cent.

Chilton County, 1930, 3,921; 1925, 3,394; 1920, 3,443; increase, 1925-1930, 527, 15.5 per cent; increase 1920-1930, 478, 13.9 per cent.

STROCK-KEMP WEDDING

In a quiet and lovely home wedding ceremony Miss Gladys Kemp and Mr. W. D. Strock were united in the holy bonds of matrimony Tuesday night at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Tom Kemp, in Clanton. Only a few intimate friends of the family witnessed the ceremony.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church.

MRS. YEAGER VISITS HERE MONDAY

Mrs. Yeager, proprietor of the Yeager Studio, at Montevallo, was a visitor to Clanton Monday. She has just returned from a vacation of a month, in which time she made a motor trip to Milwaukee and other points of interest in the North.

According to Mrs. Yeager, the studio is now open for business, and she will be glad to have her Clanton friends come to see her.

Reuben Reynolds of Birmingham was in Clanton a few days the past week.

Verbena Bank Gets Letter Of Approval

Superintendent of Banks Says Community Was Saved From Disaster By Patriotic Citizens

Characterizing their action as a patriotic duty in saving the Bank of Verbena from liquidation in the recent crisis, State Superintendent of Banks, D. F. Green, has written a letter to Mr. W. A. Gulledge, in which he says: "The Board of Directors, with the whole-hearted support of other citizens, has saved the community from a great disaster."

The letter from Mr. Green makes special reference to the noble manner in which one big-hearted citizen of Verbena community placed himself and his resources at the disposal of the bank officers, and in that way became the one great solidifying force that made the bank able to continue in spite of the unfortunate circumstances and avert a great disaster that would have hurt the whole community.

Through the kindness of Mr. Gulledge, who is now President of The Bank of Verbena, The Union-Banner is permitted to publish part of the letter of Mr. Green, as follows:

"Dear Mr. Gulledge:

"I just want to write you and ask you to thank your directors for their most hearty cooperation in working out the affairs of the bank after the defalcation of your president and cashier was discovered. You have cooperated with the department fully, for which I most heartily thank you and all your directors.

"The bank now appears to be on a firm foundation and I feel under lasting obligations to you all for the splendid cooperation you gave. You saved your community from a disaster and so your whole community is indebted to you for the splendid work of saving the institution from liquidation. In addition, when a bank closes, though a small institution, it effects to some extent the entire state and country at large and so you have done a patriotic duty, which should not go unnoticed by this Department or by the citizens of your comunity.

"Trusting that your bank is making splendid progress and that there will be a steady growth to which you are entitled, and with high personal regards and best wishes, I am

Cordially yours,
D. F. GREEN,
Supt. of Banks."

THIEVES CAUGHT STEALING PEARS

Dutch Popwell reports that he caught four men in the act of stealing pears from his orchard last Thursday night. Suspecting that the pear orchard was being visited by marauders, Mr. Popwell and his boy went to the orchard and concealed themselves Thursday night. Before long they heard a noise and when they closed in on them it was found to be four men, each with a sack of pears.

Mr. Popwell and his boy got so close on them that they dropped the sacks and fled.

On Monday Mr. Popwell found in the woods near his orchard a brand new cotton basket filled with pears.

Investigations being made of some clues in the case, and it is likely that the identity of the thieves will be established.

Arthur Williamson Killed Accidentally

Clanton Man Lost His Life In Accident On Construction Job In Michigan

Arthur Williamson, of Clanton, lost his life last Sunday afternoon in an accident at Newaygo, Michigan, where he was at work on a construction job for the Allied Engineers.

The telegram to his family stated that he was run over by a locomotive, supposedly a work train on the job where he was working.

Mr. Williamson was a son of John Williamson. He was married to Miss Minnie Retherford of Clanton some years ago. He is survived by his wife and one child. They live in the Reynolds Addition in East Clanton.

The body was shipped to Clanton, and is expected to arrive here for burial Thursday in Clanton cemetery.

WHITE THANKS VOTERS

Mr. Horsley (Nehi) White requests us to state to those who voted for him in the city election Monday that he very greatly appreciates the confidence thereby expressed in him by his fellow-citizens. Although failing of elcetion on the Council, Mr. White received a very complimentary vote. Doubtless many more would have voted for him if his designation on the ballot had been "Nehi" White, instead of his real name, Horsley White.

STOP SHIPMENTS OF CREAM ON WEDNESDAYS

The office of the Chilton County Farm Bureau announces this week that the shipments of cream on Wednesdays will be discontinued, owing to the small amount that is being brought in on those days. This week is the last Wednesday shipments that will be made.

But the shippers of cream are reminded that the shipments on Saturdays will be continued without interruption. All who have cream are therefore requested to hold same and bring it on Saturday of each week.

With the coming of cooler weather, it is pointed out that cream may easily be held for a week, and that the Saturday shipments will amply take care of the situation.

HOSKINS-DUNCAN WEDDING

The Birmingham News of last Sunday carried the announcement of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Duncan of Birmingham to Mr. Fred Hoskins, of Waco, Texas. The marriage was consumated Wednesday at an Episcopal church in Birmingham. A number of Clanton friends attended the wedding.

Miss Duncan is the attractive and popular daughter of the late L. J. Duncan, of Clanton. She was reared in Clanton, and is a very sweet and most lovely young lady.

At Judson College, where she finished her college course, she was repeatedly voted the most beautiful girl in the college.

Since finishing at Judson she has made her home with her brother, Mr. Lucien Duncan, in Bihmingham.

The many friends and admirers of Miss Duncan in Clanton, extend the best of wishes upon the occasion of her marriage to Mr. Hoskins.

COTTON GINNED PRIOR TO SEPTEMBER THE FIRST

The reports show there were 535 bales of cotton, counting round as half bales, ginned in Chilton County, from the crop of 1930 prior to September 1, 1930, as compared with 1,192 bales ginned to September 1, 1929.

HORACE W. DAVIS BEGINS SENTENCE

Former Bank Official Pleads Guilty To Two Indictments By Grand Jury

The grand jury of Chilton County made a partial report to Judge Smoot Tuesday morning, in which two indictments were returned against Horace W. Davis, former president and cashier of The Bank of Verbena. The indictments were for false entry on the books of the bank and for embezzlement.

Immediately after the indictments were returned by the grand jury, Mr. Davis was arraigned before Judge Smoot and plead quilty to the charges.

For the charge of false entry Davis was sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of three to four years. For the charge of embezzlement he was sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of seven to eight years.

Under custody of Sheriff Collins, Mr. Davis was carried to Kilby Prison Tuesday afternoon to begin his sentence. He has been confined here since the defalcation was first discovered at the Bank of Verbena.

The above prizes will be paid to the persons named, at any time they will come to The Union-Banner office and apply for same.

CHARLEY CARTER SERIOUSLY SICK

Charley Carter, brother of Marvin Carter, is reported seriously ill at Selma. A statement by Marvin Carter Wednesday morning said that little, if any hope was held out for his recovery.

About five weeks age Charley underwent an operation for appendicitis. He got up from that and went back to work.

A week ago he was stricken with paralysis, and was totally helpless and speechless for about two days. He rallied for a while and was able to talk. But at this writing his condition is worse again.

How Is This For Better Farming?

Hairy Vetch and Austrian Winter Peas Improve Farm of Mr. Hamilton

In 1925 Mr. Willie Hamilton bought a farm west of Clanton. Mr. Hamilton told County Agent Stapp that when he bought this place in 1925, one-half bale of cotton and twenty bushels of corn, with reasonably heavy application of fertilizer, was a good yield.

Mr. Hamilton started planting vetch and Austrian winter peas on the land he expected to plant in corn the following year. By rotating his crops of corn and cotton he has grown vetch or peas on about all of that part of his farm that he cultivates himself.

Mr. Hamilton advises us that in the last three years he has made on an average of ten bales of cotton on twelve acres, and that his average yield of corn has been above forty-five bushels. This average yield of corn has been made by following vetch, and no fertilizer has been applied to the corn. Mr. Hamilton plants from ten to twelve acres to vetch each year. Part of his vetch got so rank this year until he found it necessary to cut it for hay. He informed us that he saved seven tons of fine hay from aproximately seven acres. In feed value this is about $25.00 per acre made this year by the time most farmers planted. On the land this vetch was grown on, Mr. Hamilton has better corn than most farmers of the county.

Incidentally, Mr. Hamilton says he sold $122.00 worth of pigs from one sow this year.

JACKSON CHAPEL

There will be a school meeting at this place next Tuesday night, September, 23rd. All patrons are urged to be there and we willbga agag ged to be there as we have some important business to attend to. We want all patrons to feel welcome to come and free to speak on any subject. We want you to help us assess the incidental fees because you have them to pay as same as us. You should know how much money goes into the treasury and how much goes out and what it is for. So don't fail to come and be with us. Bring with you a heart of cooperation that we may make this school a great success that our children may receive a dollar's worth of education for every dollar that is paid into the school, that we may make it a house of work and not of play. With the recommendation of our teachers that are to teach for us this time, I feel sure of a great success. We extend to our teachers a special invitation to come out to our meeting and let us cooperate and let us get the ball ready to roll and see that it does not roll down the lane of extravagance. We should see that our children make use of every hour that is appointed to their studies, that they may be better prepared to meet life with all its difficulties. All of you patrons that have an interest in your own children, also your neighbors children be sure to come to our meeting on the above date.—W. L. Sanders.

Painful Condition

"WHEN I was just a girl at home," writes Mrs. B. F. Riggan, of Baird, Texas, "I took Cardui for cramping and pains in my side and back, and it helped me at that time.

"After I was married, I found myself in a weak, run-down condition. I suffered a great deal with my back, which was so weak it hurt me to get up or when I would stand on my feet. I fell off in weight.

"A friend of mine, seeing how bad I felt, advised me to take Cardui, which I did. By the time I had taken two bottles, I felt stronger and better than I had in a long time."

AIR CLEANER ON CHEVROLET IS GREAT HELP

Dashing over a gravel or dusty road, with the wind causing swirls of dust to cloud the pathway of the car, the motorist often wonders what effect this dust has upon the engine of his automobile, and if it finds its way into the vital working parts thus causing a grinding wear.

The reassuring answer to this question is supplied by James M. Crawford, chief engineer of the Chevrolet Motor Company, who explains interestingly how the air cleaner removes the dust from the intake air, making it purer than that which you yourself breathe.

"If it were not for the air cleaner, dust and sand would enter the carburator—even in city driving—causing wear on cylinders, rings and pistons," Mr. Crawford says.

"Quite often the dust on a good road cannot be seen but it is there just the same. Motor car wheels constantly grind off fine particles of road material which are dispersed through the air. These particles viewed under a microscope bear a striking resemblance to a valve grinding compound.

"Were it not for the air cleaner, this dust would enter the engine, form on the cylinder walls and soon become thoroughly mixed with the lubricating oil. The inevitable result would be formation of a grinding compound which would attack postons, rings, cylinder walls, earings and other working parts, causing damage throughout the engine, lowering its performance, shortening its life and making unnecessary repair expense.

"The air cleaner, used on all Chevrolet cars, is made entirely of metal, has no moving parts and will last for the lifetime of the car."

Mrs. Naomi Crump and children returned to their home in Tampa, Fla., Sunday, after spending the summer with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore.

Then make the down road happy by keeping your strength and health. An unfailing warning of a rundown condition is the diminishing of the red-blood-cells.

A DEFICIENCY of red-cells in the blood is usually followed by physical exhaustion, loss of appetite, underweight, nervousness and pimples and boils. When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are NOT yourself—60% is very dangerous. Common sense suggests that every possible step be taken to correct such a condition. Take S.S.S. before each meal. CENTRAL SINGING SOCIETY AT MAPLE SPRINGS SUNDAY

The Central Singing Society of Chilton County met with Maple Springs church last Sunday afternoon. The house was filled and there was a very large class of singers. There were more directors than could be used in the time allowed for the singing. The new books were used altogether, and the singing was very good and enjoyed by all. A collection of between three and four dollars was taken to apply on the song books purcheased by the society.

The singing next Sunday will be held at Providence, Beat 16. The schedule from now through October will be: 3rd Sunday, Providence; 4th Sunday, Friendship; October, 1st Sunday, Chestnut Creek; 2nd Sunday Walnut Creek; 3rd Sunday, Refuge; 4th Sunday, Popular Springs.

Everbody concerned in the newly organized society seem to be well pleased with its workings. Present indications are that it is going to be a great success for the cause of sacred singing in this section of the county. The class is finding the new songs rather difficult to handle but after a reasonable time for practice, this difficulty will be mostly overcome.

It would be a good idea for groups of these singers to get together on nights during the week and practice up on these news songs. If this were done, there would be a marked improvement in the singing.

Mr. I. D. Huett wishes special mention to be made of the singing at Chestnut Creek the first Sunday in October. He says that they have made a big addition to their church building and now have room for lots of folks. The people at Cooper want to see their church building full and Mr. Huett says that he wants the Central Singing Society to show them what a full house down there looks like. The Clanton Quartette will sing at that time, so everybody try and arrange to attend. And don't forget the singings at the other places between now and then.

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

A meeting will be held at Friendship church next Sunday night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to elect a pastor and other officers for the church and Sunday School for the coming year. Rev. T. J. Deason will preach at this time. The public is invited to attend.

The pastor, Rev. A. L. Foshee, will fill his regular appointment the fourth Sunday and Sunday night. The Central Singing Society meets at this place the fourth Sunday afternoon. The public has an invitation to attend all these services.

Miss Elizabeth Crump is attending school this year at Phillips High School, Birmingham. She entered school there Monday.

J. Harvey Williams, of the Alabama State Banking Department, was in Clanton on business Monday.

Miss Scarborough, elementary school supervisor, reports that the attendance at schools of the county is being held down considerably on account of the fact that many children are having to stay at home and pick cotton.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Duncan and daughter, Betsy Ann, Misses Elizabeth and Dorothy Duncan, of Birmingham, and Mr. Fred Hoskins, of Waco, Texas, spent last Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Crumpton.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

WHERE THERE IS NO VISION THE PEOPLE PERISH

In the book of Proverbs we read that where there is no vision the people perish. Now the meaning is this, that unless we are guided by God and the Holy Spirit we are blind and our spiritual natures are poor. We are hungry and thirsty. Where there is no vision we miss opportunities of seeing fields white for the harvest.

A vision is entirely supernatural. We may see them, inquire about them, and talk about them, but the vision which helps us and our friends are supernaturally given by God and the agency is the third person of the adorable Trinity, the Holy Spirit. Men and women who become discouraged, disheartened, and sit down on the side of the road and vive up do not look up to God for a vision. We read of Isaiah's vision in that in the year that Uzziah died (to confirm the Scriptures that Uzziah lived and Uzziah died), Isaiah saw a vision of God. If you should visit Jerusalem as I did two years ago the wisest guides and instructors would show you the place in Jerusalem where Isaiah lived when he wrote this prophecy. I ask you to read it, especially just now the 6th and 53rd chapters.

In the 6th chapter we read Isaiah's vision when he went into the temple. Riding along David's street you come to the temple area which covers six acres. Isaiah went there and saw the Lord high and lifted up. Now I am not sure that Isaiah saw the Lord in person as I look on my dear friends. But he saw the Lord because the Bible tells us that he did. Above the Lord stood seraphims, the highest class of angels flying about and singing, "Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hosts; the whole earth is full of His Glory." Then Isaiah fell on his face. When you and I get a vision of God we feel like getting in the most humble position because of our recognition of our uncleanness and unholiness.

When Isaiah felt his unworthiness one of the seraphims flew to an altar and took a coal of fire off it and flew to Isaiah and laid it upon his mouth and tongue saying: "Lo this hath touched thy lips; and thine iniquity is taken away and thy sin is purged." You and I cannot do anything until our lips and our tongues have been cleansed by the power of God. It was then Isaiah said: "Lord what wilt thou have me do?" The Lord said: "Whom shall I send and who will go for us?" Then Isaiah said: "Here am I, Lord, send me."

Unless our hearts and lives, our lips and tongues have been changed by a supernatural agency we will not hear God's call, and will see no vision. Then we read a verification of this truth by one of the prophets in such words as these: "Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord." We need to look up to God and implore Him to cleanse us from selfishness, our disloyalty to the truth which is in Christ Jesus that we too may see visions.

While Paul was imprisoned in Caeserea for two years some wonderful things took place. It was there he spoke his defense before Felix, Festus, and Agrippa. When tried to be burned down he said: "I appeal to Caesar." It was that sentence which brought him before the Roman Emperor in Rome. Herod had to send him there acording to the laws of the country since he had appealed to Caesar. He was then sent to Rome chained to a Roman centurion where he appealed to the Emperor in which wise and clear cut plea we hear him relate his vision on the way to Damascus and close it by saying: "I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision."

I saw the place near Damascus on that oldest highway of histosy where Paul received the vision of God which changed his heart from one which might have been one deep-seated in murder, hatred, envy, and false pride to a heart of love in Christ Jesus. I am sure that I saw that place because it was along near the wall of Damascus, the only one ever built around Damascus and which is still standing today as it was in Paul's time. It is said that Paul was so zealous that he was going up to Damascus to arrest Christians and bring them back to Jerusalem and imprison them. He was a zealous Pharisee. It is all right to be zealous if it is for Jesus Christ and His kingdom. Paul was changed from a child of darkness to a child of God of light. He was taken off the road to hell and placed upon the road to heaven. He might have been breathing out threatenings against the Christians in a language which was rude and vain and very wicked. But all at once there shone a great light and a voice spoke to him. His life was changed because he had seen Christ. When a man sees Christ his life is different, his words are different, his ways are different.

Paul, like Isaiah, at once desired to do something for the Lord. He said: "Lord, what wilt thou have me do?" The Lord revealed to him in the house of Judas what He would have Paul do when He said to him through Annanias: "You are a chosen vessel to bear my name before kings, Gentiles, and the children of Israel." Another vision of Paul which we should be very grateful for is found in the 16th chapter of the Acts. The Lord appeared to Paul in a vision at the murmur of the Agean Sea lulled him into deep slumber and rest at Troas. As the pilgrim rides from Naples to Athens and passes near Troas and look out upon it from the boat he is overcome with a strange feeling, and yet it is a feeling of gratitude.

It was that vision of Paul from God which put the Gospel in England and America. All the time before this Paul wanted to go back to Asia. If that had been then we would have been the heathen countries of which China, Japan and other eastern countries are. No doubt the devil wanted Paul to go back but the Spirit of God was greater than the devil, hence this vision at Troas. Paul saw in a vision a soldier of Macedonia crying: "Come over into Macedonia and help us, come over into Europe and help us." Paul obeyed the vision and hence we have the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

I see Paul set forth on the voyage to Macedonia. He passes through Philipi, a Roman garrison. It was a very poor town but Paul did not hesitate to go and preach the Gospel of Christ, the peace-giving, sin-forgiving Christ. He is pushing on toward Macedonia, Europe. Now when Paul was called in that vision to help heathen Europe, to help Socrates he did not sit down on the side of the road, or take time to eat his supper and put on a better suit of clothes. O, if you and I could see the vision in our own country and far-away countries and answer the call as did Paul. He said: "I am ready to go to help." Are you ready to go? Are you ready to ask that man to go to church with you when maybe his wife had to walk out to church without him as though she were a widow? Are you ready to hear the call? There may be those who are just waiting for a kind word of encouragement and invitation from your lips. You can help men by the life which you live in the love you bestow upon them. O, my friend it is not so much advice which we need to ear, but it is the call, the vision of God.

Will you just pause to think of the visions which you have had? Have you been obedient to them? Suppose Paul had been disobedient to that vision at Troas you and I would have been heatherns. The Gospel would not have been introduced at Philippi. It was there the Lord opened up the heart of Lydda, a poor widow who no doubt carried the purple goods on her back from her home in Thyatira to sell and support her children. It is said that she and her houshold received Christ and helped to spread the Gospel throughout Europe. There also Paul touched the pocketbook of the owner of the poor epileptic girl and was trown in prison with Silas. They sang praises to God and were delivered from prison by an earthquake which God sent in His plan for the salvation of the souls of the jailer and his household. Had it not been for that vision we would not have known the right attitude toward suicide. When the jailer would have killed himself, Paul forbade him saying: "Do thyself no harm. It is not right to take your own life. We are all here."

We next come to Thessalonica, called now Salonika. A certain elder in the city of New York has willed thousands of dollars for the creation of a college for the education of boys and girls in Christianity in Salonika. I saw a lonely man while visiting there. He had gone there from California to teach agriculture to some Mohammedan young men and women. He told me that persecution was so great against Christianity that the mentjon of the name of the Lord Jesus Christ they would be killed. "My life before these young people," he said, "must speak for the Lord Jesus Christ." I am satisfied that his humble, patient Christ-like life spoke and speaks for Christ. The Gospel of Christ is traveling fast if you and I will just push the cart along. If we sit down by the side of the road we can never expect to see the Gospel progress. On a lonely island of the Far East the lovely, praying, Christian man is pointed out the tomb of Polycarp, who fought for Christ in those lonely islands and died a Christian martyr in the cause. He saw the vision of Christ and obeyed its call. O how thankful we ought to be for this vision of Paul and other visions of God. Let us be careful, that we like Paul, are obedient to the heavenly vision.

DAIRYING

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.
—St. Louis, Mo.—

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-eight years of veterinary work. Eminent authority on diseases and raising of dairy cows other livestock and poultry. Nationally known lecturer, writer and author.

THE RIGHT BULL FOR YOUR DAIRY HERD

Selection of a Sire Can Make The Success or Failure of Your Attempts to Make Dairying Profitable.

It is said that moving picture stars are assisted in their journey along the road to fame by well-paid publicity agents.

Without any such artificial aid the bull has become famous in the public mind. First a well-known tobacco manufacturer named his product after the bull and dotted the landscape with huge billboards depicting a magnificent animal challenging the world.

In recent years the expression "throwing the bull" and other versions of the same thing have been added to our rapidly growing vocabulary of slang terms.

In dairying the bull is a serious factor, so much so that the success or failure of a herd may easily rest on the proper selection of a sire.

Experiments have shown that a pure-bred bull when serviced with scrub cows will produce daughters whose milk production will exceed that of their mothers by one-third to one-half. There are countless records at experiment stations to prove this. Second generation sows from the same or equally high-grade sires will likewise show big increases in milk production.

In selecting a bull be sure to look into his parentage. Remember it is the blood line that counts for everything. Do not be deceived by the fact that his mother has a big milk record. She may be an exception in a herd of cows from the same sire whose average production is low. Experience shows that a dam will transmit the characteristics of her family, not alone of herself. So if possible know the record of the young bull's ancestors at least two generations back.

According to a well-known law, one-half of the characteristics of an animal of human being come from the male and the other half from female. But in discussing those characteristics keep in mind that they are an accumulation from many ancestors, in other words, they are family, not individual traits. Therefore when you use one bull in a herd, which is usually the case, and he is mated with all the cows, one-half of the characteristics of all the calves come from the sire. In other words, the bull is half the herd, for better or worse.

We have in mind the record of one bull which had a very good pedigree. But most of the daughters from this bull were failures. They averaged nearly 1,500 pounds of milk and 70 pounds of butterfat a year less than their mothers. Think of the loss that meant to the owner of the herd, since the cost of feeding, milking and marketting was the same.

In the last twenty years we have seen the co-operative bull association movement succesfully introduced in this country. The idea is borrowed from Europe. A group of farmers or dairymen get together and form an association for the purpose of buying and maintaining a pure-bred bull. In this way owners of small herds, who could not possibly afford to own a good bull, have the advantage of the best.

Frequently a number of groups are organized, adjoining each other. If there are three groups, for instance, three bulls are purchased. They generally plan to have about 50 to 75 cows to be served in each group. Then, to prevent inbreeding, the sires are moved from one group to another every two years.

There is no estimating the benefits that have accrued to the dairy industry as a whole by the introduction of co-operative bull associations, but they undoubtedly have done as much as any one thing to put us abreast of the times.

Another advantage of the co-operative buying is that you can afford to keep the bulls only during their best years. It is true that the young sire can begin service shortly after he is one year old. But his best period is between the ages of two to five years. When past eight years the majority are slow and uncertain.

SOME AMERICAN OBSERVATIONS

By Jay Taylor

Many books of biography, history and diplomacy are appearing these days, ably and adroitly written by confidence men, with the objective of breaking down the American spirit of patriotism, in order that American public opinion may the more readily yield to the wiles of European influence. Let us hope that some day our government will find a way of exposing to public scorn those publications.

Agents in America of international intersts are now with one accord urging closer relations between the United States and Russia.

"To stand in firm and cautions independence of all entanglements of the European system has been a cardinal point of their policy under every administration of their government from the peace of 1783 to this day." This is one of the statements of John Quincy Adams which some of our modern biographers are careful not to mention.

Scientists tell us that man has lived upon Earth about 300 thousand years, and that he will probably be doing usiness here 500 million years more. So those who are wondering if the tax problem will ever be solved, should not lose hope.

The Indians of the southwest are America's most picturesque asset. The Peublos are virtually self supporting. They have almost an ideal government of their own; rarely coming in contact with the state or federal authorities. They are contented and enjoy a culture much higher than that of the white people with whom they have to associate, if the government compelled them to abandon their present mode of living.

Their morals are almost ideal. Perhaps the Interior Department in applying its general policy of dealing with the Indians, will make an exception of the tribes of the Southwest.

Calvin Robinson of Beat 16 brought The Banner some nice apples Monday.

Russia, which promises to be a large producer of many world commodities, is expected to produce 2,200,000 tons of sugar during the coming season. This will be an increase of 1,279,000 tons over last season, when it was only 921,000 tons. So far this year ussia has purchased almost 200,000 pounds of Cuban sugar.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that haan't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless thay may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

September 1930,

Dear Reader:

This month we are offering a real opportunity to you. An opportunity to put in your kitchen the most modern up to-date method of cooking ever devised. An opportunity to lift from your shoulders the burden of getting three meals a day. An opportunity to give your family more delicious, nourishing and wholesome meals. An opportunity to buy a modern, labor saving electric range on the wonderful terms of $5.00 down, the balance payable in 24 months, with $20 allowance for your old stove or range, any style, and a seven piece set of aluminum ware free. Now is the time to act — to put into your home the range that has made friends of more than 15,000 Alabama women.

Yours for modern cooking,
Alabama Power Company

SHERIFF COLLINS GETS ANOTHER ANONYMOUS LETTER

Sheriff J. D Collins has turned over to The Union-Banner a copy of another anonymous letter he has received. It reads as follows:

Dixie, Ala., Sept. 15.—Dear Sir: Why don't you get on your job and get McGee for selling whiskey and making it too. Just a public thing to see men drunk at Stanton every day. You can see him give it to men and boys in bottles. Dyer Shurter is drunk all the time on his stuff.

There is no name signed to the letter. Sheriff Collins makes the following statement about the matter:

The man or woman who wrote the above letter is no better than the man McGee who is referred to in the letter.

I raided one McGee Saturday and found nothing. I do not know whether this is the one referred to or not, and I have no way to find out because the writer of the letter was too little to sign his name or to prosecute the party either, as much as he claims to know. He could prosecute him if he wants it stopped.

Unless you can send me better information than this, you are losing time, for I will not pay any attention to it, especially if you don't sign your name.—J. D. Collins, Sheriff.

WILL LAMBERT REPORTED DYING WEDNESDAY MORNING

A message was received by J. D. Collins, Jr., Wednesday morning saying that his father-in-law, Will Lambert, was dying in a hospital in Selma. Mrs. Sarah Collins, with Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Yates, were in Selma, and sent the message back to Mr. Collins.

It is understood that Mr. Lambert has been sick for several weeks. His condition grew so serious this week that members of his family were summoned to his bedside.

For many years Mr. Lambert was a citizen of Cane Creek community in Beat 11. He moved to Selma a few years ago, where he has been engaged in business.

STRANGE NEGRO BOY TAKEN UP IN CLANTON

About a week ago a strange negro boy, eleven years old, appeared in Clanton. His actions aroused the suspicion of some citizens, and he was reported to Mrs. Stapp, of the Child Welfare Department.

Mrs. Stapp took charge of him and began to try to find out who he was and where he came from. The boy was too smart for her at first. It was apparent that he had been to lots of places and knew lots of things that the average negro boy of his age would not know.

The efforts of the child welfare worker to fathom his case were continued shrewdly and patiently. She finally got the best of him Wednesday morning when she brought him face to face with the jail house.

He told her his story. She did not of course believe him, because he had told her so much she did not know what to believe. But when his last story was checked up, it was found to be correct.

He is W. L. Davis, of Bessemer. He is an orphan, and says he ran away because he does not like to live with his grandmother. He left Bessemer last Wednesday. He was told several different stories about how he got to Clanton. On a previous adventure he says he ran away from home and went to Tuscaloosa.

Mrs. Stapp has communicated with authorities of the Child Welfare Department at Bessemer, and found that the boy has a record there. He will be returned to Bessemer where the juvenile court will take action on his case.

So far as is known, there is nothing criminal about the boy's actions. He is just a smart little boy, who has too much energy to stay in one place very long, and is too interested in life to settle down and be content with commonplace things like a home.

Relatives in Clanton received word Tuesday morning that Mrs. E. F. Greer was seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Tom Lowe, in Montgomery. Members of her immediate family were summoned to her bedside.

Lake Thompson of Jemison was here Monday and Tuesday attending court.

THE CLANTON QUARTET WILL SING AT PLEASANT GROVE

The Clanton Quartet will sing at Pleasant Grove, five miles southwest of Clanton next Sunday afternoon, September 21st. The quartet this year is composed of Akins Collins, Jesse Jones, Archie Devaughn, and Renfroe Jones, with Mr. Will Culp as manager.

NEWS FROM FLOYD

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely. Sunday was our regular preaching day. We had good attendance and hope that the interest will continue. Visitors are welcome at all times.

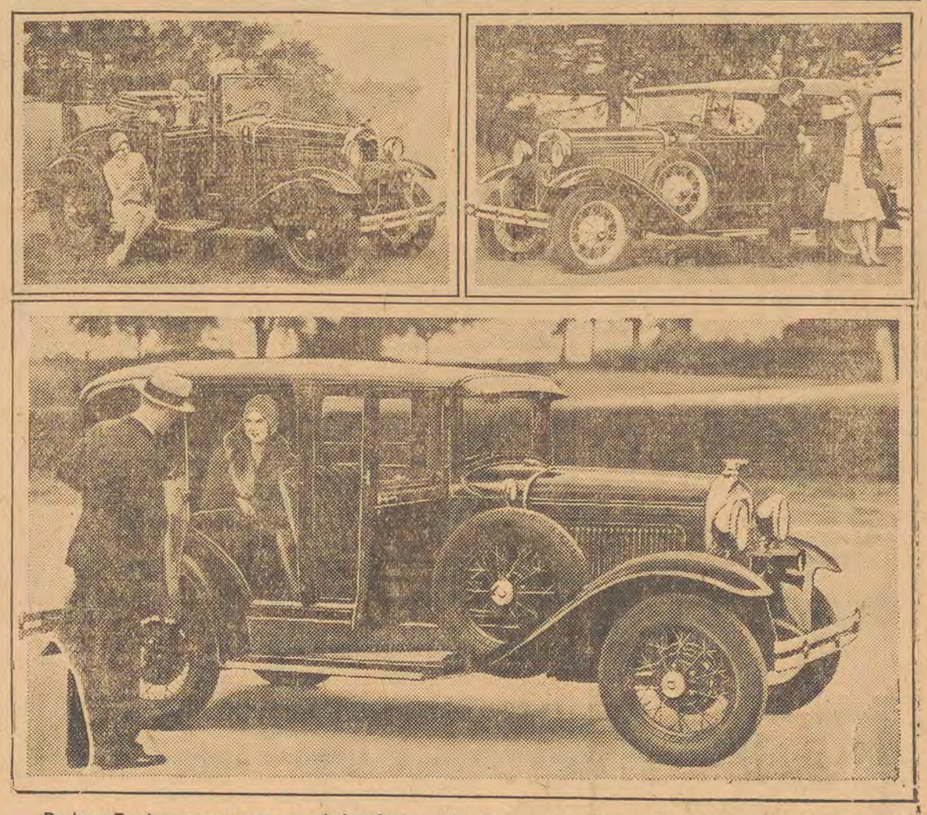
A crowd from Floyd attended the singing at Pleasant Valley Sunday. The singing was good.

Rev. Culpepper and family were the dinner guests of Will Huett Sunday.

Miss Myrtle Culpepper was the dinner guest of Mrs. Mary Smith Sunday.

Mr. Elmer Prickett and Mr. Riley Culpepper were the dinner guests of Mr. Elavis Huett Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Irby Burkhalter visited Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Prickett a few hours Sunday.



Mrs. Fan Burkhalter spent a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Courtney. Sunday.

We have been requested to announce that Rev. Billingsley will preach at Floyd the 4th Sunday of this month.

Our singing society will meet next Sunday afternoon, and we invite all to come and help with our singing.

CLANTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Much interest is being manifest in the music and art classes. Miss Morris is well trained for teaching the music, while Miss Grantham is equally well trained for teaching the art.

Each teacher now has a class in physical education, and the children are nejoying it as well as getting the greatly needed training in exercises. Each class is well planned and carefully directed.

Only about forty per cent of the incidental fees have been paid, and it is very necessary that all parents pay these fees without further delay.

Any who expects to enter the first grade must enroll this week, because they are not allowed to enroll after the first two weeks of school. If a child is six years of age on or before October 1st, he must enroll now or not at all. There will be no mid-term enrollment in January.

Some of the teachers have received lovely flowers for their rooms and wish to take this means of expressing their appreciation.

PLEASANT VALLEY

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon with a good attendance, and did some real good singing.

The society was called to order by our chairman, Mr. Marshall-Burkhalter, who sang two songs. Prayer was offered by Mr. J. D. Yeargan. The following directors were then called upon: C. M. Billingsley, H. F. Burkhalter, P. H. Headley, J. W. Cagle, Levis Huett, Elmer Prickett, Joel Prickett, S. J. Williams, Grady Davis, Riley and Dennis Culpepper.

We are very grateful to our visitors for their assistance, and cordially invite them back again.

If you want to help, by your presence and singing, a society that appreciates it most, then come to Pleasant Valley every second Sunday afternoon.

Organists for the afternoon were: Mrs. J. M. Williams and Mrs. C. M. Billingsley. We were dismissed by Bro. J. E. Lett.

JUDGE WEAVER FOR STATE SENATOR

Whatever else may be said about the action of the Republican delegates in nominating a Republican candidate for State Senator in Shelby, Chilton, and Autauga Counties, the one outstanding fact prevails that the nominee, Hon. Geo. W. Weaver, is a good man for this important office.

For many years Judge Weaver has been prominent in the public affairs of Shelby County. He has served one term as Probate Judge, having been elected to that office by the Republicans of his county.

While he has not announced himself on any of the important issues of the present campaign, we know enough about him to make us willing to take him as the Republican nominee with the full assurance that he will be found on the right side, the side of the people, in every test that will come to him if he sits in the State Senate.

The right of electing county superintendents of education by vote of the people is one that is demanded by the people of Shelby and Chilton Counties. Doubtless the people of Autauga would like to have the same privilege. We believe George Weaver will stand firmly in support of such a law in the Senate.

The present primary election system of Alabama is not popular. It is not right. Especially do many people want to see the absentee ballot business eliminated. We believe Judge Weaver will take a bold stand for a better primary election system in the State.

We commend Judge Weaver to the voters of these counties, honestly believing that he is more able and better fitted to represent us in the Senate of Alabama than is his opponent.

W. T. Rawleigh, Freeport, Ill., multi-millionaire who was chief lobbyist against increased rates in the new tariff law, and financed the University of Wisconsin professors' report against it, has factories at Montreal, Winnipeg, in Mexico, Madagascar and other foreign points. His Winnipeg factory has twenty-one acres of floor space. Opposition to an increase of tariff rates to a point where they will equal the difference in wage costs at home and abroad is led by American industrialists who have invested their money abroad, and have therefore become internationalists, many of them, like Mr. Rawleigh. Being importers of raw materials they can buy more cheaply abroad than at home, because produced by cheaper labor. It is stated that Rawleigh used his seven thousand sales agents to further his anti-tariff propaganda. One of his close friends is the radical Basil Manley, who had much to do with the Scripps-Howard chain papers' crusade against the tariff. The outcry against the new tariff largely represents the selfish desire of big interests for financial advantage, even at the sacrifice of American employment.

C. M. T. C. BENEFITS

There are varied opinions about military training in these days, but whatever one's opinion may be it is difficult to find any criticism and easy to discover much praise in the training which the C. M. T. C. students receve at Fort Ethan Allen. We believe that any impartial observer, after a visit to Fort Ethan Allen and an invistigation of conditions and activities there, would come to the conclusion that the weeks spent by the boys of the C. M. T. C. in camp stack up high on the profit side of the ledger.

The old idea that the army was made up of the scum of the country's population, boys and men who had failed elsewhere and so joined the army, is now a thing of the past. People are also getting over the impression held by many that the men of the army are a blood-thirsty crowd and that military training develops the brute instincts.

The coming of the citizen soldier has changed all this. There are now a very small percentage of professional soldiers in the United States. On the other hand, there is an increasingly high percentage of young men who are getting a knowledge of military training by spending a couple of weeks to a month in camp each year, and the camp life is giving them most of the benefits they would get from a first-class vacation, and all at the expense of the government.

As a general thing, parents and friends of the boys of the C. M. T. C. find them no worse and often improved in their moral, mental, physical and social development after two weeks in camp. The highest type of regular army and reserve officers, and that type is very high, is assigned to direct the work of the citizen soldiers.

On return to their homes, their friends who have not seen them for two weeks will find them bronzed from sun and wind, muscles hardened from outdoor drills and athletics, sound in body and alert in mind, as a result of a judicious amount of military discipline and the citizenship lectures which they receive. They learn military courtesies, which should give them a better conception of courtesy in other walks of life. They are taught a finer respect for law and order and a new conception of their nation and its government.—Burlington Free Press.

And as Uncle Sam and the nations of Latin America continually do more business with one another they will get better acquainted. The increasing number of methods of direct communication, the new steamship lines, the telephones and the press services are all very helpful. A great deal of the friction between the United States and Latin-America was due to European propaganda because Europe has controlled the avenue of news communication in and out of Latin-America. Now all of this is being changed for the better so far as Uncle Sam is concerned. We are constantly getting better acquainted with Latin-America and are finding this of benefit, not only commercially but culturally as well.

"SOLDIERS OF PROGRESS AND INDUSTRY"

"Soldiers of Progress and Industry," is the title of a well-written and very entertaining volume recently coming from the pen of Mr. John R. Hornady, one of the outstanding historians of the present generation in Alabama. In this volume Mr. Hornady becomes the outstanding chronicler of a series of events which we believe constitute the greatest period in the history of Alabama.

The central theme of interest in the book is built upon the personality and activity of Captain W. P. Lay, the founder and organizer of the Alabama Power Company. The climax of the story is reached at the dedication of Lock 12 as "Lay Dam," which was an event of nationwide interest last winter.

The life of Captain Lay has been devoted to the work of devising practical, efficient, and profitable means of harnessing the great water powers of our State and making them serve the modern uses of our industry. While this has been done, two other very important things have been kept always in the forefront of consideration, namely, the navigation of our rivers, and the coservation of our water resources, to prevent the great waste resulting from flooded streams.

Many of the citizens of Chilton County know personally of the labors of Captain Lay in the days of the beginning of our State's hydro-electric development. His work was concentrated in Chilton County, as it was here that the first plant of the Alabama Power Company, now Lay Dam, was built. To read the story of his career in the volume of Mr. Hornady is similar to turning through an old album of family pictures recounting again those familiar scenes that have grown dim with the years.

The Union-Banner was favored with a complimentary copy of "Soldiers of Progress and Industry," for which we are appreciative beyond words to express.

MORE FOR A DOLLAR

Various surveys, conducted in different parts of the nation, show that the purchasing power of the dollar is steadily increasing.

Last year commodity prices ranged from 15 to 40 per cent higher than today's level. As a consequence, the average income, from the standpoint of what it will buy, is appreciably greater than it was a year ago, but if the trend toward rising taxes of all kinds continues, the tax collector, not the public, will be the principal beneficiary of declining price levels.

If the present trend continues automobile accidents will soon cost us a billion dollars a year and will take 35,000 or more lives annually. That is a terrible price to pay for our laxity or ignorance in handling traffic.

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Chilton County High School began last Monday morning with the largest enrollment in its history. The enrollment in each class is as follows: Junior I, 44; Junior II, 40; Junior III, 34; Senior I. 41; Senior II, 49; Senior III, 19. We are glad to see this interest manifest in high school, which goes to show that the young men and young women are striving to prepare themselves for life and its activities.

Mr. Childs Visits School Monday

Mr. Childs received a most hearty response to a talk he made to the student body this week. Everyone listened with intent interest. His subject was, "I Believe." He developed the thought that we don't achieve very much unless we have faith in ourselves and that after all, we are responsible to ourselves to live the kind of life we won't be ashamed of, since we can't possibly get away from ourselves.

Landscape Gardener From Auburn Coming Soon

Mr. Walker and Mr. Varnell plan to do some very constructive work on our campus this year, but before they begin with it a landscape gardener from Auburn is to come and rearrange every thing suitable for planting all kinds of shrubbery and other plants. We feel you will be proud of our campus by next spring.

Parent-Teachers Meet

Indications are that we will have a most enthusiastic Parent-Teachers Association this year. Twenty-one mothers came out and plans were put on foot to put complete stage equipment for the auditorium. Mrs. Dr. Gragg, Mrs. John VanDeerver, and Prof. L. C. Warr were appointed as a committee to receive bids on the cost, etc. All this has been completed and work will begin soon. We hope to have the stage completed by the fifteenth of October. This will consist of a solid velure curtain which separates from the center, and all interior equipment that goes with a modern first class stage outfit. The ladies plan also to buy other stage material. The school feels grateful to the Parent-Teachers Association for all that they have and are doing for the school.

Stamps Quartette Thursday Night

The celebrated original Stamps Quartette will appear again in C. C. H. S. auditorium Thursday night at 8:00 p. m. They have delighted many audiences before, and you will miss a rare treat if you fail to come. Admission 25 and 35 cents.

Miss Gertrude Blalock has returned from a visit with relatives in Georgia. She was accompanied home by her cousin, Miss Eunice Holley of Milledgeville, Georgia. Miss Holley will attend school at Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School this year.

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes; children liked its pleasant taste. All drugstores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

FARMERS POOLED 8,500 BALES DURING PAST WEEK

During the last week the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association has received 8,500 bales of cotton on which it has advanced farmers pooling it $45.00 per bale or a total of $382,500.000. This makes a total of approximately 17,000 bales farmers have pooled within the past month, according to Allen Northington, general manager, who said yesterday afternoon that the association has advanced about $765,000.00 on the cotton despite the fact that it would have brought very little more than this samount if sold on the spot market.

The deliveries to the association this year is more than twice the deliveries to the same date last year. Thrrough September 13 last year the association had received 7,000 bales as compared with 17,000 on the same date this year. During the past week the deliveries have averaged over 1,000 bales per day despite the fact that rainy weather delayed picking and ginning in much of the state during the latter part of the week. On Thursday 1,921 bales were received by the association. This is the largest daily delivery of the season up to this date.

"Farmers pooling their cotton are doing so with the hopes that the price will advance and they can sell their cotton for more later," Mr. Northington said. He assures farmers that the cotton association will do everything is its power to assist farmers in getting better prices.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of thanking Dr. Gragg and the nurses at the Central Alabama Hospital for being so kind to us while our little girl was at the hospital. We also want to thank the people in and around Clanton for their kindness to us. May God bless each and every one of you.—Mr. and Mrs. John E. Robinson.

Mrs. Fanny Headley McDaniel of Paive, Miss., is spending a few days with the family of Mr. Jonifer Headley and some other relatives and friends in Clanton.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

Lesson for September 21

JONAH: THE NARROW NATIONALIST REBUKED

LESSON TEXT—Jonah 3:1-5,10; 4:1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—And Peter opened his mouth, and said, "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is acceptable to him.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Love for All the World.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Love for all the World.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Is True Patriotism?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Patriotism and World Brotherhood.

In teaching this lesson it will be necessary to sweep into view the entire Book of Jonah.

I. Jonah's Call and Commission (Ch. 1:1, 2).

Jonah, a Jew, was called to go and preach repentance to a Gentile city. (Gen. 12:1, 2). The story of Jonah graphically portrays the history of Israel as a nation. God separated Israel to be the channel through which his mercy and salvation are to be carried to all nations. They, like Jonah, have been recreant to duty. Because of this, God has caused them to be swallowed up by the nations which will one day spew them out upon dry ground—Palestine. After severe chastisement, they will discharge their obligation, and the nations through their ministry will repent and turn to God.

II. Jonah's Flight From Duty (1:3).

He turned his back upon God and attempted to flee from his presence. In the same way Israel has become an apostate people.

III. Jonah's Correction (1:4-2:10).

1. Overtaken by a storm (v. 4).

Trouble soon came upon the disobedient servant of God. So with the Jews, misfortune after misfortune have overtaken them because they turned from God. They are now tossed about by the surging of the nations.

2. Cast overboard (v. 15).

In their perplexity the sailors cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah. According to his own direction they cast him overboard. God had prepared a great fish which swallowed him.

3. Jonah's deliverance (Ch. 2).

Jonah in his affliction turned to God and prayed (James 5:13). God miraculously preserved him while in the belly of the fish, and he has miraculously preserved Israel in the heart of the nations. The fish could not digest Jonah, neither can the nations digest Israel. Jonah repented while in the fish. So Israel will repent as they go into the great tribulation. God made the fish to vomit out Jonah. So he will at the proper time cause the nations to cast out Israel.

IV. Jonah's Commission Renewed (Ch. 3).

His experience made him willing to do God's bidding.

1. His field (v. 3).

He was to go to Nineveh, a large city, the people of which were cruel. Israel's field is the Gentile nations.

2. His message (v. 4).

He was instructed to "preach the preaching" commanded by God. Forty days were given to the people in which to repent. God's supreme desire is that all should repent (II Peter 3:9). This message represents the heart of God in his dealing with sinners.

3. Repentance of the Ninevites (vv. 5-8).

(1) They believed God (v. 5).

They believed that God was speaking to them through Jonah about their sins, and was announcing impending judgment.

(2) They proclaimed a fast (vv. 5-8).

The king and people joined sincerely in this movement. They put on sackcloth, the sign of penitence.

(3) They reasoned that God would repent (v. 9).

The sending to them of a prophet encouraged them to believe that God would show mercy if they repented.

V. Jonah's Behavior (Jonah 4:1-11).

1. He repines at God's action (vv. 1-3).

He now makes known the real reason for his flight from duty. He knew that the gracious God would spare the people who repented. The treatment of the Israelites at the hand of the Ninevites was such that Jonah did not want God to forgive them. We have here a case of a preacher of repentance mortified when the people repent and are pardoned.

2. God reproves Jonah (vv. 4-11).

By means of the gourd God showed him his error. This closing scene affords a striking example of the patience and pity of God in contrast with the hard-heartedness of man.

Our Religion

Our religion is, indeed, a thing between God and our own soul; but it is also a thing between us and society, and to attempt to isolate and secrete it is to deprive it of a thousand influences and excitements essential to its perfection.—William L. Watkinson.

A chapter a day may not altogether keep the tempter away, but it will put him to a great disadvantage.—Watchman Examiner.

HOUSTON COUNTIAN PLANTS TREES

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15.—One of the major reforestation projects undertaken during the past year in Houston County is found on the plantation of Mr. J. W. Chappell, three and one-half miles south of Dothan, according to Mr. H. F. Matturen, division forester at Troy, Ala. A large number of tree seedlings were purchased from the State Forest Nursery and planted during February of the past winter.

Mr. Chappell shares the opinion of many other landowners throughout the state that poor land can more profitably be kept in timber than in agricultural crops. About twenty acres of the plantation were diverted to the growing of trees this year. This is only a beginning, however, and the work will continue.

Ninety per cent of the plantings was slash pine, five per cent black locust and five per cent long leaf Pine. The severe drouth of the past summer caused a serious loss among all the species but most of the trees have survived and fail spots will be planted up next year to make a fully stocked stand. The difference of one year's growth, over a long period of time, will not be perceptible in the final yield at the end of the rotation.

Mr. Chappell, who has spent many years in developing better strains of cotton, believes that reforestation work will become more widespread each year and that the complete utilization of every acre on the farm will be brought about by keeping the less productive acres in forest growth. The wisdom of confining the agricultural crops to the better soils is now apparent on his own plantation where he has made forty bales of cotton on forty acres.

Only three states in the United States have been officially designated as modified accredited areas, which means that all of their herds are practically free from bovine tuberculosis. Michigan is the third state to attain distinction. Maine and North Carolina are the others.

MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. We invite every body to come. We have Sunday School every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. We invite any one who wishes to, to come. We have 21 in the young peoples organized class, and we feel it is a great help to the church.

We also have prayer meeting each Sunday night.

WEST CHILTON

Hot showery September days, nature's beginnning to assume her usual autumal beauty.

Mr. Jackson's recent communication relative to the county farm was a revelation, in doubt to many people. Yes, we concur with Mr. Jackson, it should be a desireable place, a place o fattraction to the inmates, where they can spend their declining days in a real homey atmosphere. Everthing should be provided that reasonably could be, to render the inmates happy in their last days.

Some of the boys, Erman Crumpton, R. W. Waldrop and John Henry, recently made a fishing trip to the Coosa river. They had good luck.

Mrs. Vera Burks of Birmingham, who has been visiting her mother here made a visit last Sunday to her grandfather, Mr. Lum Atchison, at Cox's Chapel.

Mrs. Bessie Martin Bates of Sylacauga has been holding services from house to house in this section.

We doubt if any county in the State has a more pains-taking, obliging, efficient set of officials than our connty has. Of courses they make mistakes like we all do, no one expects perfection of them. But we are sure no one is uneasy about the affairs of the county. Everyone feels that our affairs are in the safe hands of those officials elected by the people. Some of them have grown old in the service and they are devoted now to the people as much as ever. Their administration keeps the county going forward and such efficient service is entitled to the appreciation of the people.

Next the county newspaper, how could we do without? This is a time of the great dailies, but no daily can supplant the weekly county paper, it is a home production, it gives us home news. It publishes all our programs and announcements free. Time has been when a bill would have come to you for charges for publishing programs. Even now our little local cemetery workings are announced in the county paper. We know it is more eagerly sought and more welcome than any daily. It tells of our marriages, your deaths, your singings your schools and all your public interests,it keeps us in touch with each other. It broadens our acquaintances and if it came oftener than once a week it would be welcome.

Prof H. A. Harris attended a State Sunday School conference at Haleyville last week. Mr. Harris is president of the associational Sunday School work in Chilton County. He states that he will make a profound effort to get at least four Sunday Schools in Chilton County to attain the Standard of Excellence during the coming year.

SERVICES AT ALDRICH

Rev. Glenn V. Tingley, the radio evangelist, will preach at Aldrich Church, Monday evening, September 29th, at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Bob Jones, one of the world's greatest evangelists, will preach at Aldrich Sunday, October 5th, at 4:00 p. m.

Everybody is cordially invited to attend these services. I trust you will find it convenient to be with us. —E. E. Craig.

Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

LAWLEY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lovelady entertained at their home last Saturday evening, an immense crowd at a B. Y. P. U. social. Many games were played indoors, and on the lawn, after which delicious refreshments were served to about twenty-three guests.

Miss Alvis Latham and Miss Pearl Gentry assisted the hostess in serving refreshments. Every one reported a grand time. Mr. and Mrs. Lovelady are noted ofr their hospitality and it is indeed a privilege to be invited to their home.

Mrs. Robert Yarn has charge of Junior B. Y. P. U., and is to be commended for the faithful service that she is showing toward teaching the little boys and girls the word of God, causing their lives to be molded into things worth while. Causing their lives to shine.

Among the visitors at B. Y. P. U. services Sunday night were: Mr. Edward Littlejohn, Mr. Woodfin Littlejohn, and sister, Mary Olive. So glad to have them with us. Hope they come again.

Mrs. Ples. White and brother, Mr. Geo. Watson, of Tuscaloosa, and another brother, Mr. Sam Watson of Selma, and Mrs. T. R. Waldrop of Selma were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Hicks last week.

It will be gratifying news to the many friends of Mrs. Parlee Lawley to learn that she is able to walk now without the aid of crutches. Mrs. Lawley had the misfortune of falling and breaking her hip. She was in Selma Hospital for some time, then at home for 10 weeks in a cast. It is wonderful how she patiently endured her suffering. She is between 70 and 80 years of age.

The stork has been a regular visitor to this community the past week, leaving with Mr. and Mrs. Madison Young on Wednesday a baby girl, another baby girl the same day with Mr. and Mrs. Simmons, and on Friday a baby girl with Mr. and Mrs. Grady McKee. Congratulations are in order.

Miss Irene Smitherman, who for two years was a literary teacher here, was back with us Sunday visiting friends. Irene is now in training to be a nurse, in Birmingham. We are sorry she cannot teach again this year. We wish her success with her work.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bolling of Montgomery were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Mount last Sunday afternoon. Eugene is a Bibb County boy from Centerville. He has many high school mates here who were pleased to see him.

Mr. Jesse Latham has moved into his new home.

UNIVERSITY NEWS ITEMS

University, Ala., Sept 15.—Despite business depression over the country, enrollment at the University of Alabama at the end of the first week of school showed a sizeable increase over the enrollment at the same time last year, according to an announcement by Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University.

Figures issued by the registrar show a net increase of 379 students over the enrollment at the same time in 1929. Assuming that registration will continue at a normal rate, this gives a total enrollment for the year of approximately 3,900, as compared to a total of 3,596 last year.

At the close of the first week of school on September 13, 3,591 students had registered at the University. At the corresponding date in 1929, 3,212 students had enrolled, with a total registration for the session of 3,596. This gives an increase of 379. Comparative figures, therefore, indicate that enrollment for this year should be about 3,900.

Dr. Denny issued the following statement in connection with the increase in enrollment:

"The registrar again reports a record-breaking registration in spite of the somewhat unusual economic conditions. One year ago, at the end of the first week, there were registered 3,212 students. On the corresponding day this year, 3,591 students have already enrolled. This represents a gain to date of 379. The registration for 1930-31 should, therefore, approximate the 3,900 mark as compared with a total of 3,596 for the entire session of 1929-30, assuming a normal registration from this time forward."

Miss Lillia Belle Riggins, who has been attending Massey Business College in Birmingham, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Riggins. Miss Riggins has recently made a trip to Illinois, and several other states. She will return to Birmingham soon to take up her stenographic work there.

County Superintendent of Education, Buford Lawrence, was in Montgomery Monday atended a conference of a number of the county superintendents with officials of the State Department of Education.

Prof. Marion S. Smith entered the State Teachers College at Livingston Monday. Mr. Smith is the husband of Mrs. Jewel Martin Smith of the Chilton County Department of Education.

Sam Upchurch has gone back to Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn., where he will resume his studies in medicine.

Mr. Thilo Fiering, of Chicago, has been in Clanton for the past week visiting several of his old friends and acquaintances.

UNION GROVE

Sunday was our regular preaching day. Rev. Bean, from Bessemer, filled his appointment here Saturday night, Sunday, and Sunday night.

Our Sunday School is doing nicely. Had a good attendance Sunday. We also had with us Sunday night the B. Y. P. U. from Jemison, which put on a good program that was enjoyed by all that was present. We were glad to have them visit us, and invite them back again.

The United Singing Society met here Sunday afternoon. The singing was enjoyed very much, as we had a new book. Singing was opened with a song by our president, Mr. Akins Collins, and prayer offered by the pastor, Rev. Bean. Directors for the afternoon were: Messrs. A. H. Glasscock, O. B. Robinson, Floyd Little and Akins Collins. Organists were Mrs. Akins Collins and Misses Jessie Dorminey, Guyeulla Collins and Lillie Mae Weldon.

The society meets at Collins Chapel next Sunday afternoon.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and relatives for their kindness to us during the short illness and death of our baby, which was taken sick Sunday night, September 7th, and died Monday, September 8th.—Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bates.

STATE CAPITOL News

Need of cooperative action on the part of pecan growers to develop markets for their product and handle its sale in the most business-like manner was stressed recently by Lloyd Abbot of Spring Hill, vice-president of the National Pecan Marketing Association, and a member of the Alabama State Board of Agriculture. Mr. Abbott is a prominent grower of pecans and satsuma oranges in the Gulf Coast country. The present situation confronting pecan growers of the South is anything but heassuring, according to those well-informed on the situation, with the prospect of an overdevelopment of the industry unless new markets are found. On a recent visit to Montgomery Mr. Abbot hailed as an encouraging sign the willingness of growers of pecans to get together for mutual benefit and protection. There is plenty of power and push manifest behind the present drive for membership in the Alabama Pecan Growers Association, recently formed in Montgomery to handle cooperatively the pecans grown in central Alabama, and members are enrolling in increasing numbers.

With regard to the production of pecans Mr. Abbot said:

"With the rapid increase in the number of trees, the prospect of an overdevelopment of the industry must be faced in the near future. Ten cents per pound for pecans is as ruinous as five cents for cotton. Unless cooperative means can induce a greater use of pecans the industry cannot but face disaster.

"Already when the country produces 40 million pounds of pecans, which is but 5 ounces, or a double handful per person, there is a glut in the market and the price sinks below the cost of growing them. What shall we do when the present trees begin to produce fully and ripen, say 80 million pounds or more of pecans?

"There is but one remedy to this question. A more extended market must be found. The peanut is eaten 12 months in the year. There is no reason why the pecan might not also be sold throughout the year. The peanut is already established in the taste customs of the American people, the pecan is limited to about 2 months in the fall and holiday season.

"The great task of the United pecan growers of the South is to put on a great movement to educate the public to like pecans and to eat them 12 months in the year. Just at present, the nation cannot consume on the average of a good handful of pecans annually."

Mr. Abbot, who is sponsoring a drive for the purpose of inducing Alabama growers of pecans to join the great cooperative movement, said that the workers were meeting with unexpected success in organnization. He said that pecan growers as a class were well aware of the danger of overproduction and that they had all experienced losses due to large crops in recent years.

"The work of organization is not hard. We have very little difficulty in securing members. Growers realize fully the danger ahead and are anxious to steer clear of the rocks in time to avoid shipwreck. One big grower who has received as high as forty cents per pound for his crop and again has had to be content with fifteenn cents per pound, said to me: 'I certainly want to join your cooperative organization. Unless we stick together and develop a market, there won't be any market inside of three years. Over in Georgia, folks dug up their peach orchards because they could not find a market. I don't want to dig up my orchard, which has been my pride for nearly 20 years and I'm ready for the dotted line!' "

Mr. Abbot said that unless more markets were developed very soon disaster would befall growers. He said that a large number of signers had joined and that nearly all of this year's crops, as produced by big growers would be handled cooperatively.

GAMBLERS AND SPECULATORS, AND NOT 'HOOVERCRATS' HAVE BROKEN THE BANKS

Real estate, the gamblers and speculators have broken banks and caused our business institutions to wobble like the Democratic party of 1928 fame, dizzily swaying in its drunken jubilee over the nomination of Al Smith & Co.

Real estate firms have dug into bank resources to the tune of millions of dollars. The political propagandists—eager to down the move to restore American principles at governmental heads—seize the opportunity of the disaster threatening the nation to fasten the blame on "Hoovercrats."

President Hoover is not responsible for Alabama conditions any more than the Governor of California or any other state is. Those who are responsible are those spoilers whose hands were permitted to ransack the funds entrusted to our banks. Real estate speculators and other gamblers have about ruined the district in their greed for wealth.

The honest citizens and our smaller business institutions have held together and propped up the shaking structures to the best of their ability. Hoover, himself, rallied to the crisis and has endeavored to stabilize conditions brought about by those who have followed un-American principles in foreign alliances and attempting to acquire wealth at the public's expense. How long our country can hold up in the face of false propaganda spread from the camps of the ambitious politicians and schemers for power, is a serious question.

All patriotic citizens should rally to the cause of the republic in distress, regardless of political propagandists and their false reports. Traitors who have ruined while they ruled and would rule and ruin again.

The propagandists in Alabama are the ones who have caused the financial distress. They gambled on the Hoover boom, and helped to send the stock market swaying beyond all reason. Now they would place the blame on the "Hoovercrats." They speculated millions of dollars in real estate, stocks and bonds. Their speculations were based on sorry estimates. But banks have gone under as a result of their rash gambling.

"Hoovercrats" are to blame, say the propagandists, seeking to cover thir own tracks in the unprincipled business.—The Jefferson Countian.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

In a recent interesting article in the Washington Star, Dr. Thomas H. Healy, professor of Foreign Relations, Georgetown University School of Foreign Service, pointed out the significance of the new era in the affairs of the United States and Latin America, together with the tremendous changes in the commercial, political and social relations between Uncle Sam and the nations to the south during the past twenty years. Only two decades ago we had comparatively little to do with Latin America, and what few little relations we had were generally irritating and unsatisfactory. Our own people dismissed Latin America from their minds as a land of irresponsibility and of a multitude of revolutions. The Latin Americans looked on us simply as imperialists who were trying to run the entire Western Hemisphere without consulting any of the other nations on this side of the Atlantic. Perhaps the misunderstanding was aided by European propaganda, designed to keep us apart. At any rate England, France and Germany enjoyed all of the foreign trade most of the financial investments in South and Central America. There was little direct communication between the two Americas.

Now all of this isolation has changed, as Dr. Healy points out in the following words: "Truly startling changes have been wrought in all this within the last few years. Last year our trade with Latin America was approximately $2,000,000,000 or approximately three times as great as it was 20 years ago. In both imports and exports we had a greater total than our three principal competitors, Great Britain, France and Germany, combined. Today we occupy first place in sales to every one of the Latin-American countries without exception. Our financial investments in Latin-America today are over $5,500,000,000 or almost five times as great as they were twenty years ago. The capital that we have invested today in Venezuela is more than all the capital we had invested in the entire continent of South America twenty years ago. A number of important press organizations and newspapers of the United States now have their own representatives in Latin-America, reporting accurately and completely to the American public events and situations in Latin America; the space now devoted to such purposes in our magazines and newspapers is many times greater than it was even ten years ago. From the telephones in any large city in the United States it is now possible to talk by telephone or radio telephone to a number of the capitals of Latin-America and in the space of a few minutes."

All of which is decidedly interesting and furnishes the one bright spot in the foreign trade picture. It is becoming increasingly evident that we cannot hope for greatly increased exports of our manufactured goods to the countries of Europe which have highly developed manufacturing industries of their own, in competition with those of the United States. But the situation with respect to Latin-America is entirely different. We can sell them and are selling them great quantities of our finished products, an in return are receiving from them even greater quantities of commodities which we cannot produce in the United States but which we need for the consumption of our own people. Tariff differences therefore between the United States and Latin-America can be kept at a minimum, especially as compared to our European tariff problems, and there is almost no limit to the possibilities of trade increase between the United States and Latin-America.

REVOLUTION HAD A REAL GIRL SOLDIER

Few if any of our school histories have any account of the girl-soldier of the Revolution who disguised herself as a continential soldier and served honorably against the British until wounded in action. The girl was Deborah Sampson, and she was inspired not alone by patriotism but by the desire to avoid an unwelcome suitor whom her mother wanted her to marry. There is an interesting story of Deborah in the current issue of the National Republic under the title "When Deborah Went to War." In writing of Deborah Sampson, G. L. Waddell, the author, says:

"Mrs Sampson little dreamed what would be the consequences of her matchmaking activities when she chose what she considered a suitable husband for her daughter. Deborah, an eighteenth century New England school teacher, had reached the ripe age of twenty-two and her mother thought it high time that she abandon her blue-stocking activities and settle down as the model housewife she had trained her to be.

"Teaching school was a man's job. Women teachers were unpopular and did not earn enough to keep soul and body together. Her father, a notorious ne'er-do-well, was dead and the widowed mother had no means of supporting the girl. The only alternative to provide her room and board was to put her out in domestic service. That had already been tried and abandoned. Marriage seemed to be a sensible solution.

"Deborah did not agree. She had nothing against the young man in qnestion except that he bored her, as possibly did the quiet village life of Middleborough, Mass. It was futile, she knew, to argue with her determined mother, so, after considerable thought, she hit upon the desperate expedient of enlisting in the army to escape being pushed into unwelcome matrimony.

"She was a slim, tall girl, five feet seven, to be exact. She stood very straight and spoke in a pleasant contralto. Carefully disguised, she believed she could pass for a boy of eighteen. She decided on some preliminary experiments. Upon two occasions, unknown to the owner, she borrowed the clothing of a neighbor boy and criculated about the town without her masquerade being detected. The first time was at night. In male attire she visited a local tavern and drank and talked with the young bloods of the village who, it is said, were somewhat shocked by the boisterous behavior of the mysterious young stranger. Emboldened by this success and needing pocket money, she made a second experiment in broad daylight. In the same suit she presented herself at the local recruiting station and enlisted under a fictious name, receiving the usual bounty granted volunteers at that time. Then she returned to her home, resumed her woman's garb and failed to show up at the army post. The recruiting officer could find no trace of the deserter until he found the clue in a remark he remembered having heard an old woman make who had been warming herself by his fire at the time the missing recruit was signing the papers. 'He holds his pen just like Debbie Sampson,' the old woman had said, referring to the awkward grip the school mistress had because of a disabled finger. Deborah, being charged with the hoax, freely admitted it. The matter was dismissed as a girlish prank, after she had returned such of the bounty money as had not been already spent.

"Deborah did not intend to be detected a second time so, when she finally made her bona fide three-year enlistment in April, 1781, she took the precaution of running away from the negihborhood in which she was well known and offered herself at the recruiting office in Worcester where she was accepted.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Last week, when we set out to fill up the old POT, it was quite a job—nothing with which to fill it. This week we had a good bunch of material all laid out to use, when—Lo! Behold! Things began to happen so thick and fast that the question now is: How will we ever have room to mention all of 'em? We'll try. Here goes!

One little item of interest we learned of the past week end is that the egg and chicken buyers around here pay about as much attention to the weight of eggs as they do to the number—that is, a dozen eggs must weigh so much before they are REAL eggs. That's news. We always thought a dozen was a dozen, the only distinction being as to whether they were hen eggs, duck eggs, turkey eggs, or those of the vegetable variety. We give up—there's lots to be learned yet, not that we had any idea we knew all there was to learn. Let's all go to school.

Speaking of school brings up another interesting little item. We note with interest that the Clanton Grammar School opened last Monday, 25 years ago, with an enrollment of 88. That was including the 10th grade, and the total enrollment on opening day for Clanton's school, that being the only one in town then. A little questioning has brought out the fact that the two largest Clanton schools opened this year with an enrollment totaling 501. A 569 per cent increase. Whew! That's growing.

Another item of interest noticed this week is that the price of cotton is approximately the same as that of exactly 25 years ago—10 cents per pound. The forecast at this time 25 years ago, for the nation, was something better than nine million bales, while this year it is for a bit over 14 million. Who said things were in as bad shape as they had EVER been. That reads like in our little book that the cotton farmers of America should receive something like 250 million dollars more for this year's crop than they did back in 1905, and they didn't starve to death back then—why should we starve this year? Cheer up! We're well off and don't know it.

One of the "upper class-men," so to speak, of Clanton, came thru the town with his family late last Sunday afternoon in a manner that would tend to show what an advocate of Democracy he really is. No, no, good folks, not that—we didn't mean he tried to show that he was a Democrat instead of the so-called "polly-wogger." What we were trying to say was that he wasn't ashamed to be seen in an old run-down-at-the-heel Ford like the most of us HAVE to travel in, although he DOES own a big car that takes about three acres to turn it in. They came clucking up the street in an old "Henry" of about the '23 or '24 vintage, and seemed to be getting a great kick out of it—or maybe it was bumps they were getting instead of kicks. Any way, the whole outfit were wearing big, broad smiles.

Elsewhere in this issue there may be found the anonuncement of the entertainment to be givn tonight at the High School auditorium by the Stamps Quartet. This is one of the Stamps outfit's best quartets, and you all know they serve good ones. The admission will be reasonable and considerate of the "hard times." Come! You will enjoy the program. And just a word about what to expect.

This particular quartet will be composed of V. O. Stamps, W. B. Kitts, W. Z. Kitts, and Jeff Duncan, with M. L. Yandell at the piano. Now, Mr. Yandell sings, and how! But the misery he deals a piano is something else again. If you like to listen to a fellow play who REALLY knows how to get all over the keyboard, and ring in all those little half-grown notes you notice sticking around in the songs in your book, just be on hand when the curtain rises tonight—Mr. Yandell knows his oats when it comes to "tickling the ivories." The Kitts brothers (they're twins, by the way) will be on hand, and "Mike" and "Ike" are as unalike as a hawk and a canary by the side of these two fellows—and the canaries aren't in it with them, either. Another member of the bunch, Mr. Duncan, the "blues" specialist, deals 'em out in all the many hues from the nicely light-tinted ones all the way on down to the darkest, the kind known as "blue-black." And Mr. Stamps, the bass of the troupe, is the diggin'est thing out yet—he believes in getting to the bottom of things. When you hear Mr. Stamps really going down for the low tones you'll likely wish you'd run up the side windows on your sedan, because that thunder sounds like the shower won't be long getting here. Test yourself—if you don't like the Stamps Quartet, you'll know you don't like good muse, and singing.

Clanton elected a new Mayor and Council last Monday. And what a race it was, especially the Mayor's race. And how those fellows did work, and pull. Mr. Smith, the man elected for Mayor, should prove to be one of the best the town has ever had. We believe he is just the kind of man Clanton needs to continue the line of progress she has been setting for the last few years. An up-to-the-minute business man, an optimist, a man in whom Clanton's people have implicit confidence and for whom they have the highest regard, he should make a good official. People like to work WITH a man like J. Lee Smith, and that kind of state of affairs always works together for the good of all concerned. And, too, Mr. Smith will be fortunate in having a fine set of men as Councilmen. With a farmer, two merchants, a lumberman, and a banker, all successful in their respective lines of work, as Councilmen, Clanton has another good reason to look forward to an era of the utmost success and prosperity. We join with others in congratulating the successful candidates. And, more than that, we congratulate Clanton's people, that they have seen fit to elect such a fine array of officials.

All the boys, young and old, were having a great time of it Monday night, as they waited for the returns from the city election. All were anxious to hear the returns read aloud as often as information was given out. Meantime, they joked among themselves, drug out all the good ones, dusted off the old dusty ones and told 'em all over again, and just had a good time generally. Although the race was hot—awful hot—the fellows showed no war clouds. As the saying go "a great time was had by all."

Unless you paid your poll tax this year and are in on all this voting we're having this year you don't know what you're missing. Just think how many good hot elections we're getting to decide. We reckon as how it fits in pretty nicely with all the "hard times" that we can get so much fun for $1.50, and be doing our duty, too.

Next week, unless material runs away with us again, like it did this week, we'll follow up our original intention of putting the Republican county roster under the "eagle's eye." We'll take 'em up, one at the time, and tell you just how good they all really are—if there's anything wrong with any of 'em we don't know it now, and, for a fact, we never were good at nosin' around and pickin' flaws.—"JACK".

BANISHING "MOTHER"

The American "youth movement," we are told, insists that "Mother" must be abandoned. We are told that "Father" and "Mother" imply a submissiveness out of all harmony with the cynical omniscience of emancipated souls who are looking forward to fullest exemplification of their "careers," "self-expression" and the sloppy silliness of hard-boiled cynicism which has grown to regard normal affection for parents as an interference with the freedom to which their colossal degeneracy entitles them.

So Mother is to become "Gate," or "Fan," or "Sal," "Old Girl," or "Sis." Well, the biological relation between parent and child perhaps is a bit singular. To the "enlightened" and "emancipated" progeny of the adolscent age of the present it indeed may be something to be ashamed of!

True parenthood will never be dragged into the slime of abnormal perversion such as is here manifest in the contemplation of "liberated souls." No child born of woman that is worthy to live will ever forget or fail to experience and express the love, reverence and devotion which are a mother's due.

There is no name below the stars so sweet as that of Mother. It sings in the soul of every worth-while mortal so long as life may last. It will take more than the hard-boiled cynicism and mocking mushiness of biological youthful moral derelicts to banish a name and designation dear in the thought of angels and of normally human men and women since the beginnings of the race.—Cincinnatti Enquirer.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

Friends and Gentle Readers: I shall start our little corner chat this week by telling you something about the great meeting last Saturday afternoon when a courthouse full of folks met with the Commissioners Court to have a discussion pro and con relative to the work of our county farm agent, Mr. C. E. Stapp. One "strange" impression I got was that the meeting did not not turn out according to the call that was made for it. What I mean is that everything was "pro" and the "con" part was conspicuous by its failure to show up at all.

In a very clever manner Judge Reynolds opened the meeting by stating the purpose for which the assembly was gathered. He declared the house in order to proceed with the business, and asked Mr. Stapp first to give an account of his work. With a bit of detail Mr. Stapp gave a lot of facts and figures, telling all about his work among the people of the county. He had it all figured out just how many farmers have called on him for advice at his office; how many farmers he has visited at their homes and farms; how many letters he has sent out on farm subjects; how many meetings of different kinds he has held in the county, and so forth and so on.

After he had finished with the itemized statement, he broadened out upon some of the general applications of his work, and expressed something of his own personal ideals about the subjects of farm life and the personal interest he has in the general program of advancement of agriculture and the well-being of folks who constitute our agricultural industry. I thought it was the best speech I ever heard Stapp make.

Then came the time for the people to do the talking. And they talked freely. First one and then another, citizens, farmers, bankers, preachers, school teachers, business men—all classes were represented in the number which took advantage of the opportunity to express themselves. Were they all for Stapp? Well, I should say so; and you ought to have heard them. I never in my life heard a more thorough and general note of satisfaction expressed about anything than that which was accorded the work of Mr. Stapp in this meeting.

After a while we began to think it was unanimous for Stapp, and O. R. Robinson arose and expressed the desire to hear from some of those who were opposed to the county agent. Charley Duke got up and I wondered if it were possible that he was going to be the first one to break out on the opposition side. It was a tense moment. Instead of voicing objection to the work, Mr. Duke only brought the support of the crowd asked that all in favor of Mr. Stapp and his work to a grand, unanimous, and final climax. He stand up. Everybody in the house arose. Then he asked all who were opposed to Mr. Stapp and his work to stand up. Not a single soul stirred.

And there you have the story, kind friends. Out of a whole courthouse full of folks, people from all over the county, not one single soul would even raise a voice in objection to the work of our county farm demonstration agent. The result and the weight of that one meeting has more significance than all the words in the world can tell.

It is a known fact that not many years ago only a few people in Chilton County were in favor of county agent work. They were as a bit of leaven which seems now to have leavened the whole. People of Chilton County, in the last few years, have been traveling the upward road in education, in efficiency, in diversification, in the acquirement and application of knowledge that is helpful and profitable to our farmers. It was proven by that meeting Saturday.

I am indeed glad that our commissioners gave the folks an opportunity to express themselves, and I am furthermore glad that our folks took advantage of the opportunity. And best of all am I glad that when they spoke, they were unanimous in their approval of progress.

Our friend, Horace Davis, was carried away Tuesday afternoon to begin serving his sentence under the law for his misdeeds in connection with the Bank of Verbena. It grieves my heart to say the words, and I know that I am just one of many others who are grieved. No man ever had more promise of good fortune, comfort, esteem, respect, and confidence, than did Horace Davis. What it was that caused him to throw it all away, I shall never understand. Only God, in His infinite grace, can ever balance the books for Horace. My hope is that he may live and go through the ordeal like the man he is capable of being, and some day come to the place where he can embrace his dear ones in purity and love graciously restored, with all the soiled spots of his life washed white as snow.

I am thinking of those who, in spite of all condemnation, in spite of all fear, in spite of all the world, will continue to have faith in him and love him. That bit of faith shines out before them, the one great impulse that calls them onward through the days and weeks and years. Let us hope and pray and be faithful. The end is not yet. It is not God's purpose that human life shall be a mismatched, unbalanced, and totally disappointing thing.

"The web of life is of a mingled yarn, good and ill together: our virtues would be proud if our faults whipped them not; and our crimes would despair if they were not cherished by our virtues."

"Hope is like the sun, which, as we journey towards it, casts the shadow of our burden behind us."

All of the unemployment in the United States can be fully explained by a visit to American merchandising establishments and an inspection of the proportion of foreign goods displacing the similar output of American labor working at higher wages.

American statesmen with international yearnings might learn something to their advantage by contemplating the fact that the recent Tory party landslide in Canada was the result of a campaign in which unhyphenated Canadianism, and "Canada First" even as against other parts of the British Empire was made paramount.

The Moscow directed Reds have quite a system. When their Russian homeland dumps shiploads of pulpwood, timber, coal, manganese or what-not produced by slave labor on stolen property, in American ports, they go to the forests and mines where American workmen have been thrown out of jobs through these importation, and urge them to rise up against a government which can't furnish them work.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

COUNTY AGENT URGES PLANTING OF LEGUMES

Year after year Alabama farmers increase their corn and cotton production by growing winter legumes, hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas. By increasing their production they also increase their income. County Agent, C. E. Stapp, has gathered evidence of this fact from various points over Alabama. He assures farmers that just as great profit can be expected by planting legumes in this county.

$1808 Invested Returned $11,103.09

Eutaw, Ala.—$1808 were invested in winter legumes in Greene County in 1928 and a net profit of $11,-103.09 realized in 1929 from this investment, according to H. C. Appleton, county agent.

J. C. Poole of Greene County sowed 75 acres of land in vetch and Austrian winter peas after well fertilized cotton. It cost him $245 to sow the winter legumes.

When the legumes were large enough to furnish grazing he brought 25 head of poor cattle, grazed them two weeks and sold them at a profit of $150. Many more cattle could have been grazed on the field easily.

The legumes were turned and the land planted in cotton. An average of 900 pounds of seed cotton per acre was made. This is 525 pounds more than the county average.

Mr. Poole made $2334.37 on his cotton and $150 on the cattle, making a total of $2484.37 made on 75 acres.

14 Bales on 14 Acres

Opelika, Ala.—R. G. Sugg, county agent of Lee County reports that Mr. Isham Dorsey in 1928 turned under. Austrian winter peas on March 20, and three weeks later planted cotton. On 14 acres he picked 14 bales, averaging 500 pounds each.

Vetch Worked Miracles on Calhoun Farm

Anniston, Ala.—In the fall of 1925, F. C. Dulaney, Calhoun County, did not believe vetch would work on his poor farm. But the county agent, S. R. Doughty, prevailed with him to sow five afres. Corn, in 1926 following the vetch, made 32 bushels per acre while corn not following winter legumes made only 10 bushels per acre.

In the fall of 1926 he sowed 12 acres; in 1927, 21 acres; and in 1928, 25 acres.

The corn yield of the farm has been brought from 10 bushels per acre to 35 bushels and the cotton yield from one-third ale per acre to four-fifths ale.

In 1928 he made 19 1-2 bales on 15 acres, with an average of only 25 pounds of nitrate of soda applied at planting time.

Mr. Dulaney turned 25 acres of vetch and Austrian winter peas in the spring of 1929 but owing to hoppers and dry weather he averaged only .6 bale per acre. Nevertheless he sowed 30 acres of winter legumes in the fall of 1929 and every farmer in his community sowed from 5 to 40 acres each.

Mr. Dulaney in commenting on the value of vetch on his farm said: "Vetch has actually worked miracles on my old poor soil. All I had ever gotten was barely a living. Vetch enabled me ao build a home, install lights and water, and give my children a chance."

Legumes Add $100,000 to County Income

Linden, Ala.—In five years winter legumes have added more than $100,000 to the income of Marengo County farmers by increasing their yields, according to R. D. Winch, county agent.

Corn following vetch in Marengo County in 1927 averaged 34 bushels per acre, while fertilized with 200 pounds of nitrate of soda averaged 27 bushels, and corn receiving no fertilizer made only 14 bushels per acre.

$19.10 Per Acre Profit From Legumes

Abbeville, Ala.—"A survey of the winter legumes demonstrations in Henry County shows that farmers in 1927 realized a net profit of $19.10 per bale, from the use of these crops," reports C. S. Keller. At the same time M. Keller reports a big increase of winter legumes planted in the county.

In 1927, some 10,000 pounds were planted. In 19298 this was increased to over 32,000 pounds, while in 1929 86,000 pounds of Austrian winter peas were planted.

Marion, Ala.—After causing his cows to increase their production by one-third between January 6, 1929, and early spring, A. S. Eiland turned under 10 acres of Austrian winter peas and produced 5,767 pounds of lint cotton on this land. He fertilized the cotton with 300 pounds of superphosphate and 50 pounds of muriate of potash.

Corn Yield Increased 18,900 bushels

Russellville, Ala.—J. D. Wood, county agent, says that reports from 150 farmers of Franklin County covering 900 acres show an average increase of 21 bushels of corn per acre. This is a total increase of 18,900 bushels of corn for the county from the use of winter legumes and means that the cover crop has been worth at least $18,900.00 to the county.

Four Times More Corn After Legumes

Huntsville, Ala.—Because his corn yield was more than four times that not following vetch, C. H. Hunt of New Hope has increased his vetch planting from five acres to forty acres, reports J. B. Mitchell, county agent, Madison County.

County Agent Mitchell, also reports that O. C. Hammond of Deposit had five acres in vetch and Austrian winter peas in 1928, and made ten tons of feed following this. In 1929 he doubled his vetch acreage. "Such results as these caused the farmers of the county to plant 11,000 pounds of winter legumes in 1929 compared with 5,500 in 1928," Mr. Mitchell said.

GREEN FIELD VITAL NEED OF POULTRY

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 15.—Green feed is a vital necessity in the poultry ration and is especially needed because it helps prevent nutritional troubles similar to roup which are prevalent in Alabama.

This statement is made by H. R. Bailey, assistant extension poultryman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who suggests crops to plant. Oats and rape may be seeded alone or together in September and, if planted on good soil and well fertilized, will furnish grazing within 30 days, he said. Mr. Bailey recommends the planting of two bushels of oats per acre and six to eight pounds of rape per acre. He says that these crops may be planted continuously up to November and will give a supply of succulent green feed until February or March. In north Alabama he says wheat or rye may be substituted for oats since they are less subject to winter killing.

Mr. Bailey also said that Austrian winter peas produce good green feed for late winter and spring. They should be planted in October at the rate of 30 pounds per acre.

For spring and summer the poultrymen recommends Sudan grass and soybeans. Sudan may be planted any time during the summer, he said. Soybeans of the Otootan or Laredo varieties should be planted in April or May and will supply green feed until frost. Cowpeas is another crop that may be used as a summer green feed crop.

SECOND HEALTH RACE FOR 4-H CLUB GIRLS

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 15.—Thirteen thousand Alabama 4-H club girls living on farms in 42 counties are preparing to enter a health contest. It opens October 1 and will end with the state short course for club girls at Auburn in May, 1931. It will be the second annual 4-H health contest in Alabama and is being sponsored by extension workers of Auburn, county home demonstration agents, the State Health Department, and county health units.

Miss Bess Fleming of Auburn, state specialist in 4-H club work, states that the contest will consist of a preliminary physical examination by a physician to determine defects, a systematic health habit record to record efforts at improvement, health programs at meetings, and a second physical examination in April and May to measure results.

County health champions will be named in the 42 counties and these will compete at Auburn during the State short course and a State health champion wil lbe selected. The State champion is expected to compete in the national 4-H contest at Chicago next fall.

The contest will be conducted on a basis of health improvement, Miss Fleming said. Objectives are to teach standard requirements for proper growth, nutrition, and posture, to develop good food and growth hagits and simple posture exercises, and to demonstrate to communities the advantages of good food and health habits in developing healthier boys and girls.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Every year an average of 143,-500 forest fires damage some 36,-000,000 acres of timberland in the United States. Ninety per cent of these fires are caused by man, and are preventable.

More than 6,425,000 hunting licenses for taking wild game were issued to sportsmen throughout the United States, including Alaska in the season 1928-29. The revenue to the states amounted to more than $9,390,000. This sum includes receipts from combined hunting and fishing licenses but not licenses issued for fishing only.

HEAVY COTTON CROP MEANS LOW PRICES

Alabama farmers will gather a crop of 1,357,000 bales this fall, according to the crop forecast released this week by F. W. Gist, federal and state statistician with the Alabama Department of Agriculture and Industries. This is an increase of 146,000 bales over the indicated yield of August 1st. The present indicated yield, if gathered, will be the biggest crop since 1926, when 1,498,000 bales were ginned.

The statistician further says that only one and a half acres in every hundred acres were abandoned. This leaves 3,608,000 acres of Alabama cotton to ripen. Alabama cotton will, it is estimated, yield at the rate of 180 pounds of lint per acre this year. This is a heavy yield and is exceeded in recent years by 1926 with 196 pounds and 1925 with 185 pounds per acre. It is possible that this year's acre yield will be more than 180 pounds.

Alabama has slightly fewer acres than last year, when the yield was 178 pounds per acre. This year's yield per acre will be above the eleven year average from 1918 to 1929, inclusive, which was 159 pounds per acre.

The crop has been injured very little by the weevil or other insect enemies. Reports of drouths have been rather alarming, but the report seems to indicate that the yield will be among the heaviest in recent years and well above the eleven year average.

Mr. Gist says that the U. S. crop is forecast 14,340,000 bales compared with 14,919,000 bales ginned last year. The yield for 1928 was 14,478,000 bales.

The price of middling cotton on the markets of Alabama fell below ten cents middling basis this week. Cotton is now between 35 and 40 dollars per bale cheaper than one year ago at this time. Since the release of the crop estimate on September 8th, the price has for the most part tended downward.

Reports indicate that many farmers are taking advantage of the opportunity to secure 9 cents advance on middling cotton placed in the annual pool, and 8 cents when placed in the special pool, with the Alabama Cotton Association, a subsidiary of the Alabama Farm Bureau.

At present prices of middling spot cotton, which is under ten cents, and with a tendency the past week towards lower prices, the movement to hold is reported as gaining in popularity.

ALABAMA FARMERS BUY PEAS FROM OREGON FARMERS

Alabama farmers are this year purchasing their Austrian winter peas for planting this fall direct from farmers of Oregon, announced Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation yesterday.

Farmers of the state made their contracts with the farmers of Oregon, who are growing the winter peas, through their farm organization, the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. The project was started four years ago when H. A. Schoth, agronomist of the State College, Corvallis, Oregon, and of the United States Department of Agriculture, visited Alabama and got President O'Neal and Professor L. N. Duncan, director of extension service, Auburn, interested in farmers of Alabama contracting with the Oregon farmers to grow their Austrian winter peas. Before that time most of the peas had been coming from foreign countries.

This year when the peas were being shipped to Alabama C. L. Hollingsworth, county agent of Clarke County, Alabama, went to Oregon and assisted with shipping the peas. Upon his return he assured farmers of the state that they are getting the best winter peas on the market when they buy through their farm organization.

"Buying the peas direct from the producers is an example of how the farm bureau is attempting to aid farmers in buying all their materials, which go into production, direct from the producers and in this way help the farmers solve their financial problems," said Mr. O'Neal.

There is a possibility that rubber may be made from potato starch. A large rubber company is making experiment to see if it is possible. The new product was discovered by a German scientist. It is made by mixing the starch with chemicals which congulate into a gum-like substance. It is said to differ from rubber only in that it is less elastic.

While passing Leary's filling station Tuesday morning, our attention was attracted by a new device for vending peanuts, by electricity. It not only roasts whole peanuts but also delivers in "Penny Doses" hot roasted and salted peanuts. It is certainly the last word in marketing a finished product.

At a special business meeting of the Ladies Guild, held last Thursday, it was decided that they would not have any Bazaar this fall, but that in place of the annual Bazaar each member of the Guild and friends of the organization would give cash for a fund to take the place of the money usually made at this time. This money to be given partly at the October meeting and partly at the November meeting or all at one or the other of these meetings.

It was also voted that at the Novomber meeting that all the ladies would bring an article worth 25 cents and that this article was to be wrapped and the ladies would be expected to buy one package not knowing what it contained until after the purchase.

It was also voted that from the receipts of this Bazaar fund and sale that one fifth of the money be given to the P.-T. A. to aid in removing pump debt.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. ELVIA MOORE

At the break of day on September 1st, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Huston Moore and took from them Mrs. Elvia, a loving wife and mother, and a true friend to her community and church. She was sick just a few days. She was 49 years old, and was a member at Alpine Baptist Church, and working faithfully up until the end came, in the W. M. S. But as she had finished her work, the Lord saw fit to call her home where there is peace and rest forever more.

She leaves to grieve her loss a loving husband, three sons, and two daughters, and a host of relatives and friends. Oh, how we do miss her, but let's strive with all means to meet her.—Alpine W. M. S.

Great Conflicts That Involved Whole World

We often call the last war the World war. Actually there are others that better deserve the title. Take the Seven Years' war. That was relatively in the Dark ages, so far as transportation and communication was concerned. But the fighting more nearly covered the entire globe than did that of the last conflict, which was pretty well confined to Europe.

During the Seven Years' war not only did men, as it has been said, fight but the military and naval activities of the belligerents encircled the globe. At the expense of France the British established their supremacy in North America and their empire in India, while they assailed on land and sea the dominions of Spain in America, and in the Pacific.

Again, the wars growing out of the French revolution and the Napoleonic wars more nearly involved all of Europe than did the late war, to say nothing of their fateful effects elsewhere.—John Bassett Moore, interviewed for the American Review of Reviews.

Where Time Takes on Some Puzzling Changes

Roughly along the 180th degree of longitude there is fixed what is called the "international date-line," and here today and tomorrow actually meet each other. If a vessel were steaming from the Fiji islands toward Samoa at 11:55 p. m. on Monday night and crossed the "date-line" ten minutes later it would actually have the whole of Monday before it again, as the time would then be five minutes after midnight on the morning of the same day. Had the ship been sailing in the opposite direction, it would have approached the "date-line" in the first few minutes of Monday, and, on crossing this line, it would have started on a new day—Tuesday—and thus have lost an entire day. So in this locality it is possible for yesterday to become today in a few seconds, or today to change into tomorrow in the same short space of time.

WORK FINISHED BY GRAND JURY

Report Says Conditions At County Poor House Found Unsatisfactory

To Hon. Geo. F. Smoot, as Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

We, the grand jury, empaneiled for the July Term of the Circuit Court of said county immediately began our investigations of the cases for disposition on the grand jury docket after we had received your honor's comprehensive and instructive charge, and investigated the docketed cases and other cases we found to be of such nature as to require our attention as grand jurors.

During our investigation we have considered 36 cases, have examined 89 witnesses, and have returned 19 true bills.

We have examined the books, records and papers of the county officials and find that they are all neatly kept and from the information we have, the grand jury feels that all are being kept in accord with the law.

The grand jury inspected the county jail and find that it is now, and has been for a long time insecure and unsafe for keeping prisoners. From our investigation we find that the County Commissioners and the State Jail Inspector are taking steps to remedy the situation at the jail immediately. The grand jury feels that this should be done without delay. We find that the prisoners confined in the jail are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort.

The grand jury inspected the alms house in a body and find that the keeper is not operating the house or caring for the inmates in a satisfactory manner. The mattresses in the alms house are very thin, old, filthy, and infested with bed bugs. And the covering for the beds are unclean. We recommend that the condition at the alms house be brought to the attention of the proper state and county officials immediately. And we urge that the condition be remedied at once.

And now having complied to the best of our ability with your honor's charge in investigating all matters that we felt were such as to require and need a grand jury's attention, we respectfully ask that we be dismissed until such time as your honor may feel that our services are needed again.

W. A. Gulledge,
Foreman.

CENTRAL SINGING SOCIETY MET AT PROVIDENCE LAST SUNDAY

The Central Singing Society met in its third session last Sunday afternoon at Providenre church in Beat 16. The weather looked rather rainy and not as many were present as usually attend, but the house was about filled. Singing was called to order by the chairman, Prof. W. M. Devaughn and prayer was offered by the chaplain, Mr. R. M. Robinson.

During the afternoon two special songs were rendered—one a quartet and the other an octette. Directors were: R. M. Robinson, T. E. Wyatt, Willie Mims, W. M. Devaughn, Jesse Baker, S. M. Yates, J. W. Clackler, Melvin Mims, J. E. Miner, R. E. Powell, O. L. Devaughn, Marion Easterling. Three other directors were on the program—G. C. Powell, Chester Wyatt and O. R. Robinson, but could not be used for lack of time. These will be the first ones used next Sunday if they are present.

Improvement in the singing is noticeable every time the society meets. The books are new and the songs are hard, but the singers are gradually mastering them. Before many weeks this class will be able to really do some creditable singing; all that is needed is practice.

The society meets with Friendship church next Sunday afternoon; and singing will begin promptly at 1:30 o'clock. Don't be late, else you will miss some of the best singing. The Friendship class meets for practice at 7 o'clock Friday night of this week, and all members of the society who can attend are invited.

MRS. TABITHA MOORE

Mrs. Tabitha Moore, age 82 years, died at the home of J. D. Jones, in the Bethsalem community Tuesday night. She was the wife of the late John Moore.

Mell Martin had charge of the burial at Bethsalem Wednesday afternoon, with Rev. T. J. Deason conducting the funeral.

REV. JOHN R. BEAN CALLED AS PASTOR AT FRIENDSHIP

Last Sunday night a special conference was held at Friendship church for the purpose of electing a pastor and other officers for the church. The result was the calling of Rev. John R. Bean of Bessemer as pastor for the coming year. T. E. Wyatt was retained as church clerk; delegates to the association were: H. V. Honeycutt, Henry Miller, Zebbie Gray and Ottis Miller, J. D. Collins, Sr. alternate. The amount of $5.00 was pledged for associational purposes.

Revised rules of decorum were submitted by the church clerk, and after some discussion, were adopted, to take the place of the old rules of decorum.

The Central Singing Society meets at this place next Sunday afternoon, singing to begin promptly at 1:30 o'clock. Don't be later than this, or else you will miss some of the singing.

Preaching services will be held at 11 o'clock and at 7:30 in the evening, by Rev. A. L. Foshee, the pastor. Everybody invited to. all services.

HELTON INDICTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

The grand jury of Chilton County last week rendered an indictment for manslaughter against William Helton, for the alleged killing of Hubbard Glass, which ocurred the latter part of August. Helton has been in jail since he surrendered to the officers immediately after the killing of Glass, but since his indictment by the grand jury last week he has been released on bond.

The grand jury last week indicted Stephen Pate and Mary Pate for assault and battery. The two are charged with administering a severe beating to Andrew Jackson several weeks ago.

CHRISTIAN-FRANKLIN WEDDING

Miss Theresa Franklin and Mr. J. N. Christian were united in the holy bonds of matrimony Monday afternoon, at the home of Rev. Jeff Deason. Only a few friends of the family witnessed the ceremony.

Miss Franklin is the attractive and popular daughter of W. L. Franklin of Andalusia, Alabama. Mr. J. N. Christian is the son of W. E. Christian of Maplesville. At this time he is in connection with the T. C. I. Company, and has been for three years. Mr. and Mrs. Christian will make their home in Mobile, after a few days here. The many friends and admirers of Miss Franklin in Andalusia extend the best of wishes upon the occasion of her marriage to Mr. Christian.

Raymond Smith Got Sympathy Of Court

Indictment By Grand Jury Recites "Destitute Condition" of County Solicitor

An indictment rendered against a negro, Eugene Davis, by the grand jury of Chilton County last week, has aroused a considerable bit of interest among those who have read it, principally because of the sympathetic feeling that was manifest in the mind of Solicitor Huddleston, who wrote the document, for his friend and fellow barrister, the Hon. Raymond C. Smith, county solicitory of Chilton County.

The indictment charges the negro, Edgar Davis, with grand larceny and burglary, and receiving and concealing stolen goods. The case was made out of the stealing by Eugene Davis, of certain personal effects of Mr. Smith, and the indictment which was written in the case covers the matter in detail as follows:

The grand jury charge that before the finding of this indictment, Eugene Davis, whose name is to the grand jury otherwise unknown, feloniously took and carried away one leather suitcase of the value of $12, two suits of mens clothes of the value of $20 per suit, four pairs of mens trousers of the value of $5 per pair, and two pairs of mens shoes of the value of $5 per pair, all of the aggregate value of $82, the personal property of Col. Raymond Smith, Esq., the county prosecuting solicitor of Chilton County, thus rendering the said county prosecuting solicitor entirely destitute of his professional ragalia, and then and there completely without any livery whatsoever that would be in keeping with the high position and the military title that has been conferred and is now held by Col. Raymond Smith, Esq., the prosecuting county solicitor of said County and State as aforesaid.

Report of Republican District Convention Held at Talladega Sept. 11

Decide Not Expedient To Nominate Candidate For Congress

Talladega, Ala.—A resolution declaring it "not expedient" to place a Republican candidate for congress in the field and advising all Republicans to give their hearty support to independent candidates was passed by the Republicans of the Fourth Congressional District in convention at the courthouse Thursday, September 11.

The resolution also endorsed the platform of principles adopted by the Reepublicans of Alabama at Birmingham recently and asserted approval of the Hoover administration.

J. A. Bingham, of Talladega, was re-elected chairman of the district erecutive committee. Fred Osborn, of Heflin, was re-elected secretary of the committee.

The county committeemen chosen are as follows: Talladega County, J. P. Carter, W. M. Thweatt, John R. Jones; Shelby, Dr. F. F. Crowe, P. J. Donnell, A. B. Baxley; Calhoun, L. T. Smith, W. H. Decker, A. P. Thompson; Chilton, H. A. Harris, Grover A. Bice, C. C. Conway; Cleburne, R. O. Atkins, W. A. Brown, Fred Osborn; Dallas, N. A. Hungerford.

The convention had been called to nominate a candidate for congress, but after much discussion, it was decided to adopt the resolution and to empower the executive committee with the right to nominate a candidate provided an emergency arises.

The resolution follows:

Resolved by the Republicans of the Fourth Congressional District, in convention assembled, that it is not expedient to place in the field this year a Republican candidate for Congress, and all Republicans are advised to give all independent candidates for state and county offices, where there are no Republican tickets, their hearty support.

Resolved second: That we endorse the platform of principles recently adopted in Birmingham by the Republicans of Alabama.

Resolved third: That the administration of President Herbert Hoover has the hearty approval of the Republicans of the Fourth District, and that we ask the calm consideration of the legislation put on the statute books through his assistance for the relief of the agricultural and business interests of the country, believing that if given a fair trial it will bring the results claimed; and especially do we commend the Farm Relief legislation and the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill.

Resolved fourth: That we approve the management of our party affairs in the hands of the national committeeman, Hon. O. D. Street, and our state chairman, Dr. J. C. Swan, and pledge them our continued support.

IN MEMORY OF IRA HEADLEY

On the 11th day of September we were saddened, when death came like a reaper and took our father and grandfather to a home beyond this vale of tears. It was a shock to the family to rise in the morning and find him cold in death. But we feel grateful that he was spared to stay to the good old age that he was. He was 97 years of age. It is sad to look around and not hear him speak. He said how glad he would be when he was called to a better world than this. He laves to mourn, his wife, three children, Mrs. W. H. Hayes, Monroe and Walter Headley, 12 grand children and one great grand child. O how some of us could have visited him and have been a rose to him, but now he is gone and can't come back to us. But we can live in the righteous way and some day see him more. He told his family Tuesday that he had only two or three more days with us, but he was able to go around the house the last day he lived. He was laid to rest in Pleasant Grove Cemetery. Rev. Lawrence conducted the funeral. We pray God's blessings will be with the family.—Mrs. L. M. Headley.

DR. N. S. JOHNSON ELECTED DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County last Saturday at the Courthouse, J. B. Atkinson resigned as chairman of the committe. Dr. N. S. Johnson was elected to succeed Mr. Atkinson.

In addition to members of the committee, it is reported that a large number of citizens attended the meeting.

DEMABEL BACK IN BEAUTY SHOPPE AFTER VACATION

Miss Mabel Howard is again back in her beauty shop after a three-weeks vacation in cities in the north. While away she attended several beauty conventions where she got many new ideas and learned the latest in hair styles. Thousands of cosmeticians throughout the country were in attendance. Lectures and demonstrations were given on all phases of beauty culture work, by prominent persons from various parts of the country. The evenings were taken up with dinner parties; style shows, a Chinese party, and an informal dancing party on "Chicago Night."

New modes indicate that hats—and therefore the hair—will be worn well off the forehead this fall; and also the autumn modes in millinery will look most attractive on women with short hair. The tightness of hats will make long hair look incongruous, it was apparent at the show. Agnella Taylor, just back from Europe, says continental coiffers stress short hair for smartness, and therefore, European women are wearing hair just as short as ever and that the bob is enjoying greater popularity than ever before. Deeper shades of nail polish, matching the evening gown, continue to be the most popular.

For more ideas on fall and winter styles of hair dress and makeup be sure to visit the beauty shoppe, where Miss Howard is ready to tell may interesting things to all of her customers.

Daniel Webster Has Been in Clanton For the Past Two Weeks

Daniel Webster, of Loudonville, Ohio, is in Clanton this week looking after some important business for the Loudonville Flour Mills Company, which he represents. The Loudonville Mills are manufacturers of LeGrande Flour, which is being put on the market here and distributed through the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company.

When the name of Daniel Webster is mentioned, it is our custom to think back to the days when we went to school, and studied American history. The great statesman, Daniel Webster, of New Hampshire and Massachusetts, we always remember as one of the most powerful forces in the shaping of the early history of the American Republic. As a contemporary of Henry Clay, he was in the thick of the fight when the first "battles" of secession were fought among the statesmen of Congress and in the governmental state departments at Washington. Webster for the Union, first, last and all the time.

This Daniel Webster, who was here this week, is a distant kinsman of the great Daniel of history. He is an elderly gentleman, very pleasant and interesting. He is widely traveled and has a wealth of knowledge gained by many years of dealing with the American public.

Mr. Rowland Taylor of the Taylor Grocery Company, is very highly pleased with the connection which his house has made with the Loudonville Mills for the distribution of LeGrande Flour. He says: "We have made full investigation of this flour, and have found it to be dependable and satisfactory in every way. It is absolutely guaranteed to be the best for all baking purposes, and while it is a high grade flour, yet it is priced in line with medium flours that do not possess the high quality of LeGrande.

Mr. Taylor further stated that in order to acquaint the housewives of this territory with the high qualities of this flour, Mrs. Kytle, the well known and popular trained nurse, has been employed by the mill to make house to house visits and demonstrate LeGrande to the women of the homes. In addition to being a graduate nurse, Mrs. Kytle is also a graduate cook.

With the campaign that is being put on by Mr. Webster, Mr. Taylor, and Mrs. Kytle, everybody hereabouts is certain to learn something about LeGrande Flour right soon. Already orders are flowing into the wholesale house right along.

TO MEET IN INTEREST OF EGG CONTEST

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, has under advisement a proposition to establish an egg route in Chilton County, and thereby provide the farmers with a better service in handling and disposing of their surplus eggs. In connection with this matter the county agent attended a meeting of farmers at Union Grove last week.

In further consideration of the plan, Mr. Stapp has asked all farmers who are interested in the matter to attend a meeting at his office at 2 p. m. today (Thursday). "I would like to meet with the farmers who are interested in working out a better system of marketing for eggs," said Mr. Stapp in calling the meeting. "We may not be able to improve on the system now being used, but I think it will help for the poultrymen to get together and discuss their problems."

All who are interested are reminded to take note of this meeting and attend if possible. Remember it is at 2 o'clock to-day (Thursday) at Stapp's office in Clanton.

WILL PRACTICE SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP FRIDAY NIGHT

The singers of Friendship and surrounding comunities will meet at the church Friday night of this week at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of practicing some of the songs in the new Stamps song book. All singers in reach are invited to be present and help. This is not a public singing but merely an opportunity given to practice some of the new songs. Other members of the Central Singing Society are especially invited.

THE LEADER WILL BE CLOSED NEXT THURSDAY

Mr. Maurice Lande reminds his friends that The Leader will be closed next Thursday, October 2, on account of the Day of Atonement, a religious holiday in the Jewish calendar.

The Leader's Eleventh Anniversary Sale will be in progress during next week, but Thursday will be only one day of interruption. The store will be open again Friday morning with still more attractive bargains in merchandise for the week-end.

Remembr, this holiday is next week, October 2. The big sale starts Friday of this week.

Second Degree Murder Against White

Commissary Agent Sentenced To 20-Year Term For Killing of Dr. Roper

Columbiana, Ala., Sept. 20.—After deliberating 20 hours the jury holding the fate of C. C. White, commissary agent, charged with the murder of Dr. G. C. Roper, company physician, a year ago, returned a verdict of guilty of second degree murder here shortly after noon Saturday. White was sentenced to serve 20 years in the penitentiary. His attorney gave notice of appeal.

The case went to the jury shortly before 5 p. m. Friday after Roderick Beddow, Birmingham attorney and special prosecutor, had demanded the death penalty.

White took the stand in his own behalf, offered a plea of self-defense in the shooting, stating he shot only after Dr. Roper had attacked him and had backed him against a wall. The physician was beating him with his fists when the shot was fired, White said.

In his testimony, White declared the physician came to his house and precipitated an argument over an account at the company store.

The state based its case largely upon the testimony of Mrs. Bessie Roper, widow of the slain doctor, who testified her husband made a deathbed statement in which he said White shot him down "like a dirty dog."

The defense presented testimony to the effect that neighbors were awakened by the altercation and rushed to the White home to see Dr. Roper beating White. State witness testified Dr. Roper was called to the White home the night of the slaying by a telephone call.

The trial was presided over by Judge Gay and the state was represented by Circuit Solicitor Hardegree, Roderick Beddow and others. White was defended by L. H. Ellis. The defense placed on the stand more than 75 character witnesses.

Dr. Roper was shot at the White home the night of September 15, 1929. He died in a Birmingham hospital two days later.

STATEMENT FROM COMMISSIONERS

Expression of Satisfaction With Meeting To Consider County Agent Work

Editor Union-Banner:

The mass meeting which was held at the Court house, Saturday, September 13th, was a splendid success. Every part of the County seemed to be well represented. All factions of Chilton County were either present in person or had some one to represent them, except those who had been for some time kicking and complaining. We are sorry that the parties that had been for some time going over the County and criticizing the Commissioners Court for spending the taxpayers money for maintaining a Farm Demonstrator were not present so that the people could hear what they had to say.

We are only servants for the people of the county, and we want to do what the people want done, as near as it is possible for us to do. We are glad when the tax payers come before us to either commend or to complain. Then we can explain the work we are doing, but when they make secret charges, we have no chance to answer the same. We believe that every tax payer has the right to know and understand what every dollar of their money is spent for.

We take this method of thanking everyone present at the above meeting for the interest manifested by coming out and publicly expressing themselves how they stood on the work of the Farm Demonstrator. We were glad two candidates, Hon. Percy Mr. Pitts and S. M. Edwards came to the meeting and let the voters know how they stood. We would have been glad if all candidates had come and expressed themselves. As we believe that the people have a right to know how all candidates stand on the matters they would have to deal with if elected.

We say to the public and to the candidates, if they have any complaint to make about our work, we would be glad to hear from you and would appreciate the opportunity to explain the same. We regret that candidates in our county have fallen into the habit of a secret campaign. As stated above we believe that all people should be open in their politics and that all candidates should let the people know where they stand on all questions.

This the 22nd day of September, 1930.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.
J. P. BEAN,

MILEAGE is what we are selling

It is easy to claim big mileage for any tire. To get it out of a tire is a different matter.

The Kelly Heavy-Duty pneumatic is one tire you can be sure will give mileage. We honestly believe there is not another tire of its type being built today that will stand up alongside it. We have watched enough heavy duty tires in servide to know what the various makes will do, and we will back Kellys to beat any of them.

We could give you a long story about tire design, number of plies of cord, etc., but we don't believe you care about reading it. What you are buying, and what we are selling is MILEAGE.

That's why we sell KELLY-SPRINGFIELDS.

30 x 6 Lottamiles, 10-ply	$27.00
30 x 5 Kelly Heavy-Duty, 6-ply	18.50
30 x 5 Kelly Heavy-Duty, 8-ply	23.50

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

A STUDY IN THE PHILIPPIAN LETTER

This evening we wish to study with you some verses from Paul's inspired letter to the Philippian Christians and to us. The key to the letter is the word "joy." This letter reveals to us the great loving heart of Paul as does no other of the thirteen letters he wrote to us. Truly this ltter lifts the curtain of the heart of Saul, afterwards Paul, and shows to us the heart of the man whose heart was as big as the world. It shows us his heart which loved the world and made him debtor not only to the Jews but to Scythians, Greeks, and all nationalities whether bondsmen or freemen.

Paul, in a rented prison home without rations we would say and a cot to sleep on, writes, "Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you, will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ." That is, Paul writes that being confident or that he knew the Lord had begun and had done a good work and will perform it until the coming of Jesus Christ.

The inspired writer did not just think and believe about this very thing, this good work in Christ Jesus, which was being carried on and would continue until the coming of Christ. We are inclined to think and believe too many things. He says, "Being confident of this very thing, that He, God, in the person of the Holy Spirit has changed your heart and is sanctifying your soul and will carry it on to finish His work in your heart until Christ comes the second time surrounded by the angels."

It is the work of the Holy Spirit which applies the blood of Jesus Christ to your heart and my heart by faith in Christ. Inspired writers say that it is the sanctifying of the soul, a dying unto sin and living unto Christ, unto righteousness. The sinner saved by grace hates the things which he once loved because he now loves Jesus Christ and the things of Christ which he once hated.

Then he writes, "Unto us it is given in behalf of Christ, not only to believe in Him, but tlso to suffer for His sake." The truth is that the whole Bible has a stream of blood through it and teaches us of the sufferings of Christ and the believer who is in Christ Jesus. "Unto us it is given not only to believe in Christ but in Christ Jesus and for Christ Jesus we are to suffer also." I fear that we talk too much about believing in Christ and faith in Christ Friends, we must love Him. We must have faith in Christ and faith or belief in Christ is love and trust in Christ. "Faith, hope, love, these three, but the greatest of these is love." We must not only believe in His name but in His name through faith in His name we must suffer for His name's sake.

I see people suffering every day, some with T. B., some with cancer, and others gradually dying for a little bit of love. Of late I have been overcome with this verse, "If we suffer, we shall reign with Him." Some people have suffered so much, but He writes, "If thou sufferest for me, thou shalt also reign with me." It is therefore given unto us not only to believe in His name but also to suffer and surely our suffering is not comparable to the sufferings of Christ.

Then another verse we ask careful consideration is the one in which Paul tells us, that the things which had happened to him had turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel. O, what a statement. Then we think of that sentence he wrote to the Galatian Christians and to us, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." Now if you and I met the devil, which we surely do, and triumph in the faith we bear in our bodies the marks of the Lord Jesus as did the apostle Paul. In bearing witness of Christ we first see Paul in Damascus in the house of Judas and the preacher Annanias comes to him and speaks for God telling Paul what the Lord hath chosen him to do.

Notice that his enemies tried to kill him there, but he was let down from a window in the wall by some friends and escaped to the desert of Arabia and it all turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel as he communed with God alone in the desert. I saw that place where Paul's friends let him down in a basket. It is a window in that old wall which stands today as it did in Paul's time. Again you see him in Jerusalem where Barnabas comes for him and they go to Antioch in Syria to proclaim the Gospel on Gentile ground. Both Damascus and Jerusalem in Paul's life turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel. Then at Antioch the church under the influence of the Holy Spirit sent Paul and Barnabas out upon the work whereunto God had called them. The persecutions of Paul along the missionary tours all turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel.

You remember at Iconium, Lystra, Derbe he was hounded like a fox. I see him at Lystra where the Gospel which, he preached was too strong for the weak and sinful and he was stoned and left for dead. No doubt the night watchman was the young Hebrew, Timothy. Tomothy saw that Paul had something which he did not have. So that very night Timothy tells of the love of Christ in his own heart and life. Stoned, left for dead, it all turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel in the conversion of Timothy, who became a traveling companion and preacher of this blessed Gospel. This encouraged Silas also when he saw their new co-worker on the journey.

Watch Paul at Philippi. He and Silas were imprisoned because of their stand for Christ. They sang praises to God in the prison, and it all turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel when the jailer and all his household became converted. Think of him at Thessalonica, Berea, Athens, Corinth, and the abuse, criticism thrust upon him, but it all was to the furtherance of the Gospel. At Caeserea a prisoner for two years and where he stood before Felix, Festus and Agrippa and spoke the sentence, "I appear to Caeser," which placed him in Rome from whence this letter was written. Think of the shipwreck on the way which caused him to lead the soldiers on the ship to Jesus Christ. In Rome the servants came to him and caused him to lead them and the emperor also to Christ. I see the servants come to Paul and receive words of kindness and looks of tenderness never given them before by a prisoner. I see them as they stand spellbound and listen to the story of Christ and kneel down and accept Him into their hearts and lives. I see them manifest Jesus to the emperor who hears Paul also and becomes saved.

Again I see Epaphroditus come from the church at Philippi. Then Epaphras, then Tychicus, and then Onesimus, the runaway slave of Philemon. The chain on the arm of Paul turned in that rented prison home—for the furtherance of the Gospel. Pardon me as I take out a leaf of my own life. When you, my dear friends, sent me to the hospital in Mobile for the treatment of tired and shattered nerves. At first my nerves were too sick to permit me to know so much. My son placed a New Testament in my pocket. If I had not read it I believe I would have lost my mind. I would read a psalm each day and some from the Gospel according to John which I call my bosom friend. Every afternoon I would read this Philippian letter. It is the most comforting letter in the world. Friends, that time in my life turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel. I memorized more Gospel than I did during my three years at the University of Princeton, and the twenty years which I had spent in Birmingham. That, to me, was a Gethsemane without blood from my heart and yet I humbly believe that in my poor, tired, humble life turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel.

My visit in Palestine surely turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel. It made the Bible a new book to me. I went to Rome and stood in that lonely prison where Paul was imprisoned. I stood on the spot where this Philippian letter was written. It all become more real and new to me. My soul become refreshed and I took on new life in Christ Jesus. Such an inspiration this opportunity afforded me, words cannot express. Paul grasped all opportunities for and to the furtherance of the Gospel. He said even though discouragements, disappointments, trials, sicknesses, sorrows come into your life, they are just for the furtherance of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. In my life they have turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel. Friends, what are we doing for the furtherance of the Gospel of Jesus Christ? What are you doing for the furtherance of this Gospel, not only in Birmingham, and the surrounding country, but throughout the whole world, unto the ends of the earth?

Then Paul writes, "I must be slow to anger." That is, we must be slow to speak, so careful what we speak that we become not angry, nor makes others angry. We must not lose our tempers. The devil makes us lose lose our tempers and speak angry to others. We must be very careful and prayerful in this respect in our personal relationships. In that dark, damp dungeon Paul writes out of a great heart of love to those poor people at Philippi. O, for such a heart and life! O, for such a heart to love everybody and fold everybody to my heart.

Another cardinal verse is one Paul writes in the tenderest strains when he says, "You my joy and my crown, my longed-for and my joy and my crown." He felt like the lives of those sincere, conscientious, and consecrated Christians were a great joy to him, and he longed for them often as a crown to his work. That is, he recognized that their lives spoke for Christ and the spread of His kingdom for which he was tirelessly laboring in that poor rented prison house. As I close this sermon I want to call you my longed-for, my joy, and my crown of which I feel that you are.

"Brightly beams our Father's mercy, from the lighthouse on the shore.

But to us, He gives the keeping, of the lights along the shore.

Let the lower lights be burning, send a gleam across the wave.

Some poor struggling, fainting seaman, you may rescue, you may save."

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any drugstore has the genuine, prescriptional product.

Mr. Pettus Perry of Mobile spent last week end at home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Culp and little son, Jimmie, were visiting at this place Sunday.

Mr. Virgil Christian has returned to Mobile after a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Christian.

CENTER HILL

All who are interested in the cemetery at this place will meet next Saturday morning, September 27th, with necessary tools to clean off same. Come easly so we can get it done by preaching time.

We wil lalso sing here the first Sunday afternoon in October, in the old books. So bring your books and come.

FLOYD SINGING

Our singing society met last Sunday at our regular appointed time, with our president, J. M. Williams, and did some real good singing.

The directors for the afternoon were Grady Davis, Joel Prickett, Helton Prickett, Dovard Huett, S. J. Williams, Louis Huett, Harvie Davis, P. H. Headley, Rilie Culpepper, Dennis Culpepper, Hubb Burkhalter, Marshall Burkhalter. The organists were Mrs. J. M. Williams, Marshall Burkhalter.

We invite all singers and lovers of music to meet with us next third Sunday afternoon. And also remember that on the first Sunday at eleven o'clock Bro. Billingsley will preach for us, so all that can come out to hear him. Also remember that we have Sunday School every Sunday at ten o'clock. It seems to me that every body should come to Sunday School. They should be that much interested in God's cause. You are always welcome at Floyd church.—Secretary.

PLEASANT GROVE

Our singing at this place Sunday afternoon was a great success. We had a large crowd. We wish to thank the singers from other communities, also the Clanton Quartet, for their co-operation, and ask them to come again.

Directors for the evening were: M. C. Durbin, S. A. Henly, Mr. Billingsley, Willie Culp, Archie Devaughn, Mrs. Zella Scott, Prof. F. I. Popwell, Akins Collins, Olen and Hudson Williams and Jesse Jones.

Pianists were: Willie Culp, F. I. Popwell, Mrs. Renfroe Jones and Mrs. Zella Scott.

The quartet rendered some nice selections between directors.

Each and every one are cordially invited to come again. Our singing society meets every second and fourth Sunday afternoon at this place.—M. C. Durbin.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank James entertained the following friends from Birmingham at their camp on Mt. Manning the past week: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Beard, of the Atherton Sign Co.; Miss Katie Stagg and Mr. Burnie High.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank James went to Birmingham Wednesday to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stevens. While in the city they attended the meeting of the Birmingham Sign Contractors at the Bankhead Hotel.

Why every telephone worker is a service salesman

The fact that more than 23,000 Southern Bell telephone men and women are enthusiastically promoting the sale of the service, is more than a matter of salesmanship.

It is a manifestation of their interest in the success of their Company and an expression of the spirit of cooperation which has made possible the epochal achievements in the telephone industry. They are inspired by pride in fifty years of progressive, unfailing service and loyalty to the ideals and traditions on which the business is founded.

They unhesitatingly recommend the quality, convenience and economy of the service, in the knowledge that no other comparable service or commodity gives to the consumer so much at such small cost.

Whatever your telephone service needs may be, do not hesitate to consult any telephone man or woman of your acquaintance. They are all anxious to give you the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.

Contests Opened

The American Society is sponsoring their eighth prize chemistry essay contest to high school students throughout the United States, and our school is to promote a greater interest in chemistry, to create knowledge of investments, and to stimulate chemical engineering courses in college.

Another contest offered our school is being sponsored by the Birmingham News-Age Herald. This is the oratorical contest. The chief motive of this is to give us a greater knowledge of the constitution of the United States.

Sportsmanship

Are you familiar with the word sportsmanship? Begin now to achieve that infallible quality of happiness. Learn to play the game of life as a good sportsman plays football fairly, cooperatively, wholeheartedly, generously, and intelligently. You will unconsciously acquire that effervescent spirit which "loses with a smile and wins with the same feeling associated with it."

Holtville vs. C. C. H. S. Friday Evening

The football team of the Chilton County High School will play its first game Friday, September 26. Coach Walker, with the aid and assistance of Mr. Varnell has whipped the team into form, in the few short days we have had to practice. The probable line-up will be: left end, Theodore Littlejohn or Tom Tiffin; left tackle, Jesse Frank Foshee; left guard, M. D. Foshee or Warren Riggins; center, Raymond Taylor or Durwood Robinson; right guard, J. C. Maddox; right tackle, Edwin Wagoner; right end, Paul Cox; quarterback, Benson Sims; right half, Robert Sumner; left half Herman Harris, right half, Tom Tiffin; full back, Harvey Melton.

Stamps Quartette Donates to New Curtain for Stage

The original Stamps Quartette appeared in a concert in the high school auditorium last Thursday night. The program consisted of southern melodies, spirituals, and semi-classicals, as well as late popular songs, duets, and readings. This was something new in entertainment, and everybody enjoyed their selections thoroughly. We were very sorry the weather was so inclement. Had it been a fair night, the door receipts would have been splendid. They came on a seventy-five and twenty-five cent basis. The school received twenty-five per cent or $5.25, which was turned over to the treasurer of the P.-T.A.

Fashion Show Here October 13th

On October 13 there will be a fashion show under the auspices of the Fashion Shop of Montgomery. This will be a note of interest to those who want the latest in fashions. Then too, you will avail yourself the opportunity of seeing twenty-four of the most beautiful young ladies of Womans College, who have kindly consented to act as models.

"Miss Blue Bonnett" October 24

"Miss Blue Bonnett," every one remembers "Dixie Blackbirds." Well if you miss "Miss Blue Bonnett" you will be sadly disappointed.

Home Economics Department Doing Great Things

Some aims of the home economics classes this year are to assist girls in acquiring an appreciation of what home economics can do for her in solving present personal problems, which come in the field of this work, and in using the ability gained in solving problems in helping with the home.

To assist each girl in the job of home-making, which will train her in making her own home better in every way.

There are three enthusiastic classes who are going to work hard to proud of them when the year's work make Miss Margaret Brown, their talented and accomplished teacher, is completed. The home economics department has already put on many decided improvements which makes it look the part.

SOME AMERICAN OBSERVATIONS

By Jay Taylor

Americans travelling in South America and the Orient are always astonished to find the unfriendly attitude that prevails there toward the United States.

That is easily explained. Most of the news, relative to our country, published in these places, has been carefully prepared for the purpose of poisoning the minds of their people against America. For more than fifty years, by this method, our country has been maliciously and persistently misrepresented.

This campaign has been carried on from the beginning under European inspiration. It has done more damage to our diplomatic relations, than all our ambassadors, ministers and consuls could possibly overcome. It has seriously interfered with our commerce and has greaty increased the difficulties of working out our many diplomatic problems.

European governments and their agents have been permitted to carry on this work without interference. The propaganda has been so insidious that it has not been generally recognized. But it has been effective, and so continuous and general that there is no longer any doubt as to its source and its motive.

It is therefore more than surprising that our government permitted this misrepresentation to go on for years without even a protest. European nations that are responsible for this campaign to prejudice the world against America, are all interested in maintaining friendly relations with this country.

Why should such an outrage against the welfare of the United States be allowed to continue indefinitely? The fact that the situation is now coming to be understood is a healthful sign.

If a United States Senator can't operate a dial telephone, how do you suppose he ever manages to get the cap off the ginger ale bottle when he wants to take a litttle something for his cough?—Macon (Ga.) Telegraph.

People used to keep alarm clocks to waken them in the morning at four o'clock. They don't have to have an alarm clock any more. The rattling of the milk bottles on the front porch now tells them when it is time to go to bed.

It seems the tariff is going to be the main campaign issue in those states where the candidates are not just sure how the folks stand on prohibition.—Dayton (Ohio) News.

Mrs. Thomas A. Edison: "A good homemaker must have executive ability, be a good purchasing agent, an economist and somewhat of a chemist." Not a word about bridge.—Toledo Blade.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovick Allen, of Wetumpka, spent last Saturday with friends in Clanton. Mr. Allen formerly worked for the James Sign Shop here.

There is the story of the train that hit the midget automobile and then had to stop and let the engineer have it taken out of his eye.—New York Post.

The difference between a nationalist and an internationalist is that a nationalist believes in Uncle Sam while an internationalist believes in Santa Claus and hopes Santa Claus will turn out to be Uncle Sam.

WOMAN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

On August 3, Mrs. Cora Mae Dahl was severely shocked by a stroke of lightning at her home on East Street, Mignon. She was rushed to the Drummond Frasier Hospital, where she received medical attention, and stayed for several days. Returning later to her home, where her condition is considered ver grave.

At the time Mrs. Dahl was struck her husband, H. H. Dahl, was at their home town, Thorsby, in Chilton County.

Mrs. Dahl's right side was torn badly. There were three large holes and two cuts in her right side. She was burned from her shoulder to her foot. All her clothes were torn.

She was standing at the sink getting water to fill the tank at the stove. The ball of lightning struck her in the right side. Her arm and side was black for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Harris, who live in the house with Mrs. Dahl, called for help. They thought for some time she would never recover, but her Saviour was with her.

Now Mrs. Dahl is getting better but inproves slowly. All her friends are praying for her. Mrs. Dahl has a host of friends here in Mignon. She and her husband are good church workers. We miss them very much, but we pray for them to be able to come back in our church.

I want to ask all the good Christian people in and around their home in Chilton County to help pray for her. I have taken this on myself to write this of Mrs. Dahl, for I visit the home day and night. I live on Twin Street.—Mrs. Huett.

Mr. Evan Parrish motored to Birmingham Tuesday on business.

Mrs. J. Q. Wade is expected to return in a few days from Hot Springs, Arkansas, where she has been visiting for the past two weeks.

WHILE THEY LAST—Cotton seed hulls. Seven dollars per ton to my customers.—J. N. Dennis.

WILL SING IN BIRMINGHAM

Clanton Quartette will go to Birmingham next Sunday to sing at a home-coming service at New Cummerland Church, West End, in response to an invitation received early this week.

Mr. W. G. Culp is manager of the Quartet, which is made up of the following singers: Jesse Jones, first tenor; Akins Collins, second tenor; Archie Devaughn, baritone; Renfroe Jones, bass.

Mrs. G. T. Evans returned Tuesday afternoon from a week's visit to her son, Julian, in Atlanta.

Mr. Clarence K. Evans of Corinth, Mississippi, spent Tuesday night with his mother, Mrs. G. T. Evans.

LAWLEY NEWS

The literary school will begin here next Monday. Mr. Raley, of Sheffiled, Ala., will be our principal. Mrs. Sarah Cottingham of Randolph, and Mrs. Virginia Mount Jones of Birmingham will be assistants.

Sunday School is growing better all the time, under the splendid superintendency of Mr. Albert Wilson. He seems to know what to do and say to keep everyone coming. But there are still others of this community who do not attend any Sunday School. People who are informed will be interested and people who are interested will work.

We regret to say that Mr. H. F. Head, who has been sick some time, is at present not improving any. It is hoped that he will soon be well again.

The many friends of Mrs. Bettie McGee will be sorry to learn that she is now very sick. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Will Barnes went down to Maplesville Sunday to visit Mr. William Hicks, who is at the point of death, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. O. Mize.

Mr. C. B. McGee, who has been here with relatives during this summer from Florida, and on account of nerveous indigestion could not return to his work, is now able to be up again. He states that he expects to return to his work soon.

Mrs. Lum Hicks has been spending a few days with relatives at Jemison. She has been confined to her home for over a year, suffering from high blood pressure. Her friends are so happy to see her out again.

Miss Della Barnes, who is now teaching at Johnston, spent last week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Barnes.

Mrs. James Bedford spent a few days at Tuscaloosa and Northport last week to transact some business affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wilson motored to Clanton on business last Friday. Mrs. Wilson Stated that there are really some bargains to be gotten there. Many more of us will be going to Clanton, as the low price of cotton is going to pinch the farmers. We will be compelled to hunt the bargains.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wallace of Tuscaloosa spent Sunday here with their parents. Mrs. Wallace will be remembered by her many friends as Miss Carrie Bee Latham.

The W. M. S. here has only been re-organized a short time, but we have now fourteen active members. We are indeed so happy because of its wonderful progress. The ladies in this community seem willing to join head, hands and heart in the cause of Christ. The special program given by the W. M. S. at church Sunday under the direction of Mrs. W. P. Hicks was a big success. Quite a nice sum was realized for missions.

EAST VIEW

Cotton picking is much delayed in this section on account of the rain. There is some cotton that has been blown out on the ground that will be lost if it continues to rain.

Mrs. Myrtle Bowles and Mrs. Ida Henson and Mrs. A. C. Nelson were the guests of Mrs. Elna Mims Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Nelson visited their daughter, Mrs. Mattie Griffin, of Enterprise Friday.

Rev. A. C. Nelson and family motored to Mt. Springs Sunday where he filled his regular appointmen.

Don't forget the services at church for Sunday. Sunday school at 10 a. m. singing at 2 p.m. and preaching at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. J. F. Nelson had as his guest Sunday, Mr. Leonard Rushing.

Mr. J. A. Dobbs and family were visiting relatives Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lett of Verbena were visiting relatives here Sunday.

Mr. Kermit Gray visited his sister, Mrs. Lola Nelson, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Glenn were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Paterson Sunday.

Mr. Charlie Mims and Willard Davis swapped mules last week.

Mr. Joe Dennis got his arm broken last week cranking his car. We hope the broken bone will heal fast and he will be able to use his arm again soon.

OTHER THORSBY NEWS

Miss Lillia Fritzpatrick and Mrs. Virginia Rowland of Birmingham were guests at the home of Mrs. G. F. Harper on Monday.

Mrs. C. A. Mead is in Birmingham taking treatment on account of poor health. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Miss Daisy Rowe a Thorsby Institute alumna, who is now a student at Howard College, visited her sister, Odell and Evie Lee, who are boarding at the Thorsby Institute.

The first meeting of the Pushmataha and Philomatic clubs of Thorsby Institute held Monday. Christine Bosworth was elected captain of the Pushmatahas. Carrie Smith was elected chairman of the next meeting and Gerald Smith was elected secretary. Willis Petersen was elected captain of the Philomathics. Oliver Lyon was elected chairman of the next meeting and John Adams secretary.

The first open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will be held next Saturday night, October 11. The public is invited.

Thorsby Institute expects to have a Lyceum Course again. It will consist of three numbers; one, the actor one, the Scottish concert company; and one Richard Von Calio, "the one man band." The Scottish company will be dressed in Scotch costumes and will sing, play the bagpipe and other instruments, dance the Sailor's hornpipe, etc. The last number will be Richard Von Calio, a former ussian nobleman, who has many varied thrilling experiences in secret service work. He plays as many as 23 different instruments, some of which have never been seen before.

Tickets will be sold soon for the course. We hope that everyone will be interested. The Institute makes nothing on such a course as it costs a great deal to get these people but it believes such a course is well worth having.

DANIEL FRANCIS JONES

Daniel Francis Jones, age 70 years, died at his home in Clanton on September 19, 1930, after an illness of several months.

Mr. Jones was married 46 years ago to Miss Julia Hadnot, who survives him. They have three children, Grover Jones, Mrs. Cuba Brand, and Mrs. Viola Smith.

The funeral was held September 20, conducted by Rev. Metcalf, Rev. Ezell, and Rev. Childs. Burial was at Mullins and Jones cemetery at Jumbo.

The most part of the life of the deceased was spent as a resident of the Mt. Zion community, in Beat one of Chilton County. He moved to Clanton four or five years ago.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama. 11-24-30.

WHAT A WOMAN 45 to 49 Should Weigh

Beware of Fat

As women grow older they are apt to take on weight—best to watch out and keep from growing fat—weigh yourself to day and see if your weight and height compare with figures below—if so you are lucky—your figure is ideally perfect and you can feel happy.

Ages 45 to 49

4 feet, 11 inches	129 pounds
5 feet	131 pounds
5 feet, 1 inch	133 pounds
5 feet, 2 inches	136 pounds
5 feet, 3 inches	139 pounds
5 feet, 4 inches	142 pounds
5 feet, 5 inches	146 pounds
5 feet, 6 inches	151 pounds
5 feet, 7 inches	155 pounds
5 feet, 8 inches	159 pounds
5 feet, 9 inches	163 pounds

Weights given include ordinary indoor clothing.

If you are overweight cut out pies, pastries, cakes and candy for 4 weeks—then weigh yourself—go light on potatoes, rice, butter, cream and sugar—eat lean meat—chicken, fish, salads, green vegetables and fruit.

Take one half teaspoon of Krushen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—this is the easy, safe and sensible way to take off fat—an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts lasts 4 weeks—get it at Alred Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama, or any good drug store in the world. You'll be gloriously alive—vigorous and vivacious in 4 weeks.

"CHEVROLET CHRONICLES" TO BE ON AIR SOON

An outstanding event in the autobovile industry will take place within the next few weeks when the Chevrolet Motor Company goes on the air over more than one hundred radio stations throughout the country in the first of a series of weekly programs to continue late into the fall, R. K. White, advertising manager, announced Saturday.

The radio campaign is in addition to all other forms of promotional activities, such as newspaper, magazine and outdoor advertising, Mr. White said.

Each week there will be presented the personally-narrated experiences of prominent American war veterans who have received the highest honors within the power of the government to bestow for valor in action. Captain E. V. Rickenbacker, ace of American aces, will act as host to the heroes and will introduce them to the air audience. Each program, to be known as the "Chevrolet Chronicles," will be of a half hour's duration.

The first of the series will be presented early in October, Mr. White said. Local dealers will sponsor the programs in their localities, with the co-operation of the factory. Because of the extent of the dealer organization, between 110 and 120 radio stations will be used to get complete national coverage reaching into the territories of every one of Chevrolet's 10,000 dealers.

The character of the programs was determined upon, Mr. White explained, after extensive research for a type of air entertainment which would render a real national service as well as prove instructive and entertaining. In presenting the experiences of war veterans, Mr. White pointed out that these programs will be furthering the general appreciation for those qualities of patriotism, heroism and self-sacrifice which go to make up the typical soldier.

The campaign also links the Chevrolet Motor Company with those organizations which are adding impetus to the movement to revive general conditions by putting extraordinary effort into their advertising activities.

Felt Bad After Eating

"Before I started taking Black-Draught, three years ago, my health was very bad," writes Mrs. C. C. Carson, 925 Concord St., Beaumont, Texas. "I suffered constantly from constipation. I had headache when I got up in the morning, and I felt dull and sluggish. I hardly ate a meal that my food agreed with me. Frequently I would have gas on my stomach, and felt awful.

"I read about Black-Draught, and I thought it might help me. After I had taken it a little while, I felt much better. It relieves constipation. I keep it on hand so when I need a laxative I will have it. In the three years I have been taking it, I have never found anything as good for constipation."

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING A FRANCHISE TO ALABAMA NATURAL GAS CORP.

To lay and maintain in or under the Streets, Avenues, Alleys, and other Public Places in the Town of Clanton, Alabama a Main or Mains for the Transmission, Distribution, and sale of Gas for Domestic and other Purposes.

Be it Ordained by the Town Council of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, as follows:

SECTION ONE—That, subject to the conditions hereinafter set forth, the right, privilege and franchise be and the same is hereby granted to Alabama Natural Gas Corporation, its successors and assigns, to construct, operate, maintain, repair, replace, relocate and enlarge from time to time a pipe line system and appurtenances thereto for the transmission, distribution and sale of gas for domestic, industrial and other purposes in or under any or all of the streets, avenues, sidewalks, alleys and other public places within the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, as now constituted or hereafter extended, together with the right to make, or install, maintain, repair, and replace all such turnouts, meters, regulators, service pipes, connections and other usual equipment as may be reasonably necessary or desirable in the operation of said lines or system.

SECTION TWO—This franchise is granted subject to the following express conditions and limitations:

(a) After the laying or placing of any part of said pipe line system or extensions or other equipment and after the repair, replacement, relocation or enlargement of any such system or connections or equipment, the grantee, its successors or assigns, will forthwith at its own expense restore the streets, avenues, sidewalks, alleys and other public places disturbed by said work so that said streets, avenues, sidewalks, alleys and other public places will be in substantially the same condition as before the commencement of such work.

(b) The said grantee, its successors or assigns, will hold harmless and indemnify the said muncipality from and against all liability of any and every kind and character arising out of any default, negligence or wrongful act of the grantee, or its servants or agents in the line of theif employment, in, and about the construction, operation, maintenance, repair, replacement, relocation or enlargement of any and all such pipe line system and connections or equipment.

(c) Grantee will construct and maintain said pipe line system, extensions and connections thereof, in such locations and at such depths below the grades of said streets, avenues, sidewalks, alleys or other public places as may be validly required by the grantor, and will at all times comply with all reasonable requirements, regulations, laws or ordinances now in force or which may hereafter be adopted by said grantor and be applicable to the construction or maintenance of said system.

(d) This grant shall be void and of no effect unless on or before the 31st day of December, 1931, grantee, its successors or assigns, shall be ready to begin service to consumers within the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton, Alabama.

SECTION THREE—The Mayor of said municipality is hereby authorized to enter into a contract with said grantee, its successors or assigns, for the acceptance of this grant in consideration of One Dollar ($1.00) to be paid by grantee, its successors or assigns; but acceptance may at any time become final without formal contract by notice in writing from grantee, its successors or assigns or by the beginning of work of constructing a gas line within or approaching said municipality by or for the account of grantee, its successors or assigns, relative to the supply of gas to be sold or distributed in whole or in part in said municipality.

Approved this 2nd day of September, 1930.

ERIC HART, Mayor.

REVIEW—THE GREATNESS OF THE GOD-FEARING

GOLDEN TEXT—The fear of Jehovah is the beginning of wisdom: a good understanding have all they that do his commandments: his praise endureth forever.

PRIMARY TOPIC—What Makes People Great.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Makes People Great.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Makes Men and Women Great?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—An Estimate of the Characters Studied During the Quarter.

Lesson for July 6.

When called to go out from his own country and kindred, Abraham believed God and obeyed his command. True faith is proved by unquestioned obedience.

Lesson for July 13.

Jacob, a crafty schemer, through discipline at God's hands, became Israel, a prince with God. Before he could enter the Promised Land a change must take place. Self-will must be broken before there can be confidence in God.

Lesson for July 20.

Moses, educated first at his mother's knee and then at Pharaoh's court, was forced to flee from Egypt because of a premature effort to deliver the enslaved people. Forty years of training in the wilderness was necessary before he was ready to hear God's call.

Lesson for July 27.

In the time of national emergency, there being no man to judge Israel, Deborah was called to take this place. God bestows his grace upon whomsoever he will, regardless of sex.

Lesson for August 3.

Ruth chose to cast her lot with God's people. This choice brought her not only salvation but earthly blessings. Ruth's relationship to Naomi shows the vital fellowship centered in the God of Israel. National prejudices, hatred, and strife disappear on the part of those who are united in Jesus Christ.

Lesson for August 10.

Hannah asked God to give her a son, promising to dedicate him to God's service. God heard her prayer and she named her son Samuel, which means "asked of God." Samuel in his tender years was given to God, and he rendered a distinguished service for many years.

Lesson for August 17.

Saul was a man of fine gifts and had a great opportunity, but made a dismal failure because his heart was not right toward God. He had more concern for his own honor and welfare than for the glory of God. God is more concerned with having his commands obeyed than he is with the offering of sacrifices.

Lesson for August 24.

Friendship between David and Jonathan has been immortalized. This friendship was unique in that it took place between two men of rival interests. Jonathan was the natural heir to the throne, but David was God's choice. Jonathan knew this and magnanimously waived his rights.

Lesson for August 31.

Amos, a humble herdsman, was called from his life as God's prophet to stand before the king. He was not a prophet by succession nor was he trained in the schools. God selects his servants from even the humblest walks of life.

Lesson for September 7.

Josiah, the young king, was loyal to God. Two wicked kings had preceded him, during whose reigns God's law was lost. God put it into his heart to inaugurate a reformation, and in the process of restoring the temple, the law was found. When it was read before him, the king rent his clothes, and proceeded to institute his reforms on the basis of God's word.

Lesson for September 14.

Jeremiah, having heard God's call in his early years, zealously carried on his ministry. He called upon individuals to face their responsibility before God, assuring them that they would not be judged on the basis of racial heritage. Every man shall give an account of himself to God.

Lesson for September 21.

Jonah, a Jew, was called to preach repentance to a Gentile city. He sought to escape his responsibility by fleeing to Tarshish. God prepared a fish to swallow him. This was the means of his chastisement and return to his own land. After chastisement he was recommissioned. At his preaching the city repented, putting on their sackcloth and ashes. God is not willing that any should perish but that all should come to repentance.

Defending the Bible

Spurgeon said: "You talk about defending the Bible! It's a lion! Open the cage and let it out!"

Mr. G. D. Retherford made a trip to Brookwood last week.

"My Appetite was poor I had lost weight—felt run-down, Now feel fine."

Miss Lottie Bell Pulliam, Knoxville, Tenn., writes:

"My appetite was poor. I had lost weight—was nervous and could not sleep well at night. In my rundown condition even my joints ached. I took seven large size bottles of S.S.S. It greatly improved my condition. My appetite picked up. My weight was restored and I now feel fine—in fact, I feel like a new person. S.S.S. is a splendid blood tonic and I recommend it to my friends. My mother also took S.S.S. and it renewed her strength."

S.S.S. is the Tonic that is daily helping thousands of weak, rundown, nervous people regain their strength and charm

MORE red-blood-cells and of the right quality! That's the answer to a rundown condition. They fight infection and disease! The way to regain them is to take S.S.S.—the tonic that will help Nature build up and enrich your blood. Then your appetite will pick up. Your skin will clear up. Your whole body will be strengthened, invigorated!

Don't wait until it is too late to correct a rundown condition. ANEMIA is DANGEROUS. Take S.S.S. before each meal. Its successful record of over 100 years in building red-cells in the blood is a guarantee of satisfaction. Get the large size bottle. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

RESPECT FOR LAW

The greatest need in this country today is improvement in the administration of justice, especially in the criminal law," said Chief Justice Hughes in a recent address. "More important than uniform laws, or more changes in procedural details, more necessary than any statement of the law, is the fostering of respect for the law itself, and the maintenance of the primary safeguards of life and property against organized criminal assaults, against the debauching of our institutions by the capitalization of crime. Most essential is the robust sentiment which, regardless of the differences of political parties and policies, demands purity and competence in official action, without which all democratic efforts are futile."

This is a brilliant statement of an undeniable truth. It has been said not without reason, that we are a nation of law-breakers; that respect for the law which characterized an earlier day has gradually dwindled.

Much of the blame for this must go to the lawmakers themselves. They have taken away rights and liberties, and suggest taking away more. Americans, with their heritage of freedom, are not likely to abide by laws which conflict with the theory of individual liberty laid down by our forefathers.

We have attempted to fight crime by passing laws which reacted to the disadvantage of good citizens. Anti-gun owning legislation is an example. Such laws make law-breakers out of hundreds of thousands of otherwise perfectly law-abiding citizens.

We will have respect for law when the law deserves it. And what is needed now, in Justice Hughes' phase is that rare thing, "purity and competence in official action."

SEES FALL GARDEN AS DROUTH RELIEF

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 22.—Fall gardens are recommended for drouth relief by Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. He says the garden is an important source of food supply, and that it is not yet too late to act.

For a quick supply of food he says first attention should be directed to the leafy vegetables. "The turnip salads are probably the leaders in this class," he said. "Plantings of the Japanese types should be made immediately. This type produces quickly and is resistant to insects. In addition, a planting of the Seven Top variety should be made. This will stand cold and produce further into the winter. Specifically for turnips, the Purple Top Globe should be planted.

"Other leafy vegetables that should be planted," he continued, "are tendergreen, spinach, Siberian kale, rape, and lettuce. Tendergreen will usually produce greens in from 20 to 30 days. Lettuce should be planted fairly thick, fertilized heavily, and the young plants used as a raw salad."

To supply root crops the experts recommends the planting of beets, carrots, radishes, parsnips, and turnips. He said all those should be planted immediately on account of early freezes.

Onion sets of the Egyptian variety should also be planted immediately, he said, and added that shallots should be transplanted for a supply of green onions throughout the winter.

The horticulturist said he was calling upon all gardeners to make plantings immediately for the sake of economy and health.

"Seed sufficient to make a planting of all of these vegetables should not cost more than $1.50," he said. "If barnyard manure is substituted for a complete mixture of commercial fertilizer the cost will be very low."

The reason so many men sing in the bath tub is that it's the only time they have a chance to be heard.

FORESTRY FAIR EXHIBITS

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 22.—Thus far fair exhibits have been scheduled by the State Commission of Forestry for five cities, according to a statement issued by Colonel Page S. Bunker, State Forester. It was intended, on account of the cost of this work, to exhibit only at Montgomery. However, urgent requests from other points have been so insistent that the commission has arranged to expand its exhibition program to cover additional fairs. Funds allotted by the federal government render this possible.

The points at which the forestry department will exhibit are as follows: Huntsville, September 23-27; Anniston, September 29; Sylacauga, October 11-18; Montgomery, October 20-26; and Alexander City, October 21-25. It is hoped to take in one or two other points during the fair season but to date no definite plans have been made in this connection.

We suppose pretty soon they will be taking those miniature golf courses inside so the golf bugs can play all winter.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

A significant statement was issued recently by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, who declared that the movement for compulsory unemployment insurance was one which would fasten the "dole" system on American industry and labor. Mr. Green assailed the plan, and warned the employees that if they were stampeded into favoring compulsory unemployment insurance on the European plan they would have no one to blame but themselves. Mr. Green said that organized labor's plan was the establishment of voluntary joint unemployment insurance funds in seasonal industries, division of work instead of wholesale discharges, a shorter work day and work week. He added that American labor did not want charity but a chance to work.

"It is only one step from compulsory unemployment insurance to the dole," said Mr. Green.

"The best, the real remedy for unemployment, is employment. The obligation rests upon industry to provide employment for men and women willing to work. The dole system embodies a vicious principle in that it attempts to provide relief by supplying only the minimum of subsistence.

"Besides, the dole system develops a paternalism that is demoralizing, destroyes initiative and blights hope.

"What we want here in the United States is to provide opportunities for men and women to earn their living and not be objects of charity.

"If the dole system is ever established, the employers will be to blame, because they will have failed to deal with unemployment in a systematic, scientific and constructive way by regularizing and stabilizing employment. The danger is that there is but one step from compulsory unemployment to the dole.

"We believe in the shorter work day and the shorter week. In a period of unavoidable depression—the cyclical depression, so-called—instead of discharging men wholesale as has been the practice, arrangement should be made for the division of work so that all will be given an equal share of what work there may be.

"The American workman resents the idea of being compelled to make a fixed contribution to a fund. In this respect he is different from the European workingman. He is, however, willing to develop a system of voluntary payments worked out by joint agreement with employers. He resents being told what he must do."

The difference between the economic ideals of America and Europe are illustrated by the statement above. In America we have adopted the theory that a system of good wages brings added buying power, and consequently added production and prosperity for all. In Europe they cling to the theory that cheap production is the thing. Workman's wages are kept to the lowest possible level and when there is general unemployment as at present the dole is necessary. It is good to know that responsible labor leaders in America are not supporting the socialistic ideas made necessary in Europe by a mistaken policy toward labor. What we want in America is not the dole system but sufficient employment for the American workingman at good wages. That can only be made possible by looking after American economic interests first. To do this will benefit not only America but the rest of the world as well. Europe is even now looking toward America for a business revival which will mark the beginning of the end of the world-wide depression.

THE "AMERICAN FASCISTI"

Atlanta dispatches tell of the establishment in Georgia of the "American Fascisti." The members of this organization, semi-secret in character, are to wear black shirts, and "fight radicalism." However, their chief attention seems to have been devoted to date to the work of arousing race feeling.

America does not need the Fascisti, any more than it needs the bolshevits. Americans do not need to look for political inspiration either to Russia or Italy. We have a system of government here which does not admit the idea of a dictatorship, either of a Musolini or of the proletariat.

What we need to cultivate in the United States is a better appreciatoin of and devotion to American principles of government, which are contrary to the fundamentals of both fascism and bolshevism. Facism arose in Italy after a complete breakdown of representative government. It may have been a necessary remedy for political and economic chaos produced by radical agitation. It is probable that Musolini has improved conditions greatly in Italy, but certainly this has been at the sacrifice of liberty.

Americans have no objections to the black shirts in Italy or even the red shirts in Russia. But we insist that this particulas kind of haberdoshery be worn in the homelands of facism and bolshevism. Americans could be at better business than aping the reactionary institutions of Europe.

ARMAMENT AND WAR

The International League for Peace and Freedom has issued from its Washington headquarters an appeal for immediate world disarmament. In so doing they declare that governments which maintain military and naval establishments are thus preparing their people for destruction. All of the signers know that disarmament in China and Russia, for obvious reasons, is no more probable than that the moon will don a kimono. They also know that complete disarmament would leave all countries the prey of revolutionary forces incited from the headquarters of world insurrection in Moscow. The most prominent European signer is Dr. Albert Einstein, the socialist who is advocating the repudiation of debts to the United States by European nations. The most destructive of all wars are civil wars, which the disarming of governments would promote, not prevent. Internationalists seek to break down national military and economic defense and the spirit of resistance to national disintegration. The amount of propaganda they have been putting out in the United States during the past dozen years represents a tremendous outlay of money and energy. Whatever the nominal purpose, the effect is to advance the purposes of the international socialist and capitalists, and sacrifice the welfare of the American people in behalf of alleged world welfare. The present depression in the United States is due to a failure of the American government, under pressure of anti-nationalism, to look out for American interests and economic well being as against the pressure of European and international political and financial interests.

Henry Ford blames the business depression on to the gambling in the stock market. Wonder if it couldn't have been caused in part by too many people out joyriding in flivvers when they should have been at home on the job?

OUR MERCHANT MARINE

Although American ships still carry less than 40 per cent of our foreign trade, this figure seems less unfavorable when it is realized that a few years before the World War the figure was only eight per cent. Under the encouragement of the Jones-White act, which provides for construction loans through the shipping board and subsidies through mail contracts, the merchant marine is destined for much further growth.

Under a program formulated by the Postoffice Department, thirty-nine mail routes have been established, and these will require the building or reconditioning of sixty-eight ships at a cost of 275 million dollars. The construction of these ships and of their terminal facilities, which has already begun and which will continue for five years, assists employment by giving work to several thousand men.

The assistance which the United States government is giving to shipbuilders is by no means unique; the merchant marines of European nations have been built up by national subsidies and bounties far more generous than anything available here. France, Germany, Italy and Spain not only provide bounties for the construction of ships but also compensate ship owners for all commercial cargo they carry.

The growth of America's merchant marine not only gratifies national pride, even in this inland region, but also facilitates the carrying of mail and freight and makes available a large number of ships for use in case of another European war in which the vessels of other nations might be withdrawn from their regular service. The experiences of the last war showed that a nation without ships is at a serious disadvantage.—Des Moines Register.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

We promised last week that we would have something to say this time about our Republican candidates. They're all good men, and make up a ticket we're proud to put before the voters. The fact that their own party gave the most of them nomination by a big majority just goes to show how strong they are among their political brothers and sisters—indeed, many of them won out in the primary against strong competition by bigger margins than some of the Democratic brethren polled, although they were unopposed. That all points to another landslide in old Chilton. Here they are..

We'll just take 'em as they come on the list. Mr. Walter H. Gillespie, candidate for Sheriff, is well known in this, as well as other counties of Alabama, he having served on Alabama's State Law Enforcement force for some time. He was one of the men who came to be known as "McAdory's Men" who built for themselves a reputation for being very thorough in their work. He is 51 years of age, many of those years being spent in just the right kind of work to best fit him for the office he seeks. If the county had been combed for a man for Sheriff, we doubt if a better man could have been found for the place than Walter Gillespie. Courageous, reasonable, honest, and universally recognized as a "dry" in every sense of the word and in the very strongest terms that can be used to so describe him, we present him to our readers and the voters as a man in whom they may place all confidence as to ability and faithfulness in the discharge of his duties as Sheriff. Here's to Mr. Gillespie! He will be opposed in the Democratic ranks by Mr. J. A. Nivens, of Clanton.

Akins I. Collins, Republican nominee for Tax Assessor, is a Chilton County boy, born and reared here. He is a native of the Collins Chapel settlement. Mr. Collins is well fitted for the office he seeks. The office of Tax Assessor is one of the most important in the county, and we believe the Republican voters have picked very wisely in selecting him. The fact that he beat out a field of competent and well-known opponents in the primary proves the staunchness of his party's belief in him. Mr. Collins is still a young man, with many years of competent service in him. We expect him to show as one of the leaders when the ballots are counted on November 4. He is opposed by Mr. A. D. Martin.

Mr. W. G. Culp, Republican nominee for Tax Collector, is probably the most popular man on the ticket. "Singing Bill" Culp should win in a walk in November. A more likable, honest and upright man could not be found anywhere. There is not the very slightest blot that could be brought against him. In fact, we think it only a kind of political gesture that a man is even to be run against him. It is generally conceded, by Republicans and Democrats alike, that he will be elected by one of the biggest majorities ever given a candidate for office in Chilton County. Quiet, unassuming, he is not really the kind of fellow generally considered a "politician," but rather a man with a personality that compels one's respect and admiration. Our parting word on Mr. Culp is, "WATCH HIS SMOKE"! His Democratic opponent is Mr. C. B. Cox, of Clanton.

Percy M. Pitts, nominee for Representative, is well known all over the county, having represented Chilton County in the Legislature for several years. Since coming to Chilton County from Shelby Mr. Pitts has made a number of friends in his new home. He has already proved that he is competent to handle the duties which will fall to his lot as Representative of Chilton. He, also, should win easily in the November election—a good man on a good ticket. His opponent will be Mr. H. R. Oden.

Mr. Joseph E. Cobb, nominee for Commissioner from the First District, is the only man on the ticket with whom the POTTER is not personally acquainted, but if a good reputation in his home community spells anything, Mr. Cobb is well fitted for the place he is asking for. We have talked with lots of Mr. Cobb's neighbors, and all give him the name of being a "man among men." That speaks well for him. Mr. Cobb should win easily over his opponent, Mr. B. M. Killingsworth.

J. M. Mims, better known as "Uncle Jimmie," is a man everybody knows. He is making the race for Commissioner from the Second District. The office will not be new to "Uncle Jimmie," as he has filled it before—with honors. During his former term as Commissioner he became known as "the watch-dog" of the treasury. He believes in getting just 100 cents value out of every dollar spent out of the county's funds. After all, that's what it takes to make a good commissioner. "Uncle Jimmy" is a good one—proved so in actual service. You can bet on him in November. His opponent is Mr. Sam M. Edwards.

W. L. Sanders is another "youngster," so to speak. However, his election to the office he seeks, Member County Board of Education, should tend to inject new life and modern methods into the county school system. The School Board is a very important part of our county's roster of officials in that it has, in a way, in its hand the education of the coming generation. VERY important! Mr. Sanders is well fitted to sit as a member of the School Board. He will be opposed by Mrs. C. N. Parnell.

Well, folks, that's all of 'em. How do they look to a set of tired eyes? Pretty good? All right! Come on—put your shoulder to the old wheel like a real good Republican should, and let's put the whole force over in grand style. We can do it—easily—if everybody just sits tight and turns a deaf ear to this or that that you may hear about any of them. Take it from us—they're a good bunch. Let's make it a regular landslide and washout! What do you say?

And, now, about this Heflin-Locke-Powell racket. All the POTTER knows about this wouldn't go far. We'll try to find a few things to say about that later on. However, we HAVE got one thing to say about it—people in Alabama are not the only ones who are watching these fellows. People all over the South—maybe the entire U. S. A. have turned their eyes on this little scrap. And folks, if Heflin and Locke ARE elected it will show pretty well how the wind is blowing for "Smith-and-Raskob-ism." That's the reason for all the interest. A Heflin-Locke victory would be just "too bad" for a lot of old traditions, prejudices, and a lot of different kinds of unreasonable poppy-cock dating 'way back in 18-so-and-so.

By the way, have you heard Dr. Pepper's little nigger singer—and ukulele strummer? We heard something one morning last week, and peeking out of the door saw a crowd gathering around the Dr. Pepper truck, parked up the street a ways. Investigation of the cause disclosed a little negro boy, about as big as your thumb, and how he was pickin' that little ukulele and singing "Lady Luck" and "Happy Days Are Here Again." He had a crowd—and how he entertained them.

Work time! There's the whistle. So long.—"JACK".
